PRESIDENT MCKINLEY DEAD.

Passed Away at 2:15 This Morning.

From the nature of the news from Buffalo Friday and at night, every one expected to hear the worst from President McKinley this morning, as all hope seemed given up, and their fears were realized, for the end came at 2:15 o'clock.

When the President was pronounced in extremis last night a company of the 14th Infantry arrived at the Milburn house and drove the crowds back. The Government telegraph office tents were guarded. A regiment of the national guards under arms reported to the Chief of Police and regulars were placed in charge of the exposition grounds, virtually making the entire city under martial law.

Members of the Cabinet and others left the death chamber after taking a farewell look at the President who had for sometime been unconscious. Senator Hanna was completely broken in spirits and kissed the President's forehead before being led from the room.

Mrs. McKinley was under the care of Drs. Rixey and Wasdin who administered stimulants, and she bore up bravely through the trying ordeal of sorrowful parting at the bedside. After the end was announced she swooned and has been very weak since.

The exact cause of the President's death is not fully determined. An autopsy will be held this afternoon. The undertakers who were summoned to embalm the body were not permitted to do so under orders issued for the post-mortem examination.

The interment will be at a place to be selected by the McKinley family. The remains will be taken to Washington City and be in state and subsequently buried in Canton, Ohio, the Presidents home.

Roosevelt returned to Buffalo today. He may take the oath of office before Justice. Secretary Hay is acting temporarily through courtesy until Roosevelt takes the oath as President.

Senator Hanna is quite ill today, being much affected by the death of the President.

His Last Words.

Buffalo, Sept. 14. 2:30 a. m.— At 2:15 this morning the President breathed his last. Words of consolation to his wife were the last that passed his lips and then came gently a good-bye to the American people whom he loved so well, and of whose manhood he was so fine a type.

At the actual moment of dying the President had long been to all intents and purposes beyond the world. For hours he had been unconscious. His living became purely automatic, functions gradually growing weaker and weaker until at last they ceased altogether. The physicians had long since ceased plying any drugs or restoratives. It was but useless work, for from the moment that his final collapse developed in all its seriousness they knew in their hearts that he was beyond their aid. Yet, with all the energy and skill they worked on and on until the last. It was too clearly only a case of whether the dying moments should or should not be free from what only made them more painful without hope of any benefit.

Judge Day came out of the Milburn house about half an hour before midnight and said that Mrs. McKinley had been told that her husband had but a few minutes more to live. He added, that the physicians, since the danger from peritonitis and blood poisoning had disappeared, were obliged to look elsewhere for an explanation of his sinking. His heart was muscular-

He Practices His Preach.

An Ashtabula (Ohio) minister who has doubled the average attendance at his church by advertising every day in the newspapers denies that that method is sensational. "The newspaper," he declares, "is the proper instrument through which to address the people on any worthy subject, whether it be business or religion." He thinks that he would be remiss if he should fail to use the immense influence of newspaper advertising.

Presbyterian Services.

Rev. J. B. Morton was too unwell to come down from Tarboro Friday evening, but will come this evening and preach in the Presbyterian church at the usual hours Sunday morning and evening. A meeting of the session of the church will be held at 10:45 a. m. for receiving members into the communion.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 13. The shooting of President McKinley at Buffalo has been the all-absorbing public topic at the National Capital since Friday last. Happening at a time of political calm and so clearly traceable to the anarchistic infatuation of a shiftless, unknown creature, it allowed no space for partisan feeling. Instead the great underlying loyalty and honesty of the American heart came uppermost at once and from every quarter and every shade of true citizenship have come like measures of sorrow, affection and indignation as the incidents of the dastardly deed evoked them.

This assault upon the Chief Magistrate has brought forth concensus among people and publicists that stern and active legislation must be enacted to suppress and prevent anarchism of the destructive school in the United States. It is all well enough that men oppressed wrongfully in other lands should make America their asylum, but they must not also make it a slaughter house. We enthrone in our White House no tyrants that need the swift and bloody medicine of deringer, dagger, or dynamite. Our atmosphere is that of liberty and law must not be made poisonous by the breaths of those whose tongues and hands are against God, and government, and the public good.

The new Congress convening in December promises to be one of the liveliest of recent times. The republican scant majority of thirty-nine will have to be kept well within the party corral, if the party program is to be carried forward with celerity and certainty. The Democrats will have to keep close watch on the majority and get busy at every possible opportunity. At this next session the lines on which they will go to the country in 1902 and ask for a majority in the next House of Representatives. To win that is now the chief aim of the Democratic leaders. With that gained they can make "a rough house," so to speak for the Republicans just ahead of the national campaign of 1904.

Democratic leaders from Virginia visiting Washington report that the new constitution will be submitted to an abridged electorate and adopted, and that the party ticket will be overwhelmingly elected in November. They regard Col. Jayhawker Hodge's candidacy upon the Republican ticket for the governorship a fair sign that the Republican leaders are only dragging brush over the road to raise a dust. Really there is no hope in Hodge. He has neither the wit of Cameron, nor the tireless tact of Mahone, and the people of Virginia will be slow to take him seriously. His race is stated from the start to be a rag-time out.

If there was ever a time for manufacturing news, 'tis now. It is certainly tiresome picking dead men's bones. Writing when you can't think, thinking when you can't write, is certainly placing one "twixt the the devil and the deep blue sea."

Anyone wishing seed oats, Virginia Turf for fall sowing, purple straw and white wheat and seed rye, W. J. Wyatt can furnish you at Richmond prices and save you freight and home grown and good seed.

What the South Should Do.

If the South would manufacture the bulk of its own cotton and produce its chief food supplies, both of which are entirely within the bounds of possibility, it would be the richest country in the world and enjoy a higher state of commercial and industrial independence than any other region of the earth. Nature has been very kind to the South. Its bounties here are manifold and greater than in the Eastern States of the North, where there is no great money crop like cotton, and where the production of food crops has not the possibilities that obtain here. On the energy and enterprise of its people in promoting industry and developing trade must the future wealth and greatness of the South depend. There is no fault to be found with what nature has done for us.—Nashville Banner.

Over in Maryland the Republicans are really engaging in a forlorn hope. With Ex-Senator Gorman once more in full command of the Democratic forces, and his own candidacy for the United States Senate involved in the contest, it is realized that only a miracle of politics can save the day to the Republicans. But Mr. Gorman is something of a magician and miracle-worker himself and his followers are offering odds that he will be a hands-down winner of the November stakes.

It is important that those who go on excursions for pleasure or health should make some provisions against the attacks of bowel disease, which not only cause them great inconvenience, but are sometimes fatal in their results. A bottle of Perry Davis' Pain-Killer is, we have found, a most effectual remedy against such attacks. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Pain-Killer, Perry Davis'. Price 25c and 50c.

Let us tell you about

Our Ready Made Garments.

They are a great convenience—so easy to come in and buy a skirt ready to put right on. Then they have such a nice set too, provided you buy the right make, and this is the kind we claim to have.

Rainy Day and Dress Skirts

We are showing have that correct stylish hang, peculiar to high class tailored garments. The many expressions of satisfaction with the beauty and comparative cheapness of our skirts is very gratifying and more than repays us for the labor and thought expended in our efforts to bring together a comprehensive showing of ready-to-wear apparel in up-to-date effects. Come to see them.

A Strong Woman

Iowa City, Iowa, Aug. 15, 1900
My wife was sick for three years. We tried everything without relief and spent much money. My wife tried Wine of Cardui and four bottles cured her. She took two more bottles, knowing she would have to work hard during the hay harvest. She attended to all her household duties and loaded and unloaded all the hay. This medicine gave her strength. Formerly she was weak and tired and could hardly get about, but since she has been taking Wine of Cardui she feels better and stronger than when 20 years of age. JOS. A. EISENHAFER.

Mrs. Eisenhafer had tried everything during her three years sickness and had spent considerable money. She was weak and could hardly get about for three years before she took

WINE OF CARDUI

Now, after taking the Wine of Cardui, she can work with her husband in the hay field. That is hard work, but it is not as injurious to a woman's health as labor in stores, factories and offices where thousands of girls are closely confined year after year. With the aid of Wine of Cardui a woman can do any reasonable work and enjoy good health. The health that Wine of Cardui brings makes a woman vigorous in body and mind. Freed from those terrible devastating pains a woman grows well and strong naturally. Wine of Cardui regulates the disordered menstruation and cures leucorrhoea, falling of the womb and periodical pains in the head and back caused by standing or sitting a long time in the same position. Theford's Black-Draught puts the bowels, stomach, liver, kidneys and blood in proper shape. Greatly increased strength and endurance is the natural result. Most cases are cured quickly. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui and 25 cent packages of Theford's Black-Draught.

Will Return to Greenville.

The many friends of Mr. R. M. Hearne in this city and Greenville, who has been connected with the O. D. S. S. Co. both in this city and Greenville for a number of years, will regret to hear, on account of his health, and not being able to perform the onerous duties connected with the position, has tendered his resignation to the company to take effect as soon as his place can be supplied. Mr. Hearne is an old confederate soldier, was severely wounded in the head by the bursting of a shell, and wears to this day a silver plate the memento of those dark days. He has made his company a good and accommodating official, and the patrons will regret to see him leave his present position.—Washington Messenger.

A Sad Death.

Mr. J. P. Manning, who was accidentally hurt while in bathing in Grindle creek on Aug. 7th, 1901, from which he became paralyzed, died Sept. 5th in the hospital at Tarboro. Everything that was possible was done for him by the physicians of this section. He was taken to John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore where it was found no relief could be given him, when he was brought back home and placed in the hospital at Tarboro. His father attended him faithfully there until the end.

Few young men raised in Pitt county started out in life with brighter prospects than the subject of this sketch. He was raised in Bethel township where he lived until the age of twenty-one when with his older brother, W. J. Manning, he purchased the Edgar Buck farm, three miles from Greenville, and resided there until he met the terrible accident which cost him his life. The death of this young man, who was cut down just as he was entering the prime of life has cast a gloom over his friends and the community.

He was 24 years old and a son of J. L. G. Manning, Esq., of Bethel township. The father, a sister and three brothers survive him, and they have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends in the untimely death of their loved one. He will be missed by friends and associates as few young men of his age are missed. J.
