Words

Words are the slaves alike of the wise and the foolish, the weak and the strong, the true and the false. They must serve him who calls them forth by lips or pen, whether the purpose be to inform the world of that which it should know or deceive the unwary by parroting the expressions of others whom they would fain the world should think them to resemble.

Fortunately for the public, "words are good when backed by deeds, and only so."

Deeds are not such servile subjects, and when the public learns to know whose words are constantly allied with deeds they know where and when to place confidence in words.

THE HOME OF WOMEN'S FASHIONS.

Where Are Their Pockets?

As many things as the average boy will carry around in his pockets, giving them much the appearance of junk shops, now and then they seem not to have enough room for all the trash they want to carry around and put part of it in their ears or nose. Last week Dr. J. E. Nokes extracted a cotton seed from one boy's nose and a pea from the ear of another boy.

Meeting at Ayden.

There will be a meeting of North Carolina Farmers Protection Association at Ayden, Saturday, March, 14th, 1903. E. V. Cox will deliver an address on this occasion. All farmers are invited to attend. JOHN CHEEK, Sec.

For the past two seasons the theatre-goers of this town have shown a disposition to patronize good shows, but this thing of paying a dollar to see twenty-five cent attractions will soon prove tiresome.—Durham Herald.

Senator Hoar frequently pours oil on the troubled waters of debate by his wit. In a recent encounter between Senators Elkins and Lodge and the senator, he changed the current of events by telling Mr. Elkins he was "the essence of wisdom and beauty."—Durham Sun.

It is all right to advise farmers to hold their cotton, but who is going to pay the labor and the fertilizer bills? If the average farmer was able to do this he would not be farming.—Durham Herald.

The Atlanta Journal says the president's apology amounts to this: "I have done it and I am pained that you people think I have done it. But I want you to understand that I will continue to do it just the same."

Teachers' Institute.

The question as to where the Institute shall be held the coming summer will be submitted to a vote of the teachers at their meeting Saturday. Several places are asking for it, and after consultation with some members of the Board of Education it is thought best to leave the matter as to the place to the teachers as they are more directly concerned than any one else. Come and vote your choice.

W. H. RAGSDALE,
Co. Supt. Schools.

Levi A. Smith of Sandifer, Mecklenburg county, is attending court. He was a former citizen of Gaston. Mr. Smith will be 75 years old the 7th of June. He is remarkable for his sleepless condition. For the past twenty years he has been afflicted with catarrh. The disease has grown worse with the years and as the disease has grown worse he has lost his ability to sleep. Some time ago he did not sleep for 46 days. He has not slept since Saturday night February 7th, and from indications Mr. Smith thinks this spell of sleeplessness will be longer than the previous long spell. Mr. Smith has a fairly good appetite, but the inability to sleep renders him nervous and dull. His fingers and toes feel all the time as if burning.—Gastonia News.

Twenty years ago but seven women doctors practiced in Paris. Now there are fifty-seven at work.

More than 10 per cent of the foreign born inhabitants of Washington, D. C. are natives of England.

The Scab of the Irish Potato.

The potato scab is readily recognized by all growers of the potato by the scabby depression in the normally smooth skin of the potato. These scabs may be single or scattered, but are often so abundant as to involve nearly the whole surface of the potato. To the consumer they are of considerable importance, since they necessitate very thick paring, and a consequent loss of the edible portion of the potato. To the farmer who wishes to sell his potatoes, the loss is even greater, as the scabby tubers command in the market a much less price than clean, healthy potatoes.

The scab is due to fungus which grows in the skin of the potato. This fungus in old fields, which have been used repeatedly for potatoes, may be thoroughly distributed through the soil. In ground which has not been used for potatoes so much, the scab causing fungus may be absent. If, however, scabby potatoes be planted in a clean soil the scab will be carried to this soil by such planting, and a scabby crop will result.

One method, then, by which the scab gains access to the field is through the seed. This means of entrance is under the control of the farmer, and may be readily cut off by soaking the seed in a chemical which will kill the fungus adhering to the surface of the potato, and yet not injure the potato itself. Such a chemical is formalin.

To treat your seed potatoes mix eight ounces of formalin with fifteen gallons of water, and soak the seed in this solution for two hours. Then cut and plant them. The solution may be used repeatedly, but it is well after it has been used two or three times, to either lengthen the time of immersion or to add a little more formalin to make up for any loss in strength. Formalin is a harmless non-poisonous substance (when used safely anywhere) which can be used with safety anywhere. It can be purchased at any drug store for about 80 cents per pint.

In many cases the value of the crop has been doubled by this treatment, and yet the treatment itself, including both material and labor, cost only a few cents per acre.

If you are troubled with the scab do not neglect treatment.

Or Run Trains on Schedule.

The New York Sun notes the fact that George A. Miller, a professor of law in the New York University and a member of the law firm of Carter & Ledyard, has begun an action in the Supreme Court against the Erie Railroad Company for damages on account of delayed trains. Mr. Miller says that the train taking him home was constantly from ten to twenty minutes late in arriving and he enumerates five specific occasions in December when the train was from three-quarters to an hour late, without any apparent cause. By reason of these delays, he sets up, he suffered annoyance, inconvenience and excessive fatigue. He was deprived of his necessary rest and leisure and the comforts of the society of his family, and furthermore, his meals were delayed and their quality impaired. For all these discomforts he demands $100 damages. Should the principle be established that this plaintiff is entitled to recover, the roads in this section might just as well arrange to go into the hands of receivers.—Charlotte Observer.

The English soldiers' pay is $7.50 a month. The soldiers of no other country except the United States gets so much.

PERSONAL NOTES

Brief Mention of People Met With in the Social World

Senator A. L. Blow returned home this morning from Raleigh.

Misses Mamie and Fannie Dixon went to Winterville Monday evening.

G. W. Baker, of Lewiston, came in Monday evening to visit J. N. Hart and left this morning.

Mrs. C. E. Matthews left this morning for Richmond.

F. L. Walker and F. D. Foxball went up the road this morning.

Rev. W. E. Cox returned this morning from Winterville.

Misses Lena Dawson, Olivia and Huldah Cox, of Winterville, spent today here.

Jesse Speight left this morning on a trip up the road.

H. B. Phillips went to Suffolk today.

Miss Bessie Patrick returned this morning from a visit to Kinston.

A certain young man fired with the martial spirit and who had been refused permission by his mother to join the Kinston Rifles, engaged a private instructor to teach him the manual of arms and the tactics of war and military life. A few evenings ago the young man was undergoing a rigid solitary drill at his home under the eye of his tutor, and becoming enthused under the exciting order to charge, did so with a gun that "wasn't loaded." As usual the unloaded gun fired and carried away a good part of the door. The young man's father happened to be coming in the house about that time and narrowly escaped being shot.—Kinston Free Press.

Over $43,000,000 has been received by the United States patent office in fees since it was opened in 1837.

The savings bank deposits of the United States equal the national debt multiplied by three.

Artificial teeth and uppers for boots and shoes are the latest articles to be made from paper.

Victor or Vanquished?

All I have toiled to do has been done ill;
All I have striven to grasp escaped me still;
The love I longed to win has passed me by;
Mine was the only fault—unworthy I;
The path that others tread, I could not climb.
The joy that others held was never mine;
The battle is unwon, though close the night,
Yet still I've fought, though sometimes weak the fight.
Yet still I've worked, although my work was vain;
Though I have failed, in naught do I complain,
All that I ask is leave to fight again.
—Mary N. McCracken, in the December McClure's.

House Burning Case.

This morning Henrietta Donaldson, charged with setting fire to the house occupied by Jack Bryant last Tuesday night, was arraigned before Mayor H. W. Whedbee for a preliminary hearing. Col. I. A. Sugg appeared for the defendant and at the outset an affidavit was made that the defendant believed she could not get justice before the Mayor and asking that the case be removed to a Justice of the Peace. Mayor Whedbee read some very pointed law covering the point and said he would be only too glad to let some one else try the case, but he could find no authority for so doing and felt it his duty to try it. Thereupon he overruled the motion for removal. The examination of witnesses then began and after taking the testimony of several the woman was bound over to Superior court and committed to jail without bail.

Thrown by a Mule.

Today Mr. Flem Beasley, who lives on the north side of the river, was in town. When getting ready to leave he got on a mule to ride bareback.

The mule became unmanageable and while trying to run across the vacant lot opposite the court house Mr. Beasley was thrown off against a buggy and badly hurt. It was sometime before he could be moved.

The government of Persia has recently stopped all importation of scriptures in the Persian language.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, MARCH 10, 1903.

Well, those Sunday-caught shad taste just as good as any other.

Mr. Kipling had his latest poem copyrighted. Dime museums take notice.

The $6 a week dry goods clerk will now begin saving up to buy a $25 panama hat.

In the spring-time the housewife's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of move.

Doubtless there will be serious objection from certain quaters to placing electric lights on the bridge.

The Winchester, Va., man who was caught digging his own grave seems to have stolen one of Jim Hayes' ideas.

"Girls without waists" are discussed in the fashion section of a "yellow" paper. We prefer the other kind.

The Springfield Republican says: "No harm is likely to be done by an extra session of the senate." That is, not to the trusts.

The Greensboro Record describes the Burdick murder as a "mysterious mystery". Has the Record samples of any other kind?

If it were not for the presidential election next year we would have two whole years in which to attend to our own business.

Doubtless the esteemed Commoner will throw a few fits when it discovers that Arthur Pue Gorman is gathering up the remnants.

Frank Wilson is the original improvement man. He said "let there be light," and lo! it was always day time in front of his store.

Pitt is not the only county to have a discredited representative in the legislature. New Hanover has also suffered from her Morton.

A few more weeks and we will be saved the agony of seeing a one dollar man and a million dollar girl riding in a sleigh at $3 per hour.

A reader asked us "what have cobs to do with cobwebs?" The same that hops have to do with grasshoppers and butter with butterflies.

That horseless carriage you saw rattling down asphalted Dickinson avenue under the electric lights and past the water works was a— Oh! wake up.

We'll never be satisfied until we have a trolley line to Winterville. Think what a grand trolley party those Winterville High school girls could get up.

Of course no man need expect the democratic nomination for the presidency unless he is a regular paid-in-advance subscriber to Mr. Bryan's paper.

There is a suspicion that the legislator who introduced the free pass bill near the close of the session thought it was the only way he could get home.

With the legislature a thing of the past and the Durham depot matter amicably settled, life in the Old North State is likely to become tame indeed.

The indications are that the market for spring poetry will have a bullish tendency, the late coal strike having driven many a budding genius to work.

Those Alabama radicals who want to kill off the "lilly whites" will make a mistake if they begin business without getting plans and specifications from one Jimhayes.

A lantern to light the way by night is good enough for some folks, but those who prefer something else ought not to be bound by the wishes of the lantern carriers.

It will doubtless be a difficult undertaking to convince the owners of those distilleries which failed to become towns that the past legislature was anything but a failure.

If sawdust is really being used as an ingredient of the new-fangled breakfast foods, another North Carolina product is being cheated out of its fame by disguising its name.

Considering the condition of its finances, the state is spending too much money for colleges and too little for schools. What is a college to the boy who cannot go to a public school?

As between Parker and Hill for the democratic nomination for president, Hill is not even our second choice, but neither one of them will get near enough to it to give them heart disease.

The Virginia legislature is investigating a case of horse whipping. Evidently they've never heard of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in the very Ancient Dominion.

The path of Senator Overman seems not to be strewn with roses. According to report from Washington, the new senator is unable to dislodge some of Pritchard's appointees and place men of his own selection in their place. This is one of the rights of senators, but rights seem to have no more weight with the 58th congress than with the 57th. Under the circumstances Senator Overman would be justified in giving the republicans some trouble when the matter of the ratification of certain treaties comes up.

READ IT THROUGH.

'Twould Spoil this Story to Tell it in the Headlines.

To use an 18th century expression, this is an "o'er true tale." Having happened in a small Virginia town in the winter of 1902, it is a story very much of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon, of Melfa Station, Va., had no personal knowledge of the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbors told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once and it soon cured her. I heartily thank the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it too highly or say too much in its favor. I hope all who read this will try it and be convinced, as I was." For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, and Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Recently fallen rain water possesses radioactivity.

A Remarkable Case.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I run down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Jno. L. Wooten.

St. Petersburg authorities now disinfect small coins.

Wakeful Children.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth street, Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these Tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, and Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

It is becoming quite usual for girls to take part in the bull fights in Spanish cities.

The Stomach is the Man.

A weak stomach weakens the man, because it cannot transform the food he eats into nourishment. Health and strength cannot be restored to any sick man or weak woman without first restoring health and strength to the stomach. A weak stomach cannot digest enough food to feed the tissues and revive the tired and run down limbs and organs of the body. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cleanses, purifies, sweetens and strengthens the glands and membranes of the stomach, and cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Jno. L. Wooten.

The Hungarian House of representatives is the largest in the world. It has 751 members.

Colds are Dangerous.

How often you hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It always cures and is pleasant to take. Sold by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, and Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

What's in a Name?

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago, discovered, some years ago, how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases, DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Jno. L. Wooten.

A ROMANCE OF OLD PHILADELPHIA

[Original.]

There is something attractive about real romances, especially one that has occurred many years ago. Perhaps it is because the people of the past were different from ourselves and more different than we are from each other.

How different from that immense city which today is spread over thousands of acres, whose streets are adorned except with colossal buildings and whose people are engaged in the mad rush for money! Then beautiful trees lined her thoroughfares, her houses were quaint little buildings, and her Quaker population wore broad brimmed hats, broad tailed coats and knee breeches.

Polly Pennell, nineteen years old, was the daughter of a Philadelphia Quaker father—"the strictest sect a Pharisee"—and a Church of England mother. Polly was pretty as a picture and had hosts of admirers, all of whom were sharply watched by her curmudgeon father. Her most intimate friend was Rebecca Hamilton. Rebecca was not to the taste of old Pennell, she being of the world worldly. She took a fancy to Polly, however, and soon after their first meeting one Sunday after church she came down the street carrying aloft a beaver hat, two feet on the brim, looking for all the world like a balloon jib, leg o' mutton sleeves for spinnakers, and gloves laced to the elbows. The rest of her rig was a profusion of tulle and India muslin. Meeting Polly, she swooped down upon her and carried her off to dinner.

Polly was rescued by her Quaker attendants and received a severe admonition to shun the worldly creature. But Rebecca was as much to Polly's taste as she was to Polly's parents' distaste. A high bred dame, she disdained conventionalities as only necessary for inferior people who did not know how to behave themselves and made her own rules. Within a week after the rescue Polly had visited her in her home. There she was taken into dinner by a young Virginian, the very antipodes of a Quaker, named Francis Dulaney. His dress was far more effective in impressing a young girl than the conventional black "steel pen jacket" of today—a canary colored waistcoat embroidered with blooming red silk roses, a claret colored coat (with cuffs), flat brass buttons the size of a modern individual butter plate, breeches and stockings of the color of the coat, buckles on his shoes and plenty of lace about his throat. How could any young girl resist a handsome fellow in such attire? Polly certainly did not resist him, for she fell in love with him, and her love was returned. Rebecca Hamilton fostered the courtship not only for sympathy with the young couple, but to score a point on the Quakers.

Think of the broad brim hatted, coal scoop coated old Pennell having for a son-in-law a young man adorned like Francis Dulaney! Fancy the scene when the two men stood before each other and the younger man, a perfect stranger to the older, asked for the hand of his daughter! Of course he was refused. Could Quaker drab mate with canary and claret color? One might as well think of a daughter of a prophet mating with a spangled circus rider. The old man stood rigid, listening to the young one's entreaties, then gave a curt refusal, and Dulaney beat a sullen retreat. Pennell sent for his daughter. Instead of meeting an obedient child he found a firm woman. She told him that she had pledged herself to marry Dulaney and would do so.

Pennell placed Polly under the care of his sister, Patience, a woman more austere, more Quakerly dressed, more commanding, than her brother. Polly was forbidden to leave the house unaccompanied by her aunt, and her father made preparations to take her to England.

One crisp October morning in 1800 Pennell put on his broad brimmed hat, took his long staff, with a silver head as big as a dinner bell, and went downtown. The duenna went to her room to put it in order. She had no sooner entered than the door was locked from the outside. The family black servant was locked in the cellar. Then Polly, pale and excited, came downstairs and, pausing a moment to bid farewell to home, sallied forth, followed by her maid. Under a large buttonwood tree, standing on a corner, were Dulaney and Miss Hamilton, with the Hamilton's tilbury. Entering the tilbury, the party were driven to the home of the Hamiltons. All the wedding arrangements had been completed. No less a personage than the mayor of the town performed the ceremony, and Andrew Hamilton gave away the bride.

When Mr. Pennell returned to his home, he found a gaping crowd of broad brims before his house, attracted by the screams of his sister and his servant, who were demanding to be unlocked. Entering, he found the house abandoned by the child whom he had striven to keep from mingling with the sinful world. But, though he considered a canary colored waistcoat embroidered with flowers the livery of Satan, he did not consider forgiveness a part of salvation. He never forgave his daughter and died unconquered.

Dulaney took his wife to Virginia, that home of the intrepid Cavaliers, who, if in 1800 they had cut their hair, were still sufficiently sinful to wear powdered wigs. Thus the bride and groom lived for awhile on Dulaney's plantation and then went to live in England.

Rebecca Hamilton who had taken so important a part in the elopement, married unhappily, and her divorce case was one of the most important that have ever occurred in the Quaker City.

ETHEL ARNOLD ALLEN.

The 1900 census shows a decrease of 10 per cent in the general death rate. The decline in Consumption is more marked than any other disease.
