NOW IS THE TIME

When hundreds of men want their winter suits and overcoats in a hurry and this week will be a busy one with us. If you would prefer to shop quietly and take your time in making selections, we should advise you to come in at once, tomorrow for instance, before the rush is on, for you can then have plenty of time to examine the details of the garments. There's plenty to see here, too. Everything in Suits, from a substantial business Sack to well evening clothes—from a jaunty short Overcoat to a long, heavy Ulster, and each made in every fabric that is fashionable for this season.

Men's Suits, $8 to $20
Overcoats, $10 to $25

We have some in each at... $12 special values which we think you ought to see.

Extra Special for the Little Boys, aged 3 to ten years. A fine line of Norfolk and Russian Blouse Suits, made from dependable fabrics and men of them richly trimmed. These are worth $5, but our price is only $3.25

Thinking of your Winter Hat? We thought of it months ago and we have a lot of them; will save you money if you buy here.

We have just received some new WINTER NECKWEAR, which will interest you at 50c.

Ricks & Wilkinson

Washington Letter

Special Correspondence from the Capital of the Nation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 7, 1902.

Chairman Griggs last night conceded the defeat of the democrats and the election of a republican House. The figures, as he gave them, were 183 democrats positively elected, 6 doubtful and 194 republican. Even counting the republican majority at 26, the estimate made by chairman Babcock it will be seen that the democrats have secured their half of the 29 new members elected because of increased apportionment and have reduced the republican majority from 47 to 26. It is confidently believed that there were more democratic votes polled in New York state than there were republicans. All during the early part of the evening of election day the returns indicated that Coler was elected Governor of New York and it was then noticed, by the shrewd watchers, that returns suddenly ceased to be received from up state. Later, according to the claims of the democrats in Washington, the up state republicans fixed the Odell majority at the figures necessary to carry the state. They are in control of all the election machinery in the state and it would have been a very simple matter for them to alter the tally sheets sufficiently to pull Odell through. However the republicans have won this time and there is nothing to do but watch and wait for 1904.

Considerable criticism of the renovation of the White House, which has been so completely superintended by the President, is beginning to be heard. The original specifications provided for a total expense of $205,000. It now transpires that an expense of $540,000 has been incurred. And the office building of the president is not fireproof and is not even commodious. It is unsightly and so little care was exercised in its supervision that when practically complete it was discovered that no place had been left for the installation of a heating plant. That has now been remedied but in a way that has given rise to fear that the building may not meet with the approval of the underwriters. It was claimed that the White House was to be "renovated" and that none of its historical features were to be interfered with. As a matter of fact one entire wall has been torn out. The staircase down which Presidents and their parties have come for many years on the occasion of their state receptions has been removed. A great window in the west end has been converted into a fireplace and the exterior of the building is to be materially changed. The renovation which is almost a rebuilding will last for many months more and when completed will have been on a scale undreamed of by the Congress which made the first authorization. In the oval library, where President Johnson first held his Cabinet meetings, is a tablet which incorrectly states that Grant was the first to hold cabinet meetings there. The mosaic floor which President Harrison caused to be put in the front corridor, and which contained a spread eagle, has been removed and replaced with white marble, thus destroying the one most prominent souvenir of the Harrison administration.

THE STATE PRESS

News and Opinions.

Parties from Whiteville who were in the city yesterday report a horrible discovery at Vineland on Monday. In the road near Soul's swamp, about 200 yards from Vineland, the nude body of a white infant was found in a tow sack. The hogs had torn open the sack and had devoured the head and shoulders of the child.

The community was greatly stirred up over this inhuman act of somebody but there is no clue to the perpetrator of the deed. It is not known whether the child was left alive in the sack, but under any circumstances it was a foul crime and it ought to be sifted to the bottom.—Wilmington Messenger.

The daughter of W. N. Critcher and Carey Parham in Vance county eloped to wed. When Mr. Critcher found out the object of their departure he started in pursuit and drove his horse to death in his effort to overtake them. While he was trying to secure another horse the young people got away and are probably married by now.—Tarboro Southerner.

It strikes us that the acme of sissyness has been attained by the Marquis of Anglesey who trails various perfumes behind his automobile and at the same time dresses himself to match the color of the particular flower represented in the perfume of any given day.—Winston Sentinel.

Editor's Announcement of Marriage.

There is but one more week of singled blessedness for the editor of this paper. A young woman has consented to take our name and share with us the burdens and joys of life. She is Miss Elsie Kitzmiller, youngest daughter of Mrs. Lavina Kitzmiller. Her father was Frank Kitzmiller, a veteran of the civil war, who died one year ago. The time set for the ceremony is next Wednesday at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of Mrs. Kitzmiller. A number of friends have been invited—but not nearly all. The house would not hold one third of all those "we" should have been pleased to see present. (This is not the editorial we—"we" having assumed a new significance.) But there will be enough, we hope, to fill the house and see that the job is well done. There will be no attendants. "We" will be the whole show. There will be no tears—every one will be glad to see us (editorial us) finally married. This will be a happy, handsome, couple, the handsomeness being contributed by the other half. No one's life is complete who lives alone. No, of course not. To develop into a surly, crabbed, soul shriveled old bachelor, or dwindle away an old maid full of vinegar and fool notions—what unhappier fate! To form a complete and useful life marriage is a necessity as well as a luxury. Yet these considerations are mere side issues. The first consideration is to find one you can love, respect, admire. Love is apart from logic. It is capricious. It frowns upon wealth tramples over difference of age, breaks down any established rules of precedence and astounds the cool systematic. We are it. Time passes slowly.—Highland, Pa., Vidette.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

Large Attendance at Organization.

Notwithstanding the rainy, disagreeable weather, there was a large attendance of the teachers of the county here today to take part in the organization of a Teachers' Association. It speaks well for the teachers of the county and shows their interest in the work in which they are engaged.

The meeting was called to order by Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, County Superintendent, who said the time had come when Pitt county could no longer afford to be without an organization of this kind, and that he did not believe any county in the State could have an organization of teachers that would be a greater power for good than this. He expressed pleasure at seeing so many present.

Rev. H. M. Eure conducted devotional exercises.

A committee was appointed to retire and recommend officers of the association. While the committee was out Prof. Manning, of Ayden, introduced ex-Governor Jarvis who made a short address to the teachers. He spoke of the high responsibility resting upon the teachers, and referred to their profession as of equal importance and influence with the pulpit and press. He also spoke of the power it would give the teachers in their work to be thoroughly organized and this association was an important step.

The committee on officers made the following report which was adopted:

President—G. E. Lineberry, of Winterville.

1st Vice Pres.—D. W. Arnold, of Farmville.

Secretary—Miss Mattie Grimes, of Bethel.

Asst. Secretary—Miss Mary J. Whitehurst, of Oakly.

Treasurer—Miss Bettie Tyson, of Greenville.

Committee on Constitution and By-Laws—T. E. Peaden, F. C. Nye, W. C. Vincent; Miss Leroy Mooring, Miss Mary L. Tucker, Miss Mary P. Brame.

Executive Committee—A. J. Manning, W. F. Evans, J. W. Sherrill, Miss Addie Johnston, Miss Delia Smith, Miss Mollie Bryan.

Program Committee—W. H.

Ragsdale, G. W. Prescott, Miss Bertha Dawson, Miss Laura Cox, Miss Annie Perkins, Miss Annie L. Ferrall.

Entertainment Committee—W. F. Harding, Mrs. A. Blow, Mrs. Willie Hughes, Miss Apple Smith, Miss Myrtle Wilson, Miss Bessie Harding, Miss Minnie Quinn.

At the conclusion of the organization the program for the meeting as previously published in THE REFLECTOR, was taken up. The paper read were all excellent and the discussions interesting.

This afternoon the gold medal offered by Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes, was presented by F. C. Harding to Miss Ethel May Carroll, and the gold pen offered by A. G. Cox, Chairman Board of Education, was presented by J. L. Fleming to Miss Mary Bynum. These prizes were for the best and second best essays on North Carolina history.

THE REFLECTOR congratulates the teachers on the splendid beginning their association has made. There will be regular monthly meetings.

Prohibition in Cumberland.

Six years ago every saloon in Cumberland county was closed and a dispensary was established in Fayetteville. Four years ago there was a big fight in the Legislature over a bill to abolish the dispensary and restore license. It was defeated. Two years ago, under the leadership of Senator James D. McNeill, a determined effort was made to abolish the dispensary. The House defeated the bill. Later Mr. McKeithan introduced a bill to establish prohibition in Cumberland, coupled with a proposition that in November, 1902, the voters of Cumberland should vote "Prohibition" or "License." Most of the Prohibitionists and advocates of dispensary fought the bill, mainly because they thought it would result in restoring license at the election.

Prohibition went into effect in July, 1901. It has worked so well that at the election on Tuesday, the people, by an overwhelming majority, voted to continue Cumberland a dry county. The vote was: Prohibition 1,931; License 612, a majority of 1,319.

This is the most significant election held in North Carolina this year. The sentiment against the saloon has been steadily growing in North Carolina. Prohibition has been successful in Cumberland county, because it embraced the whole county, because public sentiment was behind it, and because the officers sought to enforce the law. There needs only an anti-jug amendment to the law in Cumberland to make its violation comparatively infrequent.

Prohibition or a dispensary regulation prevail in most of the counties of North Carolina, and the number of counties abolishing the saloon will steadily increase. The result in Cumberland will give a great impetus to saloon restriction in other counties.—Raleigh News and Observer.

The Best Equipment for a Boy.

It is Mr. Carnegie's opinion that the world would advance much faster and its people would be much better off if it could be so arranged that no man should be left anything more substantial than a sound body, a healthy mind and a good education. In this, most thinking men will agree with him. No one can estimate even remotely the harm that was done by rich and indulgent parents who require nothing of their children in the way of work and who provide them with unlimited opportunities for enjoyment and mischief.

Mr. Carnegie puts the case very convincingly, when he asks us to consider what the human being would say to an accomplished old deer hound that act as so many men act. He asks us to imagine this deer-hound corraling a large herd of the choicest deer in the forest, and then saying in effect to his puppies:

"Now, boys, sail in and help yourselves. I will do the hunting for you. All you need to do is to eat."

A mangy lot of dogs that old deer hound would raise, says Mr. Carnegie. And the prospects for mange among human puppies raised under similar circumstances he considers equally dangerous.—Selected.

The many readers of the Watch Tower will regret to hear that the Rev. J. D. Waters, who purchased the paper some months ago, and has been editing it ever since, is moving the plant to LaGrange, from which point it will be issued under contract by Rev. D. H. Petree. For twenty years or more the Watch Tower has been one of the fixtures in the newspapers of Washington, and has secured its largest patronage from this and adjoining counties, and its moving away is like the parting with an old and esteemed friend. Our only wish is, may increasing patronage be its lot in its new home and a larger field of usefulness.—Washington Gazette.

Stepped Against a Hot Stove.

A child of Mrs. Geo. T. Benson, when getting his usual Saturday night bath, stepped back against a hot stove which burned him severely. The child was in great agony and his mother could do nothing to pacify him. Remembering that she had a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house, she thought she would try it. In less than half an hour after applying it the child was quiet and asleep, and in less than two weeks was well. Mrs. Benson is a well known resident of Kellar, Va. Pain balm is an antiseptic liniment and especially valuable for burns, cuts, bruises and sprains. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

The Best Remedy For Croup.

[From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.]

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tulu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

A QUEER PICTURE THING.

The Way One Art Treasure Was Rescued From Oblivion.

Few chapters in the world's history are more curious and interesting than that which deals with the fortunes of its art treasures. In the cathedral at Montreal, it was a few years ago, a large piece of tapestry which had been discovered in a back street of a New England town. The story is told in Mrs. Silsbee's "Half Century of Salem."

One day a certain Mr. Miller passing through Derby street saw a woman beating clouds of dust from a carpet. Something peculiar in its appearance made him stop and look closely at it, when he discovered, to his astonishment, that it was a splendid piece of tapestry, with life sized figures wrought from Raphael's cartoon, "Feed My Lambs."

The woman was quite willing to tell how she obtained it. It was, in fact, a standing grievance to her. Her husband was a sailor, and when he went out on one of his voyages she had begged him to bring her a carpet for her best room. As it happened, he did not visit a port where he could buy a carpet, but rolled up in a little shop on the quay at Malta he had found the tapestry and purchased it, thinking it might answer the purpose. It was too large for the room, and the woman had to turn a big piece under. She folded the piece back, revealing part of the superb border of fruit and flowers, wrought in silk and gold thread, as fresh as when it was first worked. But the owner eyed it with contempt. She never did like the queer picture thing, she declared.

It was the opportunity of a lifetime. Mr. Miller promptly offered her the choice of any carpet in the stores in exchange for her "queer picture thing," and the woman as promptly accepted the offer. They went downtown together, and she selected, with unbounded delight, a hideous pattern of glowing reds and greens. Her face was full of triumph when she returned. The best room at last was to have a carpet that was a carpet!

It is safe to say that no bargain ever gave more complete satisfaction to both parties than the one made that morning in Derby street, Salem.

A GREAT WORRY CURE.

Common Sense is the Best Remedy That Can Be Prescribed.

I once asked a physician what cure he could suggest for the worrying habit. "I would prescribe common sense," he said, "and if a man or woman hasn't got a stock on hand and cannot cultivate one the medical man is powerless." This worrying nonsense grows. The best means to cure it lies in the hands of the woman herself.

If she will just call a little horse sense to her aid, resolve not to borrow trouble, to be cheerful and think upon the right side of things, she will live longer and be able to retain her beauty. Every woman has the strongest desire to keep her good looks. Why, then, does she take the course which is sure to make her yellow skinned, dull eyed and thoroughly unlovely?

The Englishwoman is greatly admired for her utter refusal to worry or to be worried. Consequently she looks young at fifty. Undertaking no more than she can comfortably carry out and firmly believing in the coming of another day, she does not procrastinate, but simply will not let the domestic machinery grind her down to ill health and an early old age.

She is a frequent bather and regards health as the prime factor of life, to be looked after before everything else. She sleeps nine hours and also takes a nap during the day, arranging her work in the most systematic manner. Her little memorandum slip always shows two vacant hours—they are for rest. She eats heartily, but of the most digestible food, and would rather have a mouthful of good food and go partly hungry than eat a whole meal of cheaper things.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

An Orphan?

A well known professor has a bright boy, who one day at the age of four appeared in his father's study clasping in his hands a forlorn looking little chicken which had strayed from a neighboring incubator.

"Willie," said his father sternly, "take that chicken back to its mother."

"Ain't dot any mudder," answered Willie.

"Well, then, take it back to its father," said the professor, determined to maintain parental authority.

"Ain't dot any fader," said the child.

"Ain't dot anythin' but an old lamp!"—New York Times.

It Makes Them Wild.

"I wonder why they always call them the 'wild waves?'" says the thoughtful one.

"I don't know, but I think I know what makes them wild," says the cynical one.

"What?"

"So many fools happen along, and as soon as they feel the waves they ask, 'What are the wild waves saying?'"—Baltimore American.

THE WINE EXPERT.

HE MUST BE AS TEMPERATE AS AN ATHLETE IN TRAINING.

By Sight, Smell and Taste He Tests the Quality of Liquors and Hence He Must Lead a Life at Once Rigorous and Ascetic.

Many hotels and restaurants of importance as well as many wholesale and retail liquor dealing firms employ a wine expert. It is the duty of this man to pass upon the quality of all wines, brandies, whiskies and other alcoholic beverages handled by his house. He works with an empty stomach, and he makes his tests through the three senses of sight, which tests the spirit's color and clarity; smell, which tests its odor, and taste, the most important sense, which tests its flavor. To keep these senses at once delicate and sharp the expert must not use tobacco, and in the use of liquors he must be temperate to the point of teetotalism.

If two glasses of champagne are set before a clever wine expert, one a champagne of the vintage of 1864, the other of the vintage of 1888, he will tell readily which is which. There are indeed a half dozen vintages which he can designate by their taste alone without the helpful presence of the labeled bottle.

The wine expert must also have a profound knowledge of red wines. Among the red wines of France he must be able to tell those of the Gironne from those of Burgundy and of Dauphny.

In the white wines also he must be learned, and he should have no difficulty in distinguishing the champagnes of Sillery, of Ay, of Reims and of Epernay and in distinguishing also their best vintages. Among the other French white wines he must know those of Sauterne, Barsac, Preignac and Bommes. And the Spanish white wines of Xeres, the German white wines of Johannisberg, Steinberg and Hockheim must be like old time friends.

Whiskies and brandies are divisions of his work that are as important as the wines. He must tell at a glance whether a brandy has been aged in wood or in glass, and he must not only separate with ease the Irish, the Scotch and the American whiskies, but he even must designate the districts in which each was distilled.

Considering his knowledge the salary of the wine expert is not great. It averages $40 a week. Occasionally it falls as low as $25, and occasionally it mounts to munificence.

The expert must not eat rich, heavy foods and pastries. He must not keep late hours. His life, in a word, must be as temperate as that of an athlete in training. This is in order that his senses of sight and taste and smell may be at their best always. Smoking is bad for the smell; rich foods are bad for the taste; late hours or any sort of dissipation, even the mildest, is bad for the health generally and for all the senses, sight in particular; hence the rigorous and ascetic life of the wine expert.

The wine expert works with stomach empty, for then his taste and smell are at their keenest. He works on bright days only in a room flooded with sunlight, for then he can best weigh a liquor's color and lucidity. He uses glasses of the oddest shapes—a different glass almost for every liquor—for these help him to distinguish the most delicate gradations of smell and color. The brandy glass, for instance, has a bowl almost as big as a washbowl. The bottom of this bowl the brandy covers in the thinnest layer. The expert puts his face down close and, with his nose inside the bowl, rolls the brandy about, thus getting the full bouquet of the liquor.

He must never swallow the beverages he tests. He holds them in his mouth about a minute, rolling them upon his tongue and letting them touch his palate, and that is sufficient for an accurate judgment. To swallow them would not aid him, for there are no nerves of taste in the stomach. To swallow them would, on the contrary, hinder him, sending him drunk to bed each testing day.

The expert of a large and fashionable New York hotel in discussing the other day his business said:

"What is more difficult than to describe in words the taste of anything? How, for instance, would you say what bread tastes like or meal or potatoes?"

"But red wines have, after all, a definable taste. The poor red wines are earthy. They have a flavor of fresh soil. The good ones taste like field mushrooms, and the best ones taste like truffles. But the taste of whiskies and brandies and white wines is not to be defined in any such concrete way as this.

"The wine science is a nice one. Few men know it. Few men indeed can tell with their eyes shut whisky from brandy or ale from beer. Few men who use liquor even know the wines that custom demands should be drunk with a dinner at which wine is served."

When asked what those wines were, he said:

"Sauterne with the oysters, sherry with the soup, Rhine wine with the fish, claret with the roast, champagne with the game, salad and dessert and cognac with the coffee."—New York Tribune.

The Amendment.

Wantanno—Here, read over this feature of the proposed charter amendment and I'll me what it means.
Duzno (after reading it carefully eleven times)—It means that in any case of emergency the board of education may employ or remove any teacher or head of department if it can.—Los Angeles Herald.

KODOL Digests What You Eat.

Kodol is the sensible remedy. By digesting what you eat it strengthens the body and at the same time rests the stomach. This rest soon restores perfect health. Cathartics and stimulants only reach the symptoms. Kodol cures. It is Nature's tonic.

Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such a hold on me that I could scarcely go. I took quantities of pepsin and other medicines, but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grasped at a straw I grabbed at Kodol. I felt an improvement at once, and after a few bottles am sound and well. GEORGE S. MARSH, Attorney-at-Law, Moccasin, Tex.

MISS SARAH FINLEY, Vice-President of the Palmetto Club, Memphis, Tenn.

WINE OF CARDUI is a thoroughly scientific and modern remedy, meeting the needs of the modern woman in the modern way—without the torture of an operation. Wine of Cardui has cured them in the privacy of their homes and it has found a place in the hearts of American women that no other medicine has found. In their gratitude over 10,000 American women have written letters commending Wine of Cardui. Wine of Cardui meets their wants as no other medicine does. It sustains the young girl at the shock of her entrance to womanhood. Women who take Wine of Cardui have little discomfort during pregnancy and little pain at childbirth. When the change of life appears they enter a happy, healthy old age. Every month it comes to the rescue to assist Nature in throwing the impurities from the body.

Miss Sarah Finley, of Memphis, Tenn., vice-president of the Palmetto Club of that city, speaks for herself and many friends when she bestows the following praise on Wine of Cardui:

"Among the numerous medicines placed before suffering women for their relief none can touch McElee's Wine of Cardui. It towers above them all as a reliable female remedy. It simply drives pain and disease away and restores health in an incredibly short period. I have taken great interest in this medicine for the past two years, since it brought health and strength to me. I have also recommended it to a number of my friends and they who have used it speak of it in the highest terms and I feel that it is praise well bestowed."

If you are suffering from female weakness Wine of Cardui is the medicine you need.

You can have health the same as Miss Finley if you take the Wine of Cardui treatment. If you need advice further than the complete directions given on the bottle, address The Ladies Advisory Department, Chattanooga Med. Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

WINE of CARDUI A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.

"Crossett's"

$3, $3.50, $4 and $5 Line

is the line of Shoes that has created so much shoe talk in Greenville and vicinity. It takes all kinds of men to make a world, and all kinds of shoes to please them. Still they all can be suited with the famous "Crossett." It is an entirely different construction from the ordinary shoe. It is fitted to the foot, not to the toe and heel, but around the instep. It gives free play to the ball of the foot, yet the foot cannot slip forward in the shoe, being held firmly at the "waist" or arch of the instep. We have all leathers and all styles.

Who Told the Fib?
The bell rang, and the occupier of the apartment started to the window to see who the visitor might be. To his annoyance he saw a persistent creditor who had evidently called again for payment of his long outstanding account. The impetuous one instantly called to his youthful son and said:
"Tommy, go to the door at once. I don't want to see that man. Tell him I'm not at home."
"Oh, papa, I thought you never told fibs," remarked Tommy.
"I don't, my boy. It's you that's going to tell one. Now run off."—New York Times.

The Blue of the Sapphire.
The blue of the sapphire is seldom pure or spread over the whole substance of the stone. Sometimes it is mixed with black, which gives it an inky appearance; sometimes with red, which, although imperceptible by daylight, yet by artificial light gives it an amethystine appearance. Two sapphires which by daylight may appear of the same hue often differ extremely in color at night. If the stone be held in an ordinary pair of forceps an inch beneath the surface of very clear water, the parts of the stone colored and uncolored will be distinctly apparent. This remark applies to all other gems.

How To Manage A Girl.

Someone who has tried it gives the following rules to manage a daughter:

1. You can't do it.
2. Give her her own way; it will save her the trouble of taking it.
3. Pay for her dresses, if you can afford to. Her dress maker will sue you if you don't.
4. If she takes a fancy to any one man you do not want her to marry, tell her you have set your heart on her marrying him and swear she shall never marry any one else. You can give her a free hand and she wouldn't have him if he was the only man left.
5. If there is any man you want her to marry kick him out of your house, order the servants never to admit him; distribute man traps and avoid spring guns and bull dogs all around your grounds; look her up in her room, and vow if she marries him you won't leave her a penny. You will not have to wait long after that for the elopement.
6. If she has no voice encourage her to sing whenever you give a party. It will attract attention to her and give your guest an excuse for complimenting her. Never mind the neighbors.
7. If you are a poor man teach your daughter how to dance and play the piano. She can learn cooking and dress making and those things after she is married.

Mr. Thos. Nichols, of Warsaw, Duplin county, while returning to his home from selling tobacco at Kinston Wednesday, was held up by three negroes about nine miles from Kinston and robbed of $35 in cash and a half gallon of whiskey. It happened just about dusk, and Mr. Nichols feels positive that he knows the men, but no arrests have been made. He was approached by one man, who demanded his money, but he refused to give it up, when another negro came out from the bushes and pointed a pistol at Nichols, telling him that he knew he had money because he knew that he had sold tobacco that day. Nichols, in fear of being shot, gave up $35 and then the robbers demanded his whiskey and took that also.—Kinston Free Press.

Look for the name DeWitt on the package; all others are cheap, worthless counterfeits. Jno. L. Wooten.

HOW TO SHAVE.

And Some Pointers on Keeping a Razor in Order.

After a shave you should be very careful to keep your hands away from your face, as the skin is more tender than at any other time. If you shave yourself, you should have your razor honed at least three times a year to keep it in good order. You should also have a good strop, with a canvas part for rough sharpening, as well as a smoothing strop.

In buying a strop it is well to have a barber select it; then you will be sure to get a good one, says the Baltimore American. Before shaving it is well to wash the face with soap in warm water, as there are apt to be germs in the least little bit of dust or anything that might be on your face. One cannot be too careful about this, for a cut of the razor, ever so small, is apt to make an ugly sore if the skin is not perfectly clean. A wash before shaving will also soften the beard.

All men should learn to use both hands in shaving. Many attempt to shave both sides of the face with one hand and usually succeed in cutting themselves. In fact, many men cut themselves when they attempt to shave. This difficulty could be overcome if both hands were used. The face should be well lathered with shaving soap, a kind that does not dry quickly; then the lather should be well rubbed in the beard with the tips of the fingers, which softens it to such an extent that one does not have to contend with the razor pulling, which not only hurts severely, but irritates the skin.

In cold weather the skin should be thoroughly sponged in warm water and afterward in cold water, which keeps it from becoming chapped. Before the face has been dried a little witch hazel should be rubbed on; then, after wiping this off, talcum powder is good. In case of a cut it is well to have a piece of alum at hand, which, if you dampen and apply to the cut, will close it up quickly, so that, if small, it cannot be seen.

After you have finished using the razor it should be washed, then dried until not a damp spot remains, then sharpened on the strop before putting back into the case. If these directions are followed, you will find that it is not such a disagreeable ordeal to go through with in shaving yourself. You will also save time and barbers' bills.
