WHY THE SOUTH LOVED HIM.

Mr. McKinley's attitude toward the South when the war with Spain broke out in 1898, infused into his purely abstract and intellectual admiration the ingredient of enthusiasm. Misunderstood for more than thirty years; misrepresented persistently by the professional ex-Confederates with their noisy announcements of a reconciliation which had long been consummated in the hearts of all serious men; anxious for an opportunity to demonstrate the loyalty they felt in ever fiber, they hailed Mr. McKinley's recognition of their genuine patriotism with a gratitude which soon deepened into lasting and sincere affection. How they rallied to the nation's flag is a matter of common knowledge and need not be discussed at this time. The demonstration was spontaneous and, therefore, splendidly impressive. But Southern men will never forget that Mr. McKinley understood them, and to properly appraise their grief over his tragic and untimely death one must consider the effect of that magnanimous act upon a sensitive and proud people. There is a sorrow acute as it is profound. The country may safely assume that they mean all and more than they profess.

That this recognition of the South's perfect and enduring loyalty may stand for all time to come is our hope and prayer. That loyalty has been a fact beyond controversy for more than a quarter of a century. It has endured against doubt; against insulting public speculation by political mountebanks of both sections; despite neglect and lack of sympathy. Truly representative Southerners have held haughtily aloof from the maudlin love-feasts of the demagogues. They have refused to parade as halcyon examples, or to swell the tawdry triumphs of still more tawdry poseurs, and it is now their pride that Mr. McKinley's keen insight pierced alike their own sensitive reserve and the vulgar claptrap of the politicians. They are loyal to their country and their flag, and he is a wise President who takes this fact to heart against the day of trial which is coming.—Washington Post.

In order to secure some evidence for use in the trial of a damage suit against a Western railroad company the father of two children who had been run over in Roots county, Kansas, recently placed two dummy figures on the railway track at the point where the fatality had occurred, and awaited the arrival of an express train. His experiment nearly caused the loss of another life; for fireman of the express saw what he supposed to be an obstruction on the track as the train approached at a speed of forty miles an hour, and attempted to jump from the cab. The cool-headed engineer seized him in the nick of time, and held here until the train had passed rove the dummies.

Memorial to Mr. Eure.

During the recess of court for dinner on Saturday, the Greenville Bar will hold a memorial meeting in honor of the late Mr. M. R. Eure. The public is invited to attend the meeting.

Even the millionaire shouldn't scorn common sense. Imitators, like parrots, may not be as green as they look. It isn't any use to build castles in the air unless you own a balloon.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1901.

One glorious Nation and one people. Our country must be rid of anarchism. There should be no quarter for the lawless and the assassin.

Lamentable as was his assassination, we believe the death of President McKinley and circumstances surrounding it, has drawn our entire country together in closer ties than ever. It is well said, he was our President.

Upon reaching Canton Mrs. McKinley was completely prostrated and could take no part in the funeral exercises of her beloved husband. She bore up bravely through many trying days, but the affection was too heavy for her. There is now much alarm about her condition.

We doubt if any town held a more appropriate or more interesting meeting in honor of President McKinley than was held in Greenville Thursday afternoon. And it does not seem possible that better eulogies upon the life of the great man could have been heard. Every address was beautiful.

As a mark of respect to President McKinley the Atlantic Coast Line had all business on its entire system stop for five minutes, Thursday afternoon, beginning at 3:30 o'clock. Every wheel stopped, every train came to a stand still on the track, every telegraph instrument was hushed, and every employee and official from the highest to the lowest lay down his work, and there was silence for the five minutes.

"There is in Lower California a strange colony of which the outside world rarely hears," says The Kansas City Journal. "It is made up of outlaws, and some of the most notorious escaped criminals have taken refuge in it. They live in a strange, rugged stretch of country, with the Gulf of California on one side and a range of foothills which spread down toward the Mexican border on the other. There are no ports at this point on the coast of California, and no railroads reaching in from the other direction, so the men are completely isolated. They are practically prisoners, because they dare not venture out, but no effort has ever been made to disturb them in their chosen refuge, though they have been congregating there for years."

Women only kiss each other to make the men envious.

HONORS MCKINLEY.

Greenville and Pitt County Pay a Beautiful Tribute to His Memory.

Our dead President, William McKinley, now rests in the silent tomb. His body was gently consigned to the grave, Thursday afternoon, at his home city, Canton, Ohio, in the presence of the largest concourse of people ever assembled on like occasion in our land, and amid the highest honors ever paid any man. Everywhere there was sorrow and mourning, and in every city, town and hamlet of our country there were assemblages of people to honor his memory.

Amid the solemn tolling of bells from every church tower and from the Court House, the people of Greenville and Pitt county assembled in the Temple of Justice to pay their last tribute of respect to our martyred President. The large building was soon filled to its utmost capacity, and even all who desired could not gain admission.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor W. H. Long, who in a brief announcement asked ex-Gov. T. J. Jarvis to preside. In taking the chair Gov. Jarvis paid a beautiful tribute to President McKinley.

The combined choirs of the churches, under the direction of Rev. J. N. Booth, sang at intervals during the exercises "Jesus Lover of My Soul," "Nearer, My God to Thee" and "Rock of Ages" the entire assemblage joining in the singing.

Rev. H. M. Eure read the 90th Psalm and Rev. F. A. Bishop offered a most feeling and sympathetic prayer.

Judge A. M. Moore, chairman of the committee on resolutions, offered the following:

The people of the town of Greenville and of the county of Pitt in mass meeting assembled on the day and at the hour when the last rites and services are being celebrated at the funeral of our late President, William McKinley, do resolve,

1st. That we desire to express the horror and indignation which we, in common with the citizens of our country, feel at the dastardly assassination of the President of the United States.

2nd. That we recognize the fact that the fatal shot which deprived him of life was also directed at the existence of our Nation, and was a wicked and murderous attack on those rights and liberties which are the inestimable privileges of every citizen of this great Union of States.

3rd. That justice to ourselves and to the people of our country, as well as the safety and preservation of good government and all that a free people hold most dear, demand the enactment and rigid enforcement of stringent laws whereby anarchism and its vile teachings shall be forever stamped out and crushed within our borders, and that no person who teaches, proclaims or defends such infamous doctrines shall be permitted to come to this country, and every known anarchist now residing here shall be expelled from our borders as an enemy to good government and to our liberty loving people.

4th. That we honor and revere the memory of our martyred President, William McKinley, as a beloved citizen and wise ruler, whose public life embodied and illustrated the highest order of statesmanship, unquestioned integrity and exalted patriotism, and whose private and domestic life combined the noblest and purest qualities which constitute and proclaim the gentleman, the patriot and the sincere Christian.

5th. That our profoundest sympathies are with, and through life will be with, the grief stricken widow in the deep affliction which has befallen her, and though in the gloom which surrounds her, and in the sorrow which environs all of us, no glimmer of light may now be seen, let us trust as he believed in the shadow of death: "It is God's way." "His will be done."

5th. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to Mrs. McKinley and his immediate family, and that a copy be furnished to each of our town papers with a request for their publication.

After presenting the resolutions he made an eloquent speech and was followed by Capt. Swift Galloway, Mr. W. F. Harding, Col. Harry Skinner and Mr. E. A. Moye in the order named. Each of the speeches was of a very high order, couched in most beautiful language, and well worthy the high character of him in whose honor they spoke.

At the conclusion of the addresses the resolutions were adopted by unanimous vote, the doxology was sung and Rev. D. W. Davis pronounced the benediction.

The schools of the town were dismissed for the afternoon and all attended the exercises. Judge O. H. Allen also adjourned court until 4 o'clock to give place to the memorial meeting.

You can accomplish nothing by enacting laws to protect the officer, for those laws now exist. The way to prevent is to provide against the advocacy of anarchist doctrines."

A Treat.

The editor is not a hunter, but he has some friends among the Nimrods who remember him now and then. Mr. R. Hyman, the champion squirrel hunter of this region, went out Thursday after the nimble bunnies and captured a nice string of them. He brought us enough for a splendid feast, which was much appreciated.

Strength of Our Government.

The strength of the foundations on which our government rests is demonstrated to the world by the self-restraint with which the American people have accepted their great affliction, the peacefulness with which a new chief magistrate has been installed and the loyalty with which they pray for his success.—New York Herald.

Got a New Trial.

The Supreme Court has granted a new trial in the case of the State vs Amos Moore and others, which was tried in Pitt Superior Court at its last March term. It will be remembered that evidence upon which the State largely relied for the conviction of the defendants in this case was the conduct of a certain bloodhound made use of to trail from the store in which the alleged larceny was committed. It is probable the decision of the Supreme Court is founded on the incompetency of that evidence. The case, from the novelty of the main question involved in the appeal, has attracted a good deal of attention.

The Latest Formalities For the Dinner Table.

Georgous ornamentation of the dinner table is conceded to be as bad form as a colored aunty in the south. The embellishment—the ornate, if you will—has been overdone, and now there is a reaction which tends to simplicity extreme expressed by a handsome centerpiece and a moderate exposition of not common flowers.

A different kind and color of china with every course are affected by those whose cabinet is crowded and who are proud of it, but this pride, has its limitations among people of refinement and culture. This class does not give dinners simply to exhibit earthly treasure and create envy and perhaps covetousness too.

The larger the table napkin the better. A yard square is none too big and pleasantly recalls the Parisians, whose liberality in damask is proverbial, but not a characteristic in anything else. The material should be the best obtainable and the design the most beautiful. Any lace edging or embroidery, plain or colored, is just as bad taste as quinine.

Knives, forks and spoons nowadays for almost everything are somewhat confusing to those who do not dine out with sufficient frequency to keep up with the continually advancing procession. Some of these knives, forks, and spoons are quite unnecessary, not to say silly, but the business of the silversmith must be considered.

Unless fruit be served, finger bowls are almost obsolete at modern dinners and are no more a necessary part of gastronomic ritual. Abroad in Germany, for instance, the use of the vessel for disgusting ablutions still obtains, albeit soap and towel are not provided. It were better to discontinue any table custom or fashion that generates vulgarity.

A man at a formal dinner assigned to "take in" a woman whom he has never met before should take his conversational cue from her—no Chinese desecration of course—and thereby avoid pitfalls to which the diffident and embarrassed are often led. Besides, it is woman's admitted privilege to "do all the talking," and she best gives the keynote at dinners.

"Should name or place cards at dinners be retained?" ask the unsophisticated. "And why?" says the trained catechist. Because the host or hostess has had them prepared in expectation of their being retained and preserved as souvenirs. Ignoring them would be disrespect, and such disrespect under the social circumstances would be unpardonable.—What to Eat.
