NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., Feb. 14. The light of the fire in Grimesland last night was distinctly visible here and there was much excitement at the news that the town was almost completely destroyed.

Jerry Worthington, of Hanrahan, father of Mrs. W. L. House, of this place, died at his home about two o'clock this morning. He had been lingering for some time, and Mr. and Mrs. House have been there most of the week.

Our friend, the Renston correspondent, says "Tis the hit dog that hollers." All we have to say is that the hit dog is apt to holler which sometimes causes other in hearing to holler. Be it far from us, however, to holler if a live bed bug is reported as being delivered at this office. We might transfer such a piece of mailable matter, or in the event it originated here get rid of it soon as possible in order to see who would holler first. But to a more important matter—if that little animal which is causing all this stir has not been properly attended to it may be possible that an early cleaning may become necessary in the country. Now main't it?

Miss Emma Kittrell, who has been visiting in Greenville, returned home Wednesday night.

N. Jacobi, of Wilmington, was in our town yesterday.

McMimms is a new trimmer in the trimming room of the buggy department of A. G. Cox Mfg. Co. assisting C. A. Fair for a few days. Geo. Ellis, of Greenville, spent Wednesday night at P. H. Kittrell's.

You may say what you please, but if the A. G. Cox Mfg. Co. have not sold the buggies, wagons and carts this season they have most. A the boys say, they have over sold them.

Wire fence ain't gone no where! No, it has sn't gone far; just around a great many of the farms and gardens of Pitt county with no little to Lenoir, Greene and adjoining counties. One thing certain—it has gone away from here as fast as it could be made and rolled out of the factory, and keeps going. If you want any this spring out of the last car load of wire you had better see about it at once.

We thought just to make a few of our new style distributors to circulate among the farmers and have them tried early in the season and "bless gracious" we find that the orders take them as fast as we make them. Surely the farmer needs no implement worse at this time than the right kind of a guano sower.

A bill has been introduced in the Massachusetts legislature calling for an investigation of the condition of Southern cotton mills in so far as child labor is affected, operated by Massachusetts capital. Wouldn't it be well for Massachusetts to go slow in this matter? From all accounts there's a rather hefty beam in the eye of the Bay state.—Charlotte News.

When you feel blue and that everything goes wrong, take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They will cleanse and invigorate your stomach, regulate your bowels, give you a relish for your food and make you feel that in this old world is a good place to live. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

GRIMESLAND DESTROYED.

Poor Grimesland! That town has again suffered disastrously from the ravages of fire. Just a year ago all the business houses on the north side of the street were destroyed, and now the other side of the street has been swept clear and only one store is left standing in the town.

About six o'clock Friday evening, while the occupants were at supper, fire started from some unknown cause in the upper story of the store of J. J. Mason. This store with its contents was soon destroyed, and all the buildings there being frame structures, the fire spread rapidly in both directions until everything in reach was consumed. The burned territory takes in all the buildings between the residence of J. O. Proctor on the east end, and the residence of Dr. C. M. Jones on the west end, embracing ten store houses, one livery stable, one dwelling house and several warehouses.

Grimesland has no fire department or water supply, and the people were helpless before the flames. All that could be done was to get out as much of the contents of the buildings as possible and see everything else devoured by the fire, which burned rapidly.

J. O. Proctor & Bro., and H. H. Proctor were the heaviest losers, as besides being large merchants they owned most of the store buildings that were destroyed. The list of those burned out, together with the amount of loss and insurance by each, has been furnished THE REFLECTOR by telephone, and is taken to be as near correct as can be given. They are as follows:

J. O. Proctor & Bro., stock and buildings, $25,000, insurance $5,000.

H. H. Proctor, stock and buildings, $7,000, insurance $2,000.

J. J. Mason, stock $3,000, insurance $2,500.

C. R. Tally & Co., stock $1,200, no insurance.

Dr. C. M. Jones, office $200, no insurance.

J. W. Mayo, residence $500, no insurance.

J. J. Redding, colored, saved most of stock, no insurance.

John Oden, colored, barber shop, saved most of fixtures, no insurance.

There were some other small individual losses of personal effects that could not be ascertained.

Companies represented by H. A. White's agency at Greenville carried $5,500 of the above losses.

We heartily sympathize with the people of Grimesland in this second heavy loss that has come upon them. There is now only one store left in the town, W. M. Moore being fortunate enough to escape loss.

Try Our Pants

It isn't possible to improve on the style, workmanship and perfection of fit of our Trousers. We are showing many patterns in fine Cassimere, Cheviot and Worsted Trousers. They are absolutely correct in every detail. These Trousers were made by specialists—men who design and make Trousers and nothing else. We feel safe in saying no custom tailor could match them for double the price.

When your Trousers commence to look a little the worse for wear, come in.

CHARTER AMENDMENT Tabled.

Bond and Graded School Bills Slightly Amended and Passed.

Through Mr. J. L. Fleming, who returned from Raleigh today, we learn that the bills from Greenville pending before the legislature have been agreed upon as follows: From the bond bill for improvements the names of the board of improvements mentioned in the bill are stricken out and their selection is left to a vote of the people. In the graded school bill a similar change was made as to the names of fourteen trustees, their selection also being left to a vote of the people. No other changes were made in these bills. The charter amendment was by agreement tabled and no further action will be taken on it before this legislature.

The bond and graded school bills as noted above were expected to be passed in the house today and then go back to the senate for concurrence in the amendments.

THE LEGISLATURE

In the senate Wednesday the most important measures up for consideration were the bills to regulate the speed of trains through towns and what is called the innkeeper's bill. There was much debate on both these. They both passed third readings.

The bill to refund the amount to Treasurer Lacy that was stolen by Clerk Martin also provoked a lively discussion.

In the house the bill to incorporate the Audubon society was discussed and Prof. T. Gilbert Pearson, who is championing the measure, was invited to speak on it.

There were several petitions for temperance in both branches.

Miss Ruth Gold, of Wilson, who is visiting Mrs. J. G. Moye, will sing at the service in the Baptist church Sunday night. Greenville people have heard of Miss Gold's excellent singing, and it will give them pleasure to hear her.

J. L. Fleming, R. W. King, J. B. White and H. C. Hooker returned today from Raleigh.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON, FEBRUARY 14, 1903.

The senate committee on propositions and grievances had the London temperance bill up for consideration Thursday afternoon and reported the bill favorably. Senators Warren and Vann prepared another bill to offer as a substitute and this being rejected by the committee, they will present it in the senate as a minority report. The committee made two amendments to the London bill, one requiring the person desiring to sell liquor to get one-third of the qualified voters to sign his application for license instead of a majority, as in the original bill; the other that liquor shall not be manufactured in a town of less than 500 population instead of 1,000, nor sold in towns of less than 300 instead of 500.

The Watts bill was up for consideration by the house on Thursday, but a vote on it was not reached that day.

WHERE DOES THE PRIVATE COME IN?

At the meeting of the officers of the state guard held in Raleigh last Wednesday a resolution was unanimously adopted accepting and endorsing all the provisions of the Dick bill, which provides for making the state guard a national reserve military force.

If these state guard officers do not mind they will get into trouble with some of the newspapers of the state. Such staunch democrats as Colonel Walker Taylor, Colonel Armfield, Captain Adrian and others who voted for that resolution will be charged with desertion from true democratic doctrine and giving up the last vestige of state's rights.

When such men as those who attended this meeting of the state guard, men who have devoted much time and study to the interests of the state guard, vote unanimously to accept and endorse all the provisions of the Dick bill, we can well believe that it is a good measure and to advantage of the state guard. We are willing to depend upon their judgment in the matter.—Wilmington Messenger,

It's a beautiful thing for the officers, isn't it? But where does the private come in? When a North Carolina soldier company is sent to Fort Riley or Leavenworth, Kansas, what will be the thoughts of the wives and children of the private. The officers will wear splendid gold lace uniforms, and live on the fat of the land, but the private will have to drill and march without knowing why. Emphatically we are not willing to "depend upon their judgment in the matter." We believe "they" have shown a lack of state pride that is not at all creditable to North Carolina and we hope for the day when every true North Carolinian will demand that our state soldiers stay in the state in time of peace. North Carolinians have been tried in war. Their blood has dyed many a battle field from Gettysburg to Monterey. They do not need to be harnessed up like a machine-made aggregation of continental merceparies. When the state or the nation is in danger they'll fight as only brave men can fight.

It is the same old history of the world—the privates bear the burden and the officers get the show and glory. It is the most humiliating thing that has happened to North Carolina in 40 years that the officers of her state troops acquiesce in their nationalization. As for the privates, we hope and believe they will lay aside the mis-called state uniform and never don it again until a foe threatens the state or nation.

What is known as the Fuller bill, which requires where two or more railroads enter a town they shall build a union depot, passed the senate on Thursday, and was engrossed and sent back to the house for concurrence in some slight amendments made by the senate, the bill having previously been passed by the house. This is a good bill and will work greatly to the benefit of towns having more than one railroad. Such towns as have been discriminated against in the matter of depots, or which have been punished by the railroads in not having suitable depots, can now find a remedy through this law.

The old grannies in the government bureau of statistics ought to take a hitch in their trousers and pull in the slack. They are now claiming that the country is likely to go to the demnition bowows in the next ten million years on account of the fact that the average size of families in the United States has decreased steadily during the last 50 years. It is our opinion that they are breaking this gently, and intend to use it as a republican campaign cry.

North Carolina journalism has a representative at Washington of whom the state may well feel proud. Mr. Thomas J. Pence, of the Morning Post, is filling his latest assignment at the national capital in a manner that is highly creditable to himself and his paper, and pleasing to the readers of the Post.

General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, was recently entertained at the White House. It's now up to the negroes to become indignant. After awhile white people will be regarded as the equals of negroes in the White House.

The liquor dealers plead that pending temperance legislation is unfair to them, in which they are mistaken. When a man is forced to be decent it is the best thing that could happen to him next to being decent just because he wants to.

The Columbia, S. C., State discusses a proposition to establish a colony of French Canadians in that state. From recent "incidents" it would seem that a Hague peace conference would be more appropriate.

Tendency of the times.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to the subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases medical men have to contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia always results from a cold of from an attack of influenza (grip) and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. This has been fully proven in many thousands of cases in which this remedy has been used during the great prevalence of colds and grip in recent years, and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. Pneumonia often results from a slight cold when no danger is apprehended until it is suddenly discovered that there is fever and difficulty in breathing and pains in the chest, then it is announced that the patient has pneumonia. Be on the safe side and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the cold is contracted; it always cures. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

One might as well attempt to rearrange the rainbow colors of a soapbubble as to undertake the reformation of one's neighbors.

A Weak Stomach.

causes a weak body and invites disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cures and strengthens the stomach, and wards off and overcomes disease. J. B. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Chriesman, Tex., says "I could not eat because of a weak stomach. I lost all strength and run down in weight. All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefitted me, and after taking four bottles I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health."

A young man may be a trifle sadder, but he certainly isn't any wiser when he calls to see his best girl and finds her out.

A Mother's Recommendation.

I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a number of years and have no hesitancy in saying that it is the best remedy for coughs, colds and croup I have ever used in my family. I have not words to express my confidence in this remedy.—Mrs. J. A. Moore North Star, Mich. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Don't prolong a quarrel. Make one hard fight and then quit—win or lose.

The Easy Pill.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers do not gripe nor weaken the system. They cure biliousness, jaundice, constipation and inactive livers, by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectually, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach, liver and bowels that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely. These famous little pills exert a decided tonic effect upon the organs involved, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the trouble.

A woman's mind is on something higher than dress when she wants a new bonnet.

The scratch of a pin may cause the loss of a limb or even death when blood poisoning results from the injury. All danger of this may be avoided, however, by promptly applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It is an antiseptic and quick healing liniment for cuts, bruises and burns. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

A SPAT

[Original.]
"Singular," he said musingly, "that I have never seen this feature of your character displayed before."
He had never before seen me angry. I knew what he meant and knew that I was on dangerous ground, but this did not deter me.
"My character doesn't seem to suit you," I said haughtily.
"Not as it at present appears."
"Very well. Since I don't suit you there is your ring."
I took off my engagement ring and intended to toss it indifferently on the table, but irritation put more power into my arm than was necessary. The ring ricocheted (that's what he always calls a bound) and, falling on the floor, rolled dark knows where.
"As you will," he said coldly, "but I don't care to have the ring. It is indissolubly connected in my mind with you and could only have a sad influence."
"I can see nothing sad in being reminded of one who didn't suit you."
"It would remind me of one as I have always seen her except on this occasion—one I have dearly loved."
"It's a pity you made such a mistake, but fortunate that you found me out in time."
"I certainly would not relish a recurrence of such scenes as this."
"They would occur daily should you ill treat me as you have just done."
"If you can convince me of one act of ill treatment I will apologize on my knees."
That's just like a man. He must always be getting at the bottom of things. Instead of coming to me, putting his arms about me and telling me how sorry he was, he must go back to the beginning and prove by what he calls logic that I am all in the wrong. I shall consent to no such thing.
"It isn't necessary," I said, "especially since I have come to the conclusion that you wouldn't suit me any better than I would suit you."
I looked at him to see if my shot struck home, but he was so imperturbable that if he had any feelings he concealed them perfectly. This turned the shot into a boomerang. It made me angrier than ever. I should have waited for his reply, but I didn't. I added two words which at the time seemed very forcible, but which now seem ridiculous:
"There, now!"
I turned my back as I spoke so I couldn't see his face. This was a mistake. It gave him a great advantage, for it was impossible for me to judge of the real intent of his words.
"Will you kindly give me the meaning of that expression?" he said.
If his tone had not been so cutting, I would have supposed he was chaffing me. I sat down on the corner of the sofa, with my back still toward him, and did not deign a reply.
"What would become of a husband," he asked, "who upon presenting to his wife some proposition of vital importance to both should receive a reply rounded off by those two words? What a conclusion to an argument!"
I neither knew nor cared anything about his arguments. How would logic help us to get together again? I knew a trick worth two of that. I bent my head down on the back of the sofa, moving to such a position that he could see my waist, the waist he had so loved to encircle. He couldn't see my face and didn't know whether I was crying or not. I didn't intend he should.
"However," he said presently, "you have settled the matter by a return of my ring—that is, you flung it on the table and it rolled in under that bric-a-brac cabinet in the corner. Please keep it as a memento of my"—
"Former affection."
I should have said it mournfully, but I couldn't. I was still very angry, the more so that he wouldn't give me a chance to make it all up. I spoke vindictively.
"Never mind that. Do you accept the ring?"
"Does a gentleman offer a lady a ring that is lost without finding it for her?"
This must have been an argument that his stupidity could comprehend, for it silenced him for a few moments.
"Had you handed me the ring in a ladylike manner I would have found it for you. However, I am willing to do my part in its recovery, but you know that I am nearsighted and haven't my glasses with me."
I didn't believe a word about the glasses. "I don't want the ring," I said. "I'll find it for you, and you can give it to some other girl."
I got down on my knees in the corner, and he got down on his knees beside me. I soon saw the ring, and he must have seen it at the same time, despite his nearsightedness, for we both reached for it at the same time, and his hand fell on mine.
I waited for him to take it away, but he didn't. I looked up at him. His face was beaming, and his eyes fairly danced.
I turned away from him, but remembered that my waist was where he could conveniently encircle it. He did so, while with the other hand he slipped the ring on my finger. Both his hands being occupied, he did the rest with his lips.
"I warn you," I said, "that you are again becoming entangled with a girl who doesn't suit you. You could never consult with her. Think what will become of you."
"Sweetheart," he replied, "you suit me so well that I intend to bear with you when you don't suit me. So, there!" CHARLOTTE ATWOOD.

The Bachelor.
A western editor pays this tribute to a type which has not its fair share of song and story: "The bachelor represents the most congenial and big-hearted type of our commonwealth. His name, while held in public derision by a host of people, will always remain closely interwoven in the history of pioneer life. He it was who pushed out into the wild and woolly west at a time when the buffalo, Indians and coyote were lords of the prairies and by persistent efforts and under privation and want led a heroic life by converting vast areas of the barren wilderness into fertile lands of peace and plenty. Then, without aid of feminine pity to keep vigil over his everyday acts, this sturdy empire builder remained at his post, blazing out the path of fame and introducing thrift and civilization in his wake. Like the cowboy he is slowly passing into history, but his fame is as far-reaching as civilization, his name indelibly stamped on the pages of history, while the humble dugout with its original environments will appear in scenic pictures above the footlights of future generations."

Persian Athletes.
Strong and skilled as western athletes are, there are some respects in which the athletes of the east, and especially those of Persia, surpass them. Their skill is due to the fact that they do not rely on brute strength, but on adroitness, which they have acquired after years of strenuous training. They know the function of every muscle in their bodies, and they are not regarded as experts until they are so well trained that they can perform with ease any feat which depends for success not only upon their strength, but also upon the proper play of their muscles.
They are not as bulky as some of the well known athletes of Europe and America, but, on the other hand, their bodies are wonderfully symmetrical, and all their movements are most graceful.
In wrestling and swinging clubs they especially excel, and, no matter how expert they may be, not a day passes that they do not practice for several hours.

Reed Enjoyed It.
Thomas E. Reed was once the victim of a printer's error the unusual aptness of which, after the first flush of indignation had subsided, appealed so strongly to his sense of the comic that he never failed to refer to the matter with the keenest gusto whenever he met the man whom he, with the utmost mock solemnity, always held responsible for it.
The late Colonel John A. Cockerill's handwriting in the heat of composition was sometimes liable to lose itself in an almost interminable tangle, decipherable only with the greatest difficulty. On one occasion he undertook to say that "any one can see Tom Reed has the face of an honest man," but was horrified when he opened his paper the following morning and found that the types made him say that "any one can see Tom Reed has a face like a harvest moon."

Wonders of the Human Heart.
The workings of the human heart have been computed by a celebrated physiologist, and he has demonstrated that it is equal to the lifting of 120 tons in twenty-four hours. Presuming that the blood is thrown out of the heart at each pulsation in the proportion of sixty-nine strokes of nine feet, the mileage of the blood through the body might be taken at 207 yards per minute, seven miles per hour, 168 miles per day, 61,330 miles per year, or 5,150,000 miles in a lifetime of eighty-four years. In the same period of time the heart must beat 2,869,776,000 times.

Sadiron and Tailor's Goose.
A "sadiron" is the style in which the common flatiron is spoken of in print, says the Syracuse Herald. "Sad" is an old English synonym for heavy, and Spenser wrote, "More sad than lump of lead." A "sadiron" was a heavy iron and long ago was applied to the flatiron now in common domestic use. The tailor's "goose" was so called because the handle bears a fanciful resemblance to the neck of a goose. This name because it had a reason for being still survives.

Literary Diseases.
Many occupations have diseases which are more or less incidental to them, and literature is not exempt. The two most prevalent literary maladies are writer's cramp and swelled head. The unfortunate thing about writer's cramp is that it is never cured. The unfortunate thing about swelled head is that it never kills.—Exchange.

The Trouble With Poultry.
An old woman who went into the poultry business under the expectation that she could make a fortune by selling eggs has quit it in disgust because, as she says, "the hens never lay when eggs are dear, but always begin as soon as they are cheap."

MRS. HELENA BLAU,
Young Milwaukee Society Woman.

TEN thousand cured women have written to tell how Wine of Cardui bestows the blessing of health on every woman who takes it, rich and poor alike. Mrs. Helena Blau, No. 123 Seventh Street, Milwaukee, Wis., is one of the young women whom Wine of Cardui has rescued from a life of suffering. She writes:

The woman who has suffered from female weakness should do anything within reason to secure health. Wine of Cardui is the medicine that appeals to reasonable women—women who hold operations and cutting in horror—women who know that Nature is the best physician. Wine of Cardui gives women back their health by giving Nature a chance to build up the wasted and diseased tissue. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow and Nature, when relieved of the drains or of the poisons in the system, makes the functional organs strong and healthy again.

"Wine of Cardui is certainly 'worn out' women's best friend and I am pleased to give my experience with it. A few months ago I caught a severe cold, having been out in inclement weather, which settled all over me, particularly in the abdomen. I was in almost constant pain. I consulted a physician and took his medicine for a month and without any relief. I then decided I would try your medicine and it was a lucky day for me when I did so. I noticed a change in a few days and felt encouraged to continue taking Wine of Cardui, and my patience was rewarded, for in two weeks my pains had left me and I felt like a new woman."

Why not get a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today?

A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.

WEAK LUNGS

Weak lungs are mostly due to a neglected cough. Only a small percent of the millions who have consumption inherit it. A slight cold, a tickling or hacking cough is the beginning, and after it has reached a certain advanced stage there is no ending except the grave.
Any case of consumption that is curable; that is, any one having consumption whose family or friends still hold on to a ray of hope, may take comfort in the knowledge of the fact that One Minute Cough Cure will give instant relief and finally cure.
This famous remedy does not pass immediately into the stomach, but lingers long in the throat, chest and lungs, producing the following results:
(1) Relieves the cough.
(2) Makes the breathing easy.
(3) Cuts out the phlegm.
(4) Draws out the inflammation.
(5) Kills the germs (microbes) of disease.
(6) Strengthens the mucous membranes.
(7) Clears the head.
(8) Relieves the feverish conditions.
(9) Removes every cause of the cough and the strain on the lungs.
(10) Enables the lungs to contribute pure life-giving and life-sustaining oxygen to the blood. Cures Croup and all Cough, Lung and Bronchial Affections.

CONSUMPTION CURED.
"My physician told me one year ago that I would die of consumption inside of a year. I commenced taking One Minute Cough Cure for my lung trouble and it cured me. I have gained 20 pounds and I am a pretty live 'dead' woman." One Minute Cough Cure saved me." MARY F. SULLIVAN, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Pleasant to the taste. Good for Children. Good for every body. For Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping-Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia and all Throat and Lung troubles no remedy is so good as TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

Large Attendance Today—London Bill Unanimously Endorsed.

The Pitt County Teachers' Association met in regular monthly session in the court house this morning with a good attendance of teachers from all parts of the county.

Prof. Peeden, of Ayden, conducted the opening exercises.

Besides the reading of essays in accordance with the program previously published there were the following discussions on mathematics:

Prof. Ragsdale—"How to Classify."

Prof. Manning—"How to Teach." Prof. Nye—"Results."

Mrs. R. R. Cotten made an interesting talk on Mothers' Meetings. THE REFLECTOR will publish the essays read, as has been the custom of previous meetings.

This afternoon the association unanimously adopted the following resolution:

We, the white teachers of Pitt county, both public and private, one hundred and twenty-five in number, without a single exception in convention assembled this the 14th of February, 1903, in behalf of the educational interest of the county, do earnestly ask our senator and representatives in the present legislature to use every effort they can make and their whole influence for the passage of the London bill. Should they do this ten thousand children, their mothers, and a large majority of their fathers will say "well done, good and faithful servants of the people"
