Davy Crockett's Rifle.

One of the most interesting relics on exhibition in the office of Secretary of State Crockett is the rifle which was presented by admiring friends to his great-grandfather, the immortal Davy Crockett, hero of the Alamo, and author of the equally immortal phrase; "Be sure you are right and then go ahead."

This gun was carried by the grandson of the first owner, the late Gen. "Bob" Crockett, who who brought down much game with it, but now it has been retired with honor and full pay to pass the remainder of its days, or centuries as a relic of one of the greatest characters this country has ever produced. It is a formidable looking weapon originally of the flintlock type, with a 40 calibre bore. The barrel was originally forty six inches long, but some of it has been cut off and it is now only forty and one-half inches. It was presented to David Crockett soon after his second election to Congress in 1829, by some of his admiring young Whig friends of Philadelphia. It cost $250 and was made especially for him. The donors raised the money by contributing half a dollar each to the fund. The stock is trimmed in sterling silver, appropriately designed with figures of the Goddess of Liberty, a racoon, a deer's head and other figures. Along the upper part of the barrel are the letters set into the metal in gold, some of which was worn out: "Presented by the Young Men of Philadelphia to the Hon. Davy Crockett of Tennessee."

Incompetent Teachers.

One of the chief sources of the waste of school money is the employment of incompetent teachers, says the Knoxville Journal and Tribune. This is perhaps more generally true in the sparsely populated districts; but it is not confined to them. It is seen and felt also in the cities. Boards of education and school directors have a grave responsibility resting upon them in this respect, and no man who is fit to hold such a position will approach the work in hand without feeling it. The time of the school children is too precious to be wasted in attending upon instruction at the hands of those who know little of the responsibility that rests upon them, and who perhaps do not care to know. It sometimes takes longer to unlearn that which is fallacious, taught by an incompetent teacher, than it does to imbibe the false notions that are to be unlearned.

A Centenarian Dead.

Sutton Jones of Bayboro an old colored man, who is supposed to have past his one hundred anniversary, died last night. He has been blind for quite a number of years and a charge upon the county. While his age is not correctly known he is certain to have past his 100 mile post. Talking with him some time ago he said he was 60 years old or thereabout when the war broke out.—Bayboro Sentinel.

Oh, Papa!

THE STATE PRESS

News and Opinions.

Mac Coley, a young man from Williamston who was in the service of the Atlantic Coast Line at Pinners Point, was accidentally killed, Saturday night, by being caught between a switch engine and a freight car.

Mrs. Jane Adams suffered an accident yesterday afternoon that came near causing her death. Mrs. Adams has rooms at the Central Hotel and does her cooking on an oil stove in her room, and while cooking her dinner yesterday the stove was accidentally overturned. It exploded, setting fire to her clothing. Mrs. Adams screamed, but her screams were not located for several minutes and when Mr. Bill Nunn and others arrived she had become exhausted from excitement and screaming and lay unconscious on the floor. The fire had burned her skirt off but was burning very slowly when help arrived, due to the fact that the room was close, but when the door was opened it flamed up again. The fire was quickly extinguished and Mrs. Adams placed on bed and proper attention given her by the ladies of the house. She regained consciousness in a few minutes and it was found that she was not burned much, only her fingers being burned. She is all right today.—Kinston Free Press.

The story is told of an election contest in England, a score or so years ago, in which the seating of a brewer who was elected to Parliament was opposed on the ground of bribery and corruption. Investigation showed that the only thing approaching the bribery of voters was the action of the public house keeper, a customer of the brewer, who had opened a barrel of ale which he gave free to voters who voted for his patron. But this act on the part of the brewer's customer was held to be an act of bribery, and he was denied the seat.

In the French Chamber of Deputies, Saturday, Count Boni de Castellane was charged with having obtained his election to the body by improper methods. The gravest proof was that he had accused his opponent of being of German descent and a Dreyfussard, and that through his agents he had, "in order to warm the enthusiasm of his partisans, given unlimited credit in hotels, inns and drinking places, until the district was gay with fetes and merriments." Thereupon the Chamber invalidated his election, by a vote to 278 to 235.

Evidently they are more strict and conscientious in the matter of bribery at elections across the Atlantic than we of the United States are. When we view the enormous extent of fraud and corruption that attends elections in this country, it may well be asked if it is not possible for us to learn lessons from abroad.—Winston Journal.

Lost his Horse.

Mr. Abram Simpson, of Craven county, came here Monday evening with tobacco. That night his horse was taken sick and this morning the animal died. Bad predicament for a man 35 miles from home to be in.

MOLINEUX ACQUITTED.

(Special to The Reflector.)

New York, Nov. 12.—The trial of Roland B. Molineux, charged with the murder of Mrs. Catherine J. Adams, came to an end today with the acquittal of Molineux. The case has been in the courts for over three years, during the greater part of which time Molineux has been in jail. In the former trials the evidence of handwriting experts was admitted freely, and Molineux was convicted. The last trial judge ruled out considerable expert testimony, and the evidence of new witnesses for the accused was introduced. District Attorney Osborne represented the State. The expenses of the defense have nearly impoverished General Molineux, the accused's father, and the prolonged strain has left both father and son almost physical wrecks. The trial has cost the state of New York many thousands of dollars.

Pin Hook Tricks.

The current issue of the Tobacco Journal tell of a funny scene the other day at a certain warehouse, in which a "pinhooker," a little girl and the faithful auctioneer, as well as the enthusiastic warehousemen, participated. During the progress of the sale a pale-faced little girl stepped up to the warehouseman who was showing the tobacco, and in trembling tones said: "Mr., please sir, this is my tobacco, help me all you can." The kind hearted warehouseman and his auctioneer then began to beg for the last cent, and the little girl, all smiles and seemingly happy, received a big price for her tobacco. Then, from a big pile of tobacco, a "pinhooker" came and handed the little girl a dollar. He had hired the little one to claim the tobacco, and the joke was on the boys.—Winston Journal.

Speaking of Overcoats

Here's a Prize.

Come in and see it—here's a picture of one our best sellers—doesn't show the cloth and the trimmings—doesn't show anything, really, except the style. Isn't it swaggy? It is cut long just as the picture shows, and is made with peaked lapels, silk velvet collar; lined with serviceable Italian cloth; cut with no seam in back, which gives the coat that loose, swaggy effect from the shoulder down; full around bottom of skirt. We have also a complete line of blue and black Kersey and Oxfords 40 and 42 inches long. But this extra long swell coat is the thing for the young fellows who want to be smartly dressed—there it is on the right. Come in and take a look at our other styles; we like to show them. All prices.

Fad With the Boys.

When a fad breaks out among the boys it usually runs through the town. Let the craze be on any particular thing, and all that keeps any boy from being "in the ring" is not having the necessary dime or nickle to purchase whatever happens to be "all the go" just then. And such failures come few and far between, for there is hardly a boy who cannot cough up some cash. Not long ago the fad was spinning tops. This was soon followed by the marble craze. Then came the double-barrel whistle that shrieked from morn till night. And now its the cap pistol that pops and snaps at every turn.

So it goes, but boys must be boys, and there wouldn't be any men if there were no boys to start from. However, the boys should be a little particular while having their fun. Some horses have been frightened by the popping toy pistols.

Sunday railroad wrecks seem to be almost weekly occurrences. The Southern railway had a bad one last Sunday at Morrisville, a few miles above Raleigh. It was a rear end collision of two freight trains in which ten cars loaded with merchandise were demolished and an engine hurled down a fifty foot embankment.

Charlotte is ahead of her neighbors once more and has her hands full of smallpox. There are a large number of cases in and around the city and the situation is serious. Five deaths from the disease occurred last week, and it is a fact worthy of notice that in not one of the fatal cases had the victims been vaccinated. Compulsory vaccination has been ordered there.

The Great Corn Crop.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The preliminary estimate of the average yield per acre of corn, as published in the monthly report of the statistician of the Department of Agriculture, is 26.8 bushels, as compared with an average yield of 16.7 bushels in 1901; 22 3/4 bushels in 1900 and a 10-year average of 23.4 bushels. The following table shows the preliminary estimates of average yield per acre in bushels, 1902, for the Southern States: Missouri, 36.0; Texas, 8.1; Georgia, 9.0; Tennessee, 21.0; Kentucky, 27.0; Alabama, 8.4; North Carolina, 14.2; Arkansas, 20.9; Mississippi, 11.5; Virginia, 21.6; South Carolina, 10.7; Louisiana, 12.5. It is estimated that about 1.9 per cent. of the corn crop of 1901 was still in the hands of farmers on November 1, as compared with 4.5 per cent. of the crop of 1900 in farmers hands on November 1, 1901.

The preliminary estimate of the yield per acre of potatoes is 95.40 bushels, against an average yield per acre of 65.5 bushels in 1901.

Of the 11 principal sweet potato producing States, 6 including Georgia and South Carolina, report an average yield per acre of sweet potatoes in the 10-year averages and including North Carolina and Alabama, report yields below such averages.

All of the 10 principal tobacco States except Pennsylvania, report average yields per acre of tobacco in excess of their 10-year averages. The quality of the tobacco crop is fair.

The estimated production of sugar cane in percentage of a full crop is as follows: North Carolina and Texas, 85; Georgia, 84; Louisiana, 82; South Carolina, 76; Florida, 75; Mississippi, 71, and Alabama, 67.

The estimated average yield per acre of rough rice in bushels is as follows: Louisiana, 10.2; North Carolina, 31.6; South Carolina, 23.3; Georgia, 31.0; Florida, 21.0; Alabama, 25.2; Mississippi, 10.4, and Texas, 45.0.

Handwriting on the Wall.

Washington, November 8th.—The President, convinced that the Republican party must work hard to avoid defeat in 1904, has already called the Cabinet together for the first time in four months, and made it plain to the members that he believed it incumbent upon the administration to get to work, and aid in every way to secure legislation that will satisfy the people. While he was not entirely specific in stating his views, it is known that he will strongly urge a passage of laws curbing the trusts. He has stated privately that his opinion is that capital is getting too great a share of the profits, and that some means must be devised to compel concessions to laborers and consumers. It is said by a visitor who talked with the President today, that he feels that the recent elections have given the dominant party a new lease of power for a short time only, and that this will not be renewed at the polls two years hence unless congress acts wisely and vigorously.—Fayetteville Observer.

Dr. Blackwell's Son Arrested.

Dr. Hugh Burke Blackwell, son of the Rev. Calvin S. Blackwell, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church, of this city, was one of the physicians of the staff of the Willard Parker hospital, of New York, who was arrested last week in New York city. At the instance of republican politicians, as reported in the New York papers, the entire staff of the hospital was arrested on the charge of illegally voting in the election last Tuesday.

Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany leader, furnished counsel and bail for the accused, and the next step in the proceeding will be a case against the republican leaders for damages for false arrest and other indignities.—Wilmington Messenger.

Stepped Against a Hot Stove.

A child of Mrs. Geo. T. Benson, when getting his usual Saturday night bath, stepped back against a hot stove which burned him severely. The child was in great agony and his mother could do nothing to pacify him. Remembering that she had a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house, she thought she would try it. In less than half an hour after applying it the child was quiet and asleep, and in less than two weeks was well. Mrs. Benson is a well known resident of Kellar, Va. Pain balm is an antiseptic liniment and especially valuable for burns, cuts, bruises and sprains. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

One Minute Cough Cure.

Is the only harmless cough cure that gives quick relief. Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Pneumonia, Asthma, LaGrippe and All Throat, Chest and Lung troubles. "I got soaked by rain," says Gertrude E. Fenner, Muncie, Ind., "and contracted a severe cough and cold. I failed rapidly; lost 48 pounds. My druggist recommended One Minute Cough Cure. The first bottle brought relief; several cured me. I am back to my old weight, 148 pounds. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the phlegm, relieves the cough at once, draws out inflammation, cures croup. An ideal remedy for children. Jno. L. Wooten.

The Best Remedy For Croup.

[From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.]

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tulu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Truth lies at the bottom of a well, but the angler never goes there to fish.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.

Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, expose the nerves of the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures the catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach. Jno. L. Wooten.

If a man amounts to anything he doesn't have to boast of his ancestors.

For a Bad Cold.

If you have a bad cold you need a good reliable medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to loosen and relieve it, and to allay the irritation and inflammation of the throat and lungs. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

When a man gets full it is a good time to take his bust measure.

A BOOKKEEPER'S OPPORTUNITY

[Original.]
The end of the year was approaching, and John Talbot, bookkeeper for Blunker Bros., was spending every evening over his books preparatory to the annual fiscal statement. One night after turning out the lights just before going home he remembered that he had left a paper in the vault which he should have mailed. Lighting a candle that he kept for use in the vault, he unlocked the door and entered. The door was so set on its hinges that it would close of its own weight, and Talbot usually placed a ledger against it on entering. But tonight he was in a hurry to get home and thought he could reach the paper in time to catch the door before it closed. The paper was not where he supposed it was, and he looked elsewhere. Suddenly he heard a click. He was locked in!

Talbot was paralyzed at his situation. Presently, however, he recovered his equanimity sufficiently to think. The first result of his thought was to blow out his candle, remembering that it was drawing on the oxygen in the air. But this was as far as he could go, for there was nothing left for him to do except wait to see if he could live on the atmosphere he breathed. In the course of half an hour he felt assured that he could. This is explained by the fact that the building in settling had opened a crack in the vault, through which air could permeate. Talbot, having been without sufficient sleep for several weeks, finally sank into slumber.

He was awakened by a b-r-r-r! The sound was very like a drill. It was a drill. Thank heaven, he had been missed, and they had come to let him out! It would be well to let them know that he was still alone, so he called:

"I'm all right!"
They could not have heard him, for the drilling went on without any reply. Then he wondered why they didn't open the vault by using the combination, so he called out again, louder:
"You fellows out there! Don't you know the figures for opening the lock?"
The sound suddenly stopped. All was perfectly quiet. Could he have mistaken the gnawing of a rat or a mouse for a drill?

"I say, you fellows, the combination is 7-15-8-3!"
Still all was quiet, but once or twice he thought he could hear voices in conference. Then there was a call.

"Hello, you, inside there?"
"Well?"
"Who are you?"
"John Talbot, the bookkeeper!"
Again there was quiet, which was ended with:
"What'll you give to get out?"
"Give? Who are you?"
"Two armed men who are after what's in the vault!"
"Burglars?"
"That's about the size of it!"

This put an entirely different face on the matter. From thinking of his own safety John Talbot began to think of saving the contents of the vault. Was not this an opportunity? He had worked ten years for the concern on a meager salary and might work ten years longer under the same conditions. He resolved to stand his ground if possible. First he must gain time. He regretted that he had given the combination.

"Well, I gave you the figures! Why don't you open the lock, come in and help yourselves?"
"Give it again!"
John did not give it, and presently he heard them trying the lock. They either had not heard all the numbers or had forgotten them.
Suddenly John remembered the revolver that was always kept in a drawer in the woodwork inside the vault for the special purpose of defending the funds in case of an attempt at burglary during the day. This gave him new hope. He opened the drawer, took out the revolver, felt to determine if the cartridges were in place and found everything in order. Then he waited patiently while the drilling went on. There were several layers to be pierced, and the burglars were a long while in getting through. Presently, however, John heard something give way, and, feeling along the surface, he struck his finger against the end of a drill. Then it was pulled out, and John, placing his eye to the hole, could see a part of a man's chest or his face as the owner moved about close before it. John now concluded that it was time to begin a defense; so, placing the muzzle of his revolver to the hole, he fired.

It seemed to him for a moment that the drums of his ears had been broken down, but without stopping to consider this he put his eye to the drilled hole. The men were now farther away, and he could see them plainly, at least one of them, for the other was supporting his companion in his arms and holding a dark lantern to his face. Evidently one of them had been hit. The other drew his companion out of John's eye range, and John substituted his ear for his eye at the hole. Presently he heard the office door shut, and all was silent. They had gone.

The next morning when the janitor came in John was liberated and went home to breakfast. At 9 o'clock he met the members of the firm at the office, told his story and showed them the hole in the vault door. At first they believed the affair was a trick to cover up some deficiency, but the funds were found to be intact, and later, when John identified a man that had been arrested as the burglar, they gave in. The firm was made a stock company, and Talbot became secretary and treasurer. He is now rich.

SOOTHING SHOPPING.

A Peaceful Experience at the East Norley General Emporium.

The exhausted shopper sank upon the sofa, while from the open mouth of her reversed Boston bag poured a cascade of little parcels, freshly struggled for at the Monday bargain counters.

"Oh," she cried, "why does one have to shop in the city? Everything is so hurried, confused, complex, distracting and nerve destroying! If I were only back at East Norley!"

"Last summer while I was there I had to buy a yard of dark blue ribbon, and I drove over to the one store at the crossroads to get it. It took some five minutes to convince the amiable proprietor that I really wanted dark blue and could not be persuaded to accept light instead, which he considered more suitable and becoming to a fair complexioned person of my years; he added reassuringly that anybody under forty was not too young for baby blue.

"Another five minutes were given up to his incredulous reluctance to believe that two inches wide would do as well as three, especially as the three inch width had been mislaid on a top shelf and he would have to get a step-ladder to get it down. Several more minutes passed in the search for the ladder, its laborious portage from the cellar, its erection and repair with a piece of twine, the braces being broken, and his final ascent to the dim and dusty upper region, whence the box of wide ribbons was at length produced.

"I found a shade that would do, and he leisurely measured off a yard, fingered it, then paused to rub a perplexed ear and smile ingratiatingly.
"Fact is," he confided sweetly, "I sold the last pair of scissors in the store just before you came in, and I've forgotten my jackknife. It's kind of awkward cutting it off, but I'll manage somehow. I guess there's an ax in the shed!"
"He carried the silken roll away with him as he started with comfortable deliberation to find the ax, which, though the hunt for it was long and persevering, evidently could not be found, for we caught a glimpse of him at last through the half open door to the back shop severing the required yard of ribbon with an old chisel.
"It was all so serene, so soothing and so satisfactory! I believe I shouldn't be a wreck before New Year's every winter if I could only do my Christmas shopping at the East Norley general emporium."—Youth's Companion.

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

In setting out an orchard keep together all trees of the same variety. Good garden soil is good for pot plants, but can be improved by the addition of leaf mold.

Weak rosebushes may often be made to grow by giving them an occasional watering with liquid manure.

One advantage with small fruits is that they can be made to furnish a supply long before trees come into bearing.

In planting a border don't plant everything in rows. A row of hollyhocks, for instance, isn't half as attractive as irregularly placed groups that break the outline.

With pot plants in a general way too little water is better than too much. The drooping leaves indicating drought are more easily remedied than yellow leaves, the result of being kept too wet.

In preparing pots for plants the pieces of broken pots or crockery in the bottom should never be omitted, as without proper drainage the soil becomes sour, the plants languish and the leaves become yellowish.

Willing to Be Sued.

"I once threatened to sue an old fellow in Vermont for $10 that he owed a client of mine," said a New York lawyer, "but the threat did not seem to impress him much.
"What good will it do you to sue me?" he asked.
"It will get the money," I answered.
"Here the fellow came up close to me and said, 'Say, if that's so, sue me for $20, won't you, and give me the other $10.'"
"I gave up hope of collecting that claim."—New York Times.

Home Discomforts.

"No," grumbled the husband in a spasmodic confidence to a friend, "I have no place at all for my books. The storage room is kept exclusively for my wife."

"Oh, she puts away those things that are a trifle too good to be destroyed, yet scarcely good enough to be of use."—Brooklyn Life.

Her Call.

"I ran into town today to do some shopping, dear," said Mrs. Subbubs, entering her husband's office, "and I—"
"I see," he interrupted, "and you just ran in here because you ran out."
"Ran out?"
"Yes; of money."—Philadelphia Press.

MISS IDA M. SNYDER,
Treasurer of the Brooklyn East End Art Club.

MENSTRUAL irregularities are generally the beginning of a woman's troubles. With the vitality at a low ebb, the blood weakened, the digestion disordered, she goes about pale-faced, hollow-eyed and haggard, a piteous contrast to the blooming health of her former self. But over 1,000,000 women have found health again by taking Wine of Cardui. As a regulator of the menstrual periods Wine of Cardui has never been known to fail. It has seldom failed to restore perfect health, even in the most persistent and aggravated case of weakness.

Miss Ida M. Snyder, of No. 535 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., has used Wine of Cardui and she says it helped her into a new life. Health to Miss Snyder is worth a great deal. She is an attractive young woman with intellectual attainments and she occupies the position of Treasurer of the Brooklyn East End Art Club. This position marks her as a person of intellect, culture and refinement and it speaks highly of the respect and trust her fellow women have in her. She writes:

"In consulting with my druggist he advised McElice's Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught, and so I took it and have every reason to thank him for a new life opened up to me with restored health, and it only took three months to cure me."

You may secure the same relief as Miss Snyder, if you take Wine of Cardui as she took it. Thedford's Black-Draught is the companion medicine of Wine of Cardui and it is a liver and bowel regulator which assists greatly in effecting a cure. If you take these medicines according to directions, the relief and cure is simple. Some cases are cured quickly and others take longer because the disease has run longer. Remember how Miss Snyder took Wine of Cardui and has health. The same medicines are offered you to-day.

WINE of CARDUI A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.

Education that Knows, Sees and Does.

There is every needful reason to justify such an adjustment of our school system that every child may begin with the alphabet of his primer to learn also some of the easy and productive uses for which the Creator gave him his eyes and ears, his hands and feet. By instructing him in the use of these natural implements of production upon the raw materials of his immediate environment he will learn that God made nothing for folly or waste. He will come to feel that work is worthy, ennobling and profitable. He will come from the workshop of the school to take an effective position in the workshops of the world without feeling that he has descended from the "heights of Homer" to the coalheaps of Caliban.

The South is to be redeemed by her own sons and daughters to an independence of character, economy and power that will make her ashamed and fearful in the face of no rival. The way to that safety and supremacy lies through the school room and the power of it will come from dynamics of such schools as are advocated by President Branson and are being exploited by the Georgia Federation.—Atlanta Constitution.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., Nov. 11, 1902.

Miss Sally Roach, of Vanceboro, took the train here this morning, accompanied by Messrs. Slade Chapman and Mack Worthington, for Raleigh, where she will receive treatment at the hospital.

Considerable excitement was caused yesterday by a little child of Elbert Smith's getting some box lye in its mouth. Dr. Cox was summoned at once and stopped the effects with no serious results.

Don't forget that we furnish free of cost a stretcher to customers using our wire fence to put same up with, thereby insuring them a much more satisfactory job. The condition on which we loan them is that they be returned as soon as fence is put up.—A. G. Cox Mfg. Co.

Richard Williams was in town yesterday. He was accompanied by Jesse Cannon, of Ayden.

Mrs. W. M. Carroll, of Kinston, who has been spending some days up here with friends and relatives, returned home last night accompanied by Bill, who came up this morning.

Charles Roach and wife, of Vanceboro, spent Monday night at R. G. Chapman's.

Good News For The Ladies!—No more standing over the hot stove to stir and turn, no more washing and scraping sooty pots and pans. On Saturday at 2 o'clock a lady will cook on the Ohio Steam Cooker at Winterville depot and show you how it relieves one of all the disagreeable work in cooking. All (ladies and gentlemen) are invited to attend and test the superiority of steam cooked food.

"Aunt Polly" Smith is agent for the Ohio Steam Cooker referred to above. From what we have been able to find out it is a veritable God-send to women.

Josh Manning started to Black Jack Sunday. Not hearing any tell of him at service there, guess he must have stopped on the way.

Hattie Kittrell returned Saturday from Sadie Carroll's where she has been visiting.

People don't seem to understand that while the price of all iron products is higher than it has been for some time, A. G. Cox Mfg. Co. is selling wire fence lower than ever. We learn from them that the secret of it lies in mastering the business, thereby being enabled to cut down expenses to a minimum, as well as the apparent advantage of buying all material in car load lots, which they now do.

Misses Bessie and Kate Chapman returned Sunday afternoon from Miss Helen Galloway's.

The first of the year is drawing near when a great many changes are always made. F. O. Cox has a house with a valuable lot for sale.

Strange Mason Case Step Nearer Solution.

Bosten, Nov. 8.—The strange case involving the murder of two young women, Agnes McPhee and Clara A. Morton, and murderous assaults upon many others, was a step nearer solution last tonight, when the police were given the custody of the young man who sold, or, as he thought, pawned, the watches which were taken by the so-called "Jack, the Slagger" from the bodies of his victims.

The person in custody is a light-complexioned negro, 18 years of age, his name is George L. O. Perry. He has confessed that he received the watches which he sold from a man in Central square, Cambridge. He has given the name of this man to the police, but the latter tonight refused to state whether or not he gave the name of Alan G. Mason, the prominent Boston man, who is under detention at the Middlesex county jail in Cambridge on the charge of having murdered Miss Clara A. Morton.
