MR. & MRS. K. W. KING AT HOME.

Reception in Honor of Mr. and Mrs. Hostetter.

The elegant home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. King, on Dickinson avenue, was a scene of splendor Wednesday night on the occasion of a reception given by them in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hostetter, of Kinston, who were recently married, the bride being a sister of Mrs. King.

The reception was attended by a large number of our townspeople. As the guests arrived they were welcomed at the door by Misses Mattie Moye and Amine King. In the hall they were received by Mr. and Mrs. King assisted by Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Quinerly.

Mr. T. M. Hooker took charge of the guests at the parlor door and introduced them to Mr. and Mrs. Hostetter. The couple were assisted in receiving in the parlor by Mr. J. D. Garden with Miss Nannie Cox, of Kinston, and Dr. R. L. Carr with Miss Bruce Forbes.

In the dining room oysters on half shell were served by Mr. C. B. Mayo with Miss Bessie Patrick and Mr. G. J. Woodward with Miss Rosalind Rountree. Bouillion was also served by Mr. W. E. Hooker with Miss Mary Moye and Dr. Louis Skinner with Miss Sallie Cotten.

In the second room from the parlor Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fleming served punch from the loving cup. In the centre of the room was a brilliantly lighted star table laden with fruits.

In the third room Bavarian cream was served by Mr. W. H. Dail, Jr., with Miss Mary Blow and Mr. C. S. Forbes with Miss Pattie Skinner. The decorations were potted plants, hycanths and primroses. The Italian band occupied the rear hall and discoursed sweet music. Miss Sallie Cotten also delighted the guests with some songs.

The entire reception was very elaborate and greatly enjoyed by all who attended.

There is Safety in Publicity.

When Mayor Low of New York declared that news of official doings would be freely given the newspapers he was taking the best possible course to save his administration from misrepresentation. There is always a great deal of complaint by some public men about the way in which they are treated by the press, and that their actions are never properly reported. They are themselves to blame for this in almost if not quite every instance. The official who is entirely frank with the newspapers is not the one who has anything to complain of.—Philadelphia Press.

Too Large to Change.

This morning a stranger applied at the ticket window at the depot for a ticket and laid down a $500 bill for the price to be taken out of. The big bill was a stunner and could not be changed, so the man had to board the train without his ticket.

Drummers are the principal travelers now. Many of these "knights of the grip" are coming and going every day.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 16, 1901.

The highest honor ever paid a new member of the United States Senate was bestowed upon Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, on Tuesday, when he was called to preside over the body by Mr. Frye, President of the Senate. He occupied the chair for nearly two hours and presided over the highest legislative body in the world with marked dignity and ability.

J. W. Holmes, while a conductor of the Atlantic Coast Line, was injured in a railroad accident. His injuries were a broken and dislocated shoulder joint. Drs. Love, of Wilmington, had charge of the patient, and now he brings suit against them for $20,000 damages alleged to have been sustained because they set his broken shoulder improperly.

Judge Francis D. Winston has been elected Senior Grand Warden by the Grand Lodge of Masons now in session at Raleigh. This is an unusual honor to be conferred on an absent member. His official duties detain him here, Judge Winston has been prominent in Masonic circles and in the educational and charitable work of the order. His brethren show their appreciation of his work by this mark of esteem and honor.

One of the most absurd things we have read of lately was the attempt to get up a petition among the merchants of Kinston to ask the Free Press to suppress the news of a case of smallpox in that town. If such a petition could have had the effect intended it would have been little short of criminal, and the Free Press done itself credit in not complying with it. It does not pay to deal falsely with the public. The existence of smallpox could not be kept a secret, and the merchants of Kinston ought to have known that false rumors gaining circulation through suppression of facts would be far more damaging to their interests than to give a full and honest statement of the condition through their home paper. Deal honestly with the public and give them the facts and danger is at once minimized. Wilson played false in this matter and kept information suppressed as to the existence of smallpox there until the county became full of the pest.

SITUATION AT GRIMESLAND.

The Grimesland correspondent of the News and Observer says that the fire at Grimesland will, most probably be investigated, because of the rumors that the fire was not accidental but of an incendiary origin, and perhaps its origin can be traced to the animosity of certain parties of some of the losers in the conflagration. Certain farmers on the larger farms on Tar river, in the neighborhood, have been very much annoyed of late by their negro tenants receiving anonymous letters, threatening them with whipping, hanging, burning and other punishments if they did not leave the employment of the farmers by a certain time. These farms are situated in what is known as the stock law territory. These letters have evidently been written by the same party as they are all in the same handwriting and all mailed from near by postoffices. The part of Grimesland burned adjoins the stock law lands and certain evil disposed persons are taking advantage of the recent fire by trying to create a belief among the negroes who are already excited by these letters, that the fire was the beginning of the threatened punishment, thus creating a panic among them to the injury of the farmers. It is said that there is a connection between these letters and the firing of Grimesland. Complaint has been made to the Postoffice Department and it is expected the party guilty of sending these letters will be apprehended.—Washington Messenger.

As we understand the situation down there, several of the large land owners of that section deeming it cheaper to fence in their stock than to fence their farms, had a stock law established for their territory. This aroused the ire of some party or parties who did not have land and wanted to let their stock run on other people and they sent anonymous letters to the tenants and laborers in the stock law territory warning them to move out and threatening them with violence if they refused to do so. It was one of these letters that Judge Winston read in court while making his charge to the grand jury. These letters caused much fear to those who received them, and it is safe to say that if the parties writing them are discovered they will be severely dealt with. It is a bad state of affairs and should be suppressed.

THE YOUNG MAN'S MISTAKE.

We copy the following from an exchange, and hope that it may be of benefit to some of our young readers:

One of the greatest mistakes the young men of the present day are making, and it is the rock upon which many have stranded, is they fail to appreciate their position in life, and consequently instead of seeking to do their very best to improve their lot, become discouraged and despondent. They imagine if Providence in His wisdom had seen fit to have given them some important position to fill, either in state or society, they would have accomplished wonders and made a name for themselves that would live after they were dead. They forgot the lines of the old poem or song, which we remember to have read somewhere, that if we recall it correctly, reads about as follows:

"If a cobbler by trade I'll make it my pride,
The best of all cobblers to be,
And if only a tinker, no tinker on earth
Shall mend an old kettle like me."

In these simple lines are hidden

the philosophy that every young man needs to adopt as he begins the journey of life for himself. It is the determination to do all things well, it matters not what it is, even if it is blacking some one's shoes in order to earn a nickel, that directs the world's attention to the struggling young man, and not the deed itself that is most worthy of careful attention. It is not the number of acres of land that the farmer can till, but it is tilling what he does well that makes him a successful farmer. Our young men would be much more successful and many an old mother and father made happier if their sons could be brought to realize that it is not the doing of something that most generally attracts public attention or approval, but it is in doing our best in our own humble sphere, let that be where it may. Half the failures our young men make are due to the delusion, if they had important duties to perform or a responsible position to fill they would do the work well, but as their avocation is an humble one it may be slighted. And the young men who are slighting their work because their avocation is not to their liking are the ones we meet in every day life who continue to hold menial positions, and go down to their graves complaining that bad luck has always followed them.

Look at the middle aged men of our town and note those who have made a success in life and you can not help acknowledging they are the men who have paid strict attention to business and were contented with small things in the beginning of their careers. It is true that Providence in his wisdom does not allow every young man to choose his place and while he may assign us to places not always to our own liking, he at the same time gives us the power to be faithful in our station and in the end win: "Well done good and faithful servant." Then again it is the young man that resolves to do well what his hands find it is his duty to do that always receives the reward in the end. "Tis not in mortal to command success, but it is nobler to deserve it."

A laugh on the face is worth two in the sleeve.

Never fails—not even in the most aggravated cases. Cures caked udder in cows quicker than any known remedy. Hardly a disease peculiar to muscle, skin or joints that cannot be cured by it.

School House Fired.

We learn that an attempt was made Wednesday night to burn the Langley school house, about four miles north of town. Some one passing along the road saw the building burning and put the fire out. A bottle of kerosene oil and some trash had been used in firing the house. There is no clue to the incendiary.

Rev. J. T. Phillips Again in the Public Eye.

The Rev. J. T. Phillips, who as a member of the Arrington Investigation Tribunal, attained notoriety second only to Hoola Boom Campbell, has again become prominent in the public eye.

The latest performance does not begin to compare with his retrograde movement on a truck in the Yarborough House lobby, when his booze tank was loaded to the muzzle. But it is a close second and the Mount Olive Advertiser tells it in this fashion:

"Yesterday afternoon, Rev. J. T. Phillips, of Farmville, was arrested for threatening to shoot a citizen of this place and was bound over to court in the sum of $500.

"Phillips left Wilson last Tuesday en route for Mount Olive with the intention of marrying a young lady of this section. He took on a load of liquor and became so exhilarated that he failed to get off the train at Mount Olive and passed through to Calypso. When he finally reached Mount Olive he was somewhat the worse for wear, and as he had neglected to secure a license and the young lady had changed her mind, the ceremony did not take place.

"Phillips left the place on Wednesday, but returned Thursday evening somewhat tangled in the legs but determined to marry the girl in spite of the father's opposition.

"Yesterday morning he gave a continuous performance, representing the evils of intemperance, varied with cuss words and threats of shooting various individuals, the end of which was told in our first paragraph."

GARDNER & VAUS.

A Mississippi Judge has recently decided that a negro's head is a deadly weapon. In that case it was used as a battering ram and knocked the stuffing out of another son of Ham. There is no law in that State against carrying deadly weapons of that kind, so the negro can be punished only for the use he made of the weapon.—Wilmington Star.
