April turns Mayward. April has a double function to perform. She must, by hook or crook, get Winter to leave the stage, and she is naturally disagreeable until he has gone. Then in a moment she becomes all smiles and sunshine, and gives us a foretaste of May.

Today everybody is ready to welcome the new season, and there is no place like this store to help you to the new things and make Spring favorable and delightful. Men of good judgment come to this store for their furnishings.

Most women know that we carry a splendid line of Dress Goods and Trimmings.

"DIXIE" CHEERED IN NORTH AND SOUTH.

NORTH NO LESS ENTHUSIASTIC THAN THE SOUTH ON HEARING IT.

A singular thing about the tune of "Dixie," said a Washington man who does a good deal of traveling, "is that it arouses quite as much enthusiasm when it is played above Mason and Dixon's line—far above that line, in many instances—as it does when it is played down South. I have often noticed this and wondered over it. In the Southern towns and cities, or even in Washington, where Southern sentiment predominates, it is the natural thing for the cheers and the hand clapping when, for example, a theater orchestra or musical performers on a stage strike up the tune of 'Dixie,' but precisely the same thing happens in the Northern cities. An orchestra never gets into the swing of 'Dixie' in a New York theater that the audience doesn't almost come to its feet. They cheer 'Dixie' vociferously every time it is played in San Francisco. They yell in approval of it in Detroit, and St. Paul, and Cincinnati, and in Chicago they hum it along with the band or orchestra. Even in chilly Boston they wake up and give a hand to 'Dixie.' It's a lively and inspiring tune, of course, but I don't think that fact exactly explains why it is that it arouses enthusiasm in communities in the North, where a Southerner would scarcely even expect to hear it played, much less cheered.

Maybe it's because there's a lingering love all over the country for the old South, and maybe it is because there is a pretty general and wholesome sentiment all over the land for the section that came out of the big fight a good deal like the under dog; but, at any rate, 'Dixie's' the tune that gets the biggest hand and the widest acclaim, no matter where it's played, from Michigan to the Gulf. And from the Atlantic to the Pacific."—Washington Post.

Doukhobors Looking for Jesus.

Winnipeg, Man., May 2.—A special from Saskatoon says that fifty half naked doukhobors are on the march for Saskatoon. The first detachment was reported last night at Elbow village, twenty-two miles from home, where the head man was trying to persuade them to go home. They say they are searching for "Jesus" and will not stop until they find him. The men have discarded their trousers and are marching in their boots and coats, shouting and singing. Inspector Parker has telegraphed Rattleford for instructions and has ordered the Duck Lake constables to hold themselves in readiness.

Another Factory.

Dr. E. A. Moye is having a second story added to the building near Five Poin's, which he purchased some weeks ago. The building will be fitted up for a buggy factory.

Spilled the Mail.

The mail got distributed Monday night before it reached the postoffice. Tom Williams, the carrier, was bringing it down from the depot on a dray. His horse ran away and the mail pouches were scattered along the street. No damage was done.

BLOODHOUNDS ON TRAIL OF PRIEST.

DOGS FOLLOW TRAIL OF AN ALLEGED MURDERER IN OHIO.

Loraine, May 2.—Father Walzer, a Toledo priest, aged 51, who was in the house when Miss Reichlein was murdered, is held on the charge of murder. Mayor King made out a warrant about nine this morning and said he would take Walzer into custody as much for his own protection as anything else.

Bloodhounds were put on the trail this morning. They were in charge of Dr. T. L. Hickman, their owner. The scent was given the dogs from the clothing of the bed in which Miss Reichlein lay when killed. They sniffed about the room for a moment and then went straight to the room and bed in which Walzer slept the night of the murder, and then went back to the other bed. They would go no further than this.

Hickman took the dogs to the yard. They paid no attention to any tracks in the yard nor did they catch the scent on a ladder, by which it was supposed the murdered entered.

The excitement here is intense and it was feared some demonstration would be made, so Walzer was taken to Elyria, the county seat, and lodged in jail.

Miss Reichlein's head was battered to a pulp, and a heavy stone, stained with blood and with hair clinging to it, was found, showing how the crime had been committed. No motive for the crime is known. Some hint at burglary, but this is scouted by the police, who think there is a deep mystery.

Miss Reichlein was about thirty years old, brilliant and popular.

The intruder had put a ladder to the roof of the house and crawled from the roof into the attic window. Nothing was disturbed in the house, though there were many valuables lying about, easily accessible to a thief.

Had the Breakfast Food All Right.

A kindly Massachusetts man was timidly wending his way through the effete west and chanced in a restaurant in one of the frontier towns. The waiter was armed with a sorrowful towel tide about his waist, a dented tin tray and a couple of guns. The Easterner looked him over in a gentle way and asked him if he had any breakfast food. "I guess yes," responded the cowboy waiter. "We got ham and eggs, fried sausage, chuck steak, spareribs, mutton chops, corned beef hash, hog and hominy, light bread, heavy bread, toast bread, apple butter, peach butter, cow butter, coffee, tea, buttermilk and beer, Breakfast food? Well, that's our winner. Name your grub."—Springfield Mass., Republican.

The fact that they are about to prove that our old friend Sir. Walter Raleigh never saw this country doesn't in the least effect the loyalty of the Greenville REFLECTOR to the gallant gentleman who did the cloak act. It thinks "Walt was such and all around handy chap he deserves a monument on general principles."—Asheville Citizen.

Killed a Man During a Naval Manuevres.

Washington, May 2.—The navy department is making up the details of a court martial which will try William Anthony, a colored sailor on the Olympia for killing another colored sailor while the ship was in the manuevres. The court will be headed by Captain Swineburne, of the Texas and Captain Lane, of the marine corps will serve as judge advocate. It will meet at Norfolk. The case is interesting as being the first murder trial in the navy for many years.

A Battle in a Church.

Joliet, Ill., May 3.—A pitched battle, in which prayer books and broken furniture were the missiles, took place in the Slavonic Roman Catholic church here today, and when the police arrived to quell the disturbance the belligerents turned from each other and united their forces against the officers. The fight, which grew out of factional differences, resulted in no serious bodily harm to any of the 200 men, women and children who were in the church when it began, but the panicamong the affrighted women and children was the cause of severe bruises. Bloody and lacerated faces and hands were evidence of the fierceness of the contest and the protests of Father Kollar and others were unavailing to restore peace.

The men had been penned in by a mob of angry women, who pelted the stronger sex with whatever they could lay their hands on. The men who could fled or jumped from windows and when the police arrived they returned to the assistance of the women. It was not until the police had drawn their revolvers and threatened to use them that peace was restored and arrests were made.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, MAY 5, 1903.

A SOUTHERN ANSWER.

We have received a marked copy of the Brooklyn Citizen containing and editorial denouncing Dr. St. Clair McKelway's advocacy of the nomination of Mr. Cleveland. The article is addressed to the Southern people, and turns a search light upon the political record of the editor of the Brooklyn Eagle for the past dozen years.

The Citizen portrays the editor of the Eagle as the most shameless Judas of modern times. It characterizes his advocacy of Mr. Cleveland as a sham and a pretence, made in the belief that Mr. Cleveland cannot be nominated and that the attempt will effect a continued disruption of the democratic party, to the success of President Roosevelt, at whose hands, the Citizen says, Dr. McKelway has received many favors, being also under obligations to Governor Odeh and Mayor Low for political preferences. The history reads that Dr. McKelway has repeatedly betrayed the democratic party, by posing as a democrat in democratic councils and shamelessly supporting republicans for office. The Citizen warns the South that Brooklyn's "political confidence operator" speaks us fair, but holds a knife up his sleeve ready to stab the hand extended to him. We quote:

"We do no violence to the history of politics in the South when we say that had Dr. McKelway behaved in the South as he has in the state of New York, and the cities of Brooklyn and New York, he would have been compelled to make his bed with the advocates of Negro ascendancy.

"The reason the 'Eagle' is now calling for the nomination of ex-President Cleveland is because it is convinced that there is no likelihood of his being nominated. The object is to make trouble for the Democrats, by creating the impression that the party is divided into rival camps of Cleveland and anti-Cleveland men. In this way, it is thought, the admirers of the ex-president will be made suspicious of the party leaders and kept in a mood to vote for the re-election of President Roosevelt. The motives by which the 'Eagle' is governed are sufficiently indicated by its behavior toward Judge Parker. So long as it thought that Judge Parker was not likely to be acceptable to the regular Democracy of the state, it set no bounds to its praise of him, and called all the country to witness what an admirable person he would be to head the national ticket. As soon as it learned that the judge was well regarded by the party leaders and was being employed as a unifying force, it turned against him, and is now, without change in his character or record, persuaded that he does not measure up to the requirements of the situation. To assail whomsoever seems likely to be nominated, and, for the purpose of deceiving the uninformed, go into fits of enthusiasm for what cannot be brought to pass, are the devices by which the 'Eagle' and its editor hope to promote the interests of their Republican allies."

In reciting the political history of Dr. McKelway, the Brooklyn Citizen tells THE REFLECTOR nothing new, but the Citizen's attempt at playing wet nurse for the politics of Southern people is wholly gratuitous, uncalled for and unwelcome. We do not care to take political lessons from New York, where there are thousands of democrats of Dr. McKelway's stripe—democrats for revenue only. New York politics is rotten to the core. There is precious little difference between democrats and republicans, the only question among them being the division of the spoils. For money and promises the leaders of both parties have betrayed and robbed the people for years and years, so that the people have come to see that their only chance lies in getting in the ring on one side or the other and stealing from each other. Then whyfore does our Brooklyn contemporary seek to make a horrible example of Dr. McKelway before the Southern people? Why single out this one man, when there are thousands of his kind in New York? Is it for the purpose of teaching the South a lesson in politics? If so, our Northern contemporary woefully mistakes sentiments and conditions in the South. Southern people are not interested in either the Citizen or the Eagle's school of politics. We haven't any Tammany Hall or Union League Club. We don't care a snap of the finger whether Dr. McKelway supported Mr. Bryan or not. The South is wedded neither to Lincoln, Neb., or Princeton, N. J., and we have no time for the strife and petty bickerings which our Northern friends find so profitable. We have problems to work out which over-shadow the ambitions of any three-cornered set of political manipulators. We need neither advice or assistance. In our own way and in our own time we will be true to ourselves, and while we are grappling with problems of vast import to generations upon generations yet unborn we do not wish to be annoyed by the fish-wife performances of snarling marplots.

Two Sunday casualties are worthy of note. At Detroit 1500 Sunday excursionists were crowded on the railroad tracks waiting for a train to take them back to their homes in Toledo. A train came along and ploughed through the crowd, killing fifteen and seriously injuring about thirty more. At Shreveport, La., three prominent society people, two of them ladies, were out in a skiff in the bayou indulging in Sunday fishing. The boat capsized and all were drowned. Yet people go right on desecrating the Sabbath as though it had never been commanded "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy."

The Winston Sentinel says:

The visiting governors at St. Louis today "proceeded to the building sites selected for their respective states, where the corner stones were laid and state colors raised with appropriate ceremonies." North Carolina was out in the cold there. Our governor wasn't present to raise any colors—he is at home trying to raise money so we may have some kind of exhibit at the exposition.

And just think how fortunate our governor was in missing all those warmed over speeches.

Mr. Joseph Pominville, of Still water, Minn., after having spent over $2,000 with the best doctors for stomach trouble, without relief, was advised by his druggist, Mr. Alex. Richard, to try a box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. He did so, and is a well man today. If troubled with indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, lack of appetite or constipation, give these Tablets a trial, and you are certain to be more than pleased with the result. For sale at 25 cents per box by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

GREATLY ALARMED

By a Persistent Cough, but Permanently Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
Mr. H. P. Burbage, a student at law, in Greenville, S. C., had been troubled for four or five years with a continuous cough which he says, "greatly alarmed me, causing me to fear that I was in the first stage of consumption." Mr. Burbage, having seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised, concluded to try it. Now read what he says of it: "I soon felt a remarkable change and after using two bottles of the twenty-five cent size, was permanently cured." Sold by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Many a man's settled opinions are settled by his wife.

Too Great a Risk.

In almost every neighborhood someone has died from an attack of colic or cholera morbus, often before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. A reliable remedy for these diseases should be kept at hand. The risk is too great for anyone to take. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has undoubtedly saved the lives of more people and relieved more pain and suffering than any other medicine in use. It can always be depended upon. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Men laugh at feminine folly, but it fools them just the same.

A Farmer Straightened Out.

"A man living on a farm near here came in a short time ago completely doubled up with rheumatism. I handed him a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and told him to use it freely and if not satisfied after using it he need not pay a cent for it," says C. P. Bayder, of Pattens Mills, N. Y. "A few days later he walked into the store as straight as a string and handed me a dollar saying, 'give me another bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I want it in the house all the time for it cured me.'" For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Figures may not lie, but statisticians occasionally get their dates mixed.

A Little Early Riser

now and then, at bedtime will cure constipation, biliousness and liver troubles. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the famous little pills that cure by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectually, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach and liver that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely, and if their use is continued for a few days, there will be no return of the complaint. Sold by Wooten's Drug Store.

The average man can see where fame makes some mighty poor selections.

The X-Rays.

Recent experiments, by practical tests and examination with the aid of the X-Rays, establish it as a fact that Catarrh of the Stomach is not a disease of itself, but that it results from repeated attacks of indigestion. "How Can I Cure My Indigestion?" Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is curing thousands. It will cure you of indigestion and dyspepsia, and prevent or cure Catarrh of the Stomach. Kodol digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold at Wooten's Drug Store.

A SURGICAL DEVICE
(Original.)
"Young gentlemen," said the great surgeon, concluding his address to the graduating class of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, "let me impress upon you one caution. When you have done everything in your power for a patient with the hope of benefit, never cease to apply some new device, no matter how little connection it may have as a remedy with the disease. By this course you will gain time, retain the confidence of the patient and keep him from sinking into despair."
The great surgeon bowed to the class as an announcement that his address was finished, and the members before passing out each waited his turn to take his preceptor by the hand. One hung back till the others had all left.
"Dr. Kenworthy," he said, "for the last time I ask your consent. I have no desire to rob you of the daughter you love, nor will she marry me without your leave. I hope you will not continue your opposition."
"I shall have no opposition to make when you have built up a practice."
The young man departed, sorrowful; the doctor took up his hat and went to the hospital to perform a critical operation.
Ten years later Dr. Kenworthy was traveling in the west and stopped in a little town in the Rocky mountains. Being troubled with indigestion, he took a vial from his satchel, held the bottle in one hand, a spoon in the other, and, drawing the cork with his teeth, held it there while he dropped the medicine in the spoon. A violent hicough caused him to relax his hold on the cork and at the same time draw it into his windpipe. In a few minutes the household, having been summoned by a violent pull at the bell, were gathered about the doctor.
Dr. Kenworthy of course knew very well what should be done in his case, but with the cork in his windpipe, purple in the face, his eyes bulging out of their sockets, he was not only unable to articulate, but his faculties were momentarily impaired. The country doctor got the patient into a chair and began a succession of efforts to extract the cork. They were not successful, and it began to look as if the end was near. Suddenly the mountain practitioner's eye lighted as if with a new hope. Throwing down his forceps and his hooks, he showed by his expressive countenance every indication that he had solved the problem. The bystanders wondered by what new method the doctor was about to win success, and the patient looked at him wondering.
"Take off his coat!" cried the younger doctor imperatively. Two attendants seized Dr. Kenworthy and raised him violently, while the landlord divested him of his upper garment.
"Off with his collar!"
This, too, was accomplished with the haste and energy of despair fringed with hope.
"Some beeswax!"
The house was hunted, but no beeswax found. The landlady brought in some honey, which as soon as the country doctor saw it he exclaimed joyfully:
"The very thing; far better than beeswax; more soothing; more to my purpose."
Dipping his fingers into the dish, he broke off a piece of the comb, the cells filled with honey, and began rubbing it upon Dr. Kenworthy's throat.
Now, the great surgeon was so thoroughly cognizant that rubbing honeycomb on a man's throat for the purpose of expelling a cork from his windpipe was so useless, the idea was so supremely ridiculous, that had he been able he would have burst into a fit of laughter. He did the next thing; he laughed inwardly. Whether this internal mirth relaxed the muscles or his coughings had by this time loosened the cork, or both, no man, not even the great surgeon himself, could tell, but the fact remains that the stopper slipped from its place, and the patient spat it out on the floor.
For a few minutes the relieved man was so overwhelmed with congratulations that he was unable to get in a word. The village doctor showed a more than ordinary interest in his patient by sinking into a chair and drawing a few long breaths of relief. As soon as Dr. Kenworthy could escape from a clamor of congratulations he said to the village physician:
"Doctor, I have practiced and taught surgery for thirty years. I am familiar with every newly discovered device for relieving a patient from an obstruction in the larynx or the esophagus, but never have I before heard of rubbing the patient's throat with honey. Will you kindly inform me of the connection between the remedy and the cure?"
"Dr. Kenworthy," replied the village doctor, "you do not seem to recognize me."
The surgeon took from his vest pocket a nearsighted glass and surveyed his preserver.
"Upon my word—you are not—you cannot-be!"
"Yes, I am. I listened to your address to our class the day we were graduated, and I have not forgotten your advice never to cease applying some device to a patient in danger, no matter how little connection it might have with the disease as a remedy."
"Young man," replied the great surgeon, "you possess the principal faculty needed in your profession. You could retain the confidence of a corpse. Come back with me to civilization. I will run you into my practice, which I expect to turn over to some one as soon as I return."
"Is Elsie married, doctor?"
"No; she's waiting for you. She will go with the practice."
"I'll be ready to leave on the next train."

GIRL BLOWS UP TORPEDO FACTORY.

Two Persons Killed and a Score Injured—Building Demolished and Adjoining Houses Shattered.

Cleveland, May 3.—A terrible explosion blew up the torpedo factory of the Thor Manufacturing Company into kindling wood, wiped out a dozen houses in the neighborhood, killed two persons and injured a score of others at 12:15 p. m. today. Fire was discovered in the factory during the noon hour. Instantly the alarm was given to employes to get out because the explosive stores were close to the blaze. The men rushed pell mell from the building, but hardly gained the street before there was a flash and a roar. In a cloud of black smoke the building shot up into the sky like a rock from the crater of a volcano. Men were knocked flat in the street by the rush of air. Adjoining houses were torn to pieces. Other structures reeled and staggered.

All the way to Wilson avenue the explosion left its track. The streets were soon blocked with people and street cars stopped on the tracks to leave the way clear. The ambulance men and doctors have work ahead of them, for all about were injured people.

The explosion was caused by the simple, innocent prank of a girl. One of the girls was pouring powder into a torpedo and some of the powder fell to the floor and sifted through the saw dust with which the floor was covered. Another girl in a spirit of fun shoved the girl who had been pouring the powder. In order to save herself from falling the girl braced herself by her heels, and scraping along the floor, caused friction which ignited a grain of the powder. In a second the saw dust on the floor was in a blaze.

"Dorothy Dodd"

THE FAULTLESS FITTING SHOE FOR WOMEN

Let us assume that your shoes fit you. Now, what next? What is most important? Unquestionably, style. If it has style you want it. If it has not style, but everything else, you do not want it. The style of a Dorothy Dodd is unique. It cannot be duplicated by any other maker, because the Dorothy Dodd is a totally different construction from any other ladies' shoe. Besides being exclusive in style, it holds the foot firmly at the instep, prevents the foot from slipping forward, and gives a correct poise in walking. It makes the foot look nearly a whole size smaller. That's curious, and you won't believe it until you see it. Just for once try the Dorothy Dodd Faultless Fitting Ladies' Shoe and prove the truthfulness of our assertion.
