Washington Letter

Special Correspondence from the Capital of the Nation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 17, 1902.

That the utmost vacillation and indecision has been shown by the president in handling the "lily white" movement in the South is the opinion of all who have closely observed his actions in this connection. Apparently Mr. Roosevelt has abandoned the enterprise as hopeless and is now prepared to return to the old custom of maintaining a Southern organization, with its concomitants of colored republican office holders, etc. He has removed two federal office holders in Alabama for activity in eliminating the negro from the party councils, and now it is reported that he has removed District Attorney Warren S. Reese for the same cause. For a considerable time the president encouraged Senator Pritchard to believe that he would have the assistance of the federal administration in his project. Senator Pritchard explained most forcibly to the president that the only hope of building up a successful republican party in the South must be based on the elimination of the negro and showed him that so long as republicanism stood for negro office holders, the better element of the south would "vote democratic" regardless of their convictions on national issues. Now, Mr. Roosevelt has abandoned the Senator and has returned to the old custom.

That he has done so is believed to anger that he expects to favor the restriction of southern representation in congress and that he believes he must take the step in order to solidify the southern delegations to the next national convention. Soon after the convention of Congress, it is said, Representatives Dick, Crumpacker and Dayton will be called in conference with the President and several members of the Cabinet to consider the subject of restricting southern representation and it is for that reason that Mr. Roosevelt has determined to revert to the old negro office holder policy of his predecessors.

The President's recent statement, made before the New York Chamber of Commerce that "The growing complexity of our social and industrial life has rendered inevitable the intrusion of the state into spheres of work wherein it formally took no part," has attracted the marked attention of the democrats and some republicans, who see in the words a prediction of at least some measure of state socialism. "Where will the President draw the line?" ask these gentlemen who evidently think the President is treading on delicate ground. "Mr. Roosevelt says there is an inevitable tendency in that direction but if he permits the government to develop that tendency where can he stop it?" "Is it not time to nip it in the bud?" These are some of the questions that are being asked and some of them will doubtless be put to the President himself when he returns to Washington.

"Insufficient time" will be the excuse the republicans will make for not repeating the duty on anthracite coal and altering many tariff schedules known to be entirely too high even to suit the vast majority of republicans, according to Representative Grosvenor. Moreover, the General says that there will be no extra session, or words to that effect. There may be a difference of opinion between the

DISCOVERY OF NORTH CAROLINA.

By MISS MARY A. BYNUM.

[This Essay was awarded the second prize in the recent history contest in Greenville.]

Three hundred years ago there were no white people in North Carolina. There were people living here called Indians, the name that Columbus gave them because he thought he had reached India. They were wild and savage, but believed in one God, whom they called the "Great Spirit." Where they came from is not known, some people think they came from Asia; they claimed they came out of the ground. There were many tribes of them, some were less civilized than others. They were of a dusky brown or copper color, had straight, coarse black hair, very high cheek bones, small hands and feet and slender bodies. They roamed from place to place and lived in tents made of poles and branches of trees, covered with bark and skins of animals; these they called wigwams. They had a language of their own, though different in the different tribes, but enough alike to understand each other. They had no tools, their only weapons were bows and arrows and stone hatchets which they called tomahawks. Their arrow heads were made of flint. The only tame animals they had were dogs: these were not much better than half tame wolves. They knew nothing about cultivating land, they scratched the surface with wooden hoes; in this way the women and children raised corn, potatoes, beans, melons and gourds. The men called them selves warriors, the women squaws and the children papooses. A part of North Carolina that is now covered with forest, was then an open prairie with tall grass and cane growing thick over it. When the Indians wanted to get a tree down to make a boat or bows to pound their corn in they burned it through near the ground and hollowed it out with fire. The men did no work, except that of hunting, which they loved to do. They delighted in fighting. History tells us their warriors would walk over mountains, through snows, swimming wide rivers, enduring every hardship for the pleasure of revenge and destroying those they hated. They had no pity or sympathy for any one except their children; they were fond of them, especially the boys. Some were hospitable and kind to strangers who came to them in a friendly way. The Indians were often visited by pestilences; it is believed that they would not have lived through many generations.

At this time England was ruled by a queen named Elizabeth. She was a wise ruler and possessed many noble traits of character, particularly was her clear insight into the characters of men. Seemingly like the women of all ages she possessed some vanity. She appreciated little courtesies shown her. One evening she was walking at the head of the procession composed of ladies and gentlemen of her court when she came to a muddy place in her pathway. She paused a moment to decide as to whether she should step in the mud or pass around. A gallant young man who was standing near by took a velvet cloak from his shoulder and throwing it in the mud for her majesty to step upon, she passed over with dry feet. The Queen was charmed with the ready gallantry of the youth. She inquired as to who he was and found it was Walter Raleigh, who had just come to London from his home in the country. He became a great favorite with her. He read so much of the wondrous lands across the Atlantic ocean, he was anxious that England should share in the glory and profit of future discoveries. He made known his desires to his half brother, Sir Humphrey Gilbert, who was a commander of ships. In 1578 the Queen permitted these two men to sail in search of lands not yet discovered by civilized nations. In 1583 they sent out a vessel called Raleigh, which was compelled to return on account of disease among the crew. No one had ever crossed the Atlantic ocean; they were afraid of it. Again in 1583 Sir Humphrey Gilbert, with three ships, ventured out; he discovered the island of Newfoundland, but he and his ship were destroyed in a storm. One other ship had been lost three days before, which left only one to carry back the sad news to Raleigh and the queen. It caused great grief among the people, "but the hearts of heroes are not cast in common moulds." He did not despair. He obtained on March 25th 1584 letters patent from the queen favoring another expedition. He at once started out a fleet. Two vessels were placed under the command of Philip Amadas and Arthur Barlowe. On the 27th day of April, 1584, the fleet sailed, they steered for Canary Islands and West Indies. On the 14th day of July they first saw the coast of North Carolina, probably at a point just below Old Topsail Inlet near Roanoke Island. They continued northward; they reached where the waters of the ocean and the Pamlico and Croatan sounds divide. Two days later came to anchor off an island called Wacoeken. They called this place Trinity Harbor. The weary sailors were charmed with the beautiful country. The balmy air, the ceaseless songs of the mocking bird, the many flowers of every description and fruits of all kind made it seem like paradise. For two days the country looked to be uninhabited; after then, they first saw a canoe approaching with three Indians. One of them approached the ship; he was invited aboard the ship and went with the white men to view the many wonderful things. Nothing so astonished them as the roar of artillery. They treated him to wine and meat. As a return for their kindness the Indians gave the men many fish and taught the men how to catch them and then departed. The next day many Indians, with much ceremony, visited the ship; they were clothed in mantles and aprons made of deer skins. Amadas with eight men in a boat, visited the home of the Indians; the chief was absent. They were met by his wife in a cordial manner; she prepared a feast for them of fruits, melons, fish and venison.

Amadas and Barlowe proceeded to lay claim to the country for their queen. They then returned to England and took with them two Indians named Manteo and Wanchese and many things which the Indians had given them, among them tobacco and potatoes. Queen Elizabeth was greatly pleased and she gave the country the name of Virginia, in honor of herself, the "Virgin Queen." Walter Raleigh was soon after, in recognition of his services, made Sir Walter Raleigh. Raleigh was the first Englishman who used tobacco. His servant entered his room one day while Raleigh was enjoying his pipe and tobacco; seeing the smoke around him he thought his master was on fire; he immediately dashed a mug of ale in his face and ran out, crying for help, for his master "would be burnt to ashes."

1585. Sir Walter Raleigh hastened to send over a colony to take possession of Roanoke. Ralph Lane was appointed governor. Seven ships were sent with 108 immigrants and the two Indians; sailed the 9th of April, commanded by Sir Richard Grenville. With these colonists he landed upon Roanoke, began to build and fortify a town, which he named the "City of Raleigh." They spent some time exploring the country, searching for gold, but failed to find it. They had much trouble with the Indians here. Sir Francis Drake, with a large fleet, arrived, and finding the colony in a perishing condition, they decided best to abandon the settlement, leaving the city of Raleigh untenanted. Thus failed the first attempt at forming the first permanent settlement here.

During this time Raleigh had sent one other ship with supplies; finding no one here the ships returned. Grenville came on afterwards and left 15 men. Once again, in 1589, Raleigh collected a fleet, with John White as governor, sent 150 men, women and children to Roanoke for permanent settlement. On arriving on the 22nd of July Governor White went ashore in search for the men left there by Grenville. Nothing could be seen of them except a skeleton which lay bleaching in the sun.

Governor White had with him a daughter named Eleanor, wife of Ananias Dare. On August 18th, a few days after their arrival, a little girl was born, who, in honor of her birth, was named Virginia Dare.

Governor White returned to England after a few weeks and remained there so long, for three had passed when he did return, he found the place as desolate as at first. No trace of them except the word "Croatan" carved upon a tree. It is not known, but believed by some, that they went to live with the Indians, thought to have been adopted by the Hatteras tribe.

About this time Sir Walter Raleigh lost his greatest help, Queen Elizabeth, who died March 24th, 1603. King James I, who

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1902.

In the recent election Pitt county gave the largest democratic majority of any county except Wake, with the smallest vote for the opposition of any county in the State.

"The wings of the vote-buyer ought to be clipped," says the Winston Journal. By all means. Then hold him over a pile of shucks and singe his pinfeathers.

A story is zigzagging around the country to the effect that the penitentiary has made $40,000 this year. It is said that figures don't lie; and of course the man who does the book work on the job knows his business.

The Atlanta Journal accuses Mr. Bryan of "trying to hatch a china egg." Perhaps the Journal is right. It is some kind of monotonous delusion, at any rate. A china egg has its strong points, however. It is not likely to become uncorked.

The question of marrying on a salary of $50 a month is agitating the eligible list of Charlotte youngsters. The News has opened its columns for opinions from the bachelor standpoint. What's the matter with extending the invitation to those who have tried it?

The information that one of St. Louis' millionaire councilmen has been sentenced to the penitentiary is calculated to take the wire edge off of one's curiosity about the big fair city. It would be worth the price of a second fare to get acquainted with some of the people over there, regardless of the show.

Now put a shoulder to the wheel and push until every school district has a comfortable house and every scholar an efficient teacher. Don't leave off until you can point to these things with as much pride as to your fat hogs; fast horses, big potatoes, and a record for never having scratched a democratic ticket.

A Witness.
A Yankee having told an Englishman that he had shot on one particular occasion nine hundred and ninety-nine snipe, his interlocutor asked him why he did not make it a thousand at once. "No," said he, "it's not likely I'm going to tell a lie for one snipe." Whereupon the Englishman, determined not to be outdone, began to tell a long story of a man having swum from Liverpool to Boston. "Did you see him?" asked the Yankee. "Why, of course I did. I was coming across, and our vessel passed him a mile out of Boston harbor." "Well, I'm glad ye saw him, stranger, 'cos yer a witness that I did it. That was me!"

succeeded her, proved to be a great enemy to Raleigh. He permitted him, through false accusations, to be placed in prison for twelve years and afterwards beheaded.

Thus suffered and died the man who first sent ships to North Carolina. After his death no efforts were made to plant a colony at Roanoke. To Captain John Smith was due the permanence of the settlements at Jamestown. On account of religious troubles in Virginia many people came here, led by Roger Green, a clergyman, in 1653, and settled along the banks of the Chowan and Roanoke rivers.

King James was also beheaded as a traitor to his country. King Charles, who succeeded him, granted to several men, known as "Lord Proprietors," all the territory south of the lands not already granted to the province of Virginia, down to the Spanish line of Florida. This territory was named "Carolina," in honor to King Charles II. It can hardly be realized, amid the luxuries that the American people now enjoy, what dangers and privations were endured by the white settlers in North Carolina two hundred years ago.

North Carolina ranks high as an agricultural state, and in fact every thing to make it a most desirable country to live in. It is capable of producing almost everything that is grown in the United States.

It lies between the parallels of 33d., 51 1/2 m., and 36d., 35m. north latitude and the meridians of 75d., 27m., 20 1/2 west from Greenwich.

President and the General on this score however, for it is stated by some politicians who are very near to the President that he regards and extra session of the Fifty-eighth Congress as inevitable to republican success in 1904, in which Mr. Roosevelt is very much interested. Of course, he will not commit himself for the present but will "keep his ear to the ground" to use the expression of his political friends.

It will doubtless prove a source of disappointment to many families to learn that the administration, at the behest of the protected interests in the Philippines, has decided that Christmas boxes for the soldier boys in the islands will be subject to the same tariff duties as other merchandise. There will be no duty free Christmas presents for the soldier boys this year.

Stepped Against a Hot Stove.

A child of Mrs. Geo. T. Benson, when getting his usual Saturday night bath, stepped back against a hot stove which burned him severely. The child was in great agony and his mother could do nothing to pacify him. Remembering that she had a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house, she thought she would try it. In less than half an hour after applying it the child was quiet and asleep, and in less than two weeks was well. Mrs. Benson is a well known resident of Kellar, Va. Pain balm is an anti-septic liniment and especially valuable for burns, cuts, bruises and sprains. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

The first bottle brought relief; several cured me. I am back to my old weight, 148 pounds. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the phlegm, relieves the cough at once, draws out inflammation, cures croup. An ideal remedy for children. Jno. L. Wooten.

The Best Remedy For Croup.

[From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.]

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and teln, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

The hammer of custom forges those links of habit which make a chain that is hard indeed to break.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.

Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, expose the nerves of the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures the catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach. Jno. L. Wooten.

THE STATE PRESS

News and Opinions.

Speech is silver, but silence is golden. The man is on the safe side these days only when he keeps his mouth shut. Especially when one makes a statement about a matter on which there is great diversity of opinions is he likely to rub the fur the wrong way on somebody. The other day so great a man as President Elliot of Harvard said that a strike breaker was a hero. It looks as if it ought to be the truth if he said it, but mark the effect on labor! President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, flings the lie in the Harvard president's teeth and says that if Elliot is right then Benedict Arnold is a martyr and Judas Iscariot is a saint. The safe rule, the Christian rule, and the comfortable rule—the philosophical rule in short—is not to go into hysterics over anything. The world is going to wag along no matter who utters a fierce statement.—Greensboro Telegram.

The president is getting all sorts of criticism from people of all parties on his attitude toward southern republicans. In his position we are forced to conclude that Mr. Roosevelt knows very little of the southern political field and would cut off his most valuable aid when he lets Mr. Pitchard go. The North Carolina senator knows more about the southern situation than Mr. Roosevelt ever dreamed. The senator has lived up against the real thing while the president has only listened to side stories and read sentiment.—Concord Tribune.

Tobacco seems to have been a very profitable crop this year for North Carolina farmers. The Wilmington Star estimates that the growers of the weed in eastern Carolina have this season received no less than $4,000,000 for their product. It may be added that the crop is growing every year and the area devoted to tobacco culture is already increasing. There ought to be more tobacco raised in North Carolina. The climate and much of the soil of this section are admirably adapted to the culture of the finest grades, and it is encouraging to know that its cultivation is constantly on the increase.

A Great Convenience.

Among the latest inventions of a French chemist is a method of compressing sea air into tabloids. Those, therefore, who wish for a change of air will in future only have to go to the nearest druggist, and buy a bottle of Margate tabloids or half a dozen Riviera pastilles. So long as the drugs are properly dispensed the invention will be welcome. It would be unpleasant to ask for Bournemouth pastilles and to receive instead the Colonge (not eau de colonge) variety. The latter form has seventy-nine distinct smells.—London Globe.

Sold 140,000 Acres.

A big tract of land has just been sold at Manteo, in Dare county, and Messrs A. B. Andrews, Jr., and F. H. Busbee, who went from Raleigh in connection with the city.

The land sold comprises a tract of 140,000 acres, and was sold on the decision of the United States court in a partition suit in which the East Coast Cedar Company was concerned as against other owners, several banks in Buffalo, New York.

The land was sold for $77,500 to Mr. C. T. Williams, of New York, who was represented at the sale by Mr. A. D. Bissell, president of the Bankers' Association, of the State of New York. The price paid was a great increase over that bid last July when the amount was $52,500.

Marvelous Elixir of Life Discovered by Famous Doctor-Scientist that Cures Every Known Ailment.

Wonderful Cures Are Effected That Seem Like Miracles Performed—The Secret of Long Life of Olden Times Revived.

The Remedy Is Free To All Who Send Name and Address.

After years of patient study, and delving into the dusty record of the past, as well as following modern experiments in the realms of medical science, Dr. James W. Kidd, 2858 Baltes Building, Fort Wayne, Ind., makes the startling announcement that he has surely discovered the elixir of life. That he is able with the aid of a mysterious compound, known only to himself, produced as a result of the years he has spent in searching for this precious life giving boon, to cure any and every disease that is known to the human body. There is no doubt of the doctor's earnestness in making his claim and the remarkable cures that he is daily effecting seems to bear him out very strongly. His theory which he advances is one of reason and based on sound experience in a medical practice of many years. It costs nothing to try his remarkable "Elixir of Life," as he calls it, for he sends it free, to anyone who is a sufferer, in sufficient quantities to convince of its ability to cure, so there is absolutely no risk taken. Some of the cures cited are very remarkable, and but for reliable witnesses would hardly be credited. The lame have thrown away crutches and walked about after two or three trials of the remedy. The sick, given up by home doctors have been restored to their families and friends in perfect health. Rheumatism, neuralgia, stomach, heart, liver, kidney, blood and skin diseases and bladder troubles disappear as by magic. Headaches, backaches, nervousness, fevers, consumption, coughs, colds, asthma, catarrh, bronchitis and all affections of the throat, lungs or any vital organs are easily overcome in a space of time that is simply marvelous.

Partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, dropsy, gout, scrofula and piles are quickly and permanently removed. It purifies the entire system, blood and tissues, restores normal nerve power, circulation and a state of perfect health is produced at once. To the doctor all systems are alike and equally affected by this great "Elixir of Life." Send for the remedy today. It is free to every sufferer. State what you want to be cured of and the sure remedy for it will be sent you free by return mail.

Slow Starvation

is the fate of sufferers from dyspepsia and indigestion. If your food remains undigested it can't build up the body. In fact, it does actual damage by decaying in the stomach and poisoning the system.

KODOL Digests What You Eat.

Kodol is the sensible remedy. By digesting what you eat it strengthens the body and at the same time rests the stomach. This rest soon restores perfect health. Cathartics and stimulants only reach the symptoms. Kodol cures. It is Nature's tonic.

Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such a hold on me that I could scarcely go. I took quantities of pepsin and other medicines, but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grasps at a straw I grabbed at Kodol. I felt an improvement at once, and after a few bottles am sound and well. GEORGE S. MARSH, Attorney-at-Law, Nocona, Tex.

It can't help but do you good.

The 41 bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much (actual measurement) as the trial size which sells for 50c. Prepared by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. Sold by all dealers.

Mrs. Laura S. Webb,

Vice-President of Women's Democratic Clubs of Northern Ohio.

THERE ARE MANY

sickly women between the ages of 45 and 55, but there are very few invalids over 55 and 60 years of age. The change of life coming to a woman near her forty-fourth year, either makes her an invalid or gives her a new lease on life. Those who meet this change in ill health seldom live ten years afterward, while a woman who lays aside the active duties of womanhood in health seldom fails to live on in happiness, years after she has passed 60. This is truly a critical time.

Mrs. Laura S. Webb, of Toledo, Ohio, recognizes the change of life as a dangerous period and she also has faith in Wine of Cardui. She writes:

"As I had always been troubled more or less at the menstrual period, I dreaded

Mrs. Laura S. Webb.

the change of life which was fast approaching. While visiting with a friend I noticed that she was taking your Wine of Cardui, and she was so enthusiastic about it that I decided to try a bottle. I experienced some relief the first month, so I kept on taking it for three months and now I menstruate with no pain and I shall take it off and on now until I have passed the climax. I do not dread it now, as I am sure that your Wine of Cardui will be of great benefit at this time."

Wine of Cardui is the remedy to re-inforce a woman against the shock that comes with the change of life. It re-establishes healthy functions after years of suffering. In doing this it has saved thousands of sufferers just in time. Do not wait until suffering is upon you. Thorough preparations should be made in advance. Begin the Wine of Cardui treatment today.

THE HOBO SANG

At a Requiem Mass and Then Disappeared.

Miss Nellie Conarty, who two weeks ago made many friends here while the guest of Chief of Police Hugh Kelly and family, had an odd experience yesterday while playing the grand organ in the Church of the Immaculate Heart at her home in Chester. The choir was singing a requiem for Rev. Thos. J. McGlynn, late rector of the church. Onward's Mass was being used, when suddenly some one was heard to ask "Can a fellow get a chance to get in on this?"

Miss Conarty turned to see who had addressed her and to her surprise she was face to face with a tramp, ragged and dirty, with clothes soiled by miles of weary walking, but with a longing expression upon his face that she could not deny. She nodded assent to the strange request and the ragged visitor took his place among the singers, who, astonished at the spectacle, forgot for a moment their parts and ceased singing. Rev. Farther Baker, the celebrant, paused in the service, and looked askance at the organ loft. Then the church was suddenly filled with the rich melody of a tenor voice that made the entire congregation turn and gaze at the choir.

The "hobo"—for such he really said he was—finished the Mass, giving to the singers an enthusiasm and esprit never seen in the gallery before. Then, as the officiating priest left the altar, the tramp turned and slipped from the organ loft as noiselessly as he had entered it, not stopping to give his name or his history, except to say that he once sang in one of the leading choirs in the country. He had heard the familiar strains as he was about to pass the church and the music awakened fond memories, he said.—So, Bethlehem, Pa., Globe.

The Anti-Saloon League.

It is the purpose of the Anti-Saloon League in Greenville to organize a League in every township in the county. This organization is growing very rapidly in North Carolina, and many other states. Much good is expected to result from this movement. In order that the readers of THE REFLECTOR may become more familiar with the object and principles of this organization I will publish the Constitution, which is as follows:

Article 1. This organization shall be called the Pitt County Anti-Saloon League.

Article 2. Its purpose is the abolishment of the liquor saloon by any and all proper means; the creation and chrysalization of a righteous public sentiment, and the proper enforcement of all law against the liquor traffic.

Article 3. The League pledges itself to maintain a strictly inter-denominational and non-partisan attitude, and will avoid affliction with any political party or such.

Article 4. All persons who are willing to subscribe to the purpose and nature of the League are entitled to membership.

Article 5. Departments of work.—There shall be three departments of work: First, agitation; second, legislation; third, enforcement of law.

Article 6. The officers of the League shall be as follows: A president, a secretary and a treasurer.

Article 7. There shall be an executive committee. This committee shall have charge and general oversight of all the work of the League.

I hope that the day is near at hand when there will be a live and enthusiastic League in every community throughout the county; and we can have it if every friend of the movement will go to work in earnest. Remember that this League is in the interest of the poor unfortunate man who is a slave to drink; it is in the interest of our young men who are being caught in the hellish meshes of intemperance; in the interest of the poor unfortunate women and children who are the greatest sufferers, and unable to help themselves. This movement is in the interest of morality, intelligence, and the general prosperity of our people. Now, let every Christian man and woman, and every friend and lover of temperance and sobriety "come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty," and we will be rid of that which has cost Pitt county more crime, more poverty, tears and heart-aches than any other one thing in it. That is strong drink.
