News and Opinions.

There is to be a show-down between the President and Senator Pritchard very soon. It is said that the latter will demand the removal of the negro postmaster at Wilson simply because he is a negro, which action is supposed to be in line with the lily white movement. Mr. Roosevelt has insisted that the color of a man's skin has nothing to do with an appointment, that if his qualifications are up to the mark that is sufficient. So that the test is to come. Let's see who stands, pat.—Greensboro Record.

When you tackle the trust proposition you run up against a great big problem, the greatest industrial revolution since the middle ages. On no subject has more cant and nonsense been written than on trusts. It is well to use every wise effort to lessen their evil effects, but, so far as destroying them is concerned, we are afraid that it would be as easy to instill virtue into the degraded by legislation as to completely change the basis of modern business methods by law.—Raleigh Times.

Col. Julian S. Carr announces himself as candidate to succeed to Senator Pritchard. Col. Carr has a warm place in the heart of every true North Carolinian, and though he was defeated in the last Senatorial contest, 'twas because the time was not ripe for his candidacy and not from any fear as to his fitness. He is a great man and his popularity is not confined to his native heath.—Williamston Enterprise.

This is Romance.

The Bryson City Recorder says that what it would call a romantic marriage was that of Mr. A. H. Welch, of Needmore, and Mrs. Jennette Battley, formerly of Carthage, N. C., who has been living in Bryson City three months. She is 59 and the gallant groom 57.

The old couple had but short acquaintance, having met for the first time about two months ago. It seems to have been a case of "love at first sight," for although the old man had repeatedly canvassed the town selling his books, he has put in a good part of his two months recanvassing and selling books around town. The Rev. Hymen Hyde performed the ceremony in less than a minute, which made them man and wife. The bride was attired in traveling costume while the groom wore corduroy breeches and brogan shoes and his beard, which he usually wears in a plat, combed out, which almost touched the floor. There were only a few friends present. After the ceremony was performed and the friends of the couple had repaired to their homes the whole eastside of town was aroused from their peaceful slumbers by a serenading party with old fashioned cow bells, tin pails, fire crackers, etc.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Register of Deeds, T. B. Moore, has issued 366 marriage licenses within the last 12 months—5 more than any previous record.

We desire a few copies of THE DAILY REFLECTOR of Saturday, Nov. 15, to complete our file. Some one please send us this copy.

THE REFLECTOR wants to engage either a young man or young lady to canvass the town next week. Apply at the office for particulars.

Cleveland and the Trust Live.

Harper's Weekly has an appreciative and excellently analytical editorial review of ex-President Cleveland's speech at Morristown, N. J., the following extract from which is well worth reading. Premising that it has heard ex-Governor Hill and President Roosevelt on the same subject, it continues:

When now we turn to Mr. Cleveland, we find that he neither shirks, nor skulks, nor wanders far afield in the chase of a chimera but strikes at the root of the matter; and against the oppression suffered or apprehended from the trusts, propounds a defensive measure that would be at once prompt and practicable. Sweep away the high protective tariff, he says, and replace it with a tariff for revenue, and you will paralyze the trusts, so far as their power for mischief is concerned. Subjected to the check of foreign competition, American manufacturers and American producers of fuel and meat would no longer be able to wring from consumers extortionate prices for the necessities of life. Mr. Cleveland did not pretend that the abolition of the protective tariff would be followed by the annihilation of the trusts; neither did he affirm that such extinction was desirable under the conditions of industry and trade in the twentieth century. He is aware that trusts exist, even in free trade England, and that they are needed for the purpose of compassing the economies only obtainable through manufacturing on a vast scale. He perceives, however, that in free trade England, while trusts are powerful for good, they are impotent for evil. It is impossible in England to wring from the consumer an extortionate price for any of the necessities of life. That is the state of things which Mr. Cleveland aims to bring about in the United States; not, of course by free trade, which, at present, is impracticable for this country, but by means of a tariff on imports, framed with a single eye to the production of the revenue needed for the government's expenditures.

We have said that the remedy proposed by Mr. Cleveland would be at once prompt and practicable. No constitutional amendment would be needed; no invocation of a visionary right of eminent domain.

And more to the same purpose. It is worth while observing that by this interpretation Mr. Cleveland must regard the trusts of free trade England as beneficent—"powerful for good and impotent for evil"—since, under the English system of control "it is impossible to wring from the consumer an extortionate price for any of the necessities of life." Any system of law which accomplishes these results robs the trusts of their terrors and is to be preferred before Mr. Roosevelt's ineffectual method of a constitutional amendment or Mr. Hill's mischievous scheme of socialism.—Charlotte Observer.

Resolutions.

At the Quarterly Conference of the Greenville M. E. Church South Friday night the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, that this Quarterly Conference of the M. E. Church South, of Greenville, N. C., condemn some features of the entertainment given in the opera house Thanksgiving night, and order that no part of the proceeds thereof be applied in any way to the benefit of the M. E. Church South, of Greenville, N. C.; and that these resolutions be published in THE DAILY REFLECTOR and King's Weekly.

Long or Short, Men of all Sizes,

Are fitted here. We have suits that will fit the largest or the smallest man in town. We request the men who are under size or over size to come here before they conclude that there is no clothing made that is just their shape. We have Overcoats, Suits and Trousers made to fit men who think they cannot be fitted. Our "Stouts" and "Slims" are a special feature of our business. So, we say, come along, you men of abnormal sizes. Here are clothes for you, made in every good style of right fabrics, and no extra charge on account of your size. Glad you read this ad, aren't you?

The King Clothier.

Fighting The Amendment.

By the advice of John S. Wise, negroes in various counties in Virginia are to bring suits for $5,000 each for damages against the members of the constitutional convention from their county, because they were refused registration. They will also bring suit against the Governor, the registration board, and the precinct judges. The negroes will contend that all of the defendants are guilty of having conspired to deprive them of their right of suffrage, a right accorded them as citizens of the United States. The Governor is made a party to the suit because the Constitution was promulgated by proclamation.

As counsel for the negroes, Mr. Wise and Mr. Carlisle are also bringing suit in the Federal Court to set aside the Virginia amendment, alleging that it is unconstitutional in that it deprives negroes of the right to vote.

These two acts have deep interest for North Carolina, for if the Virginia amendment should be annulled it is probable that the same fate awaits the North Carolina amendment. It would set back the wheels of progress and peace in the South twenty-five years if the negro question should be thus re-opened. Let us hope that the settlement of negro suffrage made in North Carolina and other Southern States will not be disturbed.—Raleigh News and Observer

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1902.

They are fast learning American ways in far off Russia. The latest over there is cat and dog sausage.

Wilson can now thank its negro postmaster for the regularity with which the words "Wilson, N. C., &c.," appears as date lines.

In Mr. Roosevelt's case a pretty fair sort of police commissioner was spoiled to make a wabby president. The former job was about his size.

If you think your lot is particularly hard, just remember that the proof reader in the government printing office will have to read every word of the president's message.

The Henderson Gold Leaf has recently put on a new dress of type. It was already a handsome paper, one of the neatest and best printed in the State, but this new dress gives it a better appearance than ever.

The papers out in Indiana have human editors, after all. They say the late lynching was an outrage and a disgrace to the state, that the lynchers should be prosecuted, and that the victim was a brute of the lowest type, and justly deserved his fate.

Booker Washington, the silent partner of the administration at Washington, says he's ready with advice whenever President Roosevelt asks for it. It is the opinion of more than one man that the president might learn much at the feet of the sage of Tuskegee.

The fellow who stopped with his head a hot ball from his wife's pistol in South Carolina the other day because she insisted, contrary to his inclinations, on being recognized as his wife, may be eliminated from any future enumeration of obstacles to woman's rights.

Ye who pine for roast duck read this.

Los Angeles, Nov. 26.—It has developed that the death of millionaire Lee Borden in this city last Saturday, wasn't primarily due to angina pectoris, as given out, but ptomaine poisoning due to eating duck that had been in cold storage.

Now will you be content with corn bread and collards?

Another North Carolina newspaper has reached the good fortune of having a building of its own. The Concord Times, ably edited by J. B. Sherill, who for fifteen years has been the efficient secretary and treasurer of the State Press Association, announces that after December 1st it will occupy its own quarters. THE REFLECTOR rejoices with the Times in its well deserved prosperity.

The scissors man didn't get at the proof of a paragraph clipped from the Wilmington Messenger and printed in Friday's REFLECTOR under the caption, "A Remarkable Coincidence," and did not know until the paper was out that credit had been omitted. We are not after making that "coincidence" any more remarkable than it is, so hasten to refer it to the parties originally concerned.

"ABSTAIN FROM EVERY APPEARANCE OF EVIL"

The resolution adopted by a conference of the Methodist church of this town, published in this paper, gives THE REFLECTOR a text for a little sermon. There may be those who differ from us, or who may think a secular newspaper has no business to speak of things religious; but an observant secular paper can possibly see the drift of things as quickly as the religious press, and the former can help the latter in advancing the cause of Christ by speaking out on such matters when opportunity presents.

THE REFLECTOR believes that the resolution above referred to is a step that should have been taken long ago in Greenville. Christ planted the Church on earth to carry on His work until He comes again to receive it, and the going hand in hand of the Church and the world, or the Church reporting to all manner of worldliness, is not honoring Him. We believe that the raising of money by many methods resorted to in this age to further the work of the Church is not an acceptable offering to God. The Scripture teaches that God loves a cheerful giver, and that He would have us lay by of our means to carry on His work in accordance with the prosperity He has given us. The gift that carries with it the most of sacrifice is the one most acceptable to God. When a church goes down in its pocket and makes a willing offering it is honoring God and doing in accordance with Scriptural teaching. With due respect for the opinions of any who think otherwise, we believe festivals, shows and all such, for the benefit of the Church are wrong.

The frequent church attendant in Greenville has doubtless heard the ministers speak of the Church seeming to have lost its power and that spiritual life in our midst had reached a low stage. THE REFLECTOR is frank to say that it believes a prime cause for this is that the Church engages in too much worldliness. The line of demarcation between the Church and the world has become indistinct, and until this is re-established there cannot be great spiritual progress. The altars of Baal should be broken down. "Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you."

What it Means.

"Fewer Gallons; Wears Longer" means that you don't have to paint your house so often, and you don't have to use so much paint. Costs less for the job, and you don't have to do the job so often.

The new paint is not new at all. It's the biggest selling paint in the United States, and the firm that makes it is 149 years old.

Stepped Against a Hot Stove.

A child of Mrs. Geo. T. Benson, when getting his usual Saturday night bath, stepped back against a hot stove which burned him severely. The child was in great agony and his mother could do nothing to pacify him. Remembering that she had a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house, she thought she would try it. In less than half an hour after applying it the child was quiet and asleep, and in less than two weeks was well. Mrs. Benson is a well known resident of Kellar, Va. Pain balm is an antiseptic liniment and especially valuable for burns, cuts, bruises and sprains. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

The Best Remedy For Croup.

[From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.]

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

If a man makes a specialty of painting towns red he cannot hope to remain in the pink of condition.

For a Bad Cold.

If you have a bad cold you need a good reliable medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to loosen and relieve it, and to allay the irritation and inflammation of the throat and lungs. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

It is human nature to be ungrateful to the man who fights your battle for you and gets licked.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.

Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, exposes the nerves of the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures the catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach. Jno. L. Wooten.

A street car runs twice as fast when a man is trying to catch it as it does when he is riding in it.

One Minute Cough Cure.

Is the only harmless cough cure that gives quick relief. Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Pneumonia, Asthma, LaGrippe and all Throat, Chest and Lung troubles. "I got soaked by rain," says Gertrude B. Fenner, Muncie, Ind., "and contracted a severe cough and cold. I failed rapidly; lost 48 pounds. My druggist recommended One Minute Cough Cure. The first bottle brought relief; several cured me. I am back to my old weight, 148 pounds. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the phlegm, relieves the cough at once, draws out inflammation, cures croup. An ideal remedy for children. Jno. L. Wooten.

THE NIGHT BELL

[Copyright, 1902, by C. E. Lewis.]

I was on my way home at midnight and having a toothache routed out a drug clerk for a remedy. The door was opened a few inches and a pale face looked out.

"You look as if you expected an enemy," I said.

"Yes; I expected an enemy—a dead man."
 "Nonsense! You never murdered any one, and even if you had the dead don't walk about pulling night bells. You've been sticking too close and got your nerves out of whack, or perhaps you use a drug of some kind to bring sleep. If you've got any real trouble on your mind, let's hear about it."

The footsteps of some belated pedestrian approached and died away. After listening intently and nervously the clerk motioned me to sit down and then whisperingly said:

"I'll—I'll tell you about it. One night at midnight long ago a man roused me up as you have done and bought carbolic acid. He lied to me as to its purpose. I had scarcely passed the bottle over to him when he removed the cork and swallowed the contents. He stood right over there, and he cursed and cursed and fought me off when I wanted to save him. I ran for help, and when I came back he lay writhing and cursing on the floor. How he did suffer! But before they took him away to die he turned on me. He cursed me for having given him the poison, and he swore he'd have revenge."

"But you were not to blame," I said. "You didn't suspect that he was going to commit suicide."

"No; but how he raved at me! His curses have sounded in my ears ever since."

"Have you told your boss of your fears?"

"No."
 "Well, don't say a word to any one. You are simply off your nerve. The suicide may have cursed, but he was in agony and didn't know what he said. If you wait for a dead man to pull your bell, you'll die a very old man. Get yourself a brandy and brace up."

He drank a stiff dose and was the better for it, but before I went away he made a singular request. My trick at the office was up at 12 o'clock. The drugstore always closed at that hour. He wanted me to be with him over the midnight hour. I tried to laugh him out of his idea, but when I found him earnest and even apprehensive I fell in with it.

Every night for several weeks I reached the store at about 12:20 and remained for an hour. Now and then he had a call after I got there, but it was seldom we were interrupted. We never talked of the suicide after the first night. I realized that it was a disagreeable subject and one to be avoided. In fact, we had very little to say on any subject. My friend was nervous and preoccupied, and some nights he walked the floor and hadn't a word to say, while I sat reading a family almanac or brushed up on my Latin. It was a mystery at first—a mystery and a novelty.

As time passed, however, it got to be a bore, and I determined to draw out of it. My first move was to be fifteen minutes late. I found the clerk pale with fear that I would not put in an appearance at all. I made excuses about extra work at the office, and after four or five nights I skipped the store entirely. Dropping in next day, I found the man so upset that he would not trust himself to fill a prescription.

"You did not come last night," he whispered to me, "but he did. Yes, he came and rang the bell at midnight, and had I answered it he would have taken my life."
 I laughed at him, and I think he felt a bit braver when I went away. I had to give him my solemn promise that I would be on hand that night, however, and I really meant to keep it. I was about to leave the office when I was detained by the nonappearance of the man who was to relieve me, and it was half past 12 when I reached the drugstore. I rang the bell in a peculiar way, as had long been understood, but there was no answer. I rang again and again, but with no better success. Then I happened to notice that the store door was slightly ajar. I pushed it open and called. No one answered. Then I felt for a match and struck a light and stepped in and turned up a gas burner. At my feet, lying on the floor on his back, with his knees drawn up, his tongue out and his eyes open, was my clerk. After a glance about the store to see if any one was lurking I ran out for a policeman.

"Dead," he said as he bent over the man on the floor.

"He may be in a fit," I replied.
 "It's no fit. He's been flung down here and choked to death. Look at the marks on his throat."

"Some one rang the bell and got him up and then attacked him. He wasn't hit, but the murderer clutched him by the throat and choked the life out of him. See the look of horror on his face, the terror in his eyes! Why, you'd say he was looking into the face and feeling the clutch of a dead man!"

"At the hands of some person unknown" was the verdict of the coroner's jury, and I kept silence. Of what use for me to say that the assassin was the suicide who had sworn revenge; that he had come down the silent and deserted street with noiseless footsteps and pulled the bell—given my own signal, perhaps—and as the door was opened he had flung himself upon his victim and held his clutch until life went out? They would have sneered and ridiculed and jeered me.

MRS. HELENA BLAU,

Young Milwaukee Society Woman.

TEN thousand cured women have written to tell how Wine of Cardui bestows the blessing of health on every woman who takes it, rich and poor alike. Mrs. Helena Blau, No. 123 Seventh Street, Milwaukee, Wis., is one of the young women whom Wine of Cardui has rescued from a life of suffering. She writes:

The woman who has suffered from female weakness should do anything within reason to secure health. Wine of Cardui is the medicine that appeals to reasonable women—women who hold operations and cutting in horror—women who know that Nature is the best physician. Wine of Cardui gives women back their health by giving Nature a chance to build up the wasted and diseased tissue. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow and Nature, when relieved of the drains or of the poisons in the system, makes the functional organs strong and healthy again.

"Wine of Cardui is certainly 'worn out' women's best friend and I am pleased to give my experience with it. A few months ago I caught a severe cold, having been out in inclement weather, which settled all over me, particularly in the abdomen. I was in almost constant pain. I consulted a physician and took his medicine for a month and without any relief. I then decided I would try my medicine and it was a lucky day for me when I did so. I noticed a change in a few days and felt encouraged to continue taking Wine of Cardui, and my patience was rewarded, for in two weeks my pains had left me and I felt like a new woman."

Any woman who is silently suffering untold pains because she is too sensitive to undergo a physician's examination and treatment can find no excuse for not securing relief when Wine of Cardui is offered to her. There is no publicity to deter her. She can take Wine of Cardui in the privacy of her home, with as much assurance of a final cure as though a dozen doctors recommended it. Many physicians do recommend Wine of Cardui to their patients.

Why not get a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today?

WINE of CARDUI A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.

My Dream.

Though full of care
I tread the round
Of toil in which man's eager life is bound,
I faint not 'neath the load I bear;
For grievous though the burden
sometimes be,
I dream of thee!
And when, at night,
I lie enwound
In silence that is sweeter than all sound,
The darkness, kindlier than light,
Shuts out the busy world awhile,
and free,
I dream of thee!
Like to a breath
Of fragrance blown
From some shy blossom, hidden and alone,
Redeeming frost and wintry death,
So ever comes, like of bloom to me,
My dream of thee!

Like to a star
Amidst the clouds
When angry tempests hurtles in the shrouds,
And, darkling drifts the mariner
afar
So, out of storm and shadow, became on me
My dream of thee!

Ignorance.

Ignorance is one of the mightiest allies of vice. To be forewarned is to be forearmed against sin and iniquity, as well as against misfortune of any sort. Yet how many foolish mothers try to persuade themselves that ignorance and innocence are synonyms! The divine laws of purity which govern the body, must be taught our children. must be learned ourselves; then shall we and they be prepared to serve God with a pure heart fervently. Ignorance leaves wide open doors through which may enter the demons which can make of the temple where Divinity should be enthroned, a veritable hiding place for every unclean thing. We must lay aside our prudishness and false modesty, and plainly but delicately warn, instruct and admonish those who are walking in the way of sin, whether openly or secretly, and vigilantly guard those little ones whose hearts are tainted by its contagion.—Good Wealth.

Burglars Get $3,000 in Cash.

Spartanburg, S. C., Nov. 27.—Burglars dynamite the safe in the office of the Enoree Manufacturing Company, at Enoree, 25 miles southeast of here, at an early hour this morning, securing $3,000 in cash. In addition the safe in the postoffice, which was in the same building, was also opened and $300 in stamps and money secured.

The mill authorities offer a reward of $500 for the arrest of the men, who were evidently professionals in their line. Bloodhounds were telegraphed for this morning and are now on the trail of the burglars. Sheriff Vernon, of Spartanburg, went to the scene today. A message received at 4 o'clock this afternoon states that no capture has yet been made.

Besides money, a large number of valuable papers were taken from the mill company's safe. Officers in all sections are urged to be on the lookout for suspicious characters.—Charlotte Observer.

Save the Children

All stomach and bowel troubles in child or adult are due to a single cause—Indigestion. Flux, colic, cholera morbus, diarrhoea, dysentery and all complaints of like nature, are the result of undigested foods fermenting in the stomach. The only way to prevent fever and to cure such troubles without injury to the membranes lining the stomach is to restore perfect digestion.

KODOL Digests What You Eat

Kodol is the new discovery which cures all stomach and bowel troubles by removing the cause. This famous remedy checks fermentation, cleanses, purifies and sweetens the stomach. Kodol digests all classes of food and gives to the body all of the nourishment, health and strength it contains.

Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all Stomach Troubles.

"Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is just the thing for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. It has helped me more than anything else in a long standing case of catarrh of the stomach."—Oscar King, Cherry Valley, N. Y.
