A Curious Sale on Silks

Two Very Unusual Offerings

A man stood on the London Bridge once and offered golden sovereigns at a penny apiece to the passersby. History has it that this notable underprice offering found few takers. As far as offering staple goods far below their worth is concerned, this sale of silks has points in common with the sale of sovereigns. There is a difference, though, in the extent of popular appreciation of a good thing, otherwise the original wouldn't be less today by tens of thousands of yards. Now is the chance if you desire to get pounds for pennies. One thousand yards of handsome new Wash Silks that will be sold for 25 cents per yard as long as they last. Full 36 inch Black Taffeta, regular $1.00 quality, as long as they last, 78 cents per yard.

Standard Patterns.

Advance styles for May now ready.

The April Designer, 10c.

Fashion Sheets always free.

THE HOME OF WOMENS' FASHIONS.

"I suppose people are talking about my recent splendid act of philanthropy said Mr. Dustin Stax. "They are," answered Mr. Diogenes Clamm. "What do they say?" "Most of them are telling how much better they could have spent the money if they had the chance."—Washington Star.

Mass Meeting.

Just one week from tonight (Thursday April 2nd) the mass meeting will be held in the court house to nominate a board of improvements and a board of school trustees to be voted for at the bond election on April 7th.

Speaks for the dead—Tombs and stones.

"I just saw in the papers, pop," said Mrs. Newrich, "that Mrs. De Styles had a miniature of herself painted." "A miniature—how cheap! You just slip down to the nearest department store and get them to make a full size crayon picture of me!"—Baltimore Herald.

The enterprising reporter in the row boat called out to the man on the roof of the one story building afloat in midstream: "You people who live on the bottom lands along here," he said, "know that this river overflows its banks every spring. Why don't you move?" "Ain't I movin'," you durn fool!" said the man on the roof.—Chicago Tribune.

PRETTY JESSIE WAS VINDICTIVE.

Miss Waggy, Who Had Been Deceived, Pumped Two Bullets Into Medical Student.

Weston, W. Va., March 24.—Miss Jessie Waggy, the pretty daughter of William Waggy, a prosperous farmer near here, shot Ralph McDannald, the son of the late Ex Sheriff Addison McDannald yesterday. Mr. McDannald is a medical student and came home from Louisville, Ky., on a vacation. Miss Waggy fired five shots at McDannald, two of which took effect in the side and one in the back, either one of which the doctors fear will cause death.

About two years ago Miss Waggy sued McDannald in the circuit court for $5,000 damages, charging him with deceiving. The jury gave her a verdict of $2,000, and it was thought had ended the matter, but she says she had been patiently awaiting her day of revenge.

GRIMESLAND ITEMS.

GRIMESLAND, N. C., March 26.

Misses Mattie Buck and Rosa Fleming returned from Gum Swamp Monday.

Mrs. J. O. Procter and J. W. Mayo went to Jamesville Sunday.

Mrs. J. J. Mason is on the sick list.

J. R. Padgett, of Jamesville, was in town today.

F. A. Simpson, of Baltimore, spent some time with us last week.

Epps Teel and O. W. Andrews returned from Greenville Monday.

Mrs. John Boyd is very ill.

Death entered the home of Mr. Edward Boyd on the 20th, and took from him his darling baby; gone to rest but not forgotten.

Wilmington as a Cotton Port.

For the cotton year dating from September 1st, Wilmington ranks fifth among all American ports in cotton receipts, New Orleans coming first, Galveston second, Savannah third, Norfolk fourth and Wilmington fifth. The total cotton receipts for the crop year up to yesterday were 325,034 bales and before the year ends Wilmington will break all past records for receipts.

White Front Opening.

Promptly at 9 o'clock this morning the doors of the White Front, Jas. F. Davenport's new store, were thrown open and all day the store was thronged with ladies eager to see the beautiful display. The magnificent arrangement of the store showed the work of an artist, and C. M. Jones, under whose direction it was made, was warmly congratulated.

The stock itself was marvelous, showing that great care and excellent judgement had been used in making selections. Everything being entirely new and the very latest styles elicited much admiration from the ladies. The White Front is exclusively a store for ladies' dress goods and it will enjoy a large patronage.

Where Greenville Leads.

A lady of Rocky Mount, in speaking of the advantages and progress of that town and comparing it with Greenville, said "Rocky Mount is ahead of Greenville on everything except THE DAILY REFLECTOR, but Greenville is certainly far ahead of us in that particular."

Klumsay (in the mazy waltz); Perhaps you don't like my style of dancing. Miss Sharpe: There is rather too much sameness about it. Klumsay: How may I vary it. Miss Sharpe: Suppose you tread on my left foot once in a while.—Philadelphia Press.

HAYWOOD CASE IS CONTINUED TO JULY

Sayer of Ludlow Skinner Enters His Own Plea, "Not Guilty."

Raleigh, N. C., March 24.—Ernest Hawood was arraigned before Judge Justice for the murder of Ludlow Skinner this morning. The court house was packed.

James H. Pou, counsel for the defense, moved to continue the case till the July term. He presented a lengthy affidavit of Haywood setting forth that counsel had been unable to prepare the case. The affidavit also claimed that the excitement had created a sentiment hostile to the accused and guards had been obliged to sleep in the jail to protect him.

The newspapers gave voice to this unjust and hostile public sentiment.

Wild reports had been circulated, to wit: That he was wealthy, when his property amounted to less than $25,000; that he had lived in ease and comfort in jail, whereas he had fared as other prisoners, and ten rats were caught in his cell one night; that there was deliberate purpose to create sentiment against him; that Hon. Robt. N. Simms had been persecuted for testifying for the defense; that prejudice is so great that witnesses won't testify; that certain material witnesses have not been found; that three witnesses are out of the state.

After a three hour argument Judge Justice granted the defense a continuance till July 15th.

THE RIVER SITUATION.

All Conditions are More Hopeful. Resumption of Traffic

Memphis Tenn.—March 21.—The river has remained stationary all day at 334 feet, which has been something of a surprise in the face of the fall which has occurred since the crest of the overflow was reached. The tents supplied by the government have arrived and are being employed in giving shelter to the destitute refugees.

Assistant General Passenger Agent H. D. Wilson of the Iron Mountain railway tonight announces that the company has repaired the damage from the flood to its tracks in Arkansas and that line will be opened west early tomorrow. A Cotton Belt passenger train, the first into the city from the west since the breaking of the St. Frances levee at Trice's landing, will arrive tomorrow morning at 5:45. Shortly afterwards the Iron Mountain Belt will send the first train out of the city. The Choctaw, Cotton Belt and the Frisco will use the Iron Mountain track, until their own can be repaired. Tomorrow night will see all western lines operating their service on schedule time. Freight traffic will be resumed the following day.

Opening Day

The New White Front

will be opened on

Thursday, March 26, 1903,

at nine o'clock sharp.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to call and inspect the beautiful new spring styles. This being a specialty store, devoted to supplying the wants of the ladies, places it in a position to meet all reasonable requirements of the trade. Our buyer, Mr. Clarence M. Jones, has spared no pains in searching the markets for the newest and most desirable class of Dress Goods, Trimmings, Laces, Embroideries, White Goods, Shoes, and everything requisite to complete a lady's toilette.

Remember this is a new store, with brand new goods—no old styles or shopworn goods to sell. The policy of this store will be to always show desirable new ideas as fast as they come out.

Hoping to see all our friends on the opening day. Very truly yours,

Delivered in town by carriers without extra cost. Advertising rates reasonable and can be had on application to the editor or at the office. THURSDAY AFTERNOON, MARCH 26, 1903.

Of course Mrs. Burdick will write a book or play or go on the stage.

Greenville's waterworks have been in full operation during the past few days.

Mr. Cleveland denies that he denied denying his denial of something or other.

Buffalo must have been the original site of Sodom, and some of the seed is still there.

President Castro has resigned, but it is thought he still holds on to the other end of the string.

Virginia's Jimtown exposition begins to resemble North Carolina's exhibit at the St. Louis fair.

That colored woman who waltzed with a member of the New York 400 is in a fair way to get her picture in the White House.

Wilmington has pulled in the slack in the artistic taste of its inhabitants and will make another effort to dig up a proper audience for Madame Nordica.

Mrs. Maybrick is to be released from her English prison next year. If she's guilty she should not be released; if she's innocent England ought to be hanged.

Senator Fairbanks and Congressman Hearst both deny responsibility for their respective Tar Heel booms. This leaves two Tar Heel editors with a good supply of advertising on hand, which cost only a little press agent activity to obtain.

We request our contemporaries outside the state to attach "N. C." to Greenville when they quote the Greenville REFLECTOR. The world may know there is such a place as Greenville, N. C., on the map, but we prefer to take no chances.

From the tenor of their argument for postponement, in the hope that sentiment will grow for the defense, Haywood, the slayer of Skinner, and his nine able counsel are much afraid of the outcome of a trial. It is not justice but sentiment they are playing for.

We have heretofore shied at the suggestion of a censor for the press, but in view of the indecencies printed in connection with the Burdick-Pennell mess, it does seem that liberty has become license. How any man can allow such filth as the Burdick testimony to go into his home is beyond our comprehension.

President Roosevelt has at last removed Vick and appointed his successor and never was there such a thin, unmanly excuse as the one put forward by the president. Now we see that Roosevelt's "door of hope" talk was all that's insincere and deceptive. Roosevelt's "door of hope" is for admirers of his strenuosity only, and no others need apply.

Last week a boy at Kinston lost a leg by trying to get on and off a moving train. This week a boy near Winston lost his life from the same cause. Such accidents as these ought to be a warning to boys of the danger of jumping moving trains, yet there is hardly a town through which trains pass that boys cannot be seen doing so.

Shame on those North Carolinians, and all Southerners who take up their residences in the North and straightway forget their raising. The South has been sorely afflicted with these polite renegades in the past, John S. Wise, the ignoble ex-Virginian, and John G. Carlisle being conspicuous examples. And now our own Walter H. Page seems to have fallen in with these men without a country, and would teach the land that bore him the shallow sophistries of his Northern home. Shame upon the whole seed and tribe of the countryless.

As a party harmonizer, the Memphis Commercial-Appeal stands pre-eminent and alone, in witness whereof we here reproduce its latest olive branch:

"DEMOCRATIC TICKET IN 1904:

"For president—Grover Cleveland, of New York.

"For vice president—William J. Bryan, of Nebraska.

"Platform: Harmony." In the words of Col. Henry Waterson, uttered aforesaid in stress of feeling, we are constrained to exclaim: "Good God," said the woodcock, and away he flew."—Asheville Citizen.

Does it not seem that any man would be ashamed to give such a reason for his action as that of the president through the postoffice department for turning down Vick and appointing Person as postmaster of Wilson? Did you ever read anything so puerile—so disgusting? No excuse would have been far better.—Wilmington Messenger.

If public opinion in North Carolina was opposed to crimes of the kind with which we have been afflicted recently public opinion would find a way of hanging somebody.—Durham Herald.

Tennessee made a net profit on the labor of her convicts during the past two years of $384,281.46. North Carolina would like to have Tennessee's receipts.—News and Observer.

Colds are Dangerous.

How often you hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It always cures and is pleasant to take. Sold by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, and Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Floods and high water have put mails and every thing else by rail out of gear.

SEVERE ATTACK OF GRIP

Cured by One Bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

"When I had an attack of the grip last winter (the second one) I actually cured myself with one bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says Frank W. Perry, Editor of the Enterprise, Shortsville, N. Y. "This is the honest truth. I at times kept from coughing myself to pieces by taking a teaspoonful of this remedy, and when the coughing spell would come on at night I would take a dose and it seemed that in the briefest interval the cough would pass off and I would go to sleep perfectly free from cough and its accompanying pains. To say that the remedy acted as a most agreeable surprise is putting it very mildly. I had no idea that it would or could knock out the grip, simply because I had never tried it for such a purpose, but it did, and it seemed with the second attack of coughing the remedy caused it to not only be of less duration, but the pains were far less severe, and I had not used the contents of one bottle before Mr. Grip had bid me adieu." For sale by Wooten's Drug Store.

The man who most frequently begs pardon cares the least whether he gets it.

Danger of Colds and Grip.

The greatest danger from colds and grip is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for these diseases we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure a cold or an attack of the grip in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store.

Experts are guided in their judgment of liquors by the smell; those who taste are more or less misguided.

The many friends of John Blount will be pleased to learn that he has entirely recovered from his attack of rheumatism. Chamberlain's Pain Balm cured him after the best doctors in the town (Mon, Ind.) had failed to give relief. The prompt relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, and Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

If a man has no sense of humor he is sure to get funny at the wrong time.

What's in a Name?

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago, discovered, some years ago, how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases, DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Jno. L. Wooten.

THE MORNING GUN

[Original.]

Singular that I should be an officer; that I should be marching in the place of a second lieutenant in the rear of the company; that I should be in Santiago de Cuba. I have no remembrance of having been graduated. Yesterday we were marching to and from the mess hall. Yesterday I got befogged in that problem of analytical geometry. Besides, how did I get here? I don't remember coming—no railway ride, no troopship, no debarkation.

"I say, you, there, Bob Truman, how did we of the second class get into this war?"
"Graduated a year ahead."
"But what did we come on?"
"Lightning express to Tampa, then over the water in a balloon."
"Singular."

There was a rattling ahead with drawing my attention from what had happened to what was happening. One captain faced about and gave an order to march from column into line. We struggled through tangled bushes, a Mauser bullet spitting here and there like raindrops pelting the leaves. But twilight was coming, and then it was dark. The firing ahead ceased.

It seemed I was worn out; that I had been with the army from the first and had been over every inch of the road from the coast to our present position before Santiago.

"Will they yield tomorrow, do you think?" asked a pale faced boy, staggering up to me, "and let us get out of this dreadful country?"

"Don't know. I'm suffocating with the heat."
Then it was dawn. The full moon was in the sky far to the west, large and round and pale. When I first looked at it, I thought it a great white bird. I wondered if it were not a bird. No, that's the moon, sure enough. No, it isn't, it's a big bombshell. It is sailing right for me. As it comes it is turning black. That shows it's a shell surely. It comes on and on, passing directly over our heads and goes down slowly to the rear without bursting.

There is that Gatling gun again. Th-r-r-r-r-r-r from left to right, then th-r-r-r-r-r-r from right to left. Now stillness, now a distant grown, an oath, an order, anything, everything—everything that is horrible.

Hear that frightful shriek! Some woman leaving the starving city. She must be Spanish, and some brutal Cuban—

That's fainter, more plaintive. O heavens, it's a baby's cry. What an awful thing is war that even a babe must go down under it! A moan—the mother's doubtless—then stillness—a stillness more awful than the sounds.

We are marching through these infernal tangles again, but suddenly emerge on an eminence. There is Santiago below and there are the Spanish flag and the outlying works. There is death in those redoubts on those long lines of low earth. There are driving storms of bullets and bursting rockets of shells, and the muzzles of the Gatling guns pour a destroying flood from the nozzle of a hose. We've got to go down there and take them. Yes, take them if we are torn into shivers. Why don't they shoot? I'd rather hear an occasional shot, see a puff of smoke than see that silence. Yes, see it. I can almost hear it.

All is lively enough now. There are volleys near, volleys far; cannon booming, men shouting, horses neighing, Gatling guns th-r-r-r-r-ing, all mingled in one gigantic roar.

"Wire fence nippers here!"
"Bring up those guns!"
"Turn about, there, my man, or I'll run you through! The enemy is in the other direction!"
"Water! Water!"
"Oh, God! I'm hit!"

I put my canteen to the lips of the man who called for water and cast a glance at the man who was hit, when the captain ordered me to stop those who were trying to go back.

Next I was lying on my back, clutching a wound in my left side. The blood was pouring out, like water. A Cuban girl was bending over me holding my canteen to my lips. What a peaceful face! What a contrast with the frightful thing called war! Oh, that those eyes could look into mine forever! Oh, that that tress of hair that has come down and is blown by a breath of air across my cheek might thus lightly touch it during a lifetime! Again I am pushing on toward those earthworks. They are pouring forth fire enough now. Singular that in such a storm of missiles I am not hit.

"Look out!"
"What is it?"
"A mine! A mine! Run for your lives!"
"Boom!"

There is a terrible explosion. I am in my bed in barracks at West Point. The morning gun has just been fired. I am lying on my left side, and my heart is throbbing like a drum. Bob Truman, my roommate, is rubbing his eyes with his fists trying to wake himself up.

"I say, Bob, what a queer dream I've had."
"H'm!"
"Dreamed we were graduated a year ahead and in the Santiago campaign."
"That campaign's an old story now. I should want something fresher."
"The Spaniards exploded a mine and blew us all up. It was the morning gun. It awakened me."
"That's a trick of dreams. Some incident occupying a second will produce a dream running through a month. It proves conclusively that there's no such thing as time."
"Well, if that's war I don't want any of it. I've a mind to resign as soon as I graduate. I expect the real thing is no fun."
Nevertheless I am in the army to-day.

A Remarkable Race of People.

In Sumatra there is a very singular race of human beings called the Kubus. They are the most timid and bashful people in the world, being too shy to mingle with the other races of the island. They dwell in the darkest recesses of the mountain forests and have seldom been seen by white men. One has never been known to willingly face a stranger. This being the case, their trade with the Malaysians is carried on in a very strange way. The trader announces his arrival by beating a gong and then retires from the place of rendezvous. The shy Kubus then approach, put their forest treasures on the ground, beat the trader's gong and retreat. The trader then returns and lays his commodities down in quantities sufficient to pay the purchase price of the goods on sale.

He then disappears for a second time, this to give the Kubus a chance to return and consider the bargain. After many withdrawals, approaches, gong beatings, etc., an understanding is arrived at, and each party carries away its bargain. This remarkable race knows nothing of a supreme being, heaven, hell or evil demons. They have no system of marriage and never bury their dead. They live on snakes, ants, bugs, grubs, etc.

The Creation of the Camel.

There is an Arab tradition cited in Burton's "Gold Mines of Midian" regarding the creation of the camel which illustrates the popular but erroneous opinion that this animal is ugly in form and temper.

The story goes that when Allah determined to create the horse he called the south wind and said, "I desire to draw from thee a new being; condense thyself by parting with thy fluidity." The Creator then took a handful of this element, blew upon it the breath of life and the noble quadruped appeared. But the horse complained against his Maker. His neck was too short to reach the distant grass blades on the march; his back had no hump to steady a saddle; his hoofs were sharp and sank deep into the sand, and he added many similar grievances.

Whereupon Allah created the camel to prove the foolishness of his complaint. The horse shuddered at the sight of what he wanted to become, and this is the reason that every horse starts when meeting its caricature for the first time.

Embarrassing.

A newly married couple sauntered leisurely around statutory hall in the capitol at Washington trying hard to appear unconcerned. Stopping on one of the echo stones to gaze at a new statue they were spied by two youthful pages looking for a joke. One of the pages hurried to another echo stone and in a whisper asked, "When did you get married?" The couple looked at each other and then all around the hall, but could discern no one. The bride blushed and the young man looked miserable. Presently again came the mysterious question, "When did you get married?" Awe stricken and looking extremely foolish, they fled from the hall, to the intense amusement of the mischievous pages.—Argonaut.

Roman Sausages.

The Romans were very much addicted to sausages made at Lucania. The meat used was pork and a good quantity of bacon, pounded in a mortar, with pepper, cumin, winter savory and moistened with garum, to which were added a few pine nuts. It has been pointed out that the Romans when they used breadcrumbs took care that the bread should be of the very finest kind and that before it was mingled with the sausage meat it should be soaked in wine. This was a most sensible precaution against the contingency of the bread passing through a sour stage of fermentation, in which case it would be undeniably unwholesome.

Flaw in the Reasoning.

Mr. and Mrs. Chuekster were engaged in one of their frequent arguments.
"Now, Amanda, see here!"
"Get that right, Oliver," she interrupted. "The proper form, as you will see if you think a moment, is 'look here.'"
"What's the difference?" he demanded. "You can't look without seeing, can you?"
"Oh, yes, you can. Everybody says you and I look alike, but it's a notorious fact that we don't see alike."—Chicago Tribune.

Not a Dagger.

Some strolling Thespians were once playing "Macbeth" in a country town. Their properties were not kept in very systematic order, for when the hero of Shakespeare's drama exclaimed, "Is that a dagger that I see before me?" a shrill voice responded from the "dies."
"No, sir. It's the putty knife. The dagger's lost."

The Plea That Failed.

"Well," said one undergraduate to another, "did your father send you that extra remittance that you asked for?"
"Not any. He gave me the marble heart."
"So you asked for rocks and got a stone, eh?"

The Dear Children.

"Nobody ought ever to undertake to be a schoolteacher who doesn't love children."
"Oh, but I did love children until after I became a teacher of them."

KODOL
Digests What You Eat.
Weak Hearts
Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Digests What You Eat
Mrs. Loring Nichols of Penn Yan, N. Y., writes: After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.
Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and untrammelled action.

CRIME OF DRUNKEN BRUTE.

Dan Evans in Durham Jail for Attempt at Criminal Assault.

For attempting a criminal assault upon the person of poor, little afflicted, 7-year old Nola Stanley, daughter of George W. Stanley of East Durham, Dan Evans, a white man who has long since passed the meridian of life, is confined in the county jail in default of a justified bond in the sum of $500.

He was arrested yesterday morning about 9 o'clock by Deputy Sheriff J. F. Harward on a warrant sworn out by the father of the little girl and issued by Justice of the Peace D. C. Gunter. He was given a hearing yesterday afternoon and in the face of damaging evidence—evidence that was absolutely positive—he plead that he was under the influence of whisky and did not know what he was doing.

The crime for which Dan Evans was arrested was committed late in the afternoon of day before yesterday. The warrant was served yesterday morning and in the intervening time between his arrest and preliminary trial he was confined in jail. In the trial yesterday afternoon Justice G. A. Barbee sat with Justice Gunter and decided that a justified bond in the sum of five hundred dollars was necessary.

Dan Evans, the defendant in this action, is between 45 and 50 years of age and has lived in this section for several years. He lives on what is known as "Rabbit Shuffle." He is a distant relative of the girl he tried to wrong. The victim was seven years of age last November and is very small for one of her years. She has been sickly most of her life. She was in court yesterday and he pinched and haggard face excited the pity of all. She told but a few words when asked to do so by the court yet what she said was damaging and conclusive. The case will come before the higher court at the next term which will be held in May. —Durham Herald.

Changed His Mind.

Jinks, like other men, has a horror of infant prodigies as exploited by their proud papas. Recently Binks met him with:

"Hello, Jinks! What do you think my girl said this morning? She's the brightest four-year-old in town. She said—"

Jinks shied. "Excuse me, old man!" he exclaimed. "I'm on my way to keep an engagement. Some other time—"

"She said, 'Papa, that Mr. Jinks is the handsomest man I know. Haw, haw! How's that for precocity, eh?'"

And Jinks replied: "Binks, I'm a little early for my engagement. That youngster certainly is a bright one. Come into this toy store and help me select a few things that will please a girl of her taste, and I'll send them to her, if you don't mind."
