MR. JOHN FLANAGAN.

A Noble Man Has Departed.

The brief announcement in Thursday's DAILY REFLECTOR told of the death of Mr. John Flanagan which occurred that day at his home on Fifth street at 12:30 o'clock. Though his death had been expected for some days, yet it brought sadness to every heart, for no man in the community was held in higher esteem than he.

John Flanagan was truly a self made man, and his life was one of great usefulness. He was a native of Pitt county, being born near Farmville Feb. 6th, 1829, making him 73 years old at his last birthday. Almost from infancy he was left an orphan, his mother dying when he was only a week old and his father two years later. His early life was spent on the farm in the neighborhood of his birth place where he remained until he reached the age of 18, when he came to Greenville and entered as an apprentice in the Nelson Carriage factory. For his first year's work he received $35 in wages, yet his early habits of economy and industry served him well, and in speaking of his career later in life he said that even out of so small a sum he came out at the end of the year with a little money in his pocket. A striking example is this to all young men of the advantage of living within one's income.

Mr. Flanagan continued to serve his apprenticeship until he was 21 years old, he moved to Washington and began working as a journeyman for Mr. N. S. Fulford, with whom he continued two years. While in Washington in December 1855, he married Miss Mary Gaskill, and they lived happily together for 46 years.

From Washington he moved to Hamilton and engaged in business for himself. His high regard for honesty and integrity in all his dealings, and his devotion to his business, gave him success from the start and his business continued to prosper until the coming on of the war. The Southland needing his services, in 1862 he enlisted in the 17th N. C. Reg't., and gallantly served the Confederacy until the laying down of arms at Appomattox.

While he was in the war, and during Foster's raid through this section of North Carolina, his factory and all that he possessed was destroyed by fire. Returning to his home he found, like many other Confederates, that the ravages of war had swept away all that he had, but nothing daunted to set to work again determined to forge his way to success.

Early in 1868 Mr. Flanagan moved to Greenville and the remainder of his life was spent here. From that time his career is known to most of our people. He established a factory here that not only became famous throughout eastern North Carolina, but in neighboring States as well. People soon learned that the name John Flanagan on a buggy was a guarantee that it was the best to be had.

Mr. Flanagan was an honest man in the highest sense, and his word was his bond. He was a noble man, a man who loved truth and disdained sham in any guise, and he enjoyed the confidence of every one.

It is no wonder that a man of such sterling character should have been sought to fill positions of public trust, and while his interest in his own business was such that it was with reluctance he yielded to the demands upon him, he did fill several important positions. He served as one of the Town Commissioners, then he was a member of the Board of County Commissioners, one year he was Tax Collector and for several years County Treasurer. In all of these positions he carried his characteristic integrity and high sense of honor. Once he was elected Mayor of Greenville but declined to serve, as he felt he could not spare the time the position demanded and again he declined the position of County Treasurer when it was tendered him.

In his domestic life he was a devoted husband and kind father. He loved his home, and while it was his delight to provide every comfort for those around his fire-side, at the same time his charitable hand was never withheld when there were deeds of kindness he could bestow upon others.

He reared an interesting family, the wife and six children surviving him. The latter, all of whom are grown, are Mrs. Florence Dancy, Mrs. Ed. H. Shelburne, Mrs. B. E. Patrick, Miss Blanche Flanagan, and Messrs. E. G. and R. C. Flanagan. All but the last named, who has a government position in Washington, are residents of Greenville and all were gathered about him when the sad end came. The entire community join these in mourning his death. Their loss of husband and father is irreparable, and Greenville loses a most valuable citizen.

The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Services will be conducted at the residence by Rev. J. N. Booth and the interment will be in Cherry Hill Cemetery. All friends of the family are invited.

Getting In Readiness.

The large building of the Imperial Tobacco Co., is going up rapidly, and already the force is gathering to conduct the business of the company here when the season opens. Mr. R. O. Jeffress, well known here, will be one of the Imperial buyers on sales. Mr. W. E. Lewis, of Lynchburg, will also be a buyer for the company. He has moved his family here and occupies the building lately known as the Hunter house. Mr. W. E. Goolsby, of Lynchburg, who will be a member of the office force, has also arrived. Mr. G. J. Woodward will be one of the bookkeepers for the Imperial. The Greenville market will be greatly strengthened by this company.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Curran of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden ignis attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. John L. FRIDAY, JULY 11, 1902.

At the convention of the Second Judicial district, held in Weldon on Wednesday, Judge Francis D. Winston was defeated for the nomination for Judge by Hon. R. B. Peebles. This far away we can have no voice in the affairs of the Second district, but Pitt county would have been glad to see Judge Winston continued in his position.

A GREAT CONVENIENCE.

The connection here between the A. & N. C. passenger train from Goldsboro in the morning with the A. C. L. freight is proving to be a great convenience. About a dozen people changed trains this morning. When the fact becomes generally known a great number of people will avail themselves of this close connection. For instance a person from Raleigh or Goldsboro can leave home in the morning and reach Grifton, Ayden or Greenville the same morning and thus have no long, tiresome stopovers.—Kinston Free Press.

Exactly! That is just the connection THE REFLECTOR has been talking about for sometime, with the exception that making it with our morning passenger train would have been preferable to the freight train. But everything wanted cannot be had at once, and the present connection is much better than what we had before. However, with such a good thing in sight it was a little surprising that our neighbor did not see it in advance and take hold of the agitation to help secure it.

Minstrels Coming.

Allen's New Orleans Minstrels had a full house, or a full tent, at their opening performance last evening, and everybody in attendance was pleased with the entertainment afforded. It was clean from anything objectionable, whatever, and newer by far than many minstrel companies seen in the opera house. The music was good. There are some excellent voices in the company, and the dancing was strictly up-to-date. The cakewalking is a strong feature and brought forth great applause. The two bands made a good showing on the streets today. It is particularly worthy of mention that greater courtesy is accorded patrons by the ushers and attendants than is usually witnessed in tent shows.—Ft. Worth (Tex.) Mail Telegram, Tuesday Sept. 28. This company will appear here July 12.

THE WILL AND THE WAY.

On the Fourth of July the largely-attended summer school at Knoxville, Tenn., promulgated a "declaration of education principles," one of which and the best of which is as follows:

4. We regard local taxation as the foundation upon which a public school system should be built, and, therefore, favor an agitation in behalf of such taxation in every community.

We say with deliberation that this is the best of the declarations. You cannot force a thing, no matter how good a thing, upon an unwilling people. You may pour out money never so lavishly in a school district in which the people do not believe in education—and there are such people—but choose to keep their children at home and at work rather than send them to a school, even though free, and the children of those people will never be educated until a mental change is wrought in their parents. Here is where this principle of local taxation comes in. A people properly interested in the subject of education will by taxes levied upon themselves, so supplement the general school fund as to maintain efficient public schools in their neighborhoods if they are not interested to this extent they can hardly be said to be interested at all. Where this interest is lacking or dormant, it should be supplied or stimulated. For either of these purposes agitation is necessary, and this is where the Aycocks, the Joyners and the McIvers come in. If it is true that people generally get what they deserve, it is equally true within certain limits—and education is within these limits—that they generally get what they want. If they want their children educated they will find the way, and if they don't the way may be opened but they will not walk in it. "You can take a horse to water but you can't make him drink.—Charlotte Observer.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oaks, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheerfully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. John L. Wooten.

ROBBED A CAR.

Two of the Thieves Captured.

Early Thursday night while it was somewhat stormy, the watchman at the depot discovered some men breaking into a car of meat standing in the railroad yard. The watchman hurried over to the home of Agent J. R. Moore to advise him of it. Agent Moore at once telephoned down town to Mr. W. B. Wilson, to whom the car was consigned, and asked him to get an officer and go out to the depot. Mr. Wilson in turn telephoned Mr. W. C. Hines to meet him at the depot with blood hounds as quick as possible.

In a short while all were at the depot ready for an investigation and chase. It was found that the thieves upon being discovered by watchman had fled from the car, and in their flight had dropped pieces of the meat. Mr. Hines took two of his dogs, "Louise" and "King Richard" to a piece of the meat, from which they struck a trail and followed it to the house of Robert Hanrahan, colored, out in Newtown. Chief of Police Smith went in and arrested Hanrahan, but the negro denied having any knowledge of the robbery.

Hanrahan keeps a small store out there in Newtown, and the party not satisfied with his denial began making a search and found a piece of the stolen meat. Seeing that the proof was on him, Hanrahan made a confession and told that two other negroes, Washington Mayo and Oscar Cherry, were with him. Mayo was found at his home and was taken into custody.

Chief Smith then left the crowd in Newtown and went to the house of Oscar Cherry in Little Washington. Cherry had got home but when the officer started in he jumped through a back window and fled. A messenger was sent back to the crowd after the dogs and they trailed Cherry up the railroad to the bridge where the scent was lost. It is supposed the negro climbed or jumped off the bridge into the river so the dogs could not follow him.

Hanrahan and Mayo were placed in jail. This morning they were given a preliminary hearing before Mayor Whedbee, who held them under $200 justified bond for the Superior court. They were unable to give the bond and went back to jail.
