Save the Checks you get at Ricks & Wilkinson's

The above is the motto of a system of business in operation for benefit of cash buyers at this store. Every cash purchaser gets with each purchase a check similar to this:

75 APR 21
RICKS & WILKINSON,
Dealers in Fine Dress Goods, Clothing, Shoes, Hats and all kinds of Furnishing Goods.
B $10.00
Save your checks and when you get $20.00 worth return to Ricks and Wilkinson and get 50 cents in trade.
It pays to buy for cash.

It means on April 21 you bought and paid for goods to the amount of $10.00, under our contract that whenever such purchases added together amount to $20.00 the return of the checks will entitle you to 50 cents worth of goods free. In other words, we will pay a dividend of 2½ per cent. on every $20.00 you spend in cash at our store, making you a partner in our business to that extent.

The check is printed and the transaction recorded and the dividend made possible by our New National Cash Register. It is a beautiful piece of mechanism and the perfection of system and accuracy in business transactions between clerks and customers. You would pick up a dollar if you found it on the street, and think you were in luck. You can pick up dollars here. But it is not luck, it is business—good business. We are bringing all our resources to bear to make it pay you to be a regular customer at this store.

Married

Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. J. G. Bieves, three miles from town, his daughter, Miss Lillian, and Mr. A. A. Forbes, Jr., were married by Rev. J. N. Booth. The couple took the train this morning for Washington where they will spend the week at the carnival, Mr. Forbes being one of the musicians for that occasion.

To be important is one thing; to look important is another thing, but to feel important, there you have a fellow who really enjoys his own society.—Schoolmaster.

Thousands of us have visited the tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon. It is a spot dear to the heart of every true American, but nothing about it is more touching than to hear the bell of some passing steamer tolling as it passes, and to be told that every steamer which ploughs the waters of the Potomac when passing the tomb of Washington tolls a requiem to his memory.—Dumb Animals.

When the busy little bee gets a load he goes straight home—which is more than any man can do.

BIG GUN OF OTHER DAYS.

Piece of Ancient Artillery With a Varied History.

The old cannon that has made campaign thunder in Pitt county for a century, jolted up again last week with another incident added to its experience. Yes, that old cannon has had an experience. It has rested out in an old graveyard, it has slept in the bed of the river, it has been buried and foremost in the ground, it has been hid in stables, barns and other out of the way places, all because of the noise it was able to make.

For years and years it has been the custom for the victorious party in a campaign to celebrate the event with this old cannon. The victors would boom the old gun and hurrah, while the vanquished would swear vengeance against it every time it thundered a salute. Hence, whenever the opportunity was presented one side would steal the gun and spirit it away to keep the other side from using it. It was so heavy and unhandy to move that its trace was not very hard to keep up with, and by the time another campaign rolled around it would be found and put in service again. Once it was thought to be gone for good as it stayed hid quite a while, when a season of very low water in the river disclosed its hiding place.

Last week the old cannon came very near getting away from town and being lost. Parties are here buying up all the old iron that can be found, and some industrious parties hauled it to the depot and sold it. The matter was reported to Mayor Whedbee, who decided the cannon should not leave town, and he forthwith sent an officer with the town wagon to the depot and took charge of it. The old relic is now lying on the court house square. It ought to be mounted and kept as an historical curiosity.

The Deepest Hell for the Hypocrites.

We orthodox people believe in a hell—a literal, burning, sizzling hell—that was created for such ingrates as are at last consigned to that place. The reason we think it is a literal, burning hell is because that is the worst punishment that mankind can conceive, and we all agree that a flat refusal of the offers of Christianity merit the most severe punishment. But the very orthodox sometimes wonder if there is not a degree of punishment more severe—a bottomless pit that has been heated to a more intense degree than any other—that is reserved for the hypocrite. Those who clothe themselves in the garb of the Christian for the most selfish motives and to further their own, worldly, selfish ends. We all know, or think we know, of hypocrites, yet were we to be called upon to lay our hands upon them, we could not; not but that we are reasonably sure, but the arraignment as a hypocrite is, to our minds, something so detestable and despicable, that we are prone to not believe in our convictions, and to cover up the faults of our fellow human beings. But the very fact of imitation only doubly assures us of the genuine, and while we deplore the hypocrite, we rejoice to know that it is the most sincere evidence of the genuineness of the Christianity we profess.—Danville Bee.

Honor Roll

Of Mrs. Blow's school for the past month: Allie Greene, Agness, Spain, Margaret Blow, Nina Harris, Eloise Ellington, Abbie Smith and Lucy Outterbridge.

More Improvements.

H. A. White is preparing to put up a new building on his lot on the corner of Fifth and Greene streets.

J. W. Perkins is having a new house built on his lot on Greene street.

Ola Forbes is preparing to build a residence on his lot on Fifth street.

The Cost of Bugs.

We keep an army of 65,000 men and have 254 ships of war. We are ready to fight any nation on earth, and yet the little potato bugs laugh us to scorn. Even hear of the big United States suffering with the grasshopper? Are we not powerless before the gipsy moth? The bug family taxes this great country $350,000 a year, yet in the unequal fight between the nation and the bugs the latter ever remained unconquered. The worms that attack the cotton plant costs the farmer $60,000 a year. The potato bugs eat $8,000,000 worth annually out of our gardens. The chinch bug costs us $100,000,000, the Hessian fly $50,000,000 and the grasshopper $90,000,000. The big United States hasn't enough money or men to win any war with an insect.—Aitchison Globe.

Arson Case.

The trial of Henrietta Donaldson, charged with arson, was called Saturday in the Superior court. It took all the morning and a part of the afternoon to select the jury. The first venire of 75 were exhausted, 20 more were summoned who were likewise exhausted, and another 25 had to be summoned. It was nearly 3 o'clock when the examination of witnesses was begun. The prisoner is charged with burning a house occupied by Jack Bryant and belonging to R. J. Cobb.

The evidence was completed this morning and the case given to the jury just before court adjourned for dinner.

Solicitor Moore was assisted by F. M. Wooten in the prosecution, and Col. Sugg was assisted in the defense by G. W. Taylor, of Whitakers.

Sermon to Odd Fellows.

Sunday was a rainy, disagreeable day, yet there was a good attendance of Odd Fellows to hear the special sermon in the Baptist church delivered by Rev. F. D. Swindell, of Goldsboro. About sixty members of the fraternity assembled at the hall of Covenant Lodge and marched in a body to the church. The sermon of Rev. Mr. Swindell was an excellent one. He told of the origin of the order, so far as its history can be traced, in 1745 in England, and its later establishment in America, and touched upon the great work of benevolence it has done and its rank in the forefront of fraternity. He also discussed the great principles upon which the order is founded, showing it to be a brotherhood united together for Friendship, Love and Truth. The music for the occasion was very appropriate.

The Odd Fellows have a strong lodge in Greenville, the membership being above ninety, and the order has done much good here.

A Few Hints for Spring

It's the details of a man's apparel that gives tone and character to his make-up. Poor or poorly fitting Haberdashery, antiquated or obsolete styles of Collar, Shirt, Necktie, etc., does away with the otherwise happy effect of a fine suit. A stroll through our Men's Furnishing Goods Department shows, at a glance, the newest, best and brightest in the thousand and one things that come under this heading, all at prices that fear no competition in this city.

This is a man's store, and the man who comes here to trade goes away contented and happy.

The Ladies' Furnishing Store.

With pleasure we announce the arrival of the Celebrated "Regina" and "Autohav" Shoes. The factory was so overcrowded with orders that we were forced to wait quite awhile, but they are here now, some of them, and others will be here in a few days. The noblest and most up-to-date in town. Every part of "Regina" and "Autohav" shoes is of uniform high quality. Soles, uppers, linings and trimmings are always just as good as can be procured. From the fashioning of the last to the finishing of the shoe no expense is spared. This explains why these shoes are worn by fashionable and well-dressed women everywhere. The shoes need no introduction to those who have worn them, but to those who have not worn them, let us say if you want to know what shoe satisfaction really means, you must wear the

SHE IS TRULY MOST CHARMING

Miss Lewis in "Ingomar" Was a Brilliant Star.

The play last night was "Ingomar, the Barbarian." It is not a play that in itself attracts and pleases the average theater-goer, but is a play in which there is ample opportunity for the display of clever stage powers. As Parthenia, Miss Lewis sustained her reputation as a superb actress. Easy and graceful, possessing a sweet voice and pretty face, she was at once a favorite. Miss Lewis is yet a very young woman, but she is already a brilliant actress.

The role of "Ingomar, the Barbarian," was successfully handled by Mr. John Richmond. His part was no less a leading one than that of Parthenia, so admirably executed by Miss Lewis. Clever work in one demanded clever work in the other, and the demand was satisfactorily met. The supporting company is a strong one. The manner in which Mr. Fred Renolds played the part of Polydor, a merchant, was a feature.—Raleigh Post, April 17, 1903.

Miss Lewis and her company will appear here Wednesday, April 29th, there are 12 people in the company. Seats on sale tomorrow (Tuesday) morning, 25, 35 and 50c.

Pastorate Closed.

Rev. J. N. Booth, who recently resigned the pastorate of the Baptist church here and accepted a call to the church at Hertford, preached his closing sermon Sunday night. He referred pleasantly to his stay of three and a-half years in Greenville, and his relation not only with the people of his own church but those of all other denominations as well, and thanked the Methodist congregation for closing their church to attend this, his closing service. Mr. Booth and his family have made many warm friends in Greenville and the best wishes of all will go with them to their new home. He said it would always give him pleasure to visit Greenville and he was coming whenever there was opportunity to do so.

Mr. E. D. Oliver, of Baltimore, sang a solo "Forever with the Lord" at this service. He has a magnificent baritone voice and his singing was greatly enjoyed by every one present.

NATIONAL INCONSISTENCIES.

Russia and other European countries are preparing for the wholesale expulsion of Mormons. Of course these people will come to America, where we guarantee them the right to worship God according to the dictates of their consciences, but provide that their consciences shall not dictate more than one wife. We are nonholder of the tyranny of European despotisms, but we think it is long past the time when this country should have shut its gates to the world's human garbage. We rage about the negro race problem, and at the same time encourage the sorriest lot of people on earth to come here. We put up a tariff wall against the product of European pauper labor, and practically allow that same pauper labor to flock to our shores by the millions.

Several years ago there was a measure known as the Stone immigration bill before congress, but the steamship companies were on the alert and their lobbyists defeated it easily. The Stone bill was one of the best and wisest measures ever introduced in congress, and ought to have passed, but after it had reached a certain stage it died so suddenly that you could almost hear the chink of the steamship companies' money in the law maker's pockets. Since that time, we believe, the steamship companies have had the hands at Washington under such perfect discipline that no similar measure has been attempted.

It is dollars to doughnuts that the postoffice department is anxious to recover those missing papers in order to place them where they will not embarrass some people with pulls.

Senator Simmons will address the North Carolina Society of New York on "The Race Question." Of course he will say something worth listening to, but we find ourselves wishing he would drop it.

The Lincoln, Neb., oracle sponsors for James Robert Williams, of Illinois, as presidential candidate No. 3. This will make Jim Bob feel good and will hurt nobody.

The assistant attorney general of the postoffice department has been pried off his job, but it is not stated whose sins he suffers for.

From the success of that postoffice official's wife in swiping certain papers, it would seem that the lady's natural talents run to mortgage lifting.

No matter how fair their promises may sound, we can't get rid of the belief that when the North offers the South anything it expects dividends on the same.

The White House has a case of measles, and the post office department also seems to have a breaking out.

If Theodore should remain in hiding a few more weeks the country would forget that he ever lived.

The various Southern educational boards would facilitate identification by having themselves properly labeled.

We welcome the Hamlet Outlook to our table. It is a clean and prosperous looking paper.

The Greensboro Telegram has enlarged to 8 pages, and now ranks with the state's best dailies.

The reports of a proposed tobacco sales warehouse merger recalls the fact that efforts were made a few years to form such a combination in Virginia and the two Carolinas. It was found impracticable then, and we know of no reason why it should be successfully pulled through this time.—Winston Sentinel.

Justice is pictured as a blind-folded goddess holding the scales evenly balanced. A pretty figure but without significance in these days of money power, influential friends, loop hole laws and maudlin sentimentality. Justice is blind sure enough, or asleep and the scales flung away too often when it comes to punishing red handed murderers in North Carolina.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

Objecting to the suicide habit that has become too common to please the Greenville REFLECTOR, our contemporary suggests that most people would die soon enough if let alone, which is understood to mean if they would let themselves alone. We do not mean to endorse that proposition without qualification, but we are inclined to adopt the idea that the suicide route may not be the surest road from this world to a better one.—Morning Post.

The spelling matches are all held from the old blue back spelling book, in fact, there seems to be a returning to the old book of the fathers. Has anything ever been gained by laying it aside? Two things can be said about the old "blue," that can be said of no other spelling book, so far as we have ever heard. One is, it has made spellers; another is, it's the only book the words of which are graded by sound.—Raleigh Times.

Chairman Jones, of the democratic national committee, thinks Mr. Cleveland wants the presidential nomination. It looks as if Mr. Cleveland either wants the nomination or has determined to have a say as to who the nominee shall be.—Wilmington Messenger.

"May," said Mrs. Upjohn to her youngest, "you shock me with your rude behavior. You are a perfect tom-boy. Why can't you be like your little playmate, Leila Green? She is gentle, soft-voiced, well behaved, and always lady-like." "Yes," said May; "but so's her mother."—Chicago Tribune.

A Demonstration of What Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy Can Do.

"One of our customers, a highly respected citizen of this place, had been for ten years a sufferer from chronic diarrhoea," writes Walden & Martin, druggist, of Enterprise, Ala. "He had used various patent preparations and had been treated by physicians without any permanent benefit. A few months ago he commenced taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and in a short time was entirely cured. Many citizens of Enterprise who know the gentleman will testify to the truthfulness of his statement." For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy Farmville.

Due Notice is Served.

Due notice is hereby served on the public generally that DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the only salve on the market that is made from the pure, unadulterated witch hazel. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve has cured thousands of cases of piles that would not yield to any other treatment, and this fact has brought out many worthless counterfeits. Those persons who get the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve are never disappointed, because it cures. Jno. L. Wooten.

A Sweet Breath

is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders. Mrs. Mary S. Crick, White Plains Ky., writes: "I have been a dyspeptic for years—tried all kinds of remedies but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve at once, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength and can eat whatever I like." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Jno. L. Wooten.

Good for Children.

The pleasant to take and harmless One Minute Cough Cure, gives immediate relief in all cases of Cough, Croup and LaGrippe because it does not pass immediately into the stomach, but takes effect right at the seat of the trouble. It draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes and cures permanently by enabling the lungs to contribute pure life-giving and life-sustaining oxygen to the blood and tissues. Jno. L. Wooten.

A BAD CROWD

[Copyright, 1903, by Julius Muller.]

We were about ninety miles off the coast of Cayenne, in the armed English survey ship Wales, when we sighted a brig which seemed to take alarm at the English flag.

Numbers of men started to go aloft, but stuck at the cross-trees, and such sails as were cast loose were not sheeted home to do their best. We walked up to her hand after hand and in half an hour were within biscuit toss, and our captain was hailing to know what was wrong. The answer was plain enough without words. Her decks fairly swarmed with men, all but five or six of whom were in convicts' dress. As a matter of fact, there were just ninety of them. It was useless for them to reply to the hail, but the yell they uttered in chorus was enough to make the hair curl.

Our craft was sheered in a bit closer and a demand made that the convicts surrender. They could plainly see that we were a strong crew and had mounted guns, but the demand was received with yells of derision. The leader of the gang, whom we had not before identified, now mounted the rail and in broken English warned us to keep off or take the consequences. He boldly declared that they were escaped convicts from the French penal settlement.

The defiant attitude of the convicts seemed to put our captain in an embarrassing position, but after a moment's thought he called out to the fellow on the rail:

"You must have captured the brig to get away from Cayenne. What has become of the crew?"

"Dead—every one of them killed and thrown overboard!" shouted the fiend in answer.

"Do you mean to say you murdered captain, mate and all hands?"

"Yes; all the crew. Now, you've got the news, and you sheer off and go your own way. Let a French ship pursue us and take us."

We were compelled to widen the distance between us to prevent accident through the lubberly manner in which the brig was steered, but we reduced sail so as to keep abreast of her, and the captain and his officers descended to the cabin for consultation. I don't know whether they questioned their right to interfere or discussed the best method of recapturing the brig, but they were not absent over a quarter of an hour. When they came on deck, we got the order to load with solid shot, and in ten minutes every man and gun was ready for action. One of the convicts was aloft with a glass and could plainly note every movement aboard of us, and our captain, who was likewise posting us, reported that the fellows had armed themselves with rifles and revolvers and were erecting shields against the bulwarks.

A solid shot was fired across her bows as a summons to heave to and as a warning of what was in store for her if she did not, but the roar of the gun was followed by a chorus of yells and three or four bullets came whizzing over our heads. The brig widened the gap until out of rifle range, and the captain then said to the crew of Long Tom:

"Aim to strike her above the water line. A few shots may take the fight out of them."

The first shot passed between her fore and main mast without touching anything, but the second smashed her bulwarks and killed two men. A third and fourth were fired, both of them creating havoc aboard, and we were looking for some token of surrender when the brig ported her helm and came bearing up to our quarter. We had the weather gauge, but she had been three or four points off the wind. The fellows were evidently determined to get near enough to use their rifles, but with their poor seamanship they stood no show.

We gave the ship more sail, and after a couple of tacks were off the brig's quarter and sending solid shot aboard again. There was great confusion among the convicts, and we were hoping for a signal when the wretches brought two women on deck. We could see them very plainly without a glass, and their presence put a stop to our firing, as the convicts had expected. It was a scheme to stop our fire, and every man groaned in spirit as he wondered how our captain would take it. He must have realized that there was but one course open to him, and after a bit he said to the captain of our big gun:

"Aim at her foremast and try to cripple her. She must surrender or I'll sink her."

During the next thirty minutes we fired six times, and each time the shot was plumped into her hull, but with their craft lying a wreck in the trough of the seas they continued to shout defiance at us. The unfortunate women must go down if the convicts did, but death would be preferable to our sailing away and leaving them in the hands of the monsters. We changed our shot to shell as we loaded Long Tom again, and the gun was pointed to strike the hull. One after another five shells were sent into the brig, each one tearing a great hole and carrying wounds and death, and we had reloaded for the sixth time when it was seen that the craft was settling away.

We had our eyes on her as she was heaved up broadside to us by a wave, her decks almost awash. There was a wild cheer from the convicts, half a dozen rifles were discharged, and as the brig dropped into the trough the waves ran right over her, and she settled away with the heaviness of a block of granite. We ran down to the spot, but there was no one to rescue. Living and dead had been drawn down together. M. QUAD.

GOLDSBORO, N. C., Aug. 25, 1902.
Gentlemen—Some six years ago I began to have sciatica, and also a chronic case of muscular rheumatism. At times I could not work at all (my business being baggage master on Southern R. R.). For days and weeks at a time I could not work. My suffering was intense. Physicians treated me, without permanent relief, however. I tried a number of advertised remedies without permanent benefit. Finally I tried "RHEUMACIDE." It did the work, and I have had excellent health for three years. I can cheerfully say that all rheumatics should use "RHEUMACIDE," for it is by far the best remedy.

Bold Robbers on a Burlington Train.

Lincoln, Neb., April 24.—Passengers on a Burlington train were robbed of $1,000 early this morning while asleep, as the train was leaving the union station.

The confusion following the discovery of the robbery permitted the robbers to escape. Later they appeared on board an immigrant sleeper. The conductor and porter, together with passengers, were herded into one end of the car and relieved of their valuables by one man while the others held the crowd back with guns. They left the train between Lincoln and Milford.

She walked timidly into a florist's where the young proprietor was selling a society girl a big bunch of American Beauties. She was 9 years old. An old shawl covered her head and shoulders, showing garments scrupulously clean beneath it.

"I want some violets to take to my mamma," said the little one, holding out a dime.

"I think some cheaper flowers would do, my girl," said the man.

"No sir," came from the tot. "I want violets. Ain't that money enough to pay for them? My mamma is sick an' my papa's dead. Mamma she gets whiter and whiter every day and jes' coughs awful. This morning she felt so weak and bad, I jes' thought she'd die. But she said if she could only live until the warm springtime came again, and she could smell violets once more, she jes' knew she'd get better, and I had this dime, so I—"

But the florist was fumbling before a glass case, marked "violets, 75c per dozen," and there was moisture in his eyes and an ache in his throat.

In a little while he had a bunch—more than a hundred—wrapped up. He gravely took the child's ten cents, gave her the precious blossoms and held the door open, bowing her out as gallantly as if she were some grand customer.

The dime he carefully wrapped up in a piece of paper and put in his purse.

"Dying for a breath of spring time and the sweet odor of violets," he muttered. That's all.

But that ten cents! Why, that dime would almost buy a sinner's ransom at the gates of heaven.—Winston Journal.

"Dorothy Dodd"

THE FAULTLESS FITTING SHOE FOR WOMEN

Let us assume that your shoes fit you. Now, what next? What is most important? Unquestionably, style. If it has style you want it. If it has not style, but everything else, you do not want it. The style of a Dorothy Dodd is unique. It cannot be duplicated by any other maker, because the Dorothy Dodd is a totally different construction from any other ladies' shoe. Besides being exclusive in style, it holds the foot firmly at the instep, prevents the foot from slipping forward, and gives a correct poise in walking. It makes the foot look nearly a whole size smaller. That's curious, and you won't believe it until you see it. Just for once try the Dorothy Dodd Faultless Fitting Ladies' Shoe and prove the truthfulness of our assertion.
