Washington Letter

Special Correspondence from the Capital of the Nation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31, 1902.

As the election approaches democratic confidence increases and the democratic politicians who flit through Washington every day are elated with hope of success. Chairman Griggs said today, "I have no doubt of the election of a democratic House. Three months ago it looked like plain sailing for the republicans. Every week since the campaign opened, however, democratic faith has strengthened and republican faith has weakened. The republican managers claim the House but by a very narrow margin, indeed, and many intelligent republicans admit doubt as to the result. The democrats are wide awake and alert. The republicans are apathetic and inert, this according to the statements of their own campaigners. Gerrymandering by republican legislatures, such as has never been seen before, promises to gain no advantage for that party but on the other hand will help our cause."

The greatest satisfaction is expressed at democratic headquarters that the Ohio legislature has completed its work in time for the voters of that state to appreciate how thoroughly the interests of the majority of the people have been sacrificed by Senator Hanna and the republican bosses to bossism. It is said that the new code will cost the Ohio republicans thousands of votes. In order to continue undisturbed the supremacy of George B. Cox, the republican boss of Cincinnati, and the Supremacy of Hanna in Cleveland, the interests of every small town in the state have been sacrificed and large and unwarranted expense has been forced upon them. It is an example of Hannaism which ought to last the Ohio republicans for many years.

In New York, Mr. Hill has unearthed some very unsavory facts in regard to Gov. Odell, whereby it is shown that the Governor is directly interested in a concern which is furnishing most of the supplies to state institutions and despite Mr. Odell's efforts to show that he merely held stock as security the people persist in seeing through the deal and are condemning it in round terms.

From Omaha comes a startling story of forgery. It is alleged that Representative Mercer has been reprinting pages of the Congressional Record after altering the proceedings to suit his own ends and has been sending them out under his frank. It is stated that Mercer is sending out an alleged excerpt of the Record which represents that he voted for a bill providing for government control of public utility corporations, which bill was never discussed in the House but was referred to the Committee on Judiciary and there killed by the republican majority. As Mr. Mercer is known to be a particular friend of the Secretary of Agriculture his alleged conduct reflects seriously on Mr. Wilson and to some extent on the administration proper.

"Something Good for the Soul."

Our telephone rang Thursday night, and upon answering there came an invitation to "listen to something good for the soul." We listened, and soon heard strains of music, sweet and delightful. It was the Tar Heel Band, at Winterville, giving THE REFLECTOR a serenade by telephone.

Winterville Department.

Rev. W. E. Cox, of Greenville, spent Wednesday in town.

Mr. Josephus Cox brought some fine potatoes down town yesterday morning. One weighed 2 pounds and 13 ounces. All of them averaged over 2 pounds each. W. B. Wingate must have heard of it for before night he came up stating that his boys were digging and had found one that weighed 4 1/2 pounds. We told him "he could have the dog."

Miss Cora Carroll has charge of the public school which opened Monday.

E. A. Baldree returned from the State fair Thursday night and reports a fine time.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hunsucker spent Wednesday afternoon in Greenville shopping.

A fresh car load of cotton seed hulls just received by G. A. Kittrell.

The three rural free delivery routes from this place go into effect today.

No time to write:—There is lots we wish to tell our friends, but being completely snowed under with orders we have no time to do so this week. Realizing that our specialties are just what the trade wants we have been endeavoring to keep them prominently in the front for the past few weeks. The result has been far beyond our expectations. There is nothing like having what the people want and letting them know it. You will keep hearing from us in the future whenever we can catch time to scribble a few lines. Come to see us.—A. G. Cox Mfg. Co.

Believing that this place has had all the serenading that will be healthy for it for some time to come and still being somewhat desirous to work up a rep, our Tar Heel Brass Band friends, more-over reading in THE REFLECTOR about the man who bought the best cow bell by hearing it rung over the phone, were struck with the idea and forthwith decided that friends in Ayden and Greenville might be able to judge a good article in the way of band music in the same way. The experiment has proven a success and they have more engagements to play by phone than they will probably be able to fill for some time to come.

Fine Potatoes.

W. T. Lee says that even if he does chop his finger in cutting off a chicken's head, he can raise Irish potatoes just the same. Thursday he brought THE REFLECTOR a specimen sack of his fall crop that were very fine and immense in size.

Pressing Business?

Unless your business is very pressing this would be a splendid time for you to drop in, just to look over our seasonable apparel for fall and winter wear. We'd be disappointed if we couldn't truthfully say that our Suits and Overcoats are "better than ever," it's a sign that we are keeping in front each season by getting new ideas and improving old ones.

This fall we say "better than ever" with unusual emphasis. We shall be pleased to have you see our display, whether you come to buy or merely to look; it's worth seeing. Your welcome to try on as many garments as you please.

The new Fall Haberdashery and the new Hats are ready. There is something new at this store almost every day.

The King Clothier.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1902.

Read your ticket carefully before you vote Tuesday.

There is plenty room at the top, but the rent is pretty high.

If your man isn't elected it won't be your fault--will it?

If you should happen to forget to vote Tuesday that majority will be one less.

After the election is over and your candidate is where you want him, think a few on streets and lights.

My boy, don't think that because a woman has laid down her arms she is going to take off her war-paint.

From different parts the country there are indications that the Democrats will gain a number of Congressmen in the election next Tuesday.

Trouble has come again among the miners near Hazelton, Pa. At seven collieries a new strike is on. The coal matter does not look as near settled as it did some days ago.

The lots in the cemetery belonging to the town have been cleaned up and put in good shape. Other owners of lots in the cemetery might take the hint if they have not already done so.

The Christian Missionary Convention held at Wilson this week was largely attended and the sessions were interesting and profitable. Judge H. G. Connor delivered the address of welcome to the convention and it was pronounced a gem.

Let every man who has registered go to the polls and vote Tuesday. Do not think it is going to be a one-sided election and become indifferent to the result. You do not know what may turn up nor how much may depend on a vote.

Lenoir county will have a primary on election day to see who that county favors for United States Senator. An extra ballot box will be placed at each polling place in which to deposit the votes for Senator. The primary will be under the supervision of the county executive committee.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.

Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, expose the nerves of the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures the catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach. Jno. L. Sick Made Well, Weak Made Strong.

Marvelous Elixir of Life Discovered by Famous Doctor-Scientist That Cures Every Known Ailment.

Wonderful Cures Are Effected That Seem Like Miracles Performed—The Secret of Long Life of Olden Times Revived.

The Remedy Is Free To All Who Send Name and Address.

After years of patient study, and delving into the dusty record of the past, as well as following modern experiments in the realms of medical science, Dr. James W. Kidd, 2858 Baltes Building, Fort Wayne, Ind., makes the startling announcement that he has surely discovered the exilril life. That he is able with the aid of a mysterious compound, known only to himself, produced as a result of the years he has spent in searching for this precious life giving boon, to cure any and every disease that is known to the human body. There is no doubt of the doctor's earnestness in making his claim and the remarkable cures that he is daily effecting seems to bear him out very strongly. His theory which he advances is one of reason and based on sound experience in a medical practice of many years. It costs nothing to try his remarkable "Elixir of Life," as he calls it, for he sends it free, to anyone who is a sufferer, in sufficient quantities to convince of its ability to cure, so there is absolutely no risk to run. Some of the cures cited are very remarkable, and but for reliable witnesses would hardly be credited. The lame have thrown away crutches and walked about after two or three trials of the remedy. The sick, given up by home doctors, have been restored to their families and friends in perfect health. Rheumatism, neuralgia, stomach, heart, liver, kidney, blood and skin diseases and bladder troubles disappear as by magic. Headaches, backaches, nervousness, fevers, consumption, coughs, colds, asthma, catarrh, bronchitis and all affections of the throat, lungs or any vital organs are easily overcome in a space of time that is simply marvelous.

Partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, dropsy, gout, scrofula and piles are quickly and permanently removed. It purifies the entire system, blood and tissues, restores normal nerve power, circulation and a state of perfect health is produced at once. To the doctor all systems are alike and equally affected by this great "Elixir of Life." Send for the remedy today. It is free to every sufferer. State what you want to be cured of and the sure remedy for it will be sent you free by return mail.

A Georgia solon has struck on a plan to get rid of some of the ex-convicts in that state. He will introduce a bill allowing immigration agents the privilege without taxation, for soliciting ex-convicts to leave the state.

"I got soaked by rain," says Gertrude E. Fenner, Munce, Ind., "and contracted a severe cough and cold. I failed rapidly; lost 48 pounds. My druggist recommended One Minute Cough Cure. The first bottle brought relief; several cured me. I am back to my old weight, 148 pounds. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the phlegm, relieves the cough at once, draws out inflammation, cures croup. An ideal remedy for children. Jno. L. Wooten.

Wederly—"What makes you think the widow who just moved in next door is childless?" Mrs. Wederly—"I was talking to her across the back fence today, and she told me how I ought to raise my little girl."

Stepped Against A Hot Stove.

A child of Mrs. Geo. T. Benson, when getting his usual Saturday night bath, stepped back against a hot stove which burned him severely. The child was in great agony and his mother could do nothing to pacify him. Remembering that she had a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house, she thought she would try it. In less than half an hour after applying it the child was quiet and asleep, and in less than two weeks was well. Mrs. Benson is a well known resident of Kellar, Va. Pain balm is an antiseptic liniment and especially valuable for burns, cuts, bruises and sprains. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Cured of Piles After 40 Years.

Mr. C. Haney, of Geneva, Ohio, had the piles for 40 years. Doctors and dollars could do him no lasting good. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured him permanently. Look for the name DeWitt on the package; all others are cheap, worthless counterfeits. Jno. L. Wooten.

The Best Remedy For Croup.

[From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.] This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

When you guess wrong it is crazy irresponsibility; when you guess right it is sound judgment.

BY FATE OR CHANCE?

By HELEN M. QUINN

Copyright, 1901, by H. M. Quinn

Saturday afternoon, and the great publishing house was almost deserted. In one of the offices a man and a woman were at work, the former busily writing and the latter reading wearily through a slowly diminishing pile of MSS.

The woman sighed. The man looked up at her.

"Tired, Miss King?"

"Tired! That does not express it, and it does seem that I am accomplishing very little today."

"Can I be of assistance? I am almost through."

"Well, there is one thing I would like to have you do when you can spare time. I have two stories here on which I should like to have your opinion."

"You think they are good?"

"Yes, but I should like to know whether your judgment agrees with mine. This 'Reason and Romance,' I think, shows decided genius, and this, 'For Auld Lang Syne,' seems to me to be rather a clever little story, but as it is written by a very dear friend of mine perhaps I am partial. Will you give me your unbiased opinion?"

He crossed the room and took the MSS. from her hand. A few minutes later she closed her desk and put on her hat.

"I am going home," she said as she paused at the door. "If Mrs. White should come in, would you mind asking her to telephone me from here?"

"It will be a pleasure, Miss King."

When she had gone, he laid down his pen, put away his papers in a methodical way, lighted a cigar and settled himself comfortably back in his chair. The first story he took up was "Reason and Romance." It was short, and he read it through quickly.

"Umph! Well, yes, I suppose there is genius in it," he mused, "but it certainly wants cultivation."

He picked up the other and at first glanced over it somewhat carelessly, then suddenly a few lines brought back his wandering thoughts. He turned the pages to look at the author's name.

"Lillian Watson!" he said thoughtfully. "Well, this is a coincidence!"

He read a few pages further.

"It is surely more than a coincidence, because no one but Bessie could have written this, no matter what the signature. Why, I remember this scene as if it were yesterday. We were only children then, to be sure, but there are things one never forgets, and she has remembered our very words."

Once more he turned to the sheets in his hand, but soon they were laid on the desk, and he sat with his forehead resting on his palm and his deep gray eyes looked wearily back through the years.

How vividly the little story brought it all back to him—the two childish playmates of long ago, the scrapes they fell into and out of together, the boy and girl who were schoolmates and shared each other's sorrows and joys and were loyal comrades, then the realization that this youthful companionship had developed into the passionate love of man and woman and the deep happiness this awakening had brought to both of them! How well he remembered his ardent wooing and her sweet surrender!

Then the gray eyes grew troubled as he thought of the "little rift within the lute" and the final quarrel and parting brought about by a woman's pride and a man's stubbornness.

That was five years ago, but it seemed as if he had just awakened from a long dream. He had tried so hard to forget and until today almost had convinced himself that he was succeeding, but somehow all the old hopes crowded into his heart, and he realized that they were mastering him in spite of himself.

"I cannot forget," he said. "I must see her again and win her forgiveness. She can not have forgotten the old days, or she would not have written this."

There came to him a great longing to hear her voice, to feel her hand, soft and cool, on his forehead, as she used to lay it long ago when he was tired or discouraged and came to her for sympathy.

He was roused from his reverie by the entrance of the office boy bearing a card.

"Lady for Miss King, sir!"

"Bring her in here," he said, without glancing at the card which the boy laid on his desk. He took it for granted that the lady was Mrs. White.

Was it fate? Was it chance? Who knows?

In a moment he heard the office boy return, and he could hear the faint rustle of a woman's skirt.

The shadows had gathered in the office, and the light was somewhat dim. He looked up and saw her standing there in the doorway in her simple white dress and blue ribbons, the sweet, girlish face just a trifle more serious perhaps than of old, but otherwise unchanged.

He jumped to his feet and came forward, but his back was to the light, and she did not have a good view of his face.

"Has Miss King gone?" she asked in a low voice, and the old tones thrilled his very soul.

Without answering her question, he held out both hands.

"Bess!"

For a moment the woman's self possession left her; her lips were colorless, and the roses in her cheeks turned from red to white. That deep, strong voice then had power to move her after five long years. It was only for a moment, however. She recovered and held out her hand.

"Why, Bert," she said, and her voice was almost natural, "this is a pleasant surprise."

Her tone of simple friendliness staggered him, for he had been quick to note the effect his greeting had on her, but she continued:

"When did you come east?"

"Six months ago. But tell me about yourself. Are you living in New York?"

"Oh, no! I am only visiting here. My home is still in Omaha, and I am going back tomorrow. I have been here three whole weeks, and I shall be so glad to get back."

"Is she perfectly indifferent?" he asked himself. "How can she be so matter of fact after all that has passed between us?"

Once he had held her in his arms, kissed her forehead and her lips, and now he did not dare to even touch her hand. Could he let her go like this?

"Do you know," he continued desperately, "I have been thinking of you all afternoon?"

"Of me?" she questioned in a surprised tone.

"Yes; I have been reading your story, and— He came closer to her, and his gray eyes searched hers in silence. How well she remembered that look—the same look that in the old days had seemed to read her very soul! His eyes told her now, as they did then, all that he would say, much that her face flushed crimson. He had been reading her story into which she had put so much of the long ago—their long ago. What had it told him?

"What do you think of it?" she asked as carelessly as she could. "Harry makes fun of my writing and says it is—"

"Harry?" he interrupted, his face paling.

"Yes; my husband. You remember Harry Rogers?"

And then he showed of what he was made. "Yes," he answered quietly, "but I did not know you were married."

"Why, I have been married for three years. If you ever come to Omaha you will come and see us, won't you? Harry would be glad to renew old associations, and I want you to see my little boy. We call him—Bert!"

The sweet voice trembled and hesitated ever so slightly, and then she went on with a brave little smile. "We call him—Bert!" The last word was said almost in a whisper, and just for one instant her little gloved hand rested on his, and he noticed that her lips trembled. He looked earnestly into the blue eyes.

"I shall try to come some time," he said gently as he held her hand for a moment at parting. "Goodby! God bless and keep you, little woman!" The old name slipped from his lips almost unawares.

She smiled and went out into the gathering dusk.

"I have been dreaming," he said to himself an hour later as he rose, with a shiver, and brushed his hand quickly across his eyes. "I have been dreaming, and this is the awakening. She called her baby Bert. I wonder— Ah, well, women are queer!" But there was a look of weary longing in the gray eyes as he thought of the hurrying crowds on Broadway.

A week later a woman knelt by a tiny cot and stroked a baby's golden curls. "Bert, Bert!" she whispered. "God bless you, dear, and make you as happy as you deserve." Something glistened on the baby's cheek. Could it have been a tear? Perhaps she prayed for her boy and perhaps— Yes, women are queer.

Eating in Japan.

Overeating is not a sin which one can lay at the door of the dainty little almond eyed flower of Japan. She begins the day by eating when she wakes a couple of little green plums pickled in vinegar and rolled in sugar. This almost traditional breakfast of Japan is completed by a cup of tea. The dinner, which is brought in on a red lacquer tray, is the drollest affair. The viands are in tiny cups with covers, and among them are such dainties as a hashed sparrow, a stuffed prawn, a salt sweetmeat, seaweed with sauce and a sugared chili. After these dishes, which are mere "frills," the substantial part of the meal is begun. A wooden bowl bound with copper is brought in filled to the brim with rice plainly boiled in water. From this the flower of Japan fills her bowl, a capacious one, and, having mixed it with a black sauce flavored with fish, she then lifts it to her mouth and crams it down with the aid of her chopsticks. Thus ends her dinner.

Refused to Sell a Book.

Some of these secondhand booksellers or sellers of secondhand books are as independent as a fool farmer on a two acre patch of ground. Desiring to secure a certain book long out of print, I tracked a copy to a lair in a street not far from the postoffice. "How much?" I asked. "I don't want to sell it," said the dealer. "But I must have it." "I must have it myself." "What's it worth?" "More than you would care to give." "Five dollars?" "No, sir!" "It sold for $2 a few years ago." "Well, I won't sell it at any price." "I'll give you $10." "I won't sell it." "Would you take $100?" "No, sir! Nor $200 nor $500. It's worth as much to me as to any one. I need it in my business." I have my opinion of a merchant who has things to sell and won't sell.—New York Press.

Another Biblical Dispute.

"Do devil is ink a roarin' lion," said Br'er Williams.

"No, he ain't," said Brother Dickey; "kase of he wuz dey ain't a sinner among you what wouldn't climb a tree w'en you heard him comin'!"—Atlanta Constitution.

MRS. HELENA BLAU,
Young Milwaukee Society Woman.

THEN thousand cured women have written to tell how Wine of Cardui bestows the blessing of health on every woman who takes it, rich and poor alike. Mrs. Helena Blau, No. 123 Seventh Street, Milwaukee, Wis., is one of the young women whom Wine of Cardui has rescued from a life of suffering. She writes:

"Wine of Cardui is certainly 'women's best friend' and I am pleased to give my experience with it. A few months ago I caught a severe cold, having been out in inclement weather, which settled all over me, particularly in the abdomen. I was in almost constant pain. I consulted a physician and took his medicine for a month and without any relief. I then decided I would try your medicine and it was a lucky day for me when I did so. I noticed a change in a few days and felt encouraged to continue taking Wine of Cardui, and my patience was rewarded, for in two weeks my pains had left me and I felt like a new woman."

chance to build up the wasted and diseased tissue. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow and Nature, when relieved of the drains or of the poisons in the system, makes the functional organs strong and healthy again.

Any woman who is silently suffering untold pains because she is too sensitive to undergo a physician's examination and treatment can find no excuse for not securing relief when Wine of Cardui is offered to her. There is no publicity to deter her. She can take Wine of Cardui in the privacy of her home, with as much assurance of a final cure as though a dozen doctors recommended it. Many physicians do recommend Wine of Cardui to their patients.

Why not get a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today?
