THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1902.

It is a big blow out Prince Henry is getting on this side of the pond, but the dear people are footing the bill.

The Commonwealth says several horses have recently died in the vicinity of Scotland Neck. The State Veterinary Surgeons say the disease among the horses is glanders.

Charlotte is getting considerable smallpox. Several cases have been found in the city, and five of the railway mail clerks going to that city have the disease. Being in the postal cars is likely to spread it.

Teddy—"Three cheers for the Prince. Hip, hip, hooray!" and they all drank and hollered.

Prince Henry—"Three cheers for Teddy. Hip, hip, hooray!" and they all drank and hollered some more.

Great is flunkeyism and American sociability.

Emperor William's yacht Meteor that is being built in this country, was launched at Shooter's Island, New York, on Tuesday. Miss Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the President, christened the yacht, Prince Henry, the Emperor's brother and representative, standing by her side during the ceremonies.

President Roosevelt withdrew his invitation to Senator Tillman to dine with him at the White House dinner in honor of Prince Henry, because the Senator was declared in contempt of the Senate for the time being. Senator Tillman expressed himself very emphatically over this insult by the President, and said that had such an occurrence taken place in the country Prince Henry came from a duel would have followed. Teddy's imperialistic bump continues to enlarge.

J. T. Keel, formerly of our town, but who has been in Greenville for some time, has returned to Ayden and opened up a grocery store on the corner of Main street and West avenue. Success to Mr. Keel.—Ayden Baptist.

SUCCESSFUL FARMER.

Story of Mr. J. J. Laughinghouse, of Grimesland, a Modern Instance.

It has been said and experience has taught its accuracy, that if the farmer would apply the same diligence and system to his operations on the farm as the successful merchant, lawyer or other business or professional man success would more often prove the rule than the exception.

For some years past I have been in a position to observe the operations of most of the farmers of the eastern part of the State, and while I do not claim to be an agricultural critic, I have seen enough to justify me in drawing the conclusion that loose, careless and shiftless methods on the farm are not any more productive of good results than in any other profession of calling of man.

We have here, in the county of Pitt, numbers of successful farmers, men who are making money farming by hard work, perseverance and the application of sound principles to their methods, yet on the other hand we have numbers of failures attributable in the majority of cases to careless, indifferent and aimless methods.

I want to cite one instance that has come under my personal observation wherein farming, even on a very large scale through an era of unprecedented scarcity of very trifling labor has been made a very profitable industry.

A good many years ago, Mr. J. J. Laughinghouse, of Grimesland, Pitt county, realized that cotton could not be made a profitable crop at the prevailing prices. He, therefore, abandoned cotton culture entirely and commenced growing tobacco as his sole money crop.

His first work was to secure first class tenants who thoroughly understood tobacco culture, then from the beginning by his open, frank and candid conduct with them he inspired their confidence and respect.

This was his first step toward success, and while at the time he commenced tobacco was selling a great deal better than in subsequent years, yet he has never planted any other money crop except tobacco, and through an era of extremely low prices, by diligence and industry, and the application of sound principles he has made some money every year, even in the face of reverses, and some severe ones.

The object of this article, however, is to relate his operations last year, and to show what can be accomplished on the farm by use of brains and energy.

Mr. Laughinghouse last year planted one hundred and sixty acres in tobacco, entirely on the tenant system, from which he sold a little over twenty thousand dollars, and in addition to this he has grown sufficient corn, fodder and feed stuffs for a fifteen horse farm and raised pork enough to supply this farm three-fourths of the year.

Mr. Laughinghouse employs the tenant system because the lumber and milling interest of his section is so extensive that labor cannot be secured except at exorbitant prices. His tenant system, however, is very thoroughly systematized. In a word, that entire farm is just as much under his personal supervision as if the tenants were hired. He has nothing but a verbal contract with them and he has never had to discharge one yet, has not had but one to leave him in twelve years; and there are a number working with him now that commenced with him in 1869, old ex slaves of his father.

His tobacco land is thoroughly prepared before planting by breaking deep with a two horse plow and crossing with a disk. He has guano made to analyze 4 per cent ammonia, 4 per cent phosphoric acid and 6 per cent potash. He says he long ago learned that tobacco required more potash and less phosphoric acid than was found in the ordinary tobacco guano, and as a result of the use of this formula he has made on an average of 25 per cent more pounds to the acre than the average farmer, and as his tobacco was all sold on my warehouse floor I can attest the fact that he has grown the largest quantity of the finest wrappers of any one I ever knew.

The poorest tenant he had last year cleared above all expenses one hundred and fifty dollars, besides his corn, while there were some who cleared as much as five hundred dollars. They all seem to realize that the landlord knows best what is for their mutual interest and cheerfully leave everything to him. A happier set of men I never saw. Mr. Laughinghouse's distinguished characteristic seems to be as a leader and controller of men. This was emphasized in his early manhood, for when a mere youth of sixteen he left Horner's School at Oxford and joined the Confederate army in a company of Junior Reserves. He was made first lieutenant and before he was seventeen was elected captain of the company, thus showing the esteem and regard in which he was held by his comrades.

He has always been an energetic and persevering man. His father's property having been lost in consequence of the war, he bought the old plantation of his forefathers on credit, paying an enormous sum, but by industry and thought he paid for the farm, raised a large family of children, gave them as good an education as the institutions of the land afforded and in the meantime has suffered losses from incendiaries to the amount of at least ten thousand dollars.

This is a record of which any man may justly feel proud, and goes to show what can be done on the farm where economy, industry and business methods are applied.

Mr. Savage was a good citizen and held in high esteem by all who knew him. Nearly all his life was spent on the farm, he having moved to Greenville only a few months ago. He leaves nine children, eight of them residing in Pitt county and one in Raleigh.

The burial will take place Friday afternoon in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

This thing of suing railroads and corporations when there is little or no cause for complaint is making the people tired in some communities and the time may yet come when the man who is really entitled damages cannot get them. There is such a thing as pushing a good thing to the limit.—Durham Herald.

That is one of the serious dangers. The contingent fee lawyers have worked the prejudice against railroads and other corporations to such an extent in extorting money from them that the people are beginning to be disgusted; and the danger is as the Herald says, that when the reaction sets in it will run to the other extreme, so that those who are really entitled to damages from corporations cannot get them.—Statesville Landmark.

China Wedding.

1882 1902
Mr. and Mrs. F. G. James request the pleasure of your company on Saturday evening March the eight from half past eight until eleven o'clock Greenville, North Carolina.

No cards issued in town, but all friends of Mr. and Mrs. James are invited to the celebration of the twentieth anniversary of their marriage.

Increasing in Interest.

The service Wednesday night was the most interesting so far during the progress of the meeting in the Methodist church. There were several conversions and more requests for prayers. Rev. Mr. Eure is preaching faithfully and effectively. Last night's service was more like an old time revival than has been seen in Greenville in a long time. If the Christians of the town do their duty the meeting will result in much good. Services again tonight at 7:30.

North Carolina's Progress.

Commenting on some industrial statistics regarding North Carolina which have just been printed, the Lynchburg News asks "what other states in the Union can surpass this record?" Then the News adds: The people of the Old North State have a right to be proud of their commonwealth, with its economical and effective State government, its equitable laws, its increasing population and the phenomenal growth of its industrial establishments.

A right to be proud, in truth.—Richmond Dispatch.
