GREENVILLE NEEDS MORE TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES

Traffic is Congested--Travelers are Losing Time, Merchants are Losing Money and Public is Losing Patience.

RAILROAD COMPANY SHOULD BE PETITIONED AT ONCE.

It has long been apparent that this branch of the Atlantic Coast Line, running from Weldon to Kinston, ought to have two daily passenger trains a day each way. The present season has shown this need more than ever. One passenger train each way and one freight train each way are not sufficient to handle the traffic of the road, and the business of the towns situated on it is being seriously hindered.

The freight train is scheduled to leave Weldon at 6 a. m. and reach Kinston about 3 p. m., an average speed of say 10 miles an hour. The work of this train is so heavy that instead of being able to make the trip in 9 hours, it takes from 15 to 20 hours. The train is due at Greenville by one o'clock p. m., but it is frequently after night when it gets here. Thus a delay of a day in the delivery of freight is caused, which is sometimes a serious matter with the merchants who are waiting for it. So, besides overworking the train crew and station agents along the road, the railroad is inflicting loss upon its patrons.

This train also has a passenger coach attached and carries mail, but owing to the delay it is of no benefit either to passengers or to the mails, as there is seldom a day that the passenger train does not pass the freight and come in first. And the north bound freights are as badly delayed as the south bound.

THE REFLECTOR believes there is a remedy for this congestion of traffic, and that is, putting on another train. The railroad officials ought to have a train, carrying passengers and only solid cars of freight with a fast schedule, to leave Weldon about 7 o'clock a. m., reach Parmele in time to connect with all the morning trains there at 9 o'clock, arriving at Greenville say at 9:30 and Kinston about 10:30; then returning leave Kinston in the afternoon in time to again connect with all the evening trains at Parmele, and get to Weldon by 8 o'clock. This could do away with passenger service on the present freight trains and leave them to do the local freight work, thus insuring patrons their freight in good time and not work the employees to death day and night.

There are many advantages this additional train would bring. Passengers from Weldon and all intermediate points, as well as from points on the Plymouth and Washington branches, could reach Greenville, Kinston and other points south of Parmele and return the same day. This would largely increase travel and be of benefit to the railroad. Then this train could bring the fast mail that reaches Weldon at night and deliver it at points along the road early in the morning, instead of it having to be awaited for till night as at present. Beside this, passengers going north on the evening train could reach Weldon in time to connect with the fast train there for the south or with the night train going north and reach any point a day sooner than now.

The additional daily train each way would benefit the railroad as well as be a great help to the public and to every town along the road. We believe if Scotland Neck, Greenville, Kinston and other towns along the branch will unite in the matter and take it to the railroad authorities with strong petitions, the additional train can be secured. There is a possibility of gaining much by making the effort, but it cannot be secured without the effort. Experience in the past has proven that not much is had unless it is asked for. This additional train is well worth the attempt to secure it, and the effort should be made at once by every town along the road. THE REFLECTOR is ready to do its part, but the people must also act if they want the train. What will Greenville do?

Washington Letter

Special Correspondence from the Capital of the Nation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21, 1902.

Numerous reports are being received in Washington which are causing considerable anxiety to the friends of the president. Within the past week Senator Hanna made public a statement to the effect that he was in excellent health and that there was no truth in the report that he would be obliged to retire from active political life. Now there comes from the south a story to the effect that the southern organization is displeased with Mr. Roosevelt and will cast their ballots for Mr. Hanna at the next national convention, whether he authorizes the use of his name or not. The center of the disaffection seems to be in Alabama, where the President has recently removed a District Attorney and a Collector of Internal Revenue because of their efforts to eliminate the negro element from participation in republican affairs, while District Attorney Reece and Postmaster Hughes are threatened with dismissal for the same cause.

There are active preparations going on for the approaching session of Congress. Many senators and representatives have arrived in town and are getting their work into shape. Senator Cullom claims to be making preparations for anti-trust legislation. Senators Lodge and Burrows are here and are discussing the needs of the Philippine bill. They have had several conferences with Secretary Root and will doubtless be in a position to outline a bill as soon as the session convenes. Senator Beveridge has the statehood bill, conferring statehood to Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma, well in hand and will be ready to report it on the 3d. of December. The immigration bill which passed the House at the last session awaits the action of the Senate and it is hoped by the administration officials that the Cuban treaty will be ready to be sent to the Senate at an early date.

Representative Richardson is in Washington and states that the administration can count on the democratic minority in the House for the support of any genuine anti-trust legislation. Mr. Richardson does not believe that the republicans will dare to enact any legislation inimical to trust interests, but hopes they will and will marshal his forces in the House in support of it in the event of any serious attempt in that direction. Mr. Richardson expresses himself as satisfied with the result of the elections. He says that in view of the increased membership in republican states and the fact that the states had nearly all been re-districted by republican legislatures, the democratic showing was surprisingly good. He looks forward to seeing the republicans fail to "make good", as the President expressed it in New York, and anticipates a sweeping democratic victory in 1904.

"The speakership contest has narrowed itself down to a fight between revisionists and anti-tariff revisionists," said Representative Dalzell today. Of course Mr. Dalzell represents the anti-revisionists. Mr. Dalzell proposes to fight to the bitter end, but aside from the Pennsylvania delegation, there are few who regard his chances as at all good. There are already 88 votes pledged to Mr. Cannon, out of a necessary 104 and it is estimated by some that there are 32 more which are favorable to the representative from Illinois.

If the next legislature will put a tax of $1 on every dog in the State for the benefit of public schools we will take back what we thought about it.

A strikingly original man nowadays is a tolerably scarce article, even in morals. A few days ago, when it was learned that Judge A. C. Avery, of Morganton, had refused a certificate of election to the State senate on account of the absence of returns from one precinct that would have changed the result if included, it was thought by many that the judge had established a precedent; but the news hadn't traveled far before it struck a man who recalled a similar case. By the time all the people roundabout learned of the judge's commendable action several cases had been mentioned—quite a respectable number, compared to the opportunities that have occurred. We have never had much sympathy for the presumption that every public man is a rascal, nor for the idea that statesmen may not be found among politicians; and if, as appears, a man of Judge Avery's stamp is not a rara avis in office, no more, it may be inferred, is he a freak out of it.

Second Crop Pears.

Friday Mr. Allen Warren, of Riverside Nurseries, brought THE REFLECTOR three pears that are of the second crop this year in his orchard. The variety is Warrens ever bearing Leconte, and they are well developed and excellent flavor. Talk about climates, this is a fine one when two crops of pears a year can be raised.

Weevil in Grain.

Weevil in corn may be largely avoided by storing it in the husk, but this may not be desirable and with other grains this suggestion is of no effect. To treat grain after it has become infested it must be placed in a tight or reasonably tight bin or box and treated with Carbon Bi sulphide. This is a very foul smelling liquid which may be had of druggists at about 25 cents per pound. It should be used at the rate of 1 1/2 tablespoonsful to each 100 pounds of grain. It may be thrown directly on the grain in the bin or placed in shallow pans or saucers in the bin and allowed to evaporate. If it is to be thrown on the grain, throw in several places, so that the fumes shall penetrate all parts of the bin. In either case the bin should be at once covered with an oil cloth or thick blanket to prevent the escape of the fumes and allowed to remain covered for about one day. This treatment is cheap, effective and easy to apply, and does not hurt the grain or other materials in the least, for either planting or food purposes. Failure in its use must be due to either to a poor quality of Bi-sulphide, or to carelessness in application. The Bi-sulphide is very inflammable, and no light or fire can be allowed near when it is being used, and for sometime afterwards, not even a lamp, cigar or pipe.

Do We Need It?

To any one who makes careful observation of general court proceedings in North Carolina, it is clear that there is something lacking in the proper punishment for certain classes of crimes.

We believe that something which is lacking would be supplied by the old time whipping post. Perhaps some one will say that such a thing in this enlightened twentieth century would be barbarous.

Well, if crime had been reduced commensurate with the progress of human affairs and intelligence and enterprise then one might say that the use of the whipping-post would be barbarous. But sad to say, it can hardly be shown that such is the case.

The truth is, a sound whipping post would deter some persons from the commission of crime much more effectually than a term of months in a county jail or even in the State prison. And in being more effectual in preventing crime it would be economical for the State.

No punishment after the commission of a crime can make amends for the crime, and so the state is entitled to the best and most available means for preventing crime.

It was found that in England the whipping post is an effectual means of preventing crime in young culprits and adults as well. And there are many people living amongst us now who remember the effect of the whipping post here. We candidly believe that for certain crimes, petty larceny, besides certain kinds of drunkenness and the like, the whipping post would be much better punishment than the jail and penitentiary. It would not hurt for the Legislature to pass such a law. Its good or bad effects could soon be learned and if it should prove to be a bad law it could easily be repealed. It would certainly save the State a great deal of expense incurred by feeding prisoners who serve a term in jail after conviction.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

Stepped Against a Hot Stove.

A child of Mrs. Geo. T. Benson, when getting his usual Saturday night bath, stepped back against a hot stove which burned him severely. The child was in great agony and his mother could do nothing to pacify him. Remembering that she had a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house, she thought she would try it. In less than half an hour after applying it the child was quiet and asleep, and in less than two weeks was well. Mrs. Benson is a well known resident of Kellar, Va. The Best Remedy For Croup.
[From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.]

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tulu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

After years of patient study, and delving into the dusty record of the past, as well as following modern experiments in the realms of medical science, Dr. James W. Kidd, 2858 Baltes Building, Fort Wayne, Ind., makes the startling announcement that he has surely discovered the exiril life. That he is able with the aid of a mysterious compound, known only to himself, produced as a result of the years he has spent in searching for this precious life giving boon, to cure any and every disease that is known to the human body. There is no doubt of the doctor's earnestness in making his claim and the remarkable cures that he is daily effecting seems to bear him out very strongly. His theory which he advances is one of reason and based on sound experience in a medical practice of many years. It costs nothing to try his remarkable "Elixir of Life," as he calls it, for he sends it free, to anyone who is a sufferer, in sufficient quantities to convince of its ability to cure, so there is absolutely no risk taken. Some of the cures cited are very remarkable, and but for reliable witnesses would hardly be credited. The lame have thrown away crutches and walked about after two or three trials of the remedy. The sick, given up by home doctors have been restored to their families and friends in perfect health. Rheumatism, neuralgia, stomach, heart, liver, kidney, blood and skin diseases and bladder troubles disappear as by magic. Headaches, backaches, nervousness, fevers, consumption, coughs, colds, asthma, catarrh, bronchitis and all affections of the throat, lungs or any vital organs are easily overcome in a space of time that is simply marvelous.

Partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, dropsy, gout, scrofula and piles are quickly and permanently removed. It purifies the entire system, blood and tissues, restores normal nerve power, circulation and a state of perfect health is produced at once. To the doctor all systems are alike and equally affected by this great "Elixir of Life." Send for the remedy today. It is free to every sufferer. State what you want to be cured of and the sure remedy for it will be sent you free by return mail.

A Desperate Remedy

(Original.)

It happened when I was attending medical lectures. One day I went from a clinic to my room, sat in my easy chair and lighted a pipe. I expected my mother, who was coming to town, at any moment.

"Great Scott! What's that?" From my bedroom came a clear, melodious whistle. The air was, "Oh, listen to the mocking bird!" and after the chorus came an excellent imitation of the bird's notes. When it was finished, a sweet feminine voice said:

"Why don't you do your part, Billy?" My name is not Billy, and I never did any part in the song of "The Mocking Bird."

What occupied my mind was who had taken possession of my bedroom to give such a concert. I got up from my chair and proceeded to find out. The door between the two rooms opened, and there stood a very pretty girl.

We stood looking at one another for a moment equally astonished. Then she executed the feminine device, taken doubtless from the bird which buries its head in the sand to avoid being seen, of clapping her hands to her face.

"There is evidently some mistake," I remarked.

"An awful mistake."

"How did you get into my bedroom?"

"I thought it was Billy's."

"Who is Billy?"

"My brother, Billy Fanning."

"Why, he's my chum. His rooms are next to mine."

There was a knock at my sitting room door. The girl shrank back into my bedroom, and I closed the door. Turning, there was a head looking into the room—my mother.

"Dear boy!"

"Dear mother!"

Oh, if there were only a door opening from my bedroom into the hall! But there was no such door. The girl could not leave my room except by the one we were in.

"You are tired, mother, at climbing the stairs. Sit in this chair and rest."

I put her in the chair and listened to and asked the usual questions after a separation.

"I haven't any refreshment to offer you, mother, dear, but if you'll just step next door to the rooms of my friend Billy Fanning I dare say I can find something."

"I don't want anything. I have only an hour to spend with you and must get right to work at your linen."

"There's not a break in it. I looked over everything carefully last night."

"And I'll look over everything carefully this morning."

She arose and was going to my bedroom. Indeed she had her hand on the doorknob when I stopped her.

"Mother," I said, with a trembling voice.

"Oh, my boy, what's the matter?"

"Mother, before you go in there I have something of importance to communicate."

"Do tell me, quick! Has anything happened?"

"Mother, I'm engaged."

"Engaged and without consulting your poor mother! Oh, Roger, how could you?"

"And, mother, my fiancée is in that room now attending to my linen."

"Your fiancée in there! Then I'll never speak to her!"

"But, mother, it's worse yet. I haven't told you all. I'm married. It's my wife who is in there."

Poor mother sank into my arms and groaned.

"Mother, when you see her you'll be delighted. She's lovely. She's Billy Fanning's sister."

"I don't care who she is, I'll have nothing to do with her."

Now, I had purposely talked sufficiently loud for the girl in the next room to hear. She did hear and lent herself to my desperate makeshift. She opened the door and stepped boldly out.

"Mother, this is Miss—I mean my wife. I know you will love her and she will love you."

The girl walked up to mother, kissed her and asked in a voice into which she contrived to throw a tremolo, "Can you forgive us?"

"You are a very sweet looking girl," said my mother, somewhat appeased.

"Yes, mother, and when you've known her as long as I have you'll admit she's as lovely as she looks."

The girl turned away suddenly. Mother supposed it was to hide her blushes at my encomium. I caught a glimpse of her face in a mirror and saw that it was to hide laughter.

"Well, Roger, you've been a very bad boy to do this clandestinely, but I dare say when I hear the explanation I'll understand it all and not blame you."

"Yes, mother." Then I said to my supposed wife, who was making for the sitting room door, "Must you go so soon, dear?"

"Yes, but I've not touched your linen. Your mother won't have to give that up for some time yet."

When I got mother off, I went next door, where I found Miss Fanning.

"This is a serious matter," I said to her, "and I see but one way out of it. I offer you my heart and hand and ask you to consider my proposition as long as we can deceive my mother. Then we must be married or suffer the consequences."

We kept mother quiet for thirty days and told several lies each day. Then there was an announced engagement, followed by a public wedding.

Billy Fanning and my wife often whistle "The Mocking Bird" together to piano accompaniment, but my wife invariably fails to keep the required pucker.

I could hardly stand on my feet and was never real well. Wine of Cardui was the only medicine that I could depend on to do me any good, as I tried several with no success. Wine of Cardui cured me and I have now enjoyed perfect health for two years, and give you all the credit for I know you deserve it."
