MEETING OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

The Monthly Reports of County Officers Submitted.

THE PROCEEDINGS IN DETAIL.

Sheriff Was Ordered to Procure Prisoner-Proof Locks for County Jail.

The Board of County Commissioners met on first Monday, all the members being present. Commissioner Spier, who was sick at the first meeting of the new board, was present and qualified.

The amount of orders drawn on the treasurer was as follows: Paupers $170; County Home $155.74; Superintendent Health $25; conveying and boarding prisoners and guarding camp $178.50; bridges $231.45; elections $100.53; jail $123.55; books and stationery $41.80; coal $67.50; court cost $16.20; Clerk Superior Court $3.90; Register Deeds $10.86; Commissioners $39.60; committee $10; stock law territory $133.39.

The Treasurer and Superintendent of Health submitted their monthly reports.

Lemuel Brooks was granted free license to sell Bibles.

Changes in pauper list: Ashley Norris and child reduced to $2.40 per month, J. S. Cannon and wife increased to $3 per month, Miles Harper added at $1 per month, Sallie Ward added at $2 per month.

Julia Woolard was admitted to county home.

J. E. Hughes & Co.'s warehouse property was placed on tax list of 1902 at $6,000.

The sheriff was ordered to procure good locks for jail.

Robert Moore, Alonzo Allen, Tart King, Samuel Kilpatrick, Cain Thigpen, James Hardy, Boney Northern and J. S. Corbitt were released from poll tax, 1902.

Thirty one applications for liquor licenses were granted.

D. J. Whichard was awarded contract to publish county financial statement for 1902.

A. L. Blow was employed as attorney for the Board.

J. D. Gaskins was appointed bridge keeper at Grifton.

J. A. Harrington was elected standard keeper.

The official report of the various county officers for the year 1902 were examined and found correct.

The jurors for March term Superior court were drawn.

Fire in Carolina

Sunday afternoon the residence of Elder S. R. Ross, near Oakley, in Carolina township, was destroyed by fire. The fire originated from the kitchen flue. Only the furniture from the first floor of the building was saved, all that was in the second story being destroyed. We learn that Mr. Ross had about $1,000 insurance in the Pitt county association, but this amount will not near cover his loss.

Mr. J. R. Rieves dead.

Saturday afternoon Mr. J. R. Rieves died at his home about 7 miles above Greenville. He was about 51 years old and leaves a wife and seven children. He was buried Sunday afternoon. Mr. Rieves was an industrious farmer and a good citizen. He was also a Mason, and Greenville Lodge will hold a service at his grave on the fourth Sunday in this month.

County Treasurer J. B. Cherry, who has been kept at home by sickness for several weeks, was able to be out a short while today and made his report to the Board of Education. We all hope to see him back at his place of business soon.

IMPORTANT BILLS IN LEGISLATURE

Third Day's Business of Senate and House in Bi-ennial Session.

TO REGULATE MORPHINE SALE

Senator White, of Franklin, Would Put a Check Upon Sale of Pernicious Drugs.

SENATE.

In the Senate the following bills of general interest were introduced:

By Senator White: A bill to regulate the sale of morphine, chloral hydrate, cocaine, codeine, opium, or like drugs. This bill prohibits the sale except on a reputable physician's prescription, no refilling without physician's direction, and violation or connivance at nullifying the act to be a misdemeanor.

By Senator Vann: A joint resolution for a joint committee to take into consideration the codification of the state Laws and to draft a proper bill. The committee is to consist of three Senators, five Representatives.

By Senator London, of Chatham: A bill to regulate the enrollment of bills. This repeals chapter 631, session of 1901, and allows the Secretary of state, in addition to one Chief Enrolling Clerk at $300 to employ as many assistants as needed at $4.00 per day, with 10 cents a page to be paid the copyist. A substitute for this was offered by Senator Hoey is to make the Chief Enrolling Clerk's salary $250, with 5 cents a page to copyist.

By Senator London: To regulate the sale and manufacture of liquor.

By Senator Henderson, of Rowan: A bill to regulate matters before Justices of Peace whereby an appellant in a case is to give bond to an opposing party in a sum not exceeding $100, unless poverty is proved and the affidavit is accompanied by a statement from a lawyer that the Justice of the Peace has given a decision contrary to law.

By Senator Henderson, of Rowan: To amend section 75 of the Code by giving power to Deputy Clerks of the courts to act as Superior Court Clerks, and when so doing to receive the same fees and to make their signature lawful when acting for clerks. The clerk's office to be open each Monday from 9 to 4 for probate business and to be open each day thereafter till the business is transacted.

By Senator Warren, of Jones: To protect crops under a common fence. This makes a misdemeanor of removing a fence, which protects another's crop before harvest by the owner of the fence, with $50 fine or 30 days imprisonment the penalty. It provides that a notice of 90 days shall be given and the fence only be removed between the first of January and the first of March.

By Senator Bellamy, of Brunswick: To amend section 1281, Rule 8, of the Code, by which there is a stipulation concerning the laws of descent of property from a deceased husband or wife. By this the widow gets all the property of a deceased husband when there are no children, but only a child's share if there are children. The property of a deceased married woman goes to her husband and children and descendants of children who have previously died.

By Senator Blow, of Pitt: A bill to incorporate Shelmerdine, Pitt county. This town is at a point where the main line of the Beaufort County Lumber Company's Railroad crosses Clay Ro t Swamp. The officers until December, 1903, are to be Mayor J. A. Williams, Commissioners G. W. McGowan, Stephen S. Spivey, and W. A. West. No liquors will be allowed to be sold within one mile of the corporate limits, except by medical prescription.

HOUSE.

The House was in session only one hour and the following general bills were introduced: Graham, of Granville: Authorizing the Secretary of state to appoint an assistant to index laws.

Daniel, of Warren: To regulate the sale and manufacture of fire arms.

Love, of Gaston: To incorporate the North Carolina Protective Association.

King, of Pitt: Relative to hunting and fishing in Pitt county.

Anti Saloon League.

The Anti Saloon League met Sunday night in the Methodist church. Talks were made by Bev. H. M. Eare and J. N. Booth. The discussions was upon the bill introduced in the legislature by Senator H. A. London, the bill meeting the aim of the league. All present were urged to sign, and get others to sign, the petitions these will be circulated soon asking the legislature to pass the bill.

The next meeting of the league will be held in the Christian church the fourth Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Successor to Mr. Harding.

Today the County Board of Education elected Mr. J. L. Fleming as a member of the board to succeed Mr. W. F. Harding, resigned. Mr. Fleming qualified and entered upon the duties of the office. He will make a useful member of the board.

A TAR HEEL ABROAD.

The gratifying news was received in the city yesterday that Mr. Lawrence D. Tyson, an old North Carolina boy, has been elected speaker of the House of Representatives of Tennessee. Mr. Tyson is a native of Pitt county. He is the son of Mrs. M. L. Tyson and a brother of Mrs. R. H. Lee, of this city. 'Tis thus we hear of the success of "Tar Heels" abroad.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Recent dispatches throw new light on the Indianola incident. The negro postmistress was not threatened after all, but resigned voluntarily at the instance of a petition requesting her to give up the place. All of which places Roosevelt in a still worse light: he jumped at a hasty conclusion and hasn't the manhood to retract now that he finds the conclusion.—Charlotte News.

Nineteen Hundred and Three

The New Year finds Greenville's Popular Drug Store still in the lead. We are going to make a bid for a still larger and popular business this year, and this is the opening chapter of the story we shall tell you every day in the year. We have the largest stock of drugs in Pitt County, and our list of specialties covers the entire range of goods usually found in a first class drug store. Let us serve you.

MONDAY, JANUARY 12, 1903.

Don't worry Your Uncle Russell Sage says 1903 will be all right financially.

We have yet to hear of any heart failures among the trusts caused by the Massachusetts senator's eloquent philippic.

When those New Yorkers get tired of robbing the city and the custom house, they fall upon and rob each other. Anything to keep the hand in.

We fail to see just what connection Representative Morton's alleged discourtesies to a delegation of lumber men has with the present senatorial contest.

It is said that when a man marries his troubles begin, but we are inclined to believe that the troubles of most of us began when our parents married.

Out in Indiana they are burning beans for fuel. Don't you know there will be weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth when this news reaches Boston?

Judging from past history, the negro civil liberty party will be a sort of clearing house where republican campaign managers will manipulate the colored vote market.

In Toledo, Ohio, a doctor's certificate showing illness in the house must be produced before a pint of coal will be handed over. That old open fire place and back log isn't so bad, after all.

We don't care anything about President Roosevelt's intention to treat whites and blacks alike, because we know he's not going to do it, but he ought to have manhood enough not to force an officer upon people to whom he is persona non grata.

Of course it's all right for newspaper men to have political places, but the way the editorial columns of some of the state papers have slumped since the editors went to Raleigh indicates that the aforesaid political job does not pay enough to justify the employment of a substitute editor.

"To be or not to be, that is the question," so say Watson, Overman, Craig and Carr this afternoon. And the pity of it is that they cannot all go to the senate, for they are as fine a quartette as you'll come across in many a day. But three of them must go down. And there is where the tragedy of politics comes in. A half a dozen business men can be simultaneously successful, but with the politician five must suffer defeat so that one can win.—Winston-Salem Sentinel.

Yes, and like the man who goes to law, the man who wins is beaten and the man who loses is beaten badly.

Quaint Court Records.

Among the treasures of the Philadelphia Historical society is the complete record of the "Court Held at Uppland in Delowar River From 1676 to 1681." This was the court conducted by the Swedes, Dutch and English previous to the granting of the state to Penn and previous to its being named Pennsylvania. The record is quaint. One entry is of "Jan Cornelissen of Amesland, complaining to ye court that his son Erik is bereft of his naturall senses and is turned quyt madd;" whereupon it was ordered that "three or 4 persons, bee hired to build a little Blockhouse at Amesland for to put in the sd. madman." In the suit of Andries-Inckhoorn against Constable Andries Homman it appears from the record that:

"The Plt. complains that this Deft. hath pulled him by the Beard and twisted his neck, and desires to know ye reason."

On Oct. 16, 1680, Claes Clam winning an action for slander against Hans Peterss, the punishment meted out to Peterss was that:

"The Deft. not being able to prove what he hath said or any part thereof, the Court ordered that ye Deft. openly shall declare himself a Lyar."

Bet on a Sure Thing.

A broker, telling stories of men in Wall street, said: "Some years ago Jakey Field won pocket money for a week on a fly. He took a fly which had been captured by a piece of sticky paper and transferred it to the ceiling of his office. The fly could not have moved without tearing off its legs. Field leaned back in his chair and watched it. Some one came in and found him gazing upward."

"Saying your prayers, Field?" asked the visitor.

"Watching that fly," he answered. "It hasn't moved for five minutes. Then after a moment's silence, 'Say, I'll bet you five that fly doesn't move for three minutes.'"

"He won the bet and kept on winning others until some one discovered the trick and posted a sign outside the office door which read, 'Don't bet on the fly.'"—New York Tribune.

Effect of a Tropical Climate.

"The laziest fellers I ever see, not barrin' Thompson there even," said the man with the ginger beard, "was down in Central America. Tell you what I see once. I wandered into a little saloon that one of the greasers kep', and what should I see but a lot of fellers settin' round a table with a lot of dice on it and all of 'em watchin' them dice as if they s'pected them to turn over of themselves, which, sure enough, they did in a minute. Then I got on to their game. You see, about every three or four minutes they is a earthquake in that country, and them lazy half breeds was lettin' the earthquake do the shakin' of the box for 'em. Now, what do you think of that?"

Ammonia.

Few people realize the possibilities of ammonia. The preparation known as common spirits of ammonia is valuable in many ailments. For example, ten or twenty drops in a large wineglass of water will revive a fainting person. It is an excellent stimulant in case of nervous depression and headache, as it restores circulation. Again, a few drops of ammonia poured into hard water make the water soft, and it takes the dirt off of paint more quickly than anything else, takes the stains out of carpets, cleans combs and hairbrushes and makes gold and silver look as good as new.

Kept Off the Rain.

"He's perfectly quiet, gentlemen," said an innkeeper, referring to a horse which two novices were to drive, "but you must keep the rein off his tail."

"Right," said they. "We will bear it in mind."

When they returned, the innkeeper inquired how they had got on.

"Splendidly," was the reply. "We had one rather sharp shower, but we took it in turns to hold the umbrella over the horse's tail, so there was no real danger."

Early Lessons in Ornithology.

Squire (to rural lad)—Now, my boy, tell me how do you know an old partridge from a young one?

Boy—By teeth, sir.

Squire—Nonsense, boy! You ought to know better. A partridge hasn't got any teeth.

Boy—No, sir; but I have.—Punch.

She Knew Him.

"My dear," said a repentant husband to his wife, "if I have ever used any unkind words to you, I take them all back."

"No, you won't. I know you. You want to use them all over again."

Both Winked.

Boltshauser—Why didn't you introduce me to your friend Quisby just now? Didn't you see me wink at you?

Snarger—Yes, and I would have, my dear boy, with pleasure; but, you see, Quisby winked at me first.

Both Hoped.

"Well, may I hope, then, dearest, that at some time I may have the happiness of making you my wife?"

"Yes, I hope so, I am sure," she replied. "I am tired of suing fellows for breach of promise."

Sydney Smith's Wit.

As Lord Brougham one day rode by in his carriage, on the panel of which was a large B, Sydney Smith is said to have remarked, "There goes a carriage with a B outside and a wasp within!"

He Ought to Know.

Giles—There is a fortune in grain speculation.

Miles—How do you know?

Giles—Because I put one there.—Chicago News.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK

(Copyright, 1901, by Lillian C. Paschal.)
"Well, my boy, your catch isn't very big today, is it?"
June Devore was interested in the long line of boys fishing on the pier. She glanced down in amusement from under her ruffled parasol, not at the kneeling figure in knickerbockers, but at the small box, nested in seaweed, where squirmed some two inch killies.
"This isn't catch; it's bait," came in peculiarly smothered tones from under the golf cap.
A pair of twinkling, boyish eyes scanned with great interest the dainty arch of the colonial clad foot beside him, with the flaky foam of lace billowing above, while his brown fingers busied themselves with the bait.
But the sweet voice above him broke with pain and pity.
"Oh, some of them are alive, and they're such tiny baby fish. Please put them back in the water. Won't you, please?"
Now, Frank Truitt had procured the bait at considerable expense of time and trouble over in Shark river, some distance inland from the ocean, so he naturally hesitated. Seeing this, the girl opened her purse.
"See here," she said, with a winning smile; "I'll give you this if you do. It will buy enough taffy to make you and all your friends here ill." And she held a bright coin down toward the bashfully bowed head, her pitying eyes still intent on the baby killies.
Frank's friends were wont to say that his bump of humor was the most fully developed on his cranium. Anyhow at this particular juncture it strangled his conscience.
"By Jove, it's worth it—such a huge joke to recount at the club!" he thought as with apparent reluctance he dropped the innocent fresh water killies into their supposedly native element.
"The rest, you see, are quite dead," said he humbly, with the air of a remorseful culprit.
"It's too bad, but thank you so much. You are a nice boy." And for the first time she looked at him squarely, holding out the coin once more.
A slender brown hand stole up and grasped the money greedily. Then "the nice boy" rose to his feet, unfolding before her dismayed eyes as he did so five feet ten of masculine stature, while he doffed the cap and disclosed a clear cut, mustached face, whose mirthful eyes shot laughing glances toward her flaming cheeks.
"Oh, I thought—I never dreamed!" And she fled down the pier toward the hotel.
When last flutter of her white frock had disappeared in the crowd along the board walk, he replaced his cap and turned the half dollar affectionately in his hand, shaking the while with quiet laughter.
From examining the prize he fell to scrutinizing the hand which held it. It was fine, rather small, but deceptive, as some of his college opponents had learned to their sorrow.
"It is a kid's hand," he said in disgust, "or a woman's, but doctors often have undersized fists—I wonder why." The question in biology remained unsolved, for his small nephew ran up with a catch, exclaiming:
"See, uncle, what kind of fish is this?"
"Blue, with brown splashes in 'em," was the reply which mystified Frank junior. "Come, my lad. I promised your mother to have you at the hotel by 5."
As the little fellow trotted by his side, carrying proudly aloft his string of three small weakfish, his uncle glanced down and said quizzically:
"My boy, your catch isn't very big today, is it?"
"More'n you've got," was the sturdy reply.
"I don't know about that." And the man's eyes softened with a gracious remembrance. "I caught a great deal today."
"What was it?" asked the boy breathlessly.
"A beautiful view, a glimpse into wonderful depths, a woman's soul!"
"I suppose you mean the mermaid," the child nodded wisely. He dreamed fairy visions too.
But Truitt did not recount his adventure at the club that night.
"Hurry, June, dear! Frank is tramping the library carpet threadbare in his impatience, and the carriages are waiting."
Aunt Sara was in high excitement. She hovered over the bride with little motherly dips.
"And to think it's all my doings!" she murmured, proudly surveying the girl's glowing beauty, a rosy aurora, with the filmy clouds of the veil about her.
"I always said you two were made for each other, and then when at last I did get you together down at Fern Villa you were so horrid to Frank! Why, I was almost in despair. But now go, and God bless you!"
"You are a dear auntie!"—the tender lips pressed the wrinkled face—"and have been a mother to me, but I think our match was God's doing, not yours or mine." And she floated in her trailing clouds of glory down the stairs.
As he looked up and saw her coming, something rose in his throat and choked the flattering words that would have risen to his lips. A great humility came over him, as it does to every manly fellow to follow whom a woman forsakes all else.
As they turned after the solemn ceremony, arm in arm, and passed up the aisle to the jubilant strains of "Faithful and True," he whispered into the spray of orange blossoms that drooped near his left shoulder:
"Well, little wife, your catch isn't very big today, is it?"
LILLIAN C. PASCHAL.

Brutal Surgery.

The extreme clumsiness and cruelty with which operations were performed even subsequent to the fifteenth century would scarcely be credited had we not authentic descriptions of them by the operators.
Thus Fabricius of Aquapendens (1537-1619), the eminent professor at Padua and preceptor of the immortal Harvey, describes what he considered an improved and easy operation in the following terms: "If it be a movable tumor, I cut it away with a red-hot knife that sears as it cuts, but if it be adhered to the chest I cut without bleeding or pain with a wooden or horn knife soaked in aqua fortis, with which, having cut the skin, I dig out the rest with my fingers."
When the surgeons of Edinburgh were incorporated, it was required as a prerequisite that they should be able to read and write, "to know the anatomy, nature and complexion of every member of humanis body and likewise to know all vaynes of the same, that he may make fewtohemie in due time."

Thirteenth Century Children.

Somebody has unearthed a book written by Bartholomew Anglicus about 1200, of which one of the most amusing chapters is on the children of his day. Of these he writes: "They dread no perils more than beating with a rod, and they love an apple more than gold and make more sorrow and woe for the loss of an apple than for the loss of a heritage. They desire all that they see and pray and ask with voice and with hand. They keep no counsel, but they tell all that they hear and see. Suddenly they laugh and suddenly they weep. Always they cry and jangle and jape; that uneth they be still while they sleep. When they be washed of filth, anon they defile themselves again. When their mother washeth and combeth them, they kick and sprawl and put feet with and with hands and withstand with all their might." All of which sounds very modern and up to date.

A Spurgeon Sermon.

Mr. Spurgeon, taking a quiet holiday in the country, was moved to spend his Sunday morning at the little village betheh, where—not, perhaps, greatly to his surprise—he listened to one of his own sermons! At the end of the service the pastor of the Metropolitan tabernacle walked unrecognized into the vestry and thanked the preacher for the edification he had derived from his sermon. Then the flattered preacher did a foolish thing and asked his visitor's name. Mr. Spurgeon was in the best of moods. "My name? Oh, Spurgeon—you may have heard it; I preach a bit in London myself." "My dear brother's face," said Mr. Spurgeon in telling the story, "turned as red as scarlet baize."—St. James Gazette.

Another Method.

A well known doctor tells of a visit to an old colored man who was convalescing from a severe illness. After expressing his satisfaction at the progress of his patient and assuring the old fellow and his wife that his complete recovery depended only on the exercise of a little caution in the matter of diet he added, with an eye to their small store, that it would be a good thing if she would buy a chicken and prepare the broth.
The old dorky's face lit up with the memory of happier days as he eagerly turned and whispered, "It ain't absolutely necessary to buy dat chicken."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Fitting the House to the Carpet.

Among the many ideas which the Japanese have copied from western customs and remodeled to suit themselves is the covering of their floors with a special kind of matting. The standard size of a mat is 3 by 6 yards. The custom of using these mats is so general that when building the Japanese architect arranges the size of the rooms to fit the mats, and when renting a house the size of a room is stated as requiring one, two or three mats, as the case may be.

Acting Versus Drawing.

To a group of friends Ellen Terry once said: "Acting is not like drawing. You make a line. If it is wrong, you rub it out at once and make another. With acting that is impossible. There is no altering—it must stand. I often feel as if I must cry to the audience, 'Oh, that is wrong, not as I meant it to be; let me act that part or sentence over again.'"

Two Kinds of Curiosity.

Philanthropic Visitor (to jailbird)—My friend, may I ask what brought you here?
Jailbird—The same thing that brought you here—the desire to poke my nose into other people's business. Only I used generally to go in by way of the basement window.

The First Horse Show.

In the month Shebat, in the second year of King Darius, a man riding a red horse stood among the myrtle trees, and behind him were horses red, sorrel and white. Wasn't that the earliest horse show of which any authentic record still abides?

Self.

A perfect understanding of self is a perfect understanding of all things, for man is the condensed whole. From such a man no power is withheld. All things are obedient to him.—Freedom.

Mary Knew.

One Hundred Dollars A Box.

Is the value H. A. Tizdale, Saumerton, S. C., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 20 years. I tried many doctors and medicines, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." It is a combination of the healing properties of Witch Hazel with antiseptics and emollients; relieves and permanently cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, sores, cuts, bruises, eczema, salt rheum and all skin diseases. Jno. L. Wooten.

To know better is easy; it's the doing better when you know it that's hard.

Don't Worry.

This is easier said than done, yet it may be of some help to consider the matter. If the cause is something over which you have no control it is obvious that worrying will not help the matter in the least. On the other hand, if within your control you have only to act. When you have a cold and fear an attack of pneumonia, buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and use it judiciously and all cause for worry as to the outcome will quickly disappear. There is no danger of pneumonia when it is used. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucous and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health giving oxygen to the blood. Jno. L. Wooten

A man is emperor in his own house 'till a young son comes along to dethrone him.

Croup.

The peculiar cough which indicates croup, is usually well known to the mothers of croupy children. No time should be lost in the treatment of it, and for this purpose no medicine has received more universal approval than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Do not waste valuable time in experimenting with untried remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended, but give this medicine as directed and all symptoms of croup will quickly disappear. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relieves the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. Jno. L. Wooten.

Dislocated Her Shoulder.

Mrs. Joha na Soderholm, of Ferguson Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's PainBalm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep, which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Chicken Raising.

Mr. F. C. Hare, chief of the poultry division, department of agriculture, Canada, states that about four thousand chickens were reared at the government stations during the past season. When the cockerels were three months old they were placed in fattening crates, fattened and marketed. From the Bondville station, in the province of Quebec, three hundred well-bred Plymouth Rock cockerels and pullets were shipped to the maritime provinces; these chickens were sold at the normal price of 50 cents each.

Mr. Hare states that the farmers are greatly pleased with them, and that while at Amherst attending the winter fair, he had numerous inquiries for more chickens of the same breed. Mr. Hare states that it is the intention of the department to greatly enlarge the poultry work at the different illustration stations, and that in the near future large poultry houses, capable of housing 100 Plymouth Rock pullets, will be erected. These houses will be built in a practical way and will be an object lesson to farmers in modern poultry house construction. Next spring eggs for hatching can be procured by farmers from these poultry houses, and the department is anticipating good results.

January Term Now in Session.

The January term of Pitt Superior court convened this morning with Judge G. S. Furgerson, of Waynesville, presiding, and Solicitor L. I. Moore representing the State.

The grand jury selected for the term is composed of the following: G. T. Tyson, foreman, W. W. House, E. E. Griffin, Shade Cox, W. D. Nobles, Absalom Williams, L. F. Evans, W. B. Brown, D. C. Mooring, J. W. Mayo, W. J. Wainright, W. K. Woolard, J. T. Dunn, S. T. Woolard, J. A. Tripp, John Moore, Jr., Gedaliah Tucker, J. R. Corey.

Judge Furgerson gave an excellent charge to the grand jury, emphasizing especially the crimes against society and morals. He said a community cannot be good unless its morals are good.

W. B. Albritton is officer of the grand jury and L. W. Lawrence court crier.

Mr. J. J. Nobles Dead.

His many friends here learn with regret of the death of Mr. J. J. Nobles, which occurred about 2 o'clock this morning at his home six miles from Greenville. Mr. Nobles was 71 years old, and one of the country's leading men.

Mr. Nobles was a gallant Confederate soldier, and after the war conducted a mercantile business at Parkers X Roads, near town. Some years ago he stopped merchandising and devoted his attention to his farm. He was successful both as a merchant and a farmer, and accumulated considerable property. He was a good citizen and held in high esteem.

A wife and five children survive him, and of his sons, Dr. J. E. Nobles, living in Greenville.

Boarders—I am prepared to take boarders at my residence on Dickinson avenue; formerly occupied by E. B. Dudley.

LETTER TO J. L. DAUGHTRY, Greenville, N. C.

Dear Sir: Here's an interesting story about paint. We give you the name of the story-teller; write him and find out all about it.

Mr. John Hanna, grocer, of Girard, Penn., painted his house with Devoe Lead and Zinc paint. He thought it expensive, but he bought it. After finishing the job, he brought back nearly half the paint and said it was the cheapest job of painting he ever did.

Write to Mr. Burt Young and Mr. E. H. Hiler of the same place. Also to Mr. H. H. Stephenson, Cashier of Oil City (Pa.) Savings Bank.

It is the cheapest paint in the world because it is all paint. It covers most surface to the gallon, and it wears longest.

There's going to be a lot of this paint used in Greenville. When it gets a foot-hold, it never lets up and the painter who uses Devoe Lead and Zinc is going to save money for his patrons.

Yours truly,
