RECOLLECTIONS OF GREENVILLE IN MY BOYHOOD.

BY T. C. DAVIS.

There was in Greenville from 1840 to '45 about seventy-five white families with a population of six hundred. What a change time and tobacco bath wrought! It is now as big as Wilson, but we have a Tascara Club and I have not heard of a club of any kind in Greenville. However, I am not a club man and consequently do not keep up with club news. And then I like the old Democratic way our fathers had of meeting at the tavern. Everybody is welcome there except small boys, as my experience taught me at a very tender age. Attracted by the stage horse and conceiving a desire to know what was said and done at such places, I led me one evening to the big room of the Eagle. I made myself at home by appropriating a comfortable chair in a conspicuous place where I could see and hear what transpired. There was not much talk if I remember, although there were a good number present. They were all smoking and looking into the fire. I began to think it was a dull place. But soon the door opened and in came Maj. Selby, and with a smile he related something humorous that had just occurred and they all laughed heartily. He then filled his long stem pipe and looking up saw me, and said in astonishment, "Well I'll be d—," at which they all looked at me and laughed again. "What are you doing here Tom?" said he. And without giving me time to answer he took in the situation and added, "go home, my son, boys better be home at night." Blushing and feeling as though I would like to sink through the floor I made my way to the door and the street as soon as possible. But before I got far the door opened and the Major called me and gave me a quarter and said, "Hurry home, the folks may be uneasy about you." I felt very indignant at the treatment I had received and was tempted to throw the quarter as far as I could send it, but finally dropped it into my pocket. On another occasion I had an experience at the (Old Bell Tavern) hotel kept by Mr. Jas. C. Albritton, and which in all its appointments I have often since had brought to my mind in reading descriptions of old English inns. In the large public room of that hostelry I strayed one evening when the guests were all at supper and took a seat. After seating myself it was not long before a lady came and invited me to supper, and when I told her I had been to supper she tried to kiss me and went off and brought cake which I ate as soon as possible and hurried out thoroughly disgusted at the idea of being carressed by a woman and stuffed with cake, I, a boy about thirteen years of age. Now if any little boy happens to read this paper let him take warning by my experience and keep away from hotels at night, except on business. It was a long time before I ventured to the hotel again at night. I had no idea of going to the Eagle. Major Selby usually spent his evenings there and I was afraid of him. But when I was a big boy, I must have been fifteen at least, sleeping at the old down town store alone, I walked in boldly one evening and took a seat. Nobody seemed to notice it and I soon felt quite at home. Mr. Dickinson was talking and everybody present listening intently. Marshall Dickinson, personally known now only to the oldest citizens of the county, and who probably died early in the sixties, was one of the best known and most influential citizens of the county sixty or seventy years ago. He was a northern man by birth and came to Pitt county when quite a youth, represented the county in the Legislature, was an unswerving Democrat in politics, and Post Master in Polk's administration. He was very attractive socially, and could always entertain the company that gathered on winter evenings at the old hotel to discuss current topics and the gossip of the day, and was easily the centre of attraction on all such occasions. He seemed to possess an inexhaustible store of information on all subjects. Courteous and courtly in his bearing to all, and with means sufficient to protect him from the drudgeries of life, he commanded the respect of the whole community. He was somewhat of an oddity in his dress as he frequently appeared on the street in the summer in a heavy cloak which in those days was a cloth circle or doublet, and with a yellow bandanna necktie. He never married and was at the time of his death an Octogenarian. Having never connected himself with any church, at a time when the subject of religion was much discussed he was criticised for not going to church and was called an Infidel, and on hearing it he advertised he would lecture on the Bible the following Sunday evening at the academy. The whole town turned out and his lecture was the talk for many a day. He sleeps well.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A Life of Accidents.

Rebecca Wampler, said to be 100 years old, who died the other day in Dublin, Ind., had met with many accidents during her life. At the age of 6 years she fell from a picket fence and broke her finger. In 1852 she broke her ankle, in 1855 she fell down a cellar and broke her collar bone and three ribs, in 1855 in a runaway while returning from church she was thrown from a vehicle and her right hip broken, in 1858 she slipped and fell on the pavement, breaking her left hip; in 1892 she broke her left leg at the knee, in 1896 she fell from a tree, breaking her arm; in 1898 she fell out of bed, breaking her right arm, and in 1900 she broke her right hip for the second time.

Fascinating Abdul Hamid.

The character of Abdul Hamid must obviously have many facets. The latest of his visitors is Dr. Herzl, the Zionist leader, who reports that he is perfectly charming. "The sultan spoke to me with the greatest kindness. I found him a courteous, charming gentleman. One almost forgot he was this mighty potentate. He has kept himself in touch, I found, with all the latest developments of modern life and evidently is far from having those mediaeval notions which one somehow associates with the Ottoman empire."—London Mail.

FOR HARNESS and Saddle Sores Mexican Mustang Liniment is just what you need. It takes effect at once, and you will be astonished to see how quickly it heals sores.

It's this way:

You can burn yourself with Fire, with Powder, etc., or you can scald yourself with Steam or Hot Water, but there is only one proper way to cure a burn or scald and that is by using Mexican Mustang Liniment.

It gives immediate relief. Get a piece of soft old linen cloth, saturate it with this liniment and bind loosely upon the wound. You can have no adequate idea what an excellent remedy this is for a burn until you have tried it.

A FOWL TIP. If you have a bird afflicted with Roup or any other poultry disease use Mexican Mustang Liniment. It is called a STANDARD remedy by poultry breeders.

Delightful Sermon.

The rain caused only a small attendance at the Baptist church last night, but to those present it was a delightful worship. Rev. C. A. Jenkins preached about God's care of His children, and it was a most comforting and encouraging discourse. There will be services again tonight at the usual hour.

Just as a Fire spreads in dry grass and weeds, so does an inflammation of the throat—the result of a cold—grow down into the sensitive air-passages of the lungs. The cold, like the fire, should be promptly dealt with. When you begin to cough, use Allen's Lung Balsam. It will certainly heal one sore throat and lungs and it may save you from consumption.

Balsams from the Northern Wood are in Pyny-Balsam, the certain cure for coughs.

Those Who are Passing This Way.

G. M. Tucker, of Norfolk, is in town.

J. Bryan Grimes returned to Raleigh today.

Rev. B. H. Hearne went up the road this morning.

I. A. Sugg left on the morning train for Tennessee.

W. B. Parker returned Tuesday evening from Everetts.

Donnell Gilliam, of Tarboro, came down Tuesday evening.

D. C. Moore and H. W. Whedbee returned from Bethel Tuesday evening.

The family of R. M. Hearne came up on Tuesday's boat from Washington. They will occupy the Whedbee house in West Greenville.

Big Crop.

Neill's estimate of the cotton crop was made public today. He places the crop at 11,250,000 bales. In consequence of this high estimate prices went to pieces and there was a decline of 20 to 25 points on futures. We believe when the crop is all in it will fall far short of Neill's estimate.

Tuesday's Election.

Tammany met a big defeat in the New York election Tuesday. Seth Low, the Republican candidate for Mayor, was elected by upwards of forty thousand majority. The Republicans also carried the Legislature. In Philadelphia the Republicans were victorious and they carried Ohio. The Democrats saved Virginia, as was expected.

WINTER COURSES AT THE A. & M. COLLEGE.

The A. & M. College of North Carolina offers exceptional opportunities for education and training in agriculture and its allied branches. Beginning January 2, 1902, the College offers two courses for the young farmer and gardener which extend through ten weeks, and give training of a particularly practical nature in the following subjects:—dairying and creamery work, including milk testing, butter making and handling milk; stock raising; stock judging; breeds and breeding live stock; feeding farm animals; diseases of farm animals; dairy farming; winter gardening; care of boiler and engine; and entomology, etc. These courses are distinct from the regular four year and two year, and are complete in themselves; being intended for farmers who are unable to take the longer courses.

The tuition is entirely free, the only expense being five dollars for registration. Board and room can be obtained for $2.50 per week, making the total cost for the whole course but thirty dollars. No farmer, young or old, can afford to miss such an opportunity! No examinations for entrance are required, but the student should be at least 18 years old, and have a common school education. Any one can attend either of the courses we have had several registered in these courses who were fifty years old. Any one interested should write for a circular of information, which is sent free, and which tells in detail what the course is intended to do. Farming will pay when the farmer is trained for his work. These courses will be a great help in making agriculture a success. Any information in reference to the courses, in any way, can be obtained by addressing the professor of Agriculture, Charles W. Burkett, West Raleigh, N. C.

The Masonic Lodge lot, corner of Pitt and Second streets, is for sale. Apply to J. M. Remes, Chairman Lodge Property Committee.
