NOW IS THE TIME

When hundreds of men want their winter suits and overcoats in a hurry and this week will be a busy one with us. If you would prefer to shop quietly and take your time in making selections, we should advise you to come in at once, tomorrow for instance, before the rush is on, for you can then have plenty of time to examine the details of the garments. There's plenty to see here, too. Everything in Suits, from a substantial business Sack to well evening clothes—from a jaunty short overcoat to a long, heavy Ulster, and each made in every fabric that is fashionable for this season.

Men's Suits, $8 to $20
Overcoats, $10 to $25

We have some special values in each at... $12 which wethink you ought to see.

Extra Special for the Little Boys, aged 3 to ten years. A fine line of Norfolk and Russian Blouse Suits, made from dependable fabrics and men of them richly trimmed. These are worth $5, but our price is only $3.25

Thinking of your Winter Hat? We thought of it months ago, and we have a lot of them; will save you money if you buy here.

We have just received some new WINTER NECKWEAR, which will interest you at 50c.

DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET.

Read It Carefully Before You Vote.

Below are the names that appear upon the Democratic State ticket that will be voted on the 4th of November. When you go to vote read your ticket carefully and see that every one of these names are on it. There is reason to fear that bogus tickets will be circulated on election day and every Democrat should be careful not to vote one with a wrong name on it.

Superintendent of Public Instruction, James Y. Joyner, Guilford county.

Member of North Carolina Corporation Commission, Eugene C. Beddingfield, Wake county.

Judge of the Superior Court of the Eleventh Judicial District, Erastus B. Jones, Forsyth county.

Judge of the Superior Court of the Thirteenth Judicial District, William B. Councill, Catawba county.

Judge of the Superior Court of the Fourteenth Judicial District, Michael H. Justice, Rutherford county.

Judge of the Superior Court of the Fifteenth Judicial District, Federick Moore, Buncombe county.

Judge of the Superior Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District, Garland S. Ferguson, Haywood county.

Lake Drummond is Doomed.

Suffolk, Va., Oct. 28.—Unless the United States Circuit Court intervenes, Lake Drummond, of Dismal Swamp and poetic fame, with its 15,000 acres of dark waters, may soon become a stagnant and stench breeding pool. That condition was made known a few days ago by a party of lawyers and engineers that visited the lake. They say that the water is now five feet below its normal level and is going down constantly by reason of drainage caused by the Lake Drummond and Dismal Swamp Canal Company in the operation of locks on canals leading to the Southern branch of the Elizabeth River. Experts say that with the canals now in operation, some of which were begun eighty years ago as mere ditches, it is possible to leave Lake Drummond a bed of sunbaked mud, except in deepest holes.

To prevent such conditions William N. Camp, of Albion, Fla., owner of 76,000 acres of the Dismal Swamp, has instituted action in the United States Circuit Court to restrain the canal company from draining the lake before the inauguration of condemnation proceedings. Notwithstanding the company holds a Virginia charter granting lake water for the operation of the locks. Camp's attorneys assert the State had no right to grant such privileges where private property is concerned.

Not Bad, Considering.

But for the Allen-Hardy affray yesterday's police records speak very well for such an occasion. Capt. Smith reports only twelve arrests, all for drunkenness but the one noted. That isn't so bad for a crowd of that kind, numbering thousands, all bent on a "good time." It isn't so many years since a handful of natives used to ride in from a certain cross-roads and give the police a much warmer entertainment than the colored boozers did yesterday.

BLOODY ENCOUNTER.

Fight in a Barroom That May Prove Fatal to One Combatant.

Wednesday evening about 6:30 the bar room of Marshall Starkey, on Fifth street, was the scene of a desperate pistol duel, between J. W. Allen, Jr., a farmer living about three miles from town, and H. S. Hardy, who was employed in the tobacco business by B. E. Parham.

Both men were under the influence of liquor, and as a result of the fight Hardy is lying at his home on Ninth street in a critical condition, with several bullet holes in his body. One shot took effect over the right collarbone, one entered the left breast just below the heart, one entered the left arm above the elbow, making a flesh wound, while one shot hit him in the abdomen and one entered from the rear near the end of the spinal column. There are two holes in the back, one of which is thought to mark the exit of the bullet fired at his breast.

Hardy was taken to the office of Drs. Laughinghouse and Moye, where such medical attention as was possible was given. At the first examination only two wounds were found, but after the wounded man's wife had been summoned he was carried to his home, where a second examination brought the other wounds to light.

At 10 o'clock this morning Hardy was doing remarkably well for a man in his condition and hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Allen was arrested by officer S. T. Dudley and is now in jail awaiting the outcome of his victim's struggle for life. When arrested a pistol was taken from him which bore evidence that three of its chambers had been recently emptied. From this fact, and the number of wounds inflicted upon Hardy, it is thought that some one unknown took a part in the fight.

Allen was formerly a barkeeper in Greenville, while Hardy has not borne a reputation for peaceableness in the recent past.

Accounts as to how the shooting came about differ widely, but it is fairly certain that both men used weapons, as Allen's clothing was cut in several places.

Much sympathy is expressed for the wife and children of Hardy, and friends and neighbors have not been lacking to help and cheer them.

When the day had closed without such trouble as a circus crowd usually brings, the hope was expressed that no crime would mark the day, but this was not to be, it seems, and now the families of the two men are suffering from their evil deeds. One wife sits at home and waits for her husband who is behind prison bars, almost a murderer, and another watches at the bedside of his victim, who may die at any moment.

Later.—A subsequent examination, made by the physicians since the foregoing was written, shows that Hardy was struck by six balls, two of which entered from the rear. It is thought that he has a fair chance to recover. He is reported to be doing remarkably well.

Trial Friday Morning.

The preliminary hearing of J. W. Allen, Jr. for the shooting of Herbert S. Hardy has been set in the Mayor's court for 10 o'clock Friday morning.

Balsams from the Northern Wood are in Fry-Balsam, the certain cure for coughs.

THE STATE PRESS

News and Opinions.

In his speech at Caroleen, M. Gudger got the laugh on M. Moody by relating a conversation between Mr. Moody and an old negro. The gist of the story is that meeting an old negro in the road, Mr. Moody told him that the reason 'possums brought more this year than heretofore was because of the Dingley bill. It is as true that the Dingley bill has put up the price of 'possums as it is true that it has helped any other industry in the State.

One by one the republicans have been compelled to abandon their cotton mill, cotton operative, lumber, mica, rice, cabbage and beans argument, and now in the closing days of the campaign they have nothing left but the 'possum argument. When they present it to intelligent people, they are laughed out of court, and when they present it to the old 'possum hunting negroes, they can't vote. And so next Tuesday will show that all along they have been trying in vain to fool the people—that their campaign was another case of playing 'possum.—News & Observer.

The Philadelphia North American thus bunches same information which had previously gotten down to these ends of the earth in only a fragmentary sort of way: "In Ohio Tom Johnson declares that Senators Hanna and Foraker ought to be in the penitentiary, and Senator Hanna replies that Johnson is the most unmitigated demagogue and hypocrite in the United States. In New York they are more explicit. Ex Senator Hill accuses Governor Odell of having a money interest in certain State contracts, and Odell retorts that Hill wrongfully accepted $7,000 from the State while serving as United States Senator." And yet there are people who complain that this campaign lacks spirit.—Charlotte Observer.

While no man may have the right to call himself an independent democrat or an independent republican, we think that the term can be used advisedly and correctly and that it carries with it a meaning not conveyed by the one word independent. As we understand it an independent democrat or republican is one who agrees with his party on most questions and supports its ticket when there is no serious objection to it. A simple independent is one who votes for men and measures regardless of party and does not give a rap for party ties.—Durham Herald.

All Enjoyed The Day.

Not everybody in town, by a great deal, got under the big tent at the show Wednesday. Many people came just to see the parade and what things were outside, and all day long there was a big crowd down town and around the stores. They seemed to enjoy the day.

Fall Overcoats

The first chill of autumn brings the light-weight Overcoat into use. It is never out of service till April. Better get yours now and have the full benefit of it. Long or short—either is good if the coat's good. Style isn't everything. Cloth is important; tailoring still more so. Style costs nothing—and yet it does. Two coats may be made in the same style, but the one that's best tailored will be the most stylish. Get your Overcoat where you know what's back of it.

PERSONAL NOTES

Brief Mention of People Met With in the Social World

L. M. Savage went to Raleigh today.
R. L. Joyner, of Farmville, was here today.
F. L. Walker went to Scotland Neck this morning.
A. D. Hill, post master of Farmville, was in the city today.
A. M. Moseley, cotton buyer of Ayden, was in the city today.
B. W. Moseley is looking after business in Robersonville today.
Haywood Dail and J. D. Garden returned from Richmond today.
H. A. White and family returned from Greensboro Wednesday evening.
Dr. L. C. Skinner, of Parmele, spent the night here and returned home this morning.
Mrs. L. C. Burgess, of Scotland Neck, who has been visiting H. L. Burgess, returned home this morning.
Mrs. Kate C. Hudgins and daughter, Miss Nannie, who have been visiting Mrs. J. White, returned to Portsmouth today.

We find the following in Stanton's column in the Atlanta Constitution. The genial poet, who now enjoys the distinction of being the Burns of south, was once the publisher of a country paper; hence his appreciation as expressed in the head:

SAME OLD TURNIPS.

The editor of the Ringgold New South makes this familiar acknowledgment:

"Mr. James Massengill is a big souled, generous hearted friend, ever mindful of the comfort of others. Last Monday he left three of the finest purple top turnips at the editor's gate, each of which was sufficient for a square meal. Many thanks, Mr Massengill."

The editor of the Early County News was not so fortunate as his contemporary. He says:

"Mr. Starling Robinson dropped in to see us yesterday and left us the forked tail of a rusty lizard which was killed by one of his neighbors."

GRIMESLAND ITEMS.

GRIMESLAND, N. C., Oct. 29.
Rev. Mr. Tingle filled his regular appointment here Sunday and Sunday night.
Mrs. J. O. Proctor and little daughter Susie, and Miss Mattie Buck left Monday for Wilson to attend the Christian Convention.
B. W. Moseley, of Greenville, was with us a while Monday.
C. T. Cordan, of Washington, was on our streets Monday afternoon.
Mrs. Tilmon Mayo and little son, Tollie, of Aurora, are with us this week. She is the mother of J. W. and H. G. Mayo.
Miss Eya Harvey, of Aurora, has taken charge of our school here. She is a very nice lady and we hope her much success.
Quite a number of our sports went to Washington Sunday afternoon on the gas boat Myrtle.
W. M. Moore's big new store will soon be done. It is a very handsome building and a great improvement to our town.
Miss May Dupree, of Pinetown, passed through last week on her way to Conetoe. She was accompanied by John Warren, Jr.
C. E. Boyd came down this morning all smiles. It is a fine boy.

WHICHARD ITEMS.

WHICHARD, N. C., Oct. 29, 1902.
Mrs. M. A. Whichard returned home from Greenville last week.
Miss Ida Mooring, who has been going to school at Winterville, spent last Saturday and Sunday at home.
Miss Mary P. Brame, of near here, attended a ball at Greenville last Friday evening.
Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Whichard left yesterday morning for Wilson to attend the convention.
C. E. Bradley, of Pactolus was in town yesterday.
Mrs. R. L. Woolard and Mrs. Molly Rawls left yesterday to attend the convention at Wilson.
Mr. G. W. James' little daughter, May, is sick with fever.
C. F. James was in town yesterday.
It has been very rainy for the last few days.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1902.

Many people talk a great deal faster than they think.

People who marry for love seldom sue over alienated affections.

A pessimist is the fellow who wouldn't believe it if he saw it with his own eyes.

That fifty extra per ton isn't so bad. Just think how easy it might have been a dollar.

There is something infinitely sad about the woman who is perpetually looking under the bed for a man.

The anxiety of the republicans to get the trusts out of politics and to hand the tariff over to a commission is eminently praiseworthy. Nuisances should be abolished or removed off the premises.

The Chicago woman who put a burglar to flight with a feather duster is entitled to a chromo, of course; but many a woman has run a man out of the house with less offensive weapons, even if she did kick up a little dust in doing it.

Next Tuesday's Election

Tuesday next is election day in all the States, with the exception of Maine, Vermont and Oregon, which have already selected their State officials and congressional representatives. In 22 of the 42 States a Governor and other State officers and Congressmen are to be chosen; in 11 minor State officers or judges of the Supreme Court and Congressmen are to be voted for, while in nine Congressmen alone will be elected.

The principal State officers are to be chosen in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, South Carolina, Alabama, Texas, Michigan, Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska, North Dakota, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Nevada and California. New Hampshire elects only a Governor, Tennessee a Governor and railroad commissioner, and Pennsylvania a Governor and two other State officials. Minor State officers, or Justices of the Supreme Court, are to be voted for in Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Ohio, Iowa, Florida, North Carolina, Delaware, Washington and Montana. Congressman only are to be selected in Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky and New Jersey and delegates in Arizona, Hawaii, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Porto Rico.—Charlotte Observer.

A New York doctor just returned from Europe brings the news that Prof. Welch, of Johns Hopkins University, who is in Europe projecting, has discovered a serum which will prevent and cure all the ills that flesh is heir to. That is interesting, but what is most needed just now is a serum which will prevent or cure the habit of lying in the average Republican campaign orator.—Wilmington Star.

MEN WHO DELIVER MAIL.

Heart Tragedies That Line the Route of Letter Carriers.

"Tell you a story? Why, yes, I might tell a good many stories if that was in my line." The letter carrier blew a pearly wreath of smoke upward and becked the dead ash from his cigar, lays the Denver News. "Let me see. There's an old lady on my route down in Alabama who sits knitting the live-long day by the front room window. Every morning and afternoon when I whistle at the door of her next door neighbor she lays down her knitting and peers with a tired, eager face out of that window until I go by. She's got a boy somewhere out west. He doesn't write to her twice a year, yet twice each day the whole year through she sits there, with that anxious look, waiting, waiting, waiting. I feel a twitch at my own heart every time I pass by and see the look of expectancy fade into disappointment. Sometimes I'd give $50 to be able to stop and give her five lines from that good for nothing boy of hers for whom she's eating out her heart."

"That reminds me," said a younger man who heard the letter carrier's story, "of a pretty baby on my route in a Louisiana city. She's a dainty tot about four or maybe five years old. She has blue gray eyes like a wood violet that look a fellow straight to the heart. Some little girls can do that after they are older. This tot's mamma died six months ago, and for a month afterward she used to come tripping down the walk to meet me with a little white note in her hand, and, looking me to the heart out of those big trusting eyes, she would say, 'Mr. Postman, won't you please take this letter to my mamma in heaven? I used to take the dainty missive from the wee pink hand. I couldn't tell her how far away her mamma was. One day she came without a letter, and there was pain in the great, sweet eyes. 'Mr. Postman, baby wants a letter from mamma. Please, Mr. Postman, tell my mamma me wants some letters too.' And, boys, every day for a week I had to pass that baby with the pain in the gray blue eyes, and I wondered the angels did not find some way somehow to make her baby heart understand."

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

Water in which mignonette has been placed should be changed often, since it quickly becomes foul.

The best use to make of old bones is to break them up and bury them near the roots of fruit trees and grapevines.

By sowing nitrate of soda in small quantities in showery weather under trees a most beautiful verdure will be obtained.

It is not a good plan to fill an old orchard with young trees. The soil is too much exhausted by the growth of the former occupants.

Geraniums bloom most satisfactorily when grown in comparatively small pots and soil which is termed rich, but not rank with excessive manure.

Stir, spade, rake and pulverize soil thoroughly before planting or sowing. The importance of this work cannot be overestimated if you desire fine blossoms.

Geraniums that have been used for summer bloomers will not flower again until the late spring months. Plants for winter blooming should be grown especially for this purpose.

Care of Puppies.

Puppies after weaning will keep strong and healthy and will grow fast if fed only on fresh buttermilk and corn bread, with soup instead of the buttermilk twice a week, till they are five or six months old. Do not feed them sweet milk. Keep the puppies where they can get plenty of exercise. Do not crowd them. Arrange their kennels so that they can go in and out of their sleeping quarters. If fed in the same vessels, some dogs get more than their share of food and lose their manners also. Fasten a number of chains where they eat at such distances that no one can reach the other; then feed in individual pans. Give little medicine and plenty of exercise, and you will then have strong, healthy dogs. An hour's run every day in the year in the fields and woods, weather permitting, is essential to good health.

Get a True Focus.

A habit of looking at things from a distorted angle, of focusing the vision on things that depress and suggest unhappiness and misery, is a destroyer of happiness and success. A man who goes about with a funeral face, thinking "hard times," fearing "dull seasons," disaster, panic and failure wherever his interests center, is never a happy man, rarely a successful one.

Pessimism is a destructive force in men's lives, just as optimism is a constructive agency.—Success.

Immense.

"My!" exclaimed the old lady who was taking her first trolley ride. "I should think it would be mighty dangerous workin' on these cars all the time. Ain't you scared of the 'lectricity strikin' you?"

"No'm," he replied as he took her nickel and neglected to ring it up on the register. "You see, I'm not a good conductor."—Philadelphia Press.

The Worst Form.
Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers of indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. Jno. L. Wooten.

Do Good—It Pays.

A Chicago man has observed that, "Good deeds are better than real estate deeds—some of the latter are worthless. Act kindly and gently, show sympathy and lend a helping hand. You cannot possibly lose by it." Most men appreciate a kind word and encouragement more than substantial help. There are persons in this community who might truthfully say: "My good friend, cheer up. A few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will rid you of your cold, and there is no danger whatever from pneumonia when you use that medicine. It always cures. I know it for it has helped me out many a time." Sold at Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, N. C.; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville, N. C.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. It's attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquefies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures coughs, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." Jno. L. Wooten.

He Learned a Great Truth.

It is said of John Wesley that he once said to Mistress Wesley: "Why do you tell that child the same thing over and over again?" "John Wesley, because once telling is not enough." It is for the same reason that you are told again and again that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cures colds and grip; that it counteracts any tendency of these diseases to result in pneumonia, and that it is pleasant and safe to take. For sale at Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, N. C.; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville, N. C.

Ran a Ten Penny Nail Through His Head.

While opening a box, J. C. Mount, of Three Mile Bay, N. Y., ran a ten penny nail through the fleshy part of his hand. "I thought at once of all the pain and soreness this would cause me," he says, "and immediately applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and occasionally afterwards. To my surprise it removed all pain and soreness and the injured parts were soon healed." For sale at Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, N. C.; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville, N. C.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns, wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. Jno. L. Wooten.

For a pleasant physic take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Easy to take. Pleasant in effect. For sale at Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, N. C.; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville, N. C.

"AFTER FIVE YEARS"
By Frances Wilson
Copyright, 1901, by Frances Wilson

"We'll have tea, I think," she said in a meditative manner, leaning her cheek against two fingers of her left hand, "and perhaps some of those little cakes—the ones that are so tempting on the outside and all emptiness on the inside."
From her tone Lorrimer understood that she meant to intimate that the artistic unties demanded cakes of this description. He translated the order into man talk for the benefit of the obsequious waiter and then asked with the air of one who was used to being made a confidant of:
"What's the trouble? Because I've noticed that when you order tea it is an infallible sign of a disturbed conscience."

There was a flash of mirth in her eyes as they met his, and she clasped her hands on the edge of the table and leaned toward him, saying in a wheedling way:
"You're the greatest comfort to me. You're the only man I know, ever have known, save one, who always understands! With you it isn't necessary to dot one's i's and cross one's t's."
Having paid him this handsome compliment, she beamed at him across the narrow table and expectantly awaited the question which she knew was sure to follow.

"And the other fellow," he laughed, "the one who shares with me the proud distinction?"
"He's the trouble!" came the answer in a pathetic voice. Then with sudden vivacity: "Did you ever notice that there's something about the movements of the average waiter that reminds me of Spenserian writing? There's a flowing grace in the way that he removes a dish cover, a flourish in the way that he sets down a plate, which marks him as a human exponent of the Spenserian theory."
"Their order had arrived, and it was not until she had poured the tea that she spoke again. Then she burst out indignantly:
"Nobody but a dreamer would think of such a thing as continuing a romance from the point where he left it five years before. It's absurd, you know," she continued candidly. "A person's feelings change from year to year!"

"From season to season would seem to me a more accurate statement," put in her companion, with a suave smile, "unless, indeed, my experience has been unusual."
"You do understand," she smiled. "You certainly do! Now you would know, wouldn't you, that if a woman were fond of you, say when leg o' mutton sleeves were in fashion, she might—probably would—feel very different by the time that the coat sleeves were de rigueur?"
Her face wore the hopeful expression of a person who has at last found a perfectly rational human being who will see things as they are. Lorrimer drained his cup and set it down deliberately before he replied. Then he said:
"Don't you think you would better begin at the beginning? You're a trifle incoherent, you know."

"That's just it! There wasn't any beginning! And evidently he thinks that there hasn't been any end. It was all so elusive and intangible and so sad! He left so much to the imagination. I think that was a part of his fascination for me. There was a look in his eyes at times that wrung my heart, and from pity I drifted by degrees into something more."
"When we parted, I knew that we were sworn to an eternal friendship—sort of ashes of roses affair, you know—and in my own heart I was fully determined never to marry. I was going to be one of those sweet, sad, strong women that you read about."
She screwed her forehead into a knot and looked at him deprecatingly.
"What happened?" he inquired in a sympathetic tone. "You haven't married, is it true, but I have never connected you in my thoughts with a hidden sorrow."
The occupants of an adjoining table rose to go, and her attention was engrossed for a moment by a love of a gown. Then she came back to Lorrimer and her story.
"I suppose that what happened was just—other men!" she said ruefully. "The spirit was willing, but the flesh was weak."
"What in the name of goodness is troubling you then?" asked Lorrimer, thoroughly mystified.
"Why, I had a note from him this morning! He will be in town next Wednesday. His wife is dead!"
She composed her face to an expression of perfect propriety before making this announcement, though there was a faint twitching of her lips.
"Ah-h-h! I see. You fear that he is coming to claim his pound of flesh, and you're not of the same mind that you were when it was promised."
She nodded.
"It's not quite nice of me to tell you, but we're very old friends, and I'm really troubled. He's such a nice fellow—just a thoroughgoing idealist, and I know he thinks of me as cherishing his memory, and of course I do," she added quickly, "only not in just the way he thinks. He's had so much sadness in his life that I cannot bear to give him pain. I want him to see for himself that I am different now. I thought of fixing myself up like a perfect frump," she said anxiously, "to receive him and asking you to drop in at ten minutes past 5, not a minute later, so that there won't be any time for—" "Reminiscences?" prompted Lorrimer, and she assented.

The teapot was empty and the illu sory cakes had vanished. There was a flutter of departing guests all about them, and they rose and made their way homeward.
At precisely 5 o'clock the next day Miss Barry was greeting Mr. Grantham with an expression in her dark eyes which was not well planned, if indeed it was calculated to reconcile him to his fate.
"You've grown, actually grown, since we last met," he said, his handsome, serious face lighting up with pleasure and with a ring of boyish pleasure in his voice which suddenly made her feel very world worn, very callous and very unworthy. "Tell me about yourself—all that you've been doing and think ing," he went on cordially, but with no trace of embarrassment, "and then I'll retaliate in kind."
"I've simply been growing worldly and horrid, and I'm not at all the sort of person that I was five years ago. I've given up my ideals, those exquisite chimeras which seemed so near to us that summer. You see New York isn't the proper habitat for the soul."
Grantham's deep eyes were bent upon her half in doubt.
"I don't think you are quite fair to yourself," he began gently, and the look in his eyes made her wonder nervously how much longer it would be before Lorrimer appeared.
As if in response to her thought he was announced at that moment, and the three were soon chatting pleasantly. If Mr. Grantham felt any annoyance at the presence of a third party, there was no trace of it in his manner. His eyes rested upon Miss Barry with a look which struck Lorrimer as being of the sort that one gives to an admired but utterly unattainable object; he looked at her as one might look at some beautiful ideal to which he had ceased to aspire.
He also noticed that Miss Barry, with feminine inconsistency, had evidently repented of her determination to "look like a frump." There was something extremely up to date in the way that the dull pink broadcloth swirled around her slender figure, and her dark hair seemed to shine and ripple more ex quisitely than usual. Lorrimer decided to seize the first opportunity that presented to him:
And, oh, I am glad that moment had been cheered by sight of me!
It was not until Mr. Grantham rose to go that he said:
"You know perhaps of the death of my twin sister, Mrs. Raymond? She died in Rome six months ago. It was a terrible shock to Mrs. Grantham."
There was a queer little inarticulate exclamation which seemed to come from Miss Barry's lips, while a shade of astonishment flashed across Lorri mer's face. The speaker looked from one to the other in a puzzled way and then continued:
"Mrs. Grantham was with her and will return on the Etruria next week. I want you to meet her, Miss Barry, and see our boys." His face was shining with pride. "I know you will love them."
Miss Barry murmured the usual com monplaces and then added maliciously, with a defiant look straight at Lorri mer:
"I was about to ask for Mrs. Grantham when Mr. Lorrimer joined us. I hope she is very well?"
Left alone, she and Lorrimer looked at each other in a nonplussed manner for a moment. Then they both burst into peals of laughter.
She finally crossed the room and made a search in the small desk which stood in the alcove and came back, with her eyes bent upon the note in her hand. Sitting down beside Lorrimer, she held it out to him, looking rather foolish.
"It doesn't say that his wife is dead, but wouldn't you think so from the wording and—from the other cir cumstances?" she pleaded. Then de votely: "Goodness! I'm glad I wore the pink broadcloth!"
"So am I, dear," replied Lorrimer, and then he went on to say— But it would take too long to tell that.

Too Tight a Squeeze.
John Fiske, the historian, was a man of enormous stature, and extremely sensitive about any reference to his unusual size. On one occasion, when he was visiting a friend at his home in a beautiful town in Connecticut, the hostess and her daughter invited Mr. Fiske to drive with them one morning. The road is a picturesque one, which winds along the river at the foot of the mountains. At one point the hostess suggested that the party alight and walk a short distance through the field to get a particularly attractive view. Around this field was a high fence with no opening but a narrow stile. The ladies passed through and turned to wait for their guest. For a moment he contemplated the opening; to squeeze through was impossible, to climb over was equally impracticable. Finally his deep base voice broke the silence: "Ladies, I think we would better continue our drive."

A Feat of Swordsmanship.
Napoleon, it is said, one day met an old one armed soldier and asked him where he lost his arm.
"Sire, at Austerlitz."
"And were you not decorated?"
"No, sire."
"Then here is my own cross for you. I make you chevalier."
"Your majesty makes me chevalier because I have lost one arm. What would your majesty have done had I lost both?"
"Oh, in that case I should have made you officer of the Legion."
Whereupon the soldier immediately drew his sword and cut off his other arm.

Don't Treat Symptoms
Go after the cause. Stimulants and cathartics will never cure indigestion. They may temporarily relieve the system but the next meal clogs it again. The food should be digested. The nourishment—health—strength it contains should be appropriated—absorbed by the system.

Children Thrive on Kodol
purifies, cleanses, strengthens and sweetens the stomach. This new discovery digests all classes of food and assists the stomach and digestive organs in assimilating and transforming it into the kind of nourishment that is taken up by the blood and fed to the tissues throughout the various organs of the body. Kodol cures indigestion and dyspepsia, thus removing the cause of all stomach troubles. Kodol gives such strength to the body that it is invaluable in all wasting diseases.
"I wish to thank you for what Kodol has done for me," writes Clifton Gorton, Collett, Ind. "It cured me of dyspepsia after everything else had failed. When I tried Kodol it helped me right away. I cheerfully recommend it."

The Weather.

For North Carolina: Fair tonight and Friday, with frost tonight in exposed places, slowly rising temperature.

Mr. C. W. Tyler, representative of the New York Sun, is at The Benbow for a few days for the purpose of giving Greensboro a "write up" in the Sun, as a typical industrial Southern center. It is interesting to relate how it is that Mr. Tyler is here. He left New York under orders from his paper to visit the industrial points of the South and his paper told him to cover in his itinerary the cities of Richmond, Charlotte, Spartanburg, Knoxville, Augusta and Birmingham. Mr. Tyler says in Richmond he kept hearing about Greensboro. He went to Charlotte and in that stirring center was again cited to Greensboro; at Asheville he heard Greensboro; going on to Knoxville he butted up against Greensboro on all sides; again he says he found something about Greensboro in all the papers. "Down South" he simply got off the perch, wired his paper that he would have to include three North Carolina cities in his route, Charlotte, Asheville and Greensboro, and struck a bee line from Knoxville here, where he arrived yesterday. He passed through here two weeks ago but only knew it was on the map. Tyler declares that he is convinced that if Greensboro isn't the whole map, it will be some day.—Greensboro Record.

China and Glassware Department.

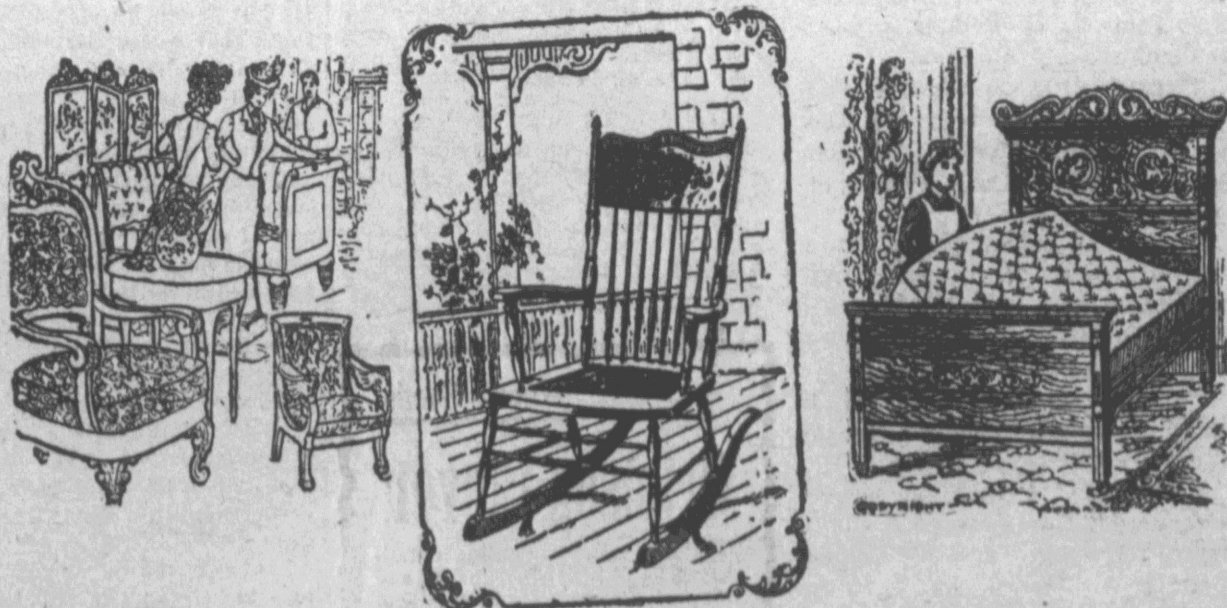

We have no competitor worthy the name in this department. We have the choicest line of goods that we can get. The prices are right. In Fancy China we are at the top notch. The most beautiful goods you ever saw. We are adding to this line every day, and have a superb stock for you to select from. Do not fail to see our line of Cut Glass and Silverware.

A Strike Against Coal.

Coal can not be bought, but you can buy one of our Oil Heaters, or Dawn Wood Heaters, which we guarantee will give you a hot time this winter whether you have cold or coal. All of our goods are sold on this plan: A little margin on everything—a large one on nothing. You are very fortunate if you can afford to buy coal at present prices, but then you are fortunate anyway, because you can buy one of our Oil or wood Stoves and laugh at the coal strike.

FURNITURE DEPARTMENT.

It would take this entire paper to tell you what we have in this department, so we name only a few articles. Dining tables and chairs, bedsteads, bureaus, rockers, center tables, safes, washstands, sideboards, chiffoniers, etc. Be sure to see our white enameled iron beds. They are beauties. We have 450 square feet of floor space devoted to this department. All we have to say is, come in and take a look.
