SEASONABLE BARGAINS.

YOU know our policy concerning the cleaning up of seasonable merchandise in its season. To make thorough work of a clearance sale every item must suffer the severest cuts. Not an item in this store that has not suffered with the "price knife." If you will take the time to make a careful investigation the economy of buying now will impress itself upon you.

Winterville Department.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., Feb. 11. Miss Clyde Dawson and brother, Master Tom, went to Grifton Saturday night to spend some time with their brother, Dr. Dawson. John Peele, the hustler, was on our streets yesterday.

Anti-Saloon League met in church Sunday afternoon after Sunday school. Mrs. Dr. Cox read a very interesting as well as instructive paper, which evidently caused some serious thought. Mess. F. C. Nye, J. D. Cox and Prof. Lineberry all made short talks. If there was half the enthusiasm on an average all over the state that there is in this community for anti-saloon legislation we could not doubt the outcome.

A. M. Moseley was buying cotton here Tuesday.

Miss Esther Hart, who has been spending a few days in LaGrange, returned Monday.

Deputy Sheriff L. W. Tucker with Mr. Queen, of Greenville was on our streets yesterday.

At the regular mission meeting in the Baptist church Sunday night very interesting papers were read by Misses Ida Moore, of Kinston, and Eula Quinn, of Greenville. also discussions by D. S. Chapman, of Winterville, and H. L. Staley, of Staleyville.

Miss Effie Kittrell, who has been visiting at Grifton, returned Saturday.

Fred Pulley, of LaGrange, is spending a few days in town.

Since the Tar Heel Band boys have got their cap lamps they seem to think "Gratum est tecum ambulare," anyway they have erenaded every part of the town several night lately; even the old saw mill was not left out. Last night they were in East Winterville playing at the girls dormitory just to hear the girls give the college yell.

Remember the reduction in price of A. G. Cox Mfg. Co.'s wire fencing, and never for once consider the subject without seeing or writing them for some facts and figures which will be of untold worth to you. Farmers, don't split another rail. It don't pay to waste your timber in any such way. A. G. Cox M'fg. Co. have sold several lots of wire fence to parties who paid for it by selling a small quantity of their timber. The way they work it is to tear down a small quantity of rail fence and use the sound rails to repair the remainder of same, the gap is then filled in with the wire fence. Every farmer knows moreover what the March winds will do for his rail fence unless it is well braced. When he gets up a piece of wire fence he can lie down and rest in peace at night without fear of wind or fire. If interested be sure to visit above named factory and let them prove to you that theirs is cheapest as well as best.

Dr. Blackwell may Remain.

Contrary to the opinion heretofore of many persons who had every reason to know, it now seems that there is a possibility that the First Baptist church of Wilmington will be able to retain Dr. Blackwell as its pastor. The executive committee of the church have brought great pressure to bear upon him. A petition signed by 164 Atlantic Coast line clerks asking that he remain in the city has been presented to him. Dr. Blackwell asks time to consider the matter.—Wilmington Star.

It is impossible for a man to prevent his meanness from cropping out.

THE ANTIS GO TO RALEIGH.

It was rumored on the streets to-day that a delegation of antis would leave to night for Raleigh to fight the Greenville improvement bills, and incidentally the temperance bills. Up to the hour of going to press the personnel of the delegation could not be learned, but it is supposed that it will be composed mainly of those who were opposed to the first proposition to issue bonds. THE REFLECTOR will endeavor to inform the public in tomorrow's issue as to the names of the gentlemen making up the delegation.

THE LEGISLATURE

SENATE—MONDAY

Early in the day the notice of the contest of W. M. Buckner, (rep.), for the seat in the senate of W. E. Griffith, (dem.), from the thirty-six senatorial district was sent forward by Senator Wellborne, (rep.).

The bill for a parole commission passed its third reading in the senate after a favorable report. It now goes to the house for action on it by that body.

Senator Bellamy introduced a bill that gets after the festive festival. It seems good to him for Brunswick county, and it might fit in pretty well in other sections where the "festibal" flourishes.

The bill requires that a tax of ten dollars be paid by promoters of any festival when confectionaries, cake, provisions and soft drinks are sold, in the night time in Brunswick county. The tax is to be applied to the school fund. The law does not prevent entertainments being held under the auspices of churches or schools, which can be held without paying the tax.

Senator Justice introduced a bill to provide for a tax and penalties on railroad companies and adjustment of tax with such companies as do not discriminate against North Carolina shippers.

There was a lively tilt on the bill releasing State Treasurer Lacy from payment of the $874.84 which the embezzling institutional clerk, Martin, made away with while he was retained for a few weeks to instruct new clerks. Senator Spence antagonized the bill, saying that it set a wrong precedent, and that the legislature could not afford to pass the bill. He expressed regret that Mr. Lacy should lose the money, but said that when a treasurer took the position it was with the dangers, as well as the emoluments. He said that on the campaign he had told the people that Mr. Lacy had found out the theft and had paid this amount. "I came to Raleigh," said he, "and find that this republican accusation is so. To vote this money to Mr. Lacy is as bad as to vote a donation to any high official." The bill was referred to the judiciary committee.

Numerous petitions were received, most of them favoring the London bill.

"Did you see that one of the richest men in the country has offered to give $1,000,000 for a new and healthy stomach?" "Yes, but I don't believe it. The offer didn't sound like him. He would have made the gift conditional on somebody else giving just as much."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Try Our Pants

It isn't possible to improve on the style, workmanship and perfection of fit of our Trousers. We are showing many patterns in fine Cassimere, Cheviot and Worsted Trousers. They are absolutely correct in every detail. These Trousers were made by specialists—men who design and make Trousers and nothing else. We feel safe in saying no custom tailor could match them for double the price.

When your Trousers commence to look a little the worse for wear, come in.

Mothers Crushed Oats.

Have you read carefully the booklets placed in your homes telling you about Mothers Crushed Oats and the premium given away with them? Remember each 2 lb package of these high grade Oats sells for 10c per package; each package contains a coupon and all the coupons have a value. A coupon with a red letter on it will be found in each package of Mother's Oats. Save these coupons until the red letters on the coupons spell the word Mothers. Note the outside back page of booklets bear the letter M and this will be accepted as first letter in word Mothers. Enquire of your retail grocer for them.

Negro Murdered in Wilmington.

John Henry Edwards, alias Daniel Shines, colored, was murdered Saturday night shortly after midnight in the "rauch" of Cato Boney, on Brunswick between Eight and Ninth streets. The crime is charged to Robert Thomas and Walter Thomas, brothers, by the jury of inquest that was empanelled to investigate the case. The Thomas negroes are in jail with out bail, and two principal witnesses, Cato and William Boney, also brothers, are held under $250 bond each. The quartet will be kept in jail, unless the Boney can give bond, which is unlikely, until the next term of Superior court.—Wilmington Dispatch.

It is now said there is no chance for the London liquor bill at Raleigh. Was there ever a chance? Politicians will play politics. Partisans of both sides invariably stick the coulter so deep in the ground that it chokes. The Watts bill as it stands amounts to but little; the London bill is almost equivalent to prohibition. Result—a compromise. What it is going to be no one knows. But this much can be said—if the time ever comes when the advocates of temperance are willing to crawl before they walk and run, something of real good will be enacted. The people know what they want, and given a chance, they will have it. If the chance is not given them they will get it sooner or later. This is too true to admit of debate.—Greensboro Record.

PERSONAL NOTES

Brief Mention of People Met With in the Social World

Kleber Denmark, of Kinston, spent the day here Tuesday.

W. T. Lipscombe returned Tuesday evening from Goldsboro.

Mayor H. W. Whedbee and L. C. Athur, of committee appointed by council at their last meeting, left Tuesday evening for Raleigh.

Whipping of Three Negroes Threatens a Race War.

Fayette, Mo., Feb. 9.—A race war has been started here as the result of public whipping of three negroes on the court house steps Friday night. A committee of the law and order league took the negroes from their homes and whipped them publicly for alleged misconduct. Two of them were women. Since then the negroes and white peoples have been in open enmity and it is said twenty-five negro families have been frightened into leaving this vicinity.

Hard Luck of an Editor.

Here are some of the terrible things which, according to a country exchange, are likely to befall delinquent: Last week a delinquent subscriber said he would pay up Saturday if he lived. He's dead. Another, 'I'll see you tomorrow.' He's blind. Still another one said: 'I hope to pay you this week or go to the devil.' He's gone. There are hundreds who ought to take warning by these procrastinators and pay up their subscriptions now.

"All Quiet Along the Tar Tonight."

We are fearful for the safety of the Greenville REFLECTOR. The editor of that paper says that the Baldwin bill against wearing high hats in theatres would be hard on "two telegraph poles" in that town.—Raleigh Times.

"I am thankful that the sun and moon are both hung up so high, That no reforming hand can reach 'To take them from the sky. For if they weren't, I have no doubt, That some presumptuous ass Would move to take them from their place, And light the world with gas."—Richmond News.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, FEBRUARY 11, 1903.

IT IS NOT FOR A DAY.

Although it seems likely that the London bill will not become a law at this session of the legislature, the advocates of temperance should not feel cast down or discouraged. "It is not for a day that ye labor." Politicians will come and go, and men and times will change. The seed of truth has been sown, and some day will bloom into a beautiful plant. Manhood and right will triumph in the end. Let the friends of temperance but keep the faith, and even in their day and generation they may see North Carolina close up the saloons, drive out the whiskey manufacturers, and dare to do right.

A PREACHER CONFOUNDED.

With something of the spirit of the bitter abolitionists during the years leading up to the civil war, Dr. Parkhurst, a New York preacher noted for his hysterics rather than good sense, gathered round him the other day a congregation to listen to the story of a young negro, who had been helping his race in their Southern homes. Dr. Parkhurst expected a second Uncle Tom's Cabin narrative, and was prepared to roll his eyes to heaven and implore the wrath of the Almighty upon the heads of the brutal Southerners. But the negro was there with the truth in his heart, and he told it. He told how the ex-slaveholder had befriended the blackman in his darkest hour, and advised the people of the North to leave off trying to teach the negro social equality. Many other truths he startled his hearers with, to the consternation of the bigoted preacher, who had not heard what he expected or wished to hear.

Northern people are, of course, utterly ignorant of conditions in the South and the needs of the hour. A Northern soap manufacturer who has grown rich will not allow the son of a poor blacksmith to come in his front door, yet they think it their duty to educate the negro to the belief that he is the equal of the white race. The only cure for their impossible ideas is to move South or die.

The new Supreme Court gives notice that hereafter applicants for license will be examined as to their writing and spelling as well as to their knowledge of the law. It is a good thing this has not been in practice during the past hundred years, for we should have had fewer lawyers. We must now get back to an education that teaches reading, writing and ciphering.—Greensboro Record.

This is the reward of the patience of the poor printer who has handled lawyers' "copy" for these many years. Oh! if the Supreme Court could make some of the old fellows write decently, how quickly would the printer population in hades cease to grow. Alas! "the dream, the fancy."

The glory and grandeur of the laud of the free and the name of the brave received a severe jolt when Lord Rockefeller telegraphed to a half dozen of his henchmen in the United States senate that His Oilship did not like antitrust legislation, and it must stop.

Senator Baldwin, of anti-high hat renown, is still alive, but the dear ladies are still indignantly asking: "What's the use of having a fine hat if we must stick it out of sight under a theatre chair?" And the brave senator answereth not.

It is announced that constables in the Philippines will be prohibited from administering the water cure. After awhile it will be against the law to kill a native over there.

General Uribe-Urube, of Colombia, has set the fashion in that country of committing suicide because he was not able to scare up a revolution oftener than once a month.

We don't care what a congressional committee says about it we still stick to it that the United States "are" and not "is." North Carolina is one of "them," not of "it."

Dr. Kilgo says man was born to rule, but that doesn't prevent a lot of women from thinking that they were born to interfere with destiny.

We had rather let Venezuela go to the demnition bowows than suffer another spasm of heroes and hero worship such as the Spanish-American war ground out.

President Roosevelt has engaged a fencing master. We suppose he is a colored artist who knows all about splitting rails, etc.

It is said that Venezuela is sure to win out. Mighty poor consolation to the man with a black eye.

Tendency of the times.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to the subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases medical men have to contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of influenza (grip) and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. This has been fully proven in many thousands of cases in which this remedy has been used during the great prevalence of colds and grip in recent years, and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. Pneumonia often results from a slight cold when no danger is apprehended until it is suddenly discovered that there is fever and difficulty in breathing and pains in the chest, then it is announced that the patient has pneumonia. Be on the safe side, and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the cold is contracted; it always cures. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

A Weak Stomach.

causes a weak body and invites disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures and strengthens the stomach, and wards off and overcomes disease. J. B. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Christman, Tex., says "I could not eat because of a weak stomach. I lost all strength and run down in weight. All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefited me, and after taking four bottles I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health."
Jno. L. Wooten.

The man who wears his religion on his sleeve often finds himself out at the elbow.

A Mother's Recommendation.

I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a number of years and have no hesitancy in saying that it is the best remedy for coughs, colds and croup I have ever used in my family. I have not words to express my confidence in this remedy.—Mrs. J. A. Moore North Star, Mich. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

In one our exchanges we notice a firm is advertising for girls to strip in a tobacco factory. Hadn't they better wait until the weather gets a little bit warmer?

The Easy Pill.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers do not gripe nor weaken the system. They cure biliousness, jaundice, constipation and inactive livers, by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectually, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach, liver and bowels that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely. These famous little pills exert a decided tonic effect upon the organs involved, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the trouble.
Jno. L. Wooten.

The best argument ever presented for good roads is a good road.

The scratch of a pin may cause the loss of a limb or even death when blood poisoning results from the injury. All danger of this may be avoided, however, by promptly applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It is an antiseptic and quick healing liniment for cuts, bruises and burns. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.

The only positive cure for blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, cuts, burns, bruises, eczema and all abrasions of the skin. DeWitt's is the only Witch Hazel Salve that is made from the pure unadulterated witch hazel—all others are counterfeits. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is made to cure—counterfeits are made to sell.

A CASE OF DESERTION

[Original.]

Andy Sumwalt had known Molly Barnes for years and thought he was aware of every good and bad trait she possessed. "Them two has been courtin' so long," said the neighbors, "and never havin' had a quarrel, they'll live together like two turtledoves." It created, therefore, a sensation when a week after the marriage Andy disappeared. The only explanation given by his wife was that they had quarreled. The truth was that under the influence of physical ailment Molly had acted very unreasonably and harshly. Andy, whose experience in marital life was confined to a few days, argued, "If this is the beginning, what will be the end?" Being a determined fellow as well as having a dread of discord, he made up his mind to correct what he considered a mistake at the very outset by leaving his wife. Nevertheless he was not so unmanly as to force her to take care of herself. He left with her half his savings, and before they were gone he began to send monthly remittances. Then suddenly the remittances stopped, for Andy fell sick. Six months later they were resumed, but as Molly had left the place in which she had lived they were returned to Andy.

Molly had been offered a position in the city and had gone there to keep from starvation, taking with her a little girl who had been born to her. But when Molly reached the city she arrived without her baby, whom she had left in a foundlings' home.

The child was so pretty and attractive that a number of ladies without children wished to adopt her. The lady president resolved to put Molly up at auction, the proceeds to be settled upon the child in the hands of a trustee, Molly to be knocked down to the highest bidder. On the day of the sale the home matron mounted a table with Molly in her arms and called for bids. There were in attendance besides the ladies mentioned a number of poorer people who wanted a child.

Fifty dollars was bid and the amount run up to $250 by the poorer classes when the ladies took hold and raised it to $1,000. At this point a man behind the crowd dressed like a workman began to bid. A lady who was resolved to have the child bid against him till the sum of $2,000 was reached, when she withdrew, and the child was knocked down to the man.

"What name?" asked the matron.
"Andrew Sumwalt."

"Sumwalt? That was the name pinned to the child's dress when she was brought in here."

"I know all about her," said the man. "I've been tracking her mother for weeks, but I haven't gained any information except of the child."

He pulled a great roll from his pocket and counted twenty $100 bills without sensibly lessening the bulk of the roll. Handing the money to the matron, he took his little girl in his arms, and the expression of his face was a delight to look upon.

Andy had hunted for gold in the west and found a coal mine. This had given him a fortune. He had lived with a married couple in the far west and had noticed how much they had to bear and forbear. Then it occurred to him that he had fled in the face of an inevitable attendant upon marriage, the getting used to each other, and had he waited for his child she would have been a bond far stronger than all others.

Upon proving his story he was named trustee for his child, and the president of the home took sufficient interest in finding his wife, the mother of his child, to enter upon the work herself. But she made slow progress, and after months of endeavor gave up the work as hopeless. Meanwhile Andy hired a comfortable country home and a nurse and waited.

One spring morning John was working in his garden while Molly was chasing butterflies over the grass. A carriage came up the road and turned into the gate. Andy stood leaning on his spade, looking at it. A presentation came to him that his wife was within. But, no; she could never come to him in such style. The carriage stopped a short distance from him, and the lady president of the home alighted. John was disappointed; but, noticing another woman about to alight, his pulse quickened again. Once more he was doomed to disappointment at seeing the woman dressed in the black and white of a servant, for she must surely be the lady's maid. Then the vision of his life flashed before him, the lady's maid running to him with outstretched arms. In another moment husband and wife were in each other's embrace, and little Molly, coming up, was taken between them.

Molly had at last found it possible to support her child and had gone to the home in quest of her.
"I have often met," said the lady president a little later in Andy's sitting room, "cases like this, desertion immediately or very soon after marriage, and have wondered at the cause. Surely there must be some great discovery, some bitter disappointment. I ask as my reward for bringing you two together that you tell me the cause in this case."

Andy and Molly hung their heads.
"It was all my fault," said Molly.
"All mine," said Andy.
"The cause?" asked the lady again.
"There was no cause," said Molly.
"The starter was that I asked Andy one morning to bring me a scuttle of coal, and he wouldn't do it till he had tied his cravat."

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the lady president, throwing up her hands. "What a contemptible cause for so much unhappiness!"

Water Shrews.
A pretty little animal, writes a correspondent, occasionally to be noticed at the edge of a stream or pond is the water shrew. The ways of these creatures are most fascinating. I have seen them quietly emerge from the grass, run down the side of the bank into and along the bottom of the stream. While under the water their movements are very rapid. They scrape away on the bottom with their feet, thrusting their long snouts into the mud and under stones and leaves in search of insects on which they feed. They then retire a little way to the bank for a moment or two to take breath and hurry back to their work once more. I have never seen water shrews dive. They simply run in and out of the stream, as if air and water were both alike to them, and they were equally at home in either element. When under the water, they look as if they were covered with minute silver pearls owing to the particles of air adhering to their furry bodies. Land and water shrews are not of the mouse tribe. They have the sharpest and most delicately beautiful teeth imaginable and live entirely on insect food.—London Opinion.

The Williams and Johns.

It would be difficult, if not impossible, to estimate the relative frequency of names prior to the Norman conquest, which created something like a revolution. "William," of course, got a good start, as is shown in "Doomsday Book," where stand 68 Williams, 48 Roberts, 28 Walters and 10 Johns. In 1173 Sir William St. John and Sir William Fitz-Hamon entertained a dinner party at the court of Henry II. The invitations were limited to knights of the name of William, and the company numbered 120.

But the day of "John" was not long to tarry, and in 1347 the common council of London contained 35 Johns, 17 Williams, 15 Thomases, 10 Richards, 8 Roberts, and in 1385 out of 376 names enrolled in the Guild of St. George at Norwich there were 125 Johns, 47 Williams, 41 Thomases. From that day to this John and William have held their ground as the commonest baptismal names in England.

The Lion of St. Mark.

The symbol of the Venetian republic—the famous lion of St. Mark—is made of bronze. There is a tradition among the Venetian people that its eyes are diamonds. They are really white, agates, faceted. Its mane is most elaborately wrought, and its retracted, gaping mouth and its fierce mustaches give it an oriental aspect.

The creature as it now stands belongs to many different epochs, varying from some date previous to our era down to this century. It is conjectured that it may have originally formed a part of the decoration of some Assyrian palace. St. Mark's lion it certainly was not originally, for it was made to stand level upon the ground and had to be raised up in front to allow the evangel to be slipped under its fore paws.

Ancient Legal Statute.

The provision of the Virginia code exempting from service on the grand jury the owner or occupier of a grist mill, says Law Notes, is an interesting example of a law which has been allowed to remain on the statute book long after its usefulness and the condition that called it into being have ceased to exist. When the statute was passed, serious inconvenience to the citizens of the surrounding country might have arisen as a result of summoning a mill owner from his work, but the mill owner is no longer so important a member of the community.

Parrots.

A dealer in birds in sober and serious Manhattan advertises that he has in stock a "large variety of semireligious parrots, the most profane one only $200." That's an odd way of appealing to public patronage. If the most profane parrot is held for sale at $200, what would be the price of a parakeet that could only say "Good gracious?"

"I am pleased to give my experience with Wine of Cardui as I am very grateful for his help. After my first baby was born I could not seem to regain my strength, although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband came home one evening with some Wine of Cardui and insisted that I take it for a week and see what it would do for me. As he seemed to have so much faith in it I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise."

hers, as are their ambitions, triumphs and defeats. Healthy women do not suffer miscarriage nor does a woman who is healthy suffer tortures at childbirth. It is the woman who is ailing—who has female weakness—who fears the ordeal of becoming a mother. Wine of Cardui builds up the womanly in a woman. It stops all unnatural drains and strains—irregularities which are responsible for barrenness and miscarriage. It makes a woman strong and healthy and able to pass through pregnancy and childbirth with little suffering. After the ordeal is passed the Wine prepares a woman for a speedy recovery to health and activity.

WRECKED BY DYNAMITE.

In Order to Hide a Crime, Some Person Ties to Commit Wholesale Slaughter

Johnstown, Pa., February 9.—

A dastardly attempt to hide robbery and murder resulted in the wrecking by dynamite of an Italian boarding house at Portage, this county, early this morning. Two persons are dead, two are injured and a score had miraculous escapes from death when the explosive let go.

The dead are: Tony Grillo, aged 34. Mrs. Tony Grillo, aged 41. Ralph Tellido and Joe Destavo were seriously injured.

The scene of the affair was an Italian boarding house occupied by Grillo, his wife, three daughters and about twenty-five boarders.

When the explosion occurred the inmates were hurled in all directions, but most of them escaped serious injury. The bodies of Grillo and his wife were found beneath the ruins of the building which is completely demolished.

The boarders are all employed about the railroad at Portage. They had no occasion to use dynamite and none of the explosive was known to be in the house, yet persons familiar with its use say that at least 25 pounds must have been put off under the room where Grillo and his three little girls slept. It was stated that Grillo had between $600 and $700 and his wife $200 more in the house, but none of the money has been found and the theory is that it was stolen by some one who killed the couple and then exploded the dynamite to cover the crime.

The coroner's examination disclosed the fact that Grillo's head was crushed as if by some heavy instrument and his ribs were also crushed. Further investigation is being made.

What might have been a serious railroad accident was averted yesterday evening on the A. & N. O. road by a broken rail which was in the track being discovered by the crew of the freight train. They notified Kinston station and the passenger train went over the place slowly whereas if they had gone over it at a high speed there would have been a bad wreck. The trains were delayed for a short time until Section Foreman Whitehurst got to the place and fixed up the broken place in the track.—Kinston Free Press.

Cleveland on the President.

Cincinnati, February 9.—In response to a direct inquiry as to whether he was a candidate or would accept another nomination for the presidency, the following has been received from former President Grover Cleveland:

Princeton, N. J., February 6.
 "To the Editor of The Times Star, Cincinnati, Ohio:

"Dear Sir: I have received your letter of the 4th instant, asking on behalf of The Times-Star for an expression of my intentions as related to the next democratic nomination for the presidency. I cannot possibly bring my mind to the belief that a condition or sentiment exists that makes any expression from me on the subject of the least importance.

"Yours very truly,
 "GROVER CLEVELAND."

He is a native of Onslow county, and is perhaps the first paid fire fighter in North Carolina to receive license to practice law. He says he will resign from the fire department and open an office in Wilmington.—News & Observer.

Tiberius had just asked his soothsayer if he could predict the date of his own death. "Not exactly," replied Thrasylus, "but it will be twenty-four hours before yours."
