SEASONABLE BARGAINS.

YOU know our policy concerning the cleaning up of seasonable merchandise in its season. To make thorough work of a clearance sale every item must suffer the severest cuts. Not an item in this store that has not suffered with the "price knife." If you will take the time to make a careful investigation the economy of buying now will impress itself upon you.

RICKS & WILKINSON.

AN APPEAL TO THE FARMERS OF PITT COUNTY.

I want every farmer to meet me next Saturday at 2 o'clock, at the Farmers warehouse. The object of this call is a step to organize the farmers of the state into an association known as the North Carolina Farmers Protective Association. This is the outgrowth of the meeting held in Rocky Mount in December last. The committee appointed by Col. Cunningham at that time to get up a plan of operation have been at work since then studying a plan by which the farmers of the state could be effectively brought together and united for a common cause, mutual protection and advancement.

Plans have been developed and now we are ready to push the work of organization. There never has been a better or more opportune time to get the farmers together than right now. All other classes and callings of men are organized for their own benefits, but the farmer has none, consequently, instead of working together for a common cause they are more frequently pulling right against one another.

Farmers' organizations have sprung into existence in the past, done good, and from first one thing and another have gone to pieces, but in each instance all agree that they have accomplished good results. Inquiring into the failure of previous farmers organizations, the committee having in charge the work of mapping out a plan for this one have strenuously endeavored to steer clear of any and all things even remotely calculated to damage or bring into question anything detrimental to an industrial organization of its kind.

I sincerely hope that every farmer in Pitt county who can possibly do so will come out next Saturday and by his presence, if nothing else, endorse the work. This organization has for its purpose the general upbuilding of the agricultural classes, the dissemination of information and facts calculated to benefit the farmer without antagonizing any other calling or class or men engaged in legitimate business.

I most earnestly beseech every one to take an interest in this matter and help to build up the strongest industrial organization of the kind that ever had life in the state. Great good can and will result from the effort if the people will but place their shoulder to the wheel and help. Every one can do something, therefore don't stay at home because you can't make a public speech, or because you happen to be a small farmer. The small farmer is the very one to make the organized a strong one.

I firmly believe that if the farmers of the state will but make up their minds to join this association and do their full share of whatever they may be called upon to do greater and more substantial benefit will result from it than any previous attempt ever made. [Notwithstanding there are numbers of good clear minded men who don't think the farmers can be relied upon to build up an association of this kind simply because such efforts in the past have been more or less failures. I think the time is more ripe to prove that such is not the case. Farmers are difficult to manage because there are more of them than there is any other calling, but I believe that if they can see the great benefits to be derived from united action and obnoxious measures to the general public can be kept out of it right now at this time, a healthy, strong industrial organization can be launched and successfully handled.

The foundation upon which it is proposed to rest this association is solid. The purposes and objects are praiseworthy and noble. The results to be attained are just and right therefore with the support of the people, success will result from the effort.

Hill's Political Mission.

New York, Feb. 6.—It set the "amen corner" of the Fifth Avenue hotel agog to-day when it was learned that coincident with Borough President Cantor's invasion of the South in the interests of the presidential aspirations of Judge Alton B. Parker, of the court of appeals, ex-Senator David B. Hill had come quietly to the Hoffman house and as silently folded his tent and returned to Wolfert's Roost.

It was taken for granted that the ex senator was here doing a bit of political carpentry, driving a few good, stout nails in the coffin of Judge Parker's presidential boom. It is always inferred that Mr. Hill's mission is political when he stays at the Hoffman house and legal when he registers at the Earlington.

The hotels were full of southerners last night, because of the Georgia society's banquet; the ex-senator had many visitors who were unknown to those about the corridors of the Hoffman house, but it is generally accepted inference that certain big hatted men with bristling mustaches are on their way back to the South today with information as to David Bennett Hill's estimate of the availability of Parker as presidential timber.

Anti-Saloon League.

At its meeting in the Baptist church Sunday afternoon the Anti Saloon League passed the following resolution, introduced by ex-Governor Jarvis:

"The Anti-Saloon League, in public meeting assembled in the Baptist church in Greenville, Feb. 8, 1903, in the exercise of the right of petition to the general assembly, do resolve:

"That while the Watts bill now pending in the house of representatives makes some advance, it falls far short of the legislation needed for the suppression of the evil of the open saloon and the uncontrolled whiskey traffic.

"That we desire to express our decided preference for what is known as the London bill, and we urge that its main features be enacted into a law, and we especially endorse that feature which requires a person applying for retail license to file with his application a petition signed by a majority of the qualified voters of the city, town or county in which he proposes to retail liquor."

The above will be circulated for the signatures of prominent business men who are not members of the league. It will then be published in the papers at Raleigh and presented to our legislators.

Farmers May Retail Tobacco Without a License.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7. — Commissioner of Internal Revenue Yerkes has decided that a farmer has a right to retail his tobacco in its natural state without a license.

This decision grows out of the action of Deputy Collector Eddius at the last Orange court. He stopped several farmers from selling their own product. The matter was brought to the attention of Yerkes with the above result.

He put his arm around her waist, And the color left her cheek; But upon the shoulder of his coat It showed up for a week.

Good Politics and Good Morals

The Greenville REFLECTOR is eminently right in declaring that the political future of most of the members of the legislature will be determined by their attitude toward the London bill. It is a fair measure, a reasonable measure, and one that tends to the betterment of the moral and financial condition of the state. Nobody is fighting the London bill because its purposes or provisions are evil; the distillers and liquor dealers oppose it because, as they say, "It affects our interests unfavorably." Exactly. When the interests of the liquor-maker and liquor-seller go against the interest of the men, women, and children of the state, it is the state's duty to affect those interests unfavorably. The moral forces of the commonwealth are behind those who contend for the enactment of the London bill. The democratic party has the power to bring into existence in a day a prohibition party in North Carolina that will be able to overthrow any political organization that opposes it, and it would be the part of wisdom not to call the moral forces of the state into independent political action. When you can't beat a good man in a good cause, it's mighty good politics to go with him.—Gastonia Gazette.

A New Idea and a Good one.

A prominent citizen of Statesville, in conversation with The Landmark a few days ago, suggested that inasmuch as the state, the counties and the towns were all casting about for additional sources of revenue, that the legislature should levy a tax on investments in life insurance, just as other investments are taxed. Much money is invested and more is being invested daily in life insurance policies, and the gentleman named insists that this form of investment should be taxed just as bank stock and other holding of like kind are taxed. The idea is a new one but on the face of it there is no apparent reason why this tax should not be levied, and we pass the idea to the finance committee of legislature.—Statesville Landmark.

MONDAY AFTERNOON, FEBRUARY 9, 1903.

PLAIN LANGUAGE.

By petition, by personal letters and through the press more than 500 of the voters of Pitt county have asked their representatives in the legislature to cast their votes and use their influence for the London bill. These representatives know the will of their masters—the people—and if they do not do it, they will have to reckon with the power that put them in office. There must be no half way measures. Our legislators were elected to serve the people. If they do not do this the people will remember it, and THE REFLECTOR will help them to remember.

A CRY FROM THE DARK.

We fail to grow enthusiastic over the following bouquet thrown to the South by the New York Sun:

"The only redemption for North Carolina and the South is in the sending of men like Hon. Lee S. Overman to congress"

Whatever manner of "redemption" we may stand in need of, we do not wish the same to come via such rabid, South-baiting newspapers as the New York Sun. Senator Overman is, of course, the equal in intelligence, patriotism and moral rectitude of any member of the senate, but we have plenty more just like him in North Carolina and the South, and have been sending them to congress these many years. Northern newspapers speak of "the redemption of the South" as if this were a land of benighted heathens, groping in the darkness of primeval chaos. The truth is we have as much enlightenment, culture and manhood as any section of the country. There are five hundred times more murders, suicides, divorces, etc, and cases of starvation and heathen ignorance in the North than in the South. Every city in the North reeks with vice and crime, ignorance, inhuman cruelty, stealing and debauchery in official life.

Let Northern newspapers redeem the waste places at their own doors before they constitute themselves missionaries to the South.

THE REFLECTOR'S BADGE OF HONOR

The one lawyer who had the nerve to show that he had sold himself to the whiskey ring and appeared before the meeting in Raleigh, Thursday, to fight temperance legislation must have felt awfully lonesome. The poor fellow sold himself for a mess of pottage.—Greenville REFLECTOR.

It does not strike us that such "arguments" in favor of prohibition from the organs of the anti-saloon league are calculated to win many recruits for the cause.—Wilmington Messenger.

What sort of arguments would you use with people who have no more respect for themselves or fear of God than to shamelessly sell the lies of their tongues to whiskey distillers? We believe that the ethics of the legal profession forbid a lawyer to defend a man whom he knows to be guilty. The saloon and the manufacturers are guilty in the sight of decent people. If championship of manhood and decency wins for THE REFLECTOR the title of "organ of the anti-saloon league," then we proudly wear it as a badge of honor. With us it is not so much a question as to what is "calculated to win recruits to the cause," but the truth to know and dare maintain.

We acknowledge the receipt of the report of the superintendent of public instruction. The report is a handsomely bound volume, and contains, in addition to pages of useful information, an article in memoriam of the late General Thomas Fentress Toon, formerly superintendent of public instruction. We return thanks to Superintendent Joyner, and shall doubtless have occasion to refer to the report during the year.

Having failed as a reformer in every other line, the Reverend Ranting Doctor Charles H. Parkhurst, of, nowhere in particular, is now attempting to reform the newspapers. His latest is a proposition to establish and edit a "model" newspaper. If he is wise he will have the obituary and undertaking arrangements made in advance.

If the London bill does no good it can do no harm and we are content to stand off and watch the fight without fear or apprehension.—Durham Herald.

Does the Herald expect to "be carried to the skies on a flowery bed of ease"?

When the temperance bill comes up for final action in the legislature the yea and nay vote should be recorded and published. The people want to know how their representatives vote on this question.

Scientists declare that man's little toe is doomed to pine away and finally become nil and nit. However, this will leave most people with plenty of understanding.

After considering all the circumstances of the surrender of Utley, we are inclined to believe that his plea of insanity was perfectly true.

Oh! when will those girls who use more perfume than soap see the error of their way?

Will some one please introduce a bill to suppress that punster on the Durham Sun?

It's about time for some government statistics regarding the crop of spring poets.

When you want GOOD job printing THE REFLECTOR office is the place to get it.

Tendency of the times.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to the subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases medical men have to contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia always results from a cold of from an attack of influenza (grip) and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. This has been fully proven in many thousands of cases in which this remedy has been used during the great prevalence of colds and grip in recent years, and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. Pneumonia often results from a slight cold when no danger is apprehended until it is suddenly discovered that there is fever and difficulty in breathing and pains in the chest, then it is announced that the patient has pneumonia. Be on the safe side and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the cold is contracted; it always cures. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

A Weak Stomach.

cause a weak body and invites disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures and strengthens the stomach, and wards off and overcomes disease. J. B. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Christman, Tex., says "I could not eat because of a weak stomach. I lost all strength and run down in weight. All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefited me, and after taking four bottles I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health."
 Jno. L. Wooten.

A Mother's Recommendation.

I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a number of years and have no hesitancy in saying that it is the best remedy for coughs, colds and croup I have ever used in my family. I have not words to express my confidence in this remedy.—Mrs. J. A. Moore North Star, Mich. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

The Easy Pill.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers do not gripe nor weaken the system. They cure biliousness, jaundice, constipation and inactive livers, by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectually, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach, liver and bowels that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely. These famous little pills exert a decided tonic effect upon the organs involved, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the trouble.
 Jno. L. Wooten.

The scratch of a pin may cause the loss of a limb or even death when blood poisoning results from the injury. All danger of this may be avoided, however, by promptly applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It is an antiseptic and quick healing liniment for cuts, bruises and burns. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.

The only positive cure for blood, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, cuts, burrs, bruises, eczema and all abrasions of the skin. DeWitt's is the only Witch Hazel Salve that is made from the pure unadulterated witch hazel—all others are counterfeits. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is made to cure—counterfeits are made to sell.
 Jno. L. Wooten.

One Minute Cough Cure give relief in one minute, because it kills the microbe which tickles the mucous membrane, causing the cough, and at the same time clears the phlegm, draws out the inflammation and heals and soothes the affected parts. One Minute Cough Cure strengthens the lungs, wards off pneumonia and is a harmless and never failing cure in all curable cases of Coughs, Colds and Croup. One Minute Cough Cure is pleasant to take, harmless and good alike for young and old.

Assuming the Husband's Name.

The practice of the wife assuming the husband's name at marriage originated from a Roman custom and became the common custom after the Roman occupation. Thus, Julia and Octavia, married to Pompey and Cicero, were called by the Romans Julia of Pompey and Octavia of Cicero, and in later times married women in most European countries signed their names in the same manner, but omitted the "of."
 Against this view it may be mentioned that during the sixteenth and even at the beginning of the seventeenth century the usage seems doubtful, since we find Catherine Parr so signing herself after she had been twice married, and we always hear of Lady Jane Grey (not Dudley), Arabella Stuart (not Seymour), etc. Some persons think that the custom originated from the Scriptural teaching that husband and wife are one. This was the rule of law so far back as Braeton (died 1268), and it was decided in the case of Bon versus Smith, in the reign of Elizabeth, that a woman by marriage loses her former name and legally receives the name of her husband. Altogether the custom is involved in much obscurity.

Little Big Men.

Suwarow, the greatest of Russian generals; Frederick the Great, David Garrick, the wonderful actor, and Alexander Hamilton, whom Talleyrand pronounced one of the three greatest men he had ever known, were slender and below the middle height. The brave General Marion "was in stature of the smallest size, thin as well as low," and Dr. Kane, who surpassed all of his arctic companions in braving torrid heat and polar cold, was but 5 feet 6 inches in height and weighed at his best only 135 pounds. But more dwarfish than any of these ghostly beings was that phenomenon of the eighteenth century, the Abbe Gallani of Naples. "Personally," says Marmontel, "the abbe, who was but 4 feet 6 inches in stature, was the prettiest little harlequin that Italy ever produced, but upon the shoulders of that harlequin was the head of a Machiavelli."

The Periods of Growth.

Children born between September and February are, some authorities state, not as tall as those born in summer and spring months, and the growth of children is much more rapid from March till August. The extremities grow rapidly up to the sixteenth year; then there is a slow growth until the thirtieth year. The legs chiefly grow between the tenth and seventeenth years. Comparing the general results, it appears that there are six periods of growth. The first extends up to the sixth or eighth year and is one of very rapid growth; the second period, from eleven to fourteen years, growth is slow; the third period, from sixteen to seventeen; the fourth period shows a slow growth up to the age of thirty by height, up to fifty for chest girth; the fifth period is one of rest, the sixth a decrease in the body.

A Roman Cure For Consumption.

Celsus was a Roman physician who flourished in the third century. He was a follower of Hippocrates and wrote various books on medicine. One of his prescriptions is for consumption and, strange enough, it is quite in accord with modern methods in some respects. He says: "As soon as a man finds himself spitting and hacking on rising in the morning he should immediately take possession of a cow and go high up into the mountains and live on the fruit of that cow." Although he knew nothing of the cause of phthisis, he had observed that good living, out of door life, lots of sunshine and an abundance of milk and cream were absolutely essential as prerequisites for treatment.—Journal of Hygiene.

A Remarkable Shawl.

The empress of Russia was once presented with a shawl of a remarkable kind. It is contained in a box only a few inches square, in which it fits easily, yet when it is shaken out it is ten yards square. This notable gift was the work of some women weavers in Orenberg, southern Russia, by whom it was presented. The box containing it is of wood, with hinges, hoops and fastenings of beaten silver.

Didn't Need It.

A book canvasser went into a barber shop and asked the proprietor if he could sell him an encyclopedia.
 "What's that?" asked the barber.
 "It's a book that contains information on every subject in the world."
 There was a victim in the chair, and he put in feebly, "He doesn't need it!"

GRIMSHAW'S PLAN

(Original.)

In the days of slavery in the southern states a young negro was one evening, after a hard day's hoeing, enjoying the recreation of practicing with an old pistol that he had found and polished. Gumbo, as he was called, had a passion for shooting and was an expert. Within a circle of admiring darkies he was tossing up chips and putting bullets through them while in the air. Am-brose Grimshaw, the overseer, hearing the shots, went to see what it meant. From behind one of the cabins he witnessed Gumbo's skill without being himself seen. Then, advancing, he ordered that the boy receive fifty lashes for having firearms in his possession.

Gumbo bore his punishment with patient endurance. It was a common occurrence on that especial plantation owing to the cruel nature of the overseer. The negro showed no vindictiveness and was always afterward obedient, even to servility.
 Prochet, the owner of the plantation, was an easy going man, with no head for business, while Grimshaw was as avaricious as he was cruel. One day Prochet discovered that all he possessed was about to pass to his overseer. Grimshaw was above his class in breeding and education. Indeed he was fairly well born. Prochet conceived the idea of marrying his daughter to Grimshaw on condition that the property be settled on him. Miss Prochet objected, especially since while on a visit to St. Augustine she had met a young officer of the United States army at Fort Marion, with whom she had fallen in love and who had asked her hand. But when her father told her that a marriage with Grimshaw was the only way to save the plantation she resolved to sacrifice herself for her father, whom she loved devotedly.

The war came on, and while Prochet became poorer Grimshaw grew richer, being interested in a blockade runner that had made several successful trips from Southampton to Charleston. It was at this time that Miss Prochet consented to marry him. The war had separated her from her northern lover, and she had heard nothing from him since the firing on Sumter. But one morning about sunrise, when no one suspected there was a Yankee within fifty miles, 10,000 of them came hurrying down the turnpike past the plantation, having made a forced march during the night. They went into camp near by, and during the day a young captain of artillery rode up to the Prochet manor house to call upon Miss Prochet. He was Edgar Pennington, the man who had asked her hand.

His coming caused a commotion. Mr. Prochet was in great distress about the matter. Carey's resolution was put to a severe test, while Grimshaw ground his teeth and vowed that she should never wed the young officer.

One night an officer was picked off by a bushwhacker who was never discovered. This suggested to Grimshaw a means of getting rid of his rival. He sent for Gumbo to come to his rooms.

"Gumbo," he said, "would you like your freedom?"

"Yes, massa."

"And $5,000 besides?"

"Yes, massa." The darky's eyes were as big as saucers.

"Very well. Tonight Captain Pennington will leave the plantation to ride to camp. I will join and ride with him. You follow and when I take off my hat shoot him through the head."

"Why don't yo' do dat yo'self, massa?"

"I wish to marry Miss Prochet. If I killed Captain Pennington even in a fair fight, it would prevent this marriage."

"But wha' fo' d'yo' go 'long with him when he git shot?"

"To prove that I did not shoot him myself. I shall give you a signal when some one is near to be a witness in my favor. You must shoot from a distance, but you are a good shot and can hit your mark easily."

Gumbo lowered his eyes to the ground and thought while Grimshaw watched him eagerly. Presently the negro looked up and said:

"Reckon I want dat freedom and de five thousand dollars."

"Very well; lurk near the plantation gate from 10 o'clock till you see the man come out. If you succeed, come here tomorrow. I will keep my word."

At 11 o'clock Pennington, who had finally secured Miss Prochet's consent to break with Grimshaw, rode out of the plantation gate feeling very happy. He had not gone far before he overtook a horseman whom he recognized as his rival.

"Good evening, captain," said the latter. "Riding to camp?"

"Yes," said the captain shortly.

"With your permission I'll ride with you."

"As you like."

Grimshaw made passing remarks at intervals till an army courier, with a dispatch in his belt, met them, when he raised his hat. Pennington was astonished to see the overseer pitch forward in his saddle and fall to the ground.

It was fortunate for Pennington that there was a witness to prove he was innocent of Grimshaw's death, which was never explained, though it was believed that a bushwhacker had intended to kill the officer and had made a mistake.

Grimshaw left no heir, and it was found that his hold on the Prochet property had been acquired by fraudulent means and was void.

After the war Captain Edgar Pennington returned to the south and took back with him Miss Carey Prochet. Gumbo became the captain's body servant, but it is told his master how Grimshaw met his death Pennington kept the secret.

Rheumacide

Is a new and scientific compound made from roots, herbs and barks—contains neither opiates nor poisons. It purifies the blood and removes the causes of rheumatism and all blood diseases. Anyone can take RHEUMACIDE with absolute safety. Does not injure the digestive organs.

TWO CURES.

FLORENCE, S. C., Aug. 16, 1902.
 Gentlemen:—I began to suffer from rheumatism about three years ago, and had it very bad in my limbs. At times I could hardly walk. Was treated by a physician without benefit. More than a year ago, Mr. George Wilson, an engineer on the Coast Line, living in Florence, told me that "RHEUMACIDE" cured him. I got a bottle and it benefited me. I took five bottles and am now as well as I ever was in my life. I regard "RHEUMACIDE" as a great medicine. I know of others it has cured.

THE LONDON BILL

Temperance Bills Postponed Till Thursday.

Yesterday morning at nine o'clock the senate committee on propositions and grievances met in the lobby of the senate chamber to consider the bills regulating the manufacture and sale of liquor. Senator Lamb, of Cumberland, moved to report favorably the London bill. Senator Warren moved to refer all the bills to a sub committee of three to consider the same and report it on meeting of the committee to be held on next Thursday afternoon, and there was quite a discussion upon this motion. The senators favoring the motion to postpone stated that they had not had time to read and consider the different bills, and, while not opposing any particular section in any of the bills, desired further time to consider them.

Senator Godwin, in favoring the postponement, stated that he was in favor of a temperance bill and had just secured the passage of a very strong prohibition bill for his county. He desired further time to consider the various bills before the committee.

Senator Brown favored immediate consideration and thought the committee had had ample time and opportunity to consider all the bills. Senator Beasley concurred with Senator Brown and urged that the London bill be reported favorably.

Senator Webb, of Buncombe, spoke against the fifth section of the London bill, stating that the other features of the bill were already in operation in Buncombe county, having been passed two years ago, and said that if that section were eliminated he would favor the bill.

Upon motion to postpone there was a tie vote, which was decided by Chairman Vaun in favor of postponement. Those who favored postponement were Senators Hunter, Crisp, Warren and Godwin. Those who voted against postponing were Senators Brown, Beasley, Hicks of Duplin, and Lamb. So the matter will be finally decided next Thursday afternoon.

The four senators who voted for immediate consideration are understood to be in favor of the London bill, while some of the other if not all favor some of its features. The sub-committee, which consists of Senators Vaun, Brown and Warren will probably draw a substitute for all the bills.—News and Observer.

When you feel blue and that everything goes wrong, take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets.
