Poster and Newspaper Advertising.

A printer who makes a feature of advertising posters remarks that "the bill board is the brass band of an advertising campaign," and that "it fits into newspaper advertising campaign admirably." However, he does not affirm (nor does any disinterested person of experience affirm) that the bill-board or any other agency can be successfully used in place of the newspaper. A number of large advertisers, including theatrical managers, have abandoned posters altogether in order to put more money into newspaper advertising.—Philadelphia Record.

Our Friends, the Druggists.

It is a pleasure to testify to the generally high character of druggists. But because of a few exceptions to the rule, it is necessary to caution the public to be on guard against imitations of Perry Davis' Painkiller. See that you get the right article, the soothing, helpful Painkiller that was used in your family before you were born. Don't be taken into buying a substitute. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

Farmers Don't Complain of Hard Time Now.

One very significant fact in this section is that you never hear a farmer crying hard times. They are getting good prices on this market for everything they raise. Old corn is 90 cents a bushel, new corn 70 cents, wheat 75 cents and oats 60 cents, country bacon 12 1/2 cents, hams 17 cents, and with all kinds of country produce selling at higher prices and tobacco higher than it has been for 15 years, no wonder you hear no complaint of hard times. Their conscience would hurt them if they complained now. Farmers who have moved to town during the past few years see it. Two such men have been talking with the writer to-day about going back to the farm. A glorious time appears to be in store for the farmers for the next few years.—Greensboro Patriot.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31.

President Roosevelt is doing some very hard thinking these days and the results are by no means reassuring. A month ago he had no connection of the dilemma a man who desired above all else to be true to his country, his party and his own chances of a second term would find in the White House. He is, however, having these things thrust upon him. He finds a growing demand in the west for a reduction of those schedules of the tariff which are protecting the trusts and this demand is being fed by such men as Babcock to whom local issues and the demand of his own constituents seem to be all important. On the other hand he finds that he is almost powerless to effect any relief from present conditions. He is beginning to realize that, after all, a president's power is limited in many ways and in many directions.

The party leaders have, in response to the President's request, been coming to Washington and most of them tell him that it will be simply impossible to secure any legislation by the coming Congress that does not meet with the entire approval of the trusts. They tell him that while reciprocity is excellent as "a talking point" it will not "go" with the Senate. They tell him that he must not try to effect any legislation which will prove of advantages to Cuba because the party is pledged to protect the sugar interests in this country. On the other hand he is too keen a judge of human nature to minimize the danger of permitting the coming, eminently Republican, Congress to pass into history with a record of having invariably either legislated or failed to legislate in accordance with the desires of the vested interests.

The Commission for codifying the Federal Statutes will, I understand, report to the next session of Congress a law covering all attacks on the President. It was found on examination that in parts of the country an attack on the President which did not prove fatal could not be punished and to remedy this peculiar condition this law was drafted. The law concerns only attacks made on the Chief Executive as such, for any attack made upon personal grounds would come under state jurisdiction. The law provides that any threat against the President, whether verbal or made in writing, shall be regarded as a felony and punishable by a fine of $5,000 and any attack upon his person, whether successful or otherwise, shall meet with capital punishment. The bill further provides that accessories before the fact shall be held to an equal responsibility with the direct assailant.

The Maryland campaign also has a greater interest than would be usual in an off year because of the fact that if the state goes Democratic it will mean the return of Arthur P. Gorman to the United States Senate and his election to the Senate would mean his return to a position very near the head of the list of Democratic leaders and, in the opinion of some good Democrats, his nomination in 1904.

Change the Platform-Makers.

The Journal is finding itself in good company and in society that is growing numerically. The death of President McKinley has worked a revolution in the South; Roosevelt is distrusted and patriotic Southerners begin to realize that their hopes of improved conditions can only reach fruition through the success of the Democratic party. That success, however, is absolutely impossible while visionaries and dreamers dictate its platforms and name its candidates. It becomes a patriotic duty, then, to devote our efforts to improving things in the Democratic party; put the old guard on duty; the kind of men who elected Tilden and Cleveland and appealed to the better sentiment of the whole country; men who occupy safe, conservative middle ground between the rapacious, plunging, partisan recklessness that is the chief characteristic of Republicanism, and the unsophisticated, visionary, disintegrating theorizing of Populism.

It is time to change the platform makers.—Winston Journal.

Start Girls Right!

Many beautiful girls become invalids for life, because at the crucial period of puberty they pay no attention to the laws of health. Mothers should protect their daughters' health by giving them necessary information and proper treatment. When the menses come on a girl unawares in her inexperience she is either frightened into convulsions, or scared into trying to check the flow. Many girls have checked the flow and it has never started again. And as a result they have grown pale-faced, with "crow-tracks" on their cheeks, and dark hal-moons under their eyes. A dose of taken every morning after a girl is twelve years old will bring the menses on properly and keep them regular. It will help her to develop into attractive womanhood and equip her for the duties of wife and motherhood. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

The Hollywood, Asbury Park, N. J., February 2, 1908. I read your advertisement in regard to Wine of Cardui in the Baltimore American, and it so favorably impressed me that on my visit to Baltimore during the holidays I purchased a bottle of it for my adopted daughter, who was suffering with female troubles. She had been under the doctor's care for some time, and when her periods would come on her suffering was something terrible. I induced her to try it and the first dose brought on her menses. She took it regularly according to the directions, and was greatly relieved. To use her own words, "It saved my life." J. WESLEY CROSS.

Methodist Services.

Men's prayer meeting at the Methodist church Sunday at 9:30 a. m. It was good to be there last Sunday, and we hope all the men of our church and as many of other churches as can do so will be present tomorrow. These meetings are conducted by different ones from time to time, and every one present are at liberty to take part. This prayer meeting ought, and I think it will, result in great good. The regular service will be held Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, but no service at night. H. M. EURE.

Baptist Meeting.

Rev. C. A. Jenkins preached another excellent sermon in the Baptist church Friday night, his subject being "The Unpardonable Sin." He first argued the subject from the negative side, showing what is not the unpardonable sin as claimed by some, then he went on to show that this sin was blasphemy against or disrespectful speaking of the Holy Ghost. At the close of the sermon there were several requests for prayers.

There will be services tonight, and also Sunday morning and night at the usual hours.

Priddy-Parham.

Mr. S. V. Priddy and his bride (nee Miss Mollie Parham) will arrive in Greenville this evening, and will make their home here with Mr. B. E. Parham, brother of the bride.

They were married Wednesday morning at Rebekah church, nine miles from Oxford, by Dr. R. H. Marsh, and left immediately after the ceremony for Richmond to spend a few days at the former home of the bridegroom. They received a large number of handsome bridal presents.

Both are well known in Greenville, having spent much time here, and their friends extend cordial congratulations.
