A Curious Sale on Silks

Two Very Unusual Offerings

A man stood on the London Bridge once and offered golden sovereigns at a penny apiece to the passersby. History has it that this notable underprice offering found few takers. As far as offering staple goods far below their worth is concerned, this sale of silks has points in common with the sale of sovereigns. There is a difference, though, in the extent of popular appreciation of a good thing, otherwise the original wouldn't be less today by tens of thousands of yards. Now is the chance if you desire to get pounds for pennies. One thousand yards of handsome new Wash Silks that will be sold for 25 cents per yard as long as they last. Full 36-inch Black Taffeta, regular $1.00 quality, as long as they last, 78 cents per yard.

Standard Patterns.

Washington Letter

Special Correspondence from the Capital of the Nation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mch. 30.

Senator Dubois of Idaho has determined upon a ticket which he believes would prove successful. It is Alton B. Parker of New York and Benjamin F. Shiveley of Indiana. "These two men represent pivotal states, New York and Indiana," said Mr. Dubois. "With their names at the head of the ticket I feel confident we could carry the country. In order that the democrats may win next year we must carry such states as New York in the east and Indiana in the middle west. We could gain nothing by the nomination of Richard Olney, for instance, for it is not likely he could carry his own state. Judge Parker and Judge Shiveley are high grade men who would win the respect and the support of the voters."

There is every evidence that those republicans who expect "a revision of the tariff by its friends" are doomed to disappointment.

Promises to that effect which have been made by members of Congress have been made to secure votes and not be kept. Senator Warren of Wyoming said recently, "The western country is strong for protection. We are opposed to insidious attacks upon the Dingley tariff under the guise of reciprocity. There will be no revision of the tariff by the republicans. The republican voters would be the first to condemn such a movement. We regard the reciprocity treaties as establishing dangerous precedents and would be glad to see them all fail."

What is regarded in Washington as an outgrowth of Senator Hanna's ex-slave pension bill and the publicity given to the fact that it cannot pass, has just occurred in Cleveland and is the occasion of serious annoyance to prominent republicans. The "Equal Right Association," composed of negroes and some three hundred thousand strong, has adopted a set of resolutions appealing to the heads of foreign nations to intercede to save them from being murdered by Americans. The closing sentence of the appeal reads, "For God's sake intervene to save us, the Afro-American men, women and children, before we are all murdered by those so called prejudicial whites of America. We plead, we beg you to save us." This appeal is addressed to all the crowned heads of Europe and Asia. Ridiculous as it is on its face, there is some fear that it may do serious mischief in the "black belt" where it will doubtless be used to stir up trouble. It is written by the same negro, C. W. Hines, who predicted war and bloodshed in the South, a short time ago, at a meeting in Washington.

Major Robertson Succeeds Col. Armfield.

Charlotte, N. C., March 26.—At the meeting of the officers of the First North Carolina regiment held here today Lieut. Col. T. R. Robertson of Charlotte was unanimously elected colonel to succeed Col. J. F. Armfield. Capt. G. Butler of Clinton was elected lieutenant colonel and Capt. J. F. Gardner of Shelby was elected major. Chickamauga was recommended as the place for the next annual encampment.

NEGRO WOUNDED

Mr. R. D. Harrington Shoots John Moore.

Saturday afternoon Mr. R. D. Harrington shot a colored man named John Moore. The shooting occurred about 4 o'clock in the store of Fleming & Mooring.

It seems that shortly before the shooting the two met at the store of W. S. Fleming, where the trouble started about a small debt due Harrington by the colored man. Words led to a blow and both men had out their knives but did not use them. The colored man left and later Harrington came across him in the store of Fleming & Mooring, where the trouble was renewed and ended in the shooting.

The colored man was carried to the office of Dr. Nobles where an examination showed that the ball entered near the small of the back about the belt line and passed around toward the front of the body. The ball was located and cut out. The wound is not thought to be serious.

Arm broken.

Saturday Mr. Wiley Dawson, who lives a few miles north of town, was returning home from mill when his horse ran away. Mr. Dawson was thrown out of the buggy and his left arm was broken near the wrist. He came over to town and Dr. Bagwell set the broken limb for him.

Joined the Poultry Cranks.

The editor is preparing to join the company of poultry raisers and become a fancier. As a beginning he has received this week from his brother, J. R. Whichard, of Albany, Ga., who is considerable of a fancier, a coop of very large white Plymouth Rock tows. They are handsome birds, and if our success at raising keeps pace with the beginning we will have some prize winners.

Big Freshet.

There is a big freshet in the river and the water continues to rise. Sunday evening the north end of the bridge had to be tied to prevent it being washed away. The water was then only 16 inches from the top of the dam and it rose 3 inches last night. The rain Sunday and Sunday night will probably carry the water higher.

The Monday morning shad were absent from market today. There was too much rain Sunday to let the "before-day-Monday-morning" skimmers use their nets.

DONE FOR!

Alas! for the various booms on the democratic side of the fence. Mr. Bryan stuffs them all in a cigarette box and throws the box in the crater of a volcano. He will none of them, but he has a few patriots on his list who could be persuaded to accept. The Commoner says

"The Commoner will from time to time present the names of real democrats whose position on public questions cannot be questioned and whose fidelity to the party cannot be made an issue in a campaign. These names will be presented without any effort on the part of The Commoner to urge the candidacy of any particular Kansas City platform democrat as against any other Kansas City platform democrat."

Declareth the Asheville Citizen:

If the President had come out honestly and given his real reason for doing this, it would have read something after this fashion:

"I am a candidate for renomination and hence want all the votes I can get in the convention, hence I appoint Dr. Crum who controls my party in South Carolina, and I reject Mr. Vick because Senator Pritchard, who controls my party in North Carolina, desires it."

Now, Citizen, what would you do? Would you destroy the only perfect existing specimen of the genus I and make a reasonable, sensible man of the president? Would you, with full intent, deprive scientists and philosophers of the pleasure and edification of studying this re animal in his favorite haunts, and engaged in his favorite pursuits? Take it back, Citizen; take it back.

"O! see be th' papers that th' Shamrock has bent her sails," said the only Irish citizen, of Greenville. "Of coorse she'll get them straightened, but what a pity it is that such a foine boat cannot be named by thre Irish lads, in which case them sails would not get so much as a kiuk in their allybaster folds."

Ex Stamp Dispenser Vick and the petrified gentleman out West have something of a fellow feeling, both having lately been the recipients of the frosty finger.

Isn't it rather a strain on Raleigh to be afflicted with a legislature and municipal election in the same year?

A newspaper is a medium for knowledge, not for men only, but for the family; and it ought to contain nothing that would bring a blush to the cheek of the most modest and refined girl. The Associated Press, the greatest news gathering agency in the world, has been criticised by some for sending out that class of matter. The law of supply and demand complement each other here as in business transactions generally. Wares for which there is a demand will be found on the market, and when the demand ceases something else will appear.

The dealing in news would constitute no exception.—Raleigh Times.

Greensboro has not yet annexed Portsmouth, Va.

Col. H. Fay Gaffney and wife departed last week for their new home in Pennsylvania. Sunday they worshipped at a church in Delaware. During the service the minister offered a petition in which he prayed for "the slums, the heathen and the South." Good! We have no doubt but what the reverend gentleman was sincere and meant well, but it must have been amazing to Col. Gaffney and his excellent wife to hear his supplication. How utterly ignorant these well-meaning Pharisees are! It would no doubt astonish this reverend gentleman to be told that there is more genuine Christianity in Dixie than in New England, yet it is a profound fact. We admire his spirit but despise his ignorance.—Gaffney, S. C., Ledger.

A Witness Stricken in Court.

Wilmington, March 26.—As he was about to leave the witness stand after having been subject to a rigid cross-examination by attorneys for negroes whom he was prosecuting for larceny, Mr. W. A. Farriss, proprietor of the Wilmington Baking Company, and a brother of Editor J. J. Farriss, of the High Point Enterprise, was stricken with paralysis in the Superior court room here this afternoon. He was told to stand aside, but as he arose from the chair after two feeble efforts, he fell back and attorneys inside the bar rushed to his assistance. Physicians were hastily summoned and he was sent to his home in a carriage. His entire left side is affected. At first it was thought he had lost the power of speech, but later that faculty was restored to him and he is reported as doing very well.

A Movement to Freeze Out Bucket Shops.

New York March 26.—An agreement has been entered into between the Gold and Stock Exchange Telegraph Company and the New York cotton exchange, to prevent bucket-shops from receiving news sent over the former's tickers. All contracts which are to go into effect April 1, must be submitted to the committee of the cotton exchange before they can be executed by the telegraph company. It is believed here that the New York exchange has asked the New Orleans exchange to co-operate with them in this move.

New Orleans, March 26.—If the New Orleans exchange ratifies the agreement as it has been asked to do bucket shops throughout the country will be put at a serious disadvantage.

Colds are Dangerous.
How often you hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It always cures and is pleasant to take. Sold by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, and Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

The Slady-Aroo (German) wire less telegraph system can be used only over distances comparatively short.

SEVERE ATTACK OF GRIP
Cured by One Bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"When I had an attack of the grip last winter (the second one) I actually cured myself with one bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says Frank W. Perry, Editor of the Enterprise, Shortsville, N. Y. "This is the honest truth. I at times kept from coughing myself to pieces by taking a teaspoonful of this remedy, and when the coughing spell would come on at night I would take a dose and it seemed that in the briefest interval the cough would pass off and I would go to sleep perfectly free from cough and its accompanying pains. To say that the remedy acted as a most agreeable surprise is putting it very mildly. I had no idea that it would or could knock out the grip, simply because I had never tried it for such a purpose, but it did, and it seemed with the second attack of coughing the remedy caused it to not only be of less duration, but the pains were far less severe, and I had not used the contents of one bottle before Mr. Grip had bid me adieu." For sale by Wooten's Drug Store.

St. Petersburg's authorities now disinfect small coins.

Danger of Colds and Grip.
The greatest danger from colds and grip is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for these diseases we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure a cold or an attack of the grip in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store.

The coffee chewing habit is spreading in New York.

The many friends of John Blount will be pleased to learn that he has entirely recovered from his attack of rheumatism. Chamberlain's Pain Balm cured him after the best doctors in the town (Mon, Ind.) had failed to give relief. The prompt relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, and Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

The average family in the United States has 4.7 persons.

The Stomach is the Man.
A weak stomach weakens the man, because it cannot transform the food he eats into nourishment. Health and strength cannot be restored to any sick man or weak woman without first restoring health and strength to the stomach. A weak stomach cannot digest enough food to feed the tissues and revive the tired and run down limbs and organs of the body. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cleanses, purifies, sweetens and strengthens the glands and membranes of the stomach, and cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Jno. L. Wooten.

A Remarkable Case.
One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I run down in weight from 145 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Jno. L. Wooten.

The Bet of a Woman Hater

[Original.]
Bob Brackett after learning a great deal in college about football tactics—he was a wiry quarter back—and a very little of Latin, Greek, mathematics and such annoyances to young men who go to college for fun, woke up one June morning and found himself in possession of a diploma.
Bob determined to do some more studying abroad. He was a professed woman hater, and before he left the girls poked fun at him by betting him a box of cigars against a hundred yards of brussels lace that he would bring back a wife with him, and one little minx declared that she would be black. Bob offered to take a hundred such bets, but his teasers were quite content with one.
Six months after his departure Bob was in India. He was dining one evening with a party of Americans and British officers when the subject of the suttee or burning of widows with the bodies of their husbands was introduced.
"That's stopped now," said a British captain, "by a treaty with the British government."
"Sahib," said an Indian servant, "there will be a suttee tomorrow morning at sunrise. The young widow of the prince of Pingpore will be burned with her husband."
"The deuce you say!"
The servant being questioned said that the prince was a very old man, who had married the wife when she was twelve years old. She was now fifteen. The party became much interested, but as there was no English garrison near it did not seem that anything could be done to prevent this outrage against civilization. Brackett proposed that the party constitute themselves a posse to do so. The Englishmen were hard to move until they had had a number of brandy and sodas. Then they chimed in with alacrity. The party arose from the table and, guided by the servant, went to the place where the pyre had been set up in the court of a ruin. On the pyre was the body of the old prince, guarded by henthon Hindoos.
"I have a scheme," said Brackett—a real out and out Yankee scheme. We'll conceal ourselves in what is left of that apartment on the other side of the wall from the pyre. It isn't more than thirty feet from the pyre to the room. Suppose we dig a tunnel to a point beneath the pyre, remove the material from under where the widow will lie and let her down and out before the flames touch her."
"Good," said every one, and the Hindoo servant was dispatched for spades and a wheelbarrow. With a will they set to work, all of them young strong men, and in three hours a spade broke through the ground and struck the wood of the pyre. Then commenced the more difficult work of locating the required spot and removing that part of the pyre directly under the spot where the widow would lie. However, it was at last accomplished, the wooden platform being left supported by pieces of timber that could be removed at will.
In the morning there was a great din of the funeral procession approaching. A troop of Brahman priests, their shaved heads uncovered, carrying torches, followed by a concourse of natives, came howling into the court. In their midst was the young widow. The party of Anglo-Saxons had pushed the mortar from a chink in the wall, through which they watched the proceedings. At the foot of the pyre the widow was stripped of all her clothing except a fine silken undergarment. To see the young thing stand there, looking about her with a bewildered stare, then at the pyre with a shudder, was enough to move stouter hearts than the English and Americans. Brackett took one look through the peephole, then dashed into the tunnel and to the bottom of the pyre, where he stood ready. When the widow ascended the pyre and lay down and a cloud of smoke concealed the bodies, the signal was given by a British officer at the peephole. Removing the supports, Brackett lowered the living body, receiving it in his arms. The widow, frightened at this unexpected occurrence as well as the flames, swooned and was easily carried through the tunnel to the ruined chamber. When she came to, a hand was clapped over her mouth, and she was forced to remain quiet.
It was not till night that the party, dressing the widow in the costume of their servant, Bob Brackett sacrificing his beard to conceal her features, dared to leave their place of concealment and return to their quarters. The widow, knowing that if found she would be spurned by her people and compelled to again go through the dread ordeal to its completion, begged her liberators to take her out of the country. As none of them could go where he liked except Brackett, he was assigned the post of honor. It was on a long journey on a P. and O. steamer to England, sitting with her daily on deck, talking of her past life and telling her of the western world, that Brackett lost his heart. The consequence was that when they reached England the widow of the Prince of Pingpore became Mrs. Bob Brackett.
On the arrival a few weeks later of the steamer Lucenia at New York Brackett's girl friends, who had heard of his marriage with an Indian, were on the dock awaiting him.
"A hundred yards of lace, please."
"I didn't lose the bet, which was that my wife would be black. She is copper colored. Nevertheless I am so happy that I am ready to pay." And he drew from his pocket a bundle of the finest quality of lace. Then they all dined together, and Bob presented his bride.

The Habit of Decision.
The great thing in all education is to make our nervous system our ally instead of our enemy. It is to fund and capitalize our acquisitions and live at ease upon the interest of the fund. For this we must make automatic and habitual as early as possible as many useful actions as we can and guard against the growing into ways that are likely to be disadvantageous to us as we should guard against the plague. The more of the details of our daily life we can hand over to the effortless custody of automatism the more of our higher powers of mind will be set free for their own proper work. There is no more miserable human being than one in whom nothing is habitual but indecision and for whom the drinking of every cup, the time of rising and going to bed every day and the beginning of every bit of work are subjects of express volitional deliberation. Full half the time of such a man goes to the deciding or regretting of matters which ought to be so ingrained in him as practically not to exist for his consciousness at all. If there be such daily duties yet not ingrained in any one of my readers, let him begin this very hour to set the matter right.—From "Psychology," by Professor William James.

The Eucalyptus Tree.
The great value of the eucalyptus tree lies in its remarkably quick growth from the seed to the full sized tree. Travelers in Australia have brought back accounts of enormous native specimens. There was a record of one prostrate ancient forest giant of the blue gum variety measuring, with allowances for the lost top, 550 feet. Such a giant would have overtopped the tallest of California's living sequoias. There are more than 150 kinds of eucalyptus which resemble each other, though differing widely in size, height, general outline and in appearance of leaf and bark. This tree is planted for forest cover for naked hillsides as wind-breaks and hedges. The timber is valuable, the wood and leaves make excellent fuel, and from the latter is made a drug extensively employed in medicine and surgery. The blossoms supply honey supposed to possess specially hygienic properties.

Origin of the Cat.
In Arabian legends the cat is traced back as far as Noah and the ark. It is one of the animals that came off the ark, but did not go on. When the other creatures entered for safety during the time when "the doors of heaven were to be opened and the fountains of the deep turned loose," there was no cat among them. Puss' origin is accounted for in this way:
During the time the ark was floating about over the tall mountains mice and rats became an intolerable nuisance to the people on the great vessel, and they complained to Noah that everything was being literally devoured by the pesky vermin. That august personage forthwith called the male lion to his side and began to stroke his back, whereupon the great beast sneezed and, lo, a full sized cat was blown from his nostrils!

An Artist's Privations.
Lough, an English sculptor, had an imaginative enthusiasm so vivid that he once said timidly to a friend, as if fearing ridicule, "I fancy myself in the Acropolis sometimes and hear a roaring noise like the tide."
The sculptor's early privations were terrible. Says a writer, "During Lough's first year in London, when engaged on his 'Milo,' he went without meat for three months, had only one bushel and a half of coal during the whole winter, tore up his shirts to make rags in which to keep his clay figure moist and slept beside it—when the cold would allow him to sleep—on the ground."

He Got It.
"You have a lovely hand," remarked the youth as he grasped the fair maiden's hand mixer.
"Do you really think so?" she queried in a tone that was calculated to push him over the hurdle.
"That's why," answered the unsuspecting victim of circumstances, "I admire a beautiful hand, but mine is apt to be mistaken for a ham. I wish I had one like yours."
"Then," suggested the willing maid, "why not pull yourself together and ask for it?"
P. S.—They are now selecting the furniture.

No Ennui There.
"No; we've never troubled with ennui out at my house. Our minds are always occupied."
"In what way?"
"Well, I'm trying to guess what my wife will say to me when I get home, and she's trying to guess what new excuse I'll have for being late."—Chicago Post.

Her Dainty Detour.

An "Orphan's Acre" Asked For.

Many of the true friends of the orphan cause are farmers. To these we would say a word. Will you not set, apart this spring a small plot of ground, plant upon it whatever can be profitably grown, cultivate it faithfully and send the products or the proceeds from their sale to an institution which is maintaining the orphan boys and girls of this State? If you do this it will greatly aid our work and we are sure, this labor of love will be a blessing to you and your family. Feeding houseless children will never take bread from the mouths of the loved ones of your home. We have God's word for that.

If you have a son to join with you in the cultivation of an "orphan's acre" he will be taught a great and important lesson in service to humanity. It is one of the truths which must become a part of his life if it ever rises above a struggle for none but self and those bound to him by the ties of blood.

When, prompted by a pure motive, we help the helpless, our lives are enlarged. Nothing is a real, a lasting blessing which fails to enrich, to broaden, to deepen life. Eternally true it is that it is more blessed to give than receive.

Each one of us has been given something in trust to be used for God's glory. Farmer friend, God's soil is given to you to be cultivated for Him. Do not overlook the claims upon you of little ones bereft of home, of the necessities of life, left dependent upon us.

Upon our Heavenly Father we are all dependent for daily food, for all of the blessings of life—for life itself. The fertile fields are His, from Him must come the sunshine, the rain, the fruitful season, the abundant harvest. We work together with God in the production of the necessities of life. From His bounty all must be fed. Will you not appropriate a part of your best soil to be cultivated for the benefit of these children? You will thus render to God a true thanksgiving.—Orphans' Friend.

Sunday School Mass Meeting.

The quarterly mass meeting of the Sunday schools of the town was held Sunday afternoon in the Presbyterian church. Considering the very disagreeable weather the attendance was quite good.

President M. A. Allen called the meeting to order and devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. J. N. Booth and H. M. Eure.

Rev. F. G. Hartman made an interesting address on interest in Sunday school work and how it may be increased.

The report of the different schools showed excellent improvement during the past quarter.

The pastors of the different churches were appointed a committee to take a complete Sunday school census of the town.

The next mass meeting will be held in the Christian church on the fifth Sunday in June.

Pastor Will Resign.

Sunday morning at the Baptist church Rev. J. N. Booth announced that he would tender his resignation as pastor at a conference of the church to be held Wednesday night. He has been pastor of the church three and a-half years, and has many friends in Greenville.

New Registration.

Those who expect to vote in the Greenville bond and school election, Tuesday of next week, should remember that an entire new registration has been ordered in every ward. Only those who register can vote. Registration books will be open on Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoon of this week.

LOST HIS NERVE.

LETTER TO C. T. MUNFOED.

Greenville N. C.

Dear Sir: You own several houses. Your reason for painting Devoe lead and zinc should be several times as strong as the man who owns but one.

Lead and oil was good enough paint till the merits of zinc were found out. It was profitable to paint lead and oil—it was then—but not now.

The addition of zinc to lead makes Devoe lead and zinc last twice as long and cost no more; cost less—a trifle less, not much. Lead and oil is mixed by hand; Devoe lead and zinc by machinery. Might as well make one's shirts by hand as mix paints. Say it costs $100 a house to paint lead and oil; and it last three years.

Say it cost the same for Devoe; which last six years—it will last ten years, in favorable conditions, unless you want to repaint to change the color.

The costs: lead and oil about $30 a year; Devoe $15—probably less.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & CO.
