At their special meeting Thursday night the Board of Aldermen passed upon and adopted the bills to be sent to the legislature to provide for issuing bonds for improvements and graded school. The bills will be sent on to the legislature at an early day.

W. B. McGowan, who last week resigned as assistant day policeman, was elected night police. In reference to the difficulty between two members of the board at last meeting, it was decided that as they had apologized to each other and to the board for their action the matter would be dropped.

You know that your taxes are due, and have not been paid. If I visit you, it means cost against you. So you had better see me immediately and save cost. Look Out!

C. D. ROUNTREE, Town Tax Collector.

The statehood bill still holds its place on the senate calendar but the republicans are straining every nerve to displace it and as the session grows older without a vote it is feared that they may prove successful.

LEGISLATURE

DEADLOCKED

No One Will Give Way

But all of them Can't Have it.

[Special to the Reflector]

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 17—The senatorial caucus met again last night, took five ballots without material change, and adjourned until 8 o'clock Tuesday night.

The thirty-first ballot resulted as follows: Overman 54, Watson 48, Craig 28, Alexander 5.

WILCOX MAY GO ON

STAND TO TELL HIS SIDE.

Nell Cropsey's Sister As a Witness.

[Special to Reflector.]

Hertford, N. C., Jan. 17—Rapid progress was made yesterday in the trial of Wilcox. Attorneys for the defense think one more day will be consumed in the taking of testimony. The prosecution's star witness, Miss Allie Cropsey, sister of the dead girl, was examined.

Wilcox and his attorneys held a consultation in jail during the afternoon. It may mean that he will go on the witness stand.

BIG LUMBER BLAZE

Five Lumber Kilns and Their Contents Burned

Washington, N. C., Jan. 15.—This afternoon at 2 o'clock the dry kilns at the Eureka Lumber Company's mill took fire. The fire department turned out but was unable to subdue the flames until five dry kilns and over two hundred and fifty thousand feet of lumber were burned. Three of the dry kilns were bricked in and costly. The loss is at least fifteen thousand dollars, with but little insurance. Four men were considerably burned but not seriously.

The origin of the fire is unknown but is supposed to have been from spontaneous combustion. It was all aflame on the inside when first discovered. The wind blew favorably and the mill was saved. Had the wind been setting the flames in the direction of the mill it would have been impossible to save it. The company will rebuild the kilns at once.

The senate committee on foreign relations has decided to report the Cuban treaty, but they did not dare to do so without pledging the United States to make no further concession on the duty on sugar than is now provided by the treaty, 20 per cent. from the Dingley rates. By this means they have probably effectually blocked the negotiation of any reciprocity treaty with a sugar producing country, as the treaty provides for a 20 per cent differential in favor of Cuba.

RECOVER

South Carolina Editor

Has a Chance

For His Life.

[Special to Reflector]

Columbia, S. C. Jan. 17—Editor Gonzales, who was shot by James Tillman, still lives and is holding his own well. Indications favor improvement in his condition. Tillman is yet in jail and will remain in confinement until the preliminary trial is held.

THE LEGISLATURE.

On Thursday the senate transacted its business in a twenty-one minutes' session, the remainder of the day being devoted to committee work.

Among the new bills introduced were these:

By Norris, of Wake: To amend section 1964, of the Code, relating to penalty on railroads refusing to ship freight, changing this from a fine of $50 for each article refused to a fine of $50 for each shipment refused.

By Godwin, of Harnett: A bill to provide for the codification of the public laws of the State.

By Bellamy, of Brunswick: To amend section 1274 of The Code relating to the requirements of registering deeds of trust with Superior Court clerks.

HOUSE—THURSDAY.

The house had a number of new bills, among them being the following:

Dockery, of Richmond: To facilitate and stimulate improvement of public roads of State.

Morton, of New Hanover: To define ownership of land bounded by water.

Self, of Catawba: To amend the Law of 1899, providing that abandonment shall be cause for divorce.

Ray, of Yancey: To validate certain acts of commissioners of Yancey county.

McNeill, of Scotland: To prohibit the sale of fire crackers more than three inches long and toy pistols.

Without any intimation from Judge Parker, of New York, or his personal friends there is in Washington a growing sentiment in his favor for the next candidate for the presidency on the democratic ticket. Judge Alton B. Parker was elected Chief Judge of the court of appeals of New York State, which position he now holds, having declined to accept the nomination for governor of the state last fall. It is now recalled that New York only gave Mr. Roosevelt only 18,000 majority for Governor and there is reason to believe that his popularity in his own state is waning. Last fall Governor Odell was elected by 9,000 plurality and it is the conviction of many New Yorkers that Judge Parker could have carried the State into the democratic column. New York has 39 votes in the electoral college and it is believed that with Mr. Roosevelt as republican candidate and Judge Parker heading the democratic ticket the latter would carry all those votes.

Handsome Monument.

Some of the handsomest monument work ever erected in Greenville has been placed in Cherry Hill Cemetery during the past week, and all who have seen the monuments admire the excellent work and beauty of design.

One of these that marks the grave of the late Mr. John Flanagan is a spire monument 15 feet in height. On the die of the monument are tastefully arranged inscriptions to each deceased member of the family, while appropriate markers are placed at each individual grave.

The other is a rustic monument that marks the grave of the late Mrs. W. H. Ragsdale. On one side of this monument on the base are the simple words "At Rest" in rustic letters, the opposite side having a scroll bearing the inscription, while carved about the monument are wreaths of morning glories, lilies and ferns, the whole design showing the work of an artist's hand.

Both these monuments were built and placed by the Artop & White Co., of Macon, Ga., who have branch offices and shops at Sumter, S. C., and Rocky Mount, N. C. This firm is placing a great deal of work in Eastern North Carolina, and taking the monuments here as a sample of their work, it is no wonder that they do a large business.

Lives of candidates remind us, we can run to beat the band, and defeated leave behind us others who "also ran."

SATURDAY, JANUARY 17, 1903.

We hope South Carolina is not proud of her lieutenant governor.

Well, we don't want to exchange with Boston, if its latest agony is an octoroon.

If Wilcox is guilty, the next worst thing about him is the alleged photograph in the Winston Salem Journal.

Isn't it about time for the name of Barnyard Ripling, the eminent English poetster, to appear upon the program?

Another stringency in the money market is due. J. At-the-front Morgan has just waded into a law suit and corralled $1.50 in witness fees.

If every member of the legislature were to go up against some of the propositions in the way of boarding houses in Raleigh, Senator Spence's boarding house bill would go through with a rush.

The saloon must go. If we ever had a little doubtlet about it, the same is swallowed up, completely abolished off the face of the earth, by the intelligence that Pine Level has given the saloon that strange, haughty stare.

The Hon. John Y. Jordan, of Buncombe, who writes a letter to Governor Aycock roasting him for the scarcity of pie, must have gone to sleep during the fusion regime and woke up thinking the same old gang was behind the counter.

We'd like to see Greenville people put in some of their enthusiasm on the bills in the legislature for graded schools and public improvements. It's all right to howl for your favorite for senator, but the United States senate won't do anything for Greenville. It doesn't make much difference to us how the Alaska boundaries are settled, or how much money is spent in digging stumps out of the Ohio river, but we do want some decent streets and school houses. So get to work and vote like you cuss and pray.

Bro. Crowson, of the Burlington News, is the only citizen we have recently heard of who has declined an office which was his for the taking. His able representative, Hon. E. W. Scott, secured for him a situation in the house, but his own situation at home in connection with his excellent paper prevented his acceptance, much to the regret of his friends. Some do decline at least, if others never resign or die.—Raleigh Post.

Some Salt Water Ghosts

[Copyright, 1902, by H. S. Hale.]

In March, 1862, the bark Schuyllkill of Philadelphia encountered a brig, the Speedwell, in the bay of Biscay with a signal of distress flying.

The Speedwell had a cargo of coal for Gibraltar. She was also a new craft, this being her third voyage. While lying in the Downs at anchor at night the crew had been frightened by a moaning in the fo'castle.

At dark, on the night before the Schuyllkill came up, mates and all went away in the longboat and left the captain alone.

In June, 1863, I ran away from the Marblehead whaler Josiah Bemis in the port of Port St. Louis, island of Mauritius. A week after she had sailed away there came into port a ship called the Golden Horn, owned by an English firm in Bombay. She had touched at a port in Ceylon and was bound for Liverpool, and the crew had forced the captain to put in at St. Louis on account of the ship being haunted. Very little of the story leaked out when the six of us who had deserted the whaler shipped aboard of her.

The captain and both mates were English, and there were two English sailors in the fo'castle. Of the thirteen men forward there were five Portuguese. The cook was a negro and the steward an Irishman. Of those arriving in the ship at Port St. Louis only the captain and first mate remained. Cook, steward and all others were new hands. Four of the Americans were educated young men who had shipped for a whaling cruise in a spirit of adventure. The captain and both mates were above the ordinary, and even the cook was a man of considerable education who had been driven to sea by hard luck ashore. I tell you this because we had a mystery aboard, and superstition played no part in it.

Such of us as had heard the gossip about the ghost from the old crew had forgotten it when the Golden Horn was three or four days out. She was a fast craft, well found in every particular, and there was nothing to find fault with. One night, while I was acting as lookout on the bows, the hour being between 1 and 2 o'clock, I turned my face for a moment and saw a man standing about five feet away. I was in the captain's watch, which is really the second mate's watch, and Mr. Leslie, the second mate, was pacing the quarter deck, as I could see. It being a quiet night, with all sails full, the other men of the watch on deck were lying about to catch a wink of sleep, but ready to spring up at a call.

I at first thought the man to be the captain, though it would be strange if he came forward. Looking closer, I saw that he was a total stranger. He was a tall, heavy man and had on oilskins, though the night was fine. If masquerading was not almost a crime on shipboard, I might have thought it the cook or steward dressed up to play a joke. I could see the man at the wheel, and the mate and I looked about and counted the men in the watch. Then I advanced upon the stranger, and he backed up a few feet, glided to the port rail and swung himself over and out of sight.

I listened for the splash, but none came. I climbed upon the rail, but no one was in sight. I was still looking and wondering when Mr. Leslie came forward, and when he heard my story he admitted that it was the ghost that had driven the other crew away. The spook had been seen by every man who stood watch from midnight to 2 o'clock, but by no one else and at no other time.

I promised to say nothing to any of the men, and I kept my word, but next night it was seen by the lookout just as I had seen it, and after two or three days more the thing was out. The Portuguese flunked at once and almost threatened mutiny, but the others of us, assisted by the officers, went coolly at work to solve the mystery. Not one of us was a believer even in dreams. We stretched ropes across the deck, but the shadow passed to the rail and over just the same. We stretched a net along the rail, but it went through the net as a puff of smoke would. We lighted the decks, and we even extinguished the binnacle light for a few minutes, but it made no difference. On one occasion every man in the ship stood on the spot and swung his arms and sought to grasp something, but the ghost came and stood and disappeared just the same.

At Cape Town the Portuguese cut sticks, and four English sailors were shipped. We were now all English speaking and all white men except the cook. We were determined to "lay" that ghost, and for at least twenty nights after leaving Cape Town we experimented. Not one of us was afraid, but the whole thing was considered a lark.

Do what we would, that shadowy figure appeared. It came as we lay becalmed, and it came as we were lying in a gale. No man saw its face. You simply saw a man there. As you started forward he stepped back and then to his left. There was no sound of feet, no noise at the rail. From forehead down to throat was a darker spot in the shadow, as if veiled. The arms seemed to hang down, but you also lost sight of the hands in the shadow. Captain, mates, steward, cook, every man aboard, went on lookout and saw the ghost.

We took the ship into port, but no one wanted any more of her. The story got out, and for six months she was idle. Then she got a charter for Australia, was spoken twenty-two days out and after that was never heard of again.

M. QUAD.

THE MAN WHO HAS MY NAME

[Original.]

I am a real estate agent. In the city in which I live is a man of the same name. My name is Edward Arthur Mills. The other fellow's name is Edward Allen Mills. He is a disreputable character, always getting into trouble, and, as we are both known as E. A. Mills, I, being the better known, usually get the credit for his misdeeds. His father many years ago was prominent and was presented with a silver service. The son pawned it, and it was soon reported that my father's testimonial was to be seen in the window of a pawnshop. This alone cost me hosts of friends. The only business Mr. Edward Allen Mills followed was that of detective, at which he was very expert. Being dishonest himself, he knew how to track dishonesty.

One afternoon a messenger came into my office with a note for E. A. Mills, which I opened. It read:

Call at once at the Bingley hotel.

P. Y. BROWN.

I knew the man to be a large real estate operator in a neighboring city and hoped for an important order. Going to the hotel, I found Mr. Brown, who, upon learning that I was Mr. Mills, told me that during the preceding night his room had been entered and he had been robbed of $5,000 in bills which he had with him to make a tender for a piece of property he claimed to have purchased, the owner asserting that it had not been sold.

Mr. Brown was a steady talker who would permit of no interruption and insisted on giving me all the facts before I could get in a word. By that time I concluded to let him remain for awhile in ignorance of my true vocation, trusting that his mistake might turn out to be of some advantage to me. It was near 6 o'clock when I called, and he invited me to go down to dinner with him, when he would have plenty of time to give me the facts. It was plain to me that I was supposed to be Mills the detective instead of Mills the real estate dealer. I resolved to take advantage of the mistake to get some satisfaction for the damage done me by Mr. Mills' unenviable reputation by eating a good dinner meant for him.

Mr. Brown was an epicure and set before me a feast with plenty of wine. The consequence was that before we had finished I had drunk my share of two bottles of champagne. Wine makes me stupid and sleepy, and I asked my host's permission to go up to his room and lie down. He told me to do so and said he would be up presently himself. He gave me his key, which I inserted in the door, but found that it had not been locked. I went in, felt my way in the dark to one of two beds in the room and, being somewhat "absentminded," took off my clothes and went to bed.

Suddenly I was awakened by some one in the room. I expected to see Mr. Brown light the gas, but instead it was lighted by a woman. Her back being turned to me, I had time to slip out of and under the bed. From my hiding place I saw the woman take out a large bundle of bills, count them and place them under her pillow. Then she went to a door leading to an adjoining room, turned the knob stealthily and listened. Finally she turned out the gas and got into the other bed, which, fortunately for me, was farthest from the door.

It was plain to me that I had got into the wrong room, which, I suspected, was the one next to Mr. Brown's. If so, this woman was the thief and had obtained access to his room through the intervening door. Waiting till I heard her snore, I stealthily gathered up my clothes and, crawling to the door, unlocked it and went out. Just as I did so the night watchman came along and, seeing me stealing out of a room undressed, took me in charge. However, I succeeded in getting him to let me prove the story I told him, and after dressing I went downstairs with him. The room I had slept in was found to be next to Mr. Brown's, and, calling for the police, we made the raid.

The woman told a very straight story, which of course convinced no one, and she was ordered to dress and come along, but before we left the hotel the proprietor was called up and identified her as one of the most respectable patrons of the house. Then the bills were examined and found to be no more than necessary for her traveling expenses. The result was that she was permitted to go back to bed after receiving a humble apology, and I was taken to the station and locked up.

Words cannot describe the horror of that night in a cell. A drunken prisoner was brought in fighting a woman screaming. While these people were making night hideous without my cell the rats were scurrying about within. Fortunately I had not been imprisoned till 2 o'clock in the morning, so the night was short, and when brought up for examination in the morning I found no difficulty in proving my identity as a prominent real estate man and was discharged with a warning from the justice to stick to my own trade and let detective work alone.

The next day a newspaper gave the case of Mr. Edward A. Mills, arrested for putting up a job to rob a prominent lady of a neighboring city, and berated the justice for accepting his "gauzy story." Of course the item was seen by many of my acquaintances, with great detriment to my reputation and my business, while my intimate friends have since hounded me with their jeers as to my episode in the detective business.

PHILIP TOWNE ANDERSON.

Vague.

"I've been thinking of it ever since I started on my present trip," said the drummer thoughtfully, "and I'm hanged if I can make up my mind just what she was aiming at. You see, some time ago I realized that, traveling about the country as I am, I was taking a good many chances; so I decided to take out an accident insurance policy.

"My dear," said I to my wife after I had acted upon the thought, "I have done something today that I should have done when I first started on the road. I have taken out an accident insurance policy on my life. If I am killed, the company pays $5,000. If I am injured, then I get $25 a week."

"For how long?" she asked.

"As long as I am laid up."

"That might be only a week."

"Yes."

"And you would only be entitled to $25?"

"That is all."

"And if you get killed you get $5,000?"

"You would," I answered patiently.

"Well, the next morning when I started on my trip she threw her arms around me and cried:

"Now, John, for heaven's sake what ever you do don't get injured!"—Detroit Free Press.

An Artist's Training.

Rosa Bonheur used to say that her youth was one of great poverty; then she would add some droll stories about the family method of regulating its finance. The studio was a collection of odds and ends, and M. Bonheur knew how to turn that disorder to account.

When he received money for his work, he would take a handful of coin and throw it at random about the room. Then in times of stress, when there was apparently not a farthing left in the house, the entire family would set to work searching in nooks and corners. Sometimes they would find a five franc piece, and that would ward off starvation.

To perfect herself in her study of animals young Rosa spent days in a slaughter house. The men were perplexed at seeing a young woman there and sometimes made it disagreeable for her, but good M. Emile, a butcher of great strength, announced that whosoever annoyed her would have to reckon with him. Then she was able to work undisturbed.

Baccarat.

Baccarat is a very simple game. The dealer and each side of the table have two or three cards. The object is to get as near nine as possible, and tens and court cards do not count. If the two first cards dealt do not together amount to five, the player asks for another. If above five, he does not. The sole question in doubt is whether a player whose two cards together make five ought to draw a third card or not. Because of this doubt it has been ruled by French courts that baccarat is not a game of chance, and yet it is a mathematical certainty that either the chances of bettering the hand are improved by drawing a third card or diminished. Considering, therefore, the large sums that are risked at this game, it is somewhat curious that no one has ever taken the trouble to work out the probabilities.

A Narrow Escape.

An actor named Suett having offended another actor, the aggrieved party was determined on revenge and therefore waited at the theater door to punish him.

The night was extremely wet and dark, and as the actors passed, most of whom were muffled in their cloaks, the enraged man was obliged to inquire of each of them lest he should cudgel the wrong one.

At length Suett arrived. Rushing in, wrapped in his cloak and drenched with rain, he was addressed with the usual query:

"Are you Suett?"

"No," replied he; "I'm dripping," and so passed safely into the theater.

A Great Wheel.

Laxey, in the Isle of Man, is the headquarters of the lead mines of the island, more than half the ore being obtained there. It is celebrated also for its great wheel, which was erected in 1854. Its diameter is seventy-two feet, and so splendidly is it set that there is no oscillation, and it has been going practically ever since its erection.

Quicker Than Thought.

A little boy, hearing some one remark that nothing was quicker than thought, said he knew better than that; whistling was quicker than thought.

Being asked to explain, he said:

"In school the other day I whistled before I thought and got a licking for it."—Evangelist.

He Could Afford It.

"John," she said, "do you think you can afford a new gown for me?"

He looked at her sharply.

"Have you ordered it?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Then," he said, with a sigh of resignation, "I can afford it."—Chicago Post.

Immortality.

Humanity and immortality consist neither in reason nor in love; not in the body nor in the animation of the heart of it nor in the thoughts and stirrings of the brain of it, but in the dedication of them all to him who will raise them up at the last day.—John Ruskin.

Mean Bertie.

Bertie—Are you dining anywhere on Thursday?

Appleby (eagerly)—Thursday? No.

Bertie—How hungry you'll be on Friday!—Exchange.

The prismatic color of shells, scales of fish, wings of insects and feathers of birds depend upon the interference of light in the thin plates that compose the integuments.

Unconscious From Croup.

During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation, says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucous and shortly the child was resting easy and speedily recovered. It cures Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health giving oxygen to the blood. Jno. L. Wooten.

Once there was a woman who couldn't be flattered, but she wasn't alive any longer.

Don't Worry.

This is easier said than done, yet it may be of some help to consider the matter. If the cause is something over which you have no control it is obvious that worrying will not help the matter in the least. On the other hand, if within your control you have only to act. When you have a cold and fear an attack of pneumonia, buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and use it judiciously and all cause for worry as to the outcome will quickly disappear. There is no danger of pneumonia when it is used. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

The hopeful man never gets anything, but he has a lot of fun keeping on guessing.

One Hundred Dollars A Box.

Is the value H. A. Tisdale, Satterton, S. C., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 20 years. I tried many doctors and medicines, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." It is a combination of the healing properties of Witch Hazel with antiseptics and emollients; relieves and permanently cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, sores, cuts, bruises, eczema, salt rheum and all skin diseases. Jno. L. Wooten.

It is a good deal harder for the sinner to be virtuous than for the virtuous to sin.

Croup.

The peculiar cough which indicates croup, is usually well known to the mothers of croupy children. No time should be lost in the treatment of it, and for this purpose no medicine has received more universal approval than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Do not waste valuable time in experimenting with untried remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended, but give this medicine as directed and all symptoms of croup will quickly disappear. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

When a woman puts on overshoes she turneth away the impudent gaze of man.

A Scientific Discovery.

Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or over-loaded. Kodol supplies the natural juices of digestion and does the work of the stomach, relieves the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol digests what you eat and enables the stomach and digestive organs to transform all food into rich, red blood. Jno. L. Wooten.

The man who wants but little below suffers no stock of disappointment.

The crowned heads of every nation. The rich men, poor men and misers. All join in paying tribute to DeWitt's Little Early Risers.

H. Williams, San Antonio, Tex., writes: Little Early Risers Pills are the best ever used in my family. I unhesitatingly recommend them to everybody. They cure Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Torpid Liver, Jaundice, Malaria and all other liver troubles. Jno. L. Wooten.

"The nicest and pleasantest medicine I have used for indigestion constipation is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets," says Melard F. Craig, of Middlegrove, N. Y. "They work like a charm and do not gripe or have any unpleasant effect." For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Dislocated Her Shoulder.

Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, of Pergus Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep, which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Winterville Department.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., Jan. 17.

The public debate last night by honorary members of the Vance Literary Society was quite a lively affair. The question was virtually that the white man's taxes shall not help to educate the negro.

The fact that the judges rendered their decision in favor of the negative does not settle this question for the people, however, and each man will continue to think for himself.

H. M. Hardee, of Norfolk, spent Tuesday and Wednesday in town.

The A. C. Cox Mfg. Co. received yesterday another car load of galvanized fence wire which they weave themselves into any style fence a man wants. Those who are acquainted with their fence know that it is woven of continuous strands of wire, which makes it the strongest fence on the market.

Deputy Collector Jno. L. Phelps was in town Thursday.

Harvey Cox, of Coxville, came down Friday morning to accept a position with the A. G. Cox Mfg. Co. His mother, Mrs. Evelyn Cox, will move her family here in a week or two.

R. H. Hunsucker went to Snow Hill yesterday to deliver some buggies.

Mrs. J. D. Cox is visiting at Littlefield.

MOTHER'S UNION

Wednesday, Jan. 14th, Mother's Union met at Mrs. R. G. Chapman's and was called to order by Mrs. F. O. Cox, Vice Pres. Opened by reading the 2nd. chapter of First Epistle of John, followed by prayer. Roll called and minutes of last meeting read. Mrs. C. T. Kittrell being called for, read "Trust and Trustfulness," on which interesting comments were made. Mrs. F. O. Cox was next called and read "The child in our midst," which formed a basis for interesting discussion. Mrs. F. O. Cox, Mrs. C. T. Kittrell and Mrs. Dr. Cox were appointed a committee to visit the mother's of the town who have not attended our meetings, and explain to them the purposed of our work and invite them to co-operate with us.

This being our first meeting of the new year, it was resolved that we as a body thank Mrs. Robert R. Cotten for her highly intellectual and instructive lecture which she gave us on new year's night. Every one was delighted as well as instructed by her thorough and deep reasoning. We feel sure it will result in much good here in helping our mothers realize their great responsibilities. Would that our state had many Mrs. Cottens to spread the intelligence so much needed among the mothers.

We hope that in the near future she will be able to devote her whole time to this great and noble work for which she is so admirably fitted. Resolved, that we send a copy of this to Mrs. Cotten and a copy to the Greenville Reflector.

The Cash System.

Realizing that selling goods for cash is the safest and best method of doing business—best for us and best for our customers, as it enables us to sell cheaper—we have decided that after February 1st NO GOODS WILL BE SOLD ON ACCOUNT TO ANY PERSON.

It was our policy from the beginning to do only a cash business, but during the past year there were instances when, for accommodation, the policy was departed from. But now it is our purpose to adhere to this policy, and this notice is given that all may know that after February 1st WE WILL SELL NO GOODS EXCEPT FOR CASH.

Doing strictly a cash business will enable us to sell goods on a very close margin, and it will be to your interest to trade with us. We have a complete stock of all kinds of Groceries and Family Supplies. JOHNSTON BROS.

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders. I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. Mrs. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Milo Center, N. Y.
