SPRING 1903

NEW WHITE GOODS WELCOME

COLOR is eliminated from the card today. White Goods first in store displays as they will be in your thoughts, we trust. Ten years ago, yes, four or five years, even—who would have dreamed of the beauty to be brought out in fabric art without a touch from rainbow tints? Pure white, but so varied have been the dreams of designers, so cleverly have loom wizards wrought, that there is hardly a limit to variety. White has only been thought of as a repellent for summer's heat. The sheerest effects have been sought, but now, however, white fabrics, chevots, madras and piques are brought out in rich style assortment. White has overstepped the limits of summer months and hereafter will be an all-the-year-round factor.

WHITE PIQUES

In a large variety of the up-to-date styles and designs in Imported Piques that are worth your while to inspect at 12 1-2, 15, 20 and 25c.

WHITE DIMITIES

In all of the newest designs and weaves, dots, stripes and lace stripes at 8 1-3, 10, 12 1-2, 15, 18, 20, 22 1-2, 25 and 30c.

WHITE MADRAS

In Crepe de Chine designs with Satin stripes that will retain its lustre after it is laundered at 30 and 35c.

WHITE LAWNS

In Lace Striped and Hemstitched Patterns. Such a line has never before been your pleasure to see in Greenville at the following prices per yard: 10, 12 1-2, 15, 18, 20, 25, 35, 40 and 50c.

FEBRUARY was a month for clearing out all winter goods. Low prices were marked on entire stock of goods that were not wanted. This week and next we must clear the shelves of the remainder of winter stock. Bed Blankets, Comforts, Ladies' Jackets, Skirts, Fur Scarfs, Men's Overcoats, Clothing and Furnishings.

Friday, March 6th, we will sell Comforts that were $1.50 for 98c.

On Saturday, March 7th, we will sell Men's Macintosh Coats, with Cape, 44 inches long, former price, $3.00, for 98c. SIZES 34 TO 46.

Notes from the State Capital

RALEIGH, March 9, 1903.

By the time these lines are read the general assembly of 1903 will be a thing of the past.

Its closing hours were marked by active hard work—and "dead loads" of it was accomplished. The legislature was practically in continuous session during the last three or four days, adjourning only for meals and completing the day's work at a late hour, keeping both branches in session until midnight and after.

While this legislature on the whole was an "eminently respectable" one with a number of decidedly able men in both branches, and was "above the average"—especially if we include the recent populist legislature and those which in years gone were controlled by the republicans—still, the number of "big men" was comparatively small.

In the senate, for instance, after excepting about a half dozen gentlemen of real ability and valuable experience in public affairs, the average senator was not up to the standard in North Carolina, and did not compare favorably with the one of two years ago especially. Indeed, some of the men who occupied senatorial seats ought never to have been sent here.

This writer has been reporting the legislature for many years, and is in a position to speak intelligently on this subject. But I shall not hurt any one's feelings by referring even by inference, to any individual.

As usual the work of the session was directed by the leading spirits—and it speaks for itself. The liquor question has not been agitated so much in a generation as during the last two months—and the "liquor devil" made his presence felt even unto the last expiring breath of this legislature.

The most effective piece of real temperance legislation was the passage in the house last Friday of the bill to compel all licensed saloons all over the state to close business at 8 o'clock p. m.

It is the night drinking and "treating" in saloons that starts the appetite in ninety per cent. of the young men of the South, and it is responsible for ninety nine per cent of the debauches and "protracted sprees" indulged in by men of maturer years. It is the starting point of the downward course that leads to wrecked constitutions, financial and moral poverty, "the jim-jams" and to hell—on earth and hereafter.

Not much from a temperance stand-point is expected from the Watts law—or, rather, the Simmons-Ayeock law—except in the country and unincorporated villages, and the stronghold of the the saloon has never been there. But it will turn the distilleries from the country to the towns, and if one one-hundredth part of what some people said is true the country is to be congratulated on that, at least, and the cities and towns correspondingly pitied.

But politics always plays the most important and winning part in these fights, and in this case there was no exception to the rule. So the senate referred the 8 o'clock closing saloon bill of the house to the judiciary committee, instead of acting on it directly as it had done in the closing days on other measures of moment. This action settled its fate, and the 8 o'clock saloon bill did not pass the senate, as many hoped it would. The legislature will adjourn since die today (Monday) at noon unless the present plans miscarry. For which one hard worked newspaper man will be duly thankful.

Teachers' Association Saturday, March 14th, 1903.

Prof. J. Y. Joyner, state superintendent of public instruction will be with us next Saturday at the Teacher's Association, and at 11:30 o'clock will deliver an address. All the teachers in the county are expected to be present. Don't let one fail. We desire the presence also of the Board of Education and all the committeemen of the county. They are hereby cordially invited to meet with us. In addition we extend a hearty invitation to every one who is interested in the educational advancement of the county to be present. An interesting program has been arranged for the day and we can promise you that you will enjoy the exercises. The influence of this organization is already being felt in the county and it has the promise of accomplishing much for the schools. You can assist in this work by giving us your presence. Remember that the meeting will be held regardless of the weather. The worse the weather, the more necessary it will be for you to be present. We are expecting you at the court house that day at 10 o'clock a. m.

Mr. G. W. Venters Dead.

Mr. G. W. Venters, a prominent farmer of Chicod township, died at his home near Calico at 10:30 o'clock Saturday night. Mr. Venters once represented this county in the legislature. He was also a Mason and Messrs. J. M. Reuss, Charles Cobb and Wiley Brown, a committee from Greenville lodge, went down today to attend his funeral.

Watch for the Opening.

Mrs. M. D. Higgs is in the northern markets purchasing spring millinery, and some of her new goods are arriving. The ladies are requested to watch THE REFLECTOR for her return and announcement of her spring opening. Mrs. Higgs, always has the prettiest goods that can be procured, and her opening displays are occasions of interest.

To the Ladies.

I am now receiving my Spring Millinery. Trimmers will commence work March 16. You can have a hat trimmed from 50 cents to any price desired. Flowers from 5 cents to $2.25 per bunch. Large display entirely new.

"Burnt," the new color in hats. "Honeymoon," the newest shape. Grapes, cherries and berries; latest thing in flowers.

After looking through my stock you will pronounce it the largest and prettiest ever shown in this city. MRS. L. GRIFFIN.

The largest mortgage ever recorded in this county was filed at the court house Wednesday. This was given by the Suffolk & Carolina Railroad Company to the International Trust Company of Maryland, in the sum of one million dollars, the instrument covering 46 printed pages and containing 25,000 words.—Elizabeth City Economist.

Charles W. Fairbanks' new anti-Roosevelt republican party in North Carolina will find no trouble in selecting a presidential candidate while Charles W. lives. Roscoe Mitchell's Elizabeth City Carolinian put it out as a feeler in this state. It felt—from subsequent proceeding.—Durham Sun.

PERSONAL NOTES

Brief Mention of People Met With in the Social World

L. I. Moore left Saturday evening for Beaufort.
Julius Sugg returned to Kinston Saturday evening.
The League Continues.
At the meeting of the Anti-Saloon League Sunday afternoon, it was decided to make the organization permanent and continue to fight against saloons. The league will meet in the Methodist church next Sunday afternoon to elect officers for the permanent organization.
Put Out the Fire.
On Saturday night Mr. W. O. Barnhill put out the fire that had been burning in the gasoline tank of the Standard Oil Co. since Tuesday night previous. The tank was found to contain a large quantity of gasoline that had not burned. He will get one cent per gallon salvage on all that is saved.
Meeting Continues.
Rev. H. M. Eure is continuing the meeting in the Methodist church this week, and services will be held each night beginning at 7:15. At the service Sunday night several in the congregation requested prayer. Mr. C. V. York sang a very impressive solo at the conclusion of the sermon.
New Pastor.
Rev. F. G. Hartman, of Staunton, Va., who has accepted the pastorate of the Presbyterian church here, came in Saturday evening and entered upon his charge. The congregation and people are well pleased with him.
None Last Week.
When the reporter went to Register of Deeds R. Williams' office to get a list of marriage licenses issued last week, he was informed that not one had been issued during the week. This is something very unusual, that a whole week should go by without a marriage license being issued in a county as large as Pitt.
Address at Winterville.
Next Friday night Prof. J. Y. Joyner, State Superintendent, will deliver an address before Winterville High School. All friends of education are invited to attend.

We desire a live correspondent at every post office in the county, who will send in brief items of news as it occurs. Write plainly, and only on one side of the paper.

MONDAY AFTERNOON, MARCH 9, 1903.

PRIDE, NOT REGRET.

The following from the Manufacturer's Record is truth.

Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the Tulane University, in his late oration at the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, seemed to regret that the old South could not produce an Emerson. Why regret? Suppose the South had produced an Emerson! What would the South have done with him? What would he have done with the South? Who was Emerson, anyhow? We all know that he was the author of works which are soon to appear in a new edition and that his name is being mentioned here and there under the skillful cultivation of publicity belonging to book manufacturers, and, on the same line, we know that the Free Religious Association which Emerson helped to found will celebrate next summer the centennial of his birth. But is there any reason why the South should regret that its air did not produce an Emerson? The last word about Emerson has not been written, and his place in American literature and American philosophy is by no means assured. America is still young. Why regret that the South could not produce him? The South has been too busy producing great men.

The works of both the old and the new South will live long after the plagiarized philosophy of the namby-pamby Emerson has sunk into oblivion. The South has no regret that we have had no Emerson. Grady, Vance, Hampton, Lee, Jackson, Beauregard—these are the names we cherish, and the names of other nature's noblemen, the latches of whose shoes the sickly, half-baked Emerson was not worthy to loosen.

Senator-elect Clarke, of Arkansas, is having a strenuous sample of that cold, haughty stare handed to him. It is customary for a new senator to be introduced to his fellow-honorables by his colleague, but it happens that he is not on speaking terms with the other Arkansas traveler in the senate, Senator Berry, so Senator Carmack was asked to introduce him, but had to decline for the same reason as Senator Berry. Arkansas will have to send a chaperone along with the fellows she sends to Congress.

We are pleased to note the rampant spirit of the democracy at Washington. There's no denying that the party has lost something of masterful force and intelligent activity of late years, but with such men as Simmons, Overman, Carmack, DeArnold, the Kitchens and others on the scene, we may look for some old-time democracy that will shake the structure of radical tyranny and cowardice to its rotten foundations.

The statement that the agitation of the race question was hatched up in New York for the purpose of defeating Theodore for a re-nomination is wrong on the face of it. New York is always too busy with murder trials and custom house criminals to indulge in politics.

The astute Marylander, Arthur Poe Gorman, is again in the leadership of the democratic minority in congress. He is one of the very few men in our public life whom no trick of politics can catch unprepared.

In view of the Washington Post's forceful characterization of the republican majority in congress as Goths and Vandals, some of Mr. Kipling's "characteristic Goth and shameless Hun" poetry would be appropriate.

The following from the Newport News Times-Herald contains irony enough to make a battleship fourteen carats fine:

"Miss Alice Roosevelt returns from the South today, where she has been the guest of some charming white people."

We recommend that the new science for restoring sight to the blind be tried on the gentleman from Oyster Bay. If it works all-right there institutions for the blind can be dispensed with.

There isn't much propriety in cussing out the 57th congress for lavish expenditures when our own state appropriates so much money. The difference is that we do it to pay debts.

The cup of woe of the Ecbersonville News runneth over as follows:

"We have been having some cussed bad luck this week, one whole form in 'pie,' the editor away and two of our printers, 'a courting.'"

"I told you so," may not have much force as an argument, but it is sometimes the only thing that stings the man who was disappointed in cotton futures.

Senator Tillman's threat to talk the Crum nomination to death is no idle boast, but which is the worst to endure—Tillman's talk or Crum's nomination?

Bound volumes of statements from the White House and personal letters from the president are expected to turn up soon.

We almost wish the legislature could, like the brook, go on forever. We have to poke fun at something.

Judge Justice will try the Haywood homicide case. We hope Justice will triumph.

The legislature will now return home and begin to earn their own living.

Tarboro has a new poet—or rather poetess. Things might be worse.

Jinks—"Why did young Pudney fail? I thought he was doing well." Binks—"He was until he spent too much time reading the advice to young men on how to succeed."—Judge.

When a man has a peck of trouble he is satisfied with short measure.

READ IT THROUGH.

'Twould Spoil this Story to Tell it in the Headlines.

To use an 18th century expression, this is an "o'er true tale." Having happened in a small Virginia town in the winter of 1902, it is a story very much of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon, of Melfa Station, Va., had no personal knowledge of the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbors told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once and it soon cured her. I heartily thank the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it too highly or say too much in its favor. I hope all who read this will try it and be convinced, as I was." For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, and Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Slander is a polite form of assassination.

A Remarkable Case.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Mariou, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I run down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Jno. L. Wooten.

The leader of men is often only a follow her.

Wakeful Children.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth street, Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these Tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, and Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

A smile on the face is worth two laughs in the sleeve.

The Stomach is the Man.

A weak stomach weakens the man, because it cannot transform the food he eats into nourishment. Health and strength cannot be restored to any sick man or weak woman without first restoring health and strength to the stomach. A weak stomach cannot digest enough food to feed the tissues and revive the tired and run down limbs and organs of the body. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cleanses, purifies, sweetens and strengthens the glands and membranes of the stomach, and cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Jno. L. Wooten.

Are not the rag time songs becoming somewhat thread-bare?

Colds are Dangerous.

How often you hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It always cures and is pleasant to take. Sold by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, and Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

The boy who studies arithmetic will surely become an adder.

What's in a Name?

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago, discovered, some years ago, how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases, DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Jno. L. Wooten.

When They Met Again

(Original.)

"This is a bad night," said Antonio Garez as he listened to the rain falling in torrents on his roof and buttoned his coat about him to protect himself from the cold wind that forced its way through the loose windows.

"Yes," replied his wife, throwing more covering over her sleeping babe. "I should dread to be out in such a night."

"It will go hard with the revolutionists. I hope this winter will freeze them out entirely."

"If it doesn't, we will go back to Spain in the spring."

There was a quick rap at the door. Garez sprang up and opened it. There stood a woman, with the dark eyes, raven hair and olive complexion of a Cuban, bearing in her arms a little child. Garez drew back.

"I am Senora Garnet," said the woman. "For heaven's sake, give me shelter, at least for the night. The Spanish soldiers have burned our house and taken my husband to jail."

"I know you well, senora. You are one of the few rich Cuban revolutionists. You have lived in a great house in the midst of your sugar plantation. Now you have no home over your head and ask shelter under the lowly roof of a loyal Spaniard. Go on in the rain till you find one of your own kind to take you in." And he shut the door in her face.

With a moan the woman turned away. A dim light shone far away, and she made toward it, the rain beating down on her already drenched garments, the wind chilling her to the bone. Holding the child close to her to protect it from the storm, she floundered on till she at last reached a hut, through the window of which came the light of a candle, and fell exhausted against the door. In another moment a man lifted her and her child into the hut. His hair and beard were white, but he had the erect bearing of one who had been a soldier.

"For heaven's sake, senora," said the man in broken Spanish, "what do you do on such a night?"

"I am the wife of Senor Garnet. The Spanish soldiers have burned our house and taken my husband to jail."

"Garnet?" said the man. "I served under a Major Garnet in the States. We were Confederates. But he would be now too old to be your husband."

"My husband is much older than I. He was in the Confederate army and came here when the southern people gave up the unequal contest."

"You are welcome, senora, to what I have, but it is not much. I was with your husband through many a campaign and loved and admired him for a brave man."

The old man helped her to a rude lounge before the fire, heated some liquor, which he induced her to drink, and warmed some milk for her child. Then he went out to a neighboring house and brought back dry clothing, after which he left her for the night.

Senora Garnet spent months in the abode of Antoine Cavillac, a Louisiana creole who had drifted to Cuba, where he had been employed in a tobacco house. The old man was happy in ministering to her comfort. During the day he was busy securing food and other necessities for his guests, and in the evening he would sit and tell the senora incidents of his campaigns with her husband—how they had passed through the same battles, experienced the same hunger, faced the same wind and rain and at last suffered the same keen disappointment in having struggled so long in a cause that was lost.

"I left the major on the day after the surrender," said Antoine, "and I have never since seen him. 'Goodbye,' he said. 'If you ever see me again, it will be as a soldier in a foreign army.' At that time he expected to offer his services to the khedive of Egypt."

One afternoon firing was heard near the railroad which lay about a mile from the hut, and soon a number of Spanish soldiers came flying down the road. They were followed by troops wearing a uniform unfamiliar to both the senora and the ex-Confederate. They were United States troops of 1808. Among them was an old man who, though weak and emaciated, kept pace with the rest, on his face a look of intense fierceness, in his hands a Krug-Jorgensen rifle, from which he was pouring shots at the Spaniards.

"It is Senor Garnet!" the woman called to Cavillac. "Call him."

"Major!" called Cavillac. "Stop! Here!"

"Who are you, and what do you want?" asked Garnet.

"I am your former orderly, Antoine Cavillac, and I have your young wife and babe here in my house."

Garnet hung down his rifle. In another moment he was locked in the arms of his wife.

"Major," said Cavillac, "when I parted with you in Virginia more than thirty years ago you told me that if I ever saw you again it would be in foreign service. The next time I see you are chasing Spaniards and in company of the men you chased at Bull Run."

"Antoine has told me," said the senora to her husband, "of many a gallant deed of yours that makes me more proud of you than ever."

"Did he tell you that he once saved my life from a Yankee saber cut by substituting his own skull?"

"No."

"The metal ornament on his hat was all that saved him."

Senor Garnet had been released from prison by the bluecoats and joined them in pursuing a common enemy. As soon as the war ended he took possession of his sugar plantation, and Cavillac is now his overseer.

Early Rising Not Always a Virtue.

Thousands of people have no choice whatever about their hour of rising in the morning. Later or earlier, that hour is fixed for them by the requirements of the office, the shop or the classroom, by the time table of the railroad, by the arbitration of their employers or the necessities of their employees. But in the cases manifold where personal liberty is enjoyed it should not be thoughtlessly restricted simply because of the domestic tradition that early rising deserves praise and late rising blame.

Breakfast may often be a movable feast without materially disturbing the routine of an orderly housekeeping day. Invalids, mothers whose rest has been broken by teething babies and, above all, rapidly growing children, should have their sleep out. Nature demands this, and violence is done to her when sleepy people are rudely aroused from their beds. Early to bed is the single safe prescription to insure early to rise.

We need to repeat it over and over to our hurrying, anxious, toiling American men and women: Rest, rest and again rest. Do not think time ill spent that is spent in repairing the ravages of our well nigh incessant activity.

The First Pantomime.

Most pantomime characters were originally borrowed from the Italians. The first real English pantomime was produced at a theater in Lincoln's Inn Fields in 1720. It was called "Harlequin Executed," and its subtitle was "A New Italian Comic Scene Between a Scaramouche, a Harlequin, a Country Farmer, His Wife and Others." The performance was very successful. About the middle of the eighteenth century the character of pantomime performances was completely altered, chiefly because of the genius of the famous Grimaldi, who made the clown the first figure of the pantomime. Grimaldi first appeared at Sadler's Wells theater, where he played the part of a monkey. He was actively engaged on the stage for forty-nine years, and at the close of his stage career he took a benefit at Drury Lane theater, which realized nearly £600. He also received £100 from the Drury Lane fund. This was in June, 1828. He died in 1837 and was buried in the churchyard in St. James' chapel, Pentonville hill—London Standard.

Animals and Poisons.

Certain substances which are deadly in their effects upon men can be taken by the brute creation with impunity. Horses can take large doses of antimony, dogs of mercury, goats of tobacco, mice of hemlock and rabbits of belladonna without injury. On the other hand, dogs and cats are much more susceptible to the influence of chloroform than man and are much sooner killed by it. If this invaluable anesthetic had been first tried upon animals, we should probably have never enjoyed its blessings, as it would have been found to be so fatal that its discoverer would have been afraid to test its effects upon human beings. It is evident, then, that an experiment upon an animal can never be the means of any certain deductions so far as man is concerned.—Family Doctor.

Skyrockets Before Gunpowder.

It matters very little in the long run to the small boy when, how or where fireworks were first made and of what they are made now. But the fact remains that the despised heathen Chinese first made them and used them and that civilized communities did not know of them until the fourteenth century. The skyrocket was first invented toward the close of the ninth century and at that time was used, so it is said, in India and China in war. That was long before the invention of gunpowder.

Ornamental Jade.

The Chinese have cut jade for ages, but never ornamented it except by sculpture. When it was introduced into India, the native jewelers, with their quick eye for color, at once saw what a perfect ground it afforded for mounting precious stones, and they were the first to incrust them on jade. The India museum in London possesses the choicest specimens of this work known of the best mogul period.

Knew What He Wanted.

"Can I show you anything?" asked the young man behind the counter at the hat store.

"I guess so," said the young man who had dropped in. "I want one of those disappearing hats you wear when you go to the opera. Got any?"—Chicago Tribune.

His Hair Not Gray.

"Young man," said the Rev. Good-man, "some day you'll bring your father's gray hairs in sorrow to the grave."

"No danger," replied young Rakely. "He hasn't any. Worrying about me's made him bald."—Catholic Standard and Times.

What She Didn't Say.

Mamma (to Flossie, who has been lurching with a little friend)—I hope you were very polite, Flossie, at the table and said "Yes, please," and "No, thank you."

Flossie—Well, I didn't say "No, thank you."

Mistress Seeks a Cook.

"How many ways can you serve meat?"

"Three, mum."

"What are they?"

"Well done, rare and raw."—Chicago Chronicle.

FOR SALE.

A valuable tract of farm and wood land within two miles of Greenville. By virtue of a decree of Pitt Superior court made February 11th, 1903, in a certain special proceeding therein pending for the sale of the land herein after described for partition to which Rosa Fleming, Roscoe Fleming, Archie Fleming, Nannie Fleming, D. C. Fleming, Adolphus Fleming, Leonora B. Ransom and Jewell Fleming are parties, I will, on Monday, March 10th, 1903, offer for sale to the highest bidder at the court house door in Greenville the valuable tract of farm and woodland, opposite Parkers cross roads, which was allotted to the above tenants in common in the division of the lands of F. Fleming and known as lot No. 1 containing 121 acres and described in said division as follows: Beginning at a maple on the Greenville and Bethel road, the corner of Susan O. Brown, dec'd, and running thence with her line north 63 west 37 1/2 chains to a ditch; thence north 2 1/2 west 1 1/2 chains to the crook of the ditch, then north 26 1/2 east 30 chains and 65 links to a stake entered by a dogwood, oak and maple; thence south 67 1/2 east 35 1/2 chains to a stake on the aforesaid road, thence with said road to the beginning.

Term—One-fourth cash on confirmation of sale, balance payable with interest January 1st, 1904.

DEATH RATE DECREASING.

The 1900 census shows a decrease of 10 per cent in the general death rate. The decline in Consumption is more marked than any other disease. Many causes are attributed, but it is safe to say that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is responsible for this decline, to a large extent. Many a life has been saved by its use. There is nothing anywhere just as good for Lung and Throat troubles. It's positively guaranteed by Wooten's Pharmacy. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

MORE RIOTS.

Disturbances of strikers are not nearly as grave as an individual disorder of the system. Over work, loss of sleep, nervous tension will be followed by utter collapse unless a reliable remedy is immediately employed. There's so efficient to cure disorders of the Liver or Kidneys as Electric Bitters. It's a wonderful tonic, an effective nerve and the greatest all round medicine for run down systems. It dispels Nervousness, Rheumatism and Neuralgia and expels Malaria germs. Only 50c., and satisfaction guaranteed by Wooten's Pharmacy.
