Lieut. Cotten to Fort Warren.

The Boston Record has the following concerning a young army officer who hails from North Carolina, and is as popular among his friends here in this State as he seems to be with his fellow officers:

"Lieut. Bruce Cotten of the Artillery Corps will soon be assigned to Fort Warren. Lieutenant Cotten has seen much service in China and the Philippine Islands, and is now attending the Artillery School for young officers at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. Lieutenant Cotten is said to be very popular with the officers."

Lieutenant Cotten is a son of Col. E. R. Cotten, of Cottontale, and a brother of Mrs. Julian Timberlake, of this city.—Raleigh News and Observer, 14th.

Blockade Still Captured.

Durham, N. C., May 13.—Deputy Collector S. P. Satterfield and posse arrived in the city this morning with an illicit still captured in the northern part of the county last night. The still was of 75 gallons capacity copper, and was in operation when captured. Two men, one white and the other colored, were running the still when the officers made the raid, but they escaped to the bushes. In addition to capturing the still and other fixtures nine hundred gallons of beer was poured out on the ground.

Anti-Saloon League

The regular monthly meeting of the Anti-Saloon League will be held Sunday afternoon May 17th, at 3 o'clock in the Methodist church instead of the court house, as formerly advertised. The public is invited and a large crowd desired.

Stole Six Bicycles.

Richmond, Va., May 14.—H. W. Hewitt, a young man who says he came here from Pennsylvania, and who will tell absolutely nothing of his parentage or his past life was sent to jail for twelve months by Justice Cruthfield this morning for the theft of six bicycles. He plead guilty to the thefts and said he had stolen them to support his young wife. Hewitt had in each instance pawned the wheels and had given his name and address, and the detectives had no difficulty in finding him except for the fact that he and his wife, compelled by poverty, had moved from place to place. They were located in a cheap lodging house. The young wife, sobbing her heart out stayed with her husband until he was marched with other prisoners to the Van to be borne to the city jail. She says she will try to obtain work and stay in Richmond until her husband has served out his sentence.

The Helen May Butler Band.

The entertainment in the opera house Thursday night, for the benefit of the city hospital, given by The Helen May Butler Ladies Military Band was greeted by a very large audience, every reserved seat being filled and a large number in the peanut gallery. They gave a very creditable performance, many of the ladies being encored several times. It was a rare treat for our lovers of good music. The solos on the cornet, clarinet and piccolo were well rendered and met with much applause.

The average tombstone inscription is too good to be true.

WINTERVILLE COMMENCEMENT.

Third Annual Closing of High School. Gov. Aycock Speaks.

Winterville High School has just closed its third session, and the commencement exercises have been in progress this week. The occasion was anticipated with much pleasure, not only by the pupils of the school, but also by the people of the community and those far and near, for a commencement here draws many from a distance. And be it said that the expectations of none have fallen short, for the commencement has been one of marked success and credit.

This school has shown great progress with each session. The first year the enrollment reached 153, the second year 214, and the high water mark of the last year was 267. Eleven counties have been represented among the students. Besides the larger school building proper, there are two excellent dormitories, one for girls and one for boys. So rapid has been the growth of the school that even with these three buildings there is a scarcity of room and the trustees are planning for an additional building.

Prof. G. E. Linberry has been principal of the school since its beginning and his thorough efficiency has been fully shown. He has an able corps of assistants, the faculty numbering eight the past session.

The commencement exercises began Wednesday night with a concert by the primary and intermediate departments. There was a large audience and the exercises were most creditable.

Thursday morning there was a short address by Dr. Calvin S. Blackwell, of Norfolk, and at night he preached the commencement sermon. His theme was "The Wise Builder" and taking as the foundation of his discourse the beatitudes as spoken by Christ in the sermon on the mount, he showed how each individual is a builder—a builder of a heart house for time and for eternity. Taking the beatitudes in their order he analyzed the first four as the foundation of the structure, bringing out the relation of the builder to the architect—in other words man's relation to God. Then taking up the other beatitudes he pictured them as the super structure and finished rooms of the building, drawing lessons upon the relation of the builder to other builders—or the relation of man to his fellow men. Every thought, every illustration of the sermon was beautiful, and its delivery was with the force and eloquence characteristic of the speaker. It was a grand sermon and its impress will long remain with all who heard it.

Today, Friday, was the final day of the commencement. Governor Charles B. Aycock arrived on the morning train and was met at the depot by a great throng of people and the Tar Heel Band. This band, by the way, is making excellent music at the commencement, and adds much to the pleasure of all present. A special band stand has been erected in the school auditorium for their use.

At 10.30 o'clock Governor Aycock delivered the literary address. He was fittingly introduced by Pro. W. H. Ragsdale who referred to him as the greatest living North Carolinian, and as a citizen loved and honored as no man since the days of Vance.

Gov. Aycock spoke an hour and a half and it was one of the best efforts of his life. The immense audience drank in his eloquent words eagerly, and his earnest plea to give the boys and girls a chance went straight to the hearts of the people. Time does not permit even a synopsis of his great speech just now, but it will be commented upon more at a length later. The people of Pitt county have never heard a better address.

At the conclusion of the address Rev. C. W. Blanchard made some statements for the board of trustees of which he is chairman. He expressed great satisfaction at the work and progress of the school and announced the re-election of Prof. Linberry as principal, Prof. Nye assistant, Miss Harrison music teacher, and Miss Spain primary teacher. Other teachers are to be selected later.

Gov. Aycock then for the faculty and trustees presented certificates of proficiency to Misses Ethel Carroll, Mimie Cox, Bertha Newton, Ida Moore, and Wilmouth Sutton, and B. S. Chapman and J. R. Carroll, they having completed the high school course.

This afternoon will be held the debate by the Vance Literary Society and tonight the commencement closes with the concert by the Philoallean Society. Report of these will be given in tomorrow's issue.

The Hard Lines of The Merchant.

The Richmond News-Leader recently called upon the ladies conducting the Confederate bazaar in that city not to prolong the life of the enterprise beyond the appointed time, for the reason that it was playing havoc with the business of the merchants, since it ran without expense and sold goods and articles which were given it. The Charleston News and Courier, which lives in the smoke of the battles of 1861 to 65, reprimands the Richmond paper and appeals to the sentiment involved in the case. The News-Leader was doubtless advertent to this, and yet chose to take the practical side of the question. Undoubtedly the merchants of every community suffer many things at the hands of many physicians. A number of years ago, on the last day of a session of congress, when public building bills and all sorts of bills making appropriations were rushed through the house like grist through a mill, Sunset Cox hopped on top of his desk and exclaimed: "Syracuse, Oshkosh and Kalamazoo have their friends; every town and city, every creek, river and harbor has its friend; but where in the name of God is the friend of the treasury?" The merchant is everybody's friend, not to say everybody's meat. Nobody starts out with a subscription list, or on any sort of a begging enterprise, but calls on the merchants first. The fact that a man "keeps a store" seems to convey to the average mind the idea that he is "lousy with money." But where is the friend of the merchant? All solicitors take him; all legislatures double tax him; all books agents buzz him; all dead beats expect credit from him, and it has remained for the Richmond News-Leader to lift its voice in his behalf and to suggest that he has a few small rights and deserves to be protected in them.—Charlotte Observer.

A Gentleman's Haberdashery

It's the natty little "fixings" that lend grace and elegance to the summer man's apparel—nobby Shirts, Ties, pretty Hosiery and Undewear. To look and feel "summery" is an easy matter for the man who trades here. Somehow this is a great store for Men's Furnishings. What's the secret? Variety? Yes. Quality? Yes. Price? Yes. And if we should tell you there isn't a more carefully selected stock in Greenville, you'd think it just ordinary store talk. Is it? Come and be the judge.

With pleasure we announce the arrival of the Celebrated "Regina" and "Autohav" Shoes. The factory was so overcrowded with orders that we were forced to wait quite awhile, but they are here now, some of them, and others will be here in a few days. The noblest and most up-to-date in town. Every part of "Regina" and "Autohav" shoes is of uniform high quality. Soles, uppers, linings and trimmings are always just as good as can be procured. From the fashioning of the last to the finishing of the shoe no expense is spared. This explains why these shoes are worn by fashionable and well-dressed women everywhere. The shoes need no introduction to those who have worn them, but to those who have not worn them, let us say if you want to know what shoe satisfaction really means, you must wear the

FR. DAY AFTERNOON, MAY 15, 1903.

"Thou shalt not steal," but the Wilson News appears not to be aware of the fact.

The Davidson Dispatch is 21 years young. In going up the hill of life may it never meet a friend.

Wilson's murder case is a variation in that it can be said to have taken place among "our best people."

About the limit of contumely has been reached when the Raleigh Post refers to Mr. Bryan as the "dernier resort."

The Colombian treasury is empty. It's a shame to deprive those Colombian people of the incentive to revolute.

The cold weather delayed the spring crop of murders and suicides, but they seem determined to make up for lost time.

Wilson and New Bern have figured in the news of the day, but we had rather have New Bern's troubles than Wilson's fame.

We drop a tear with the Winston Journal in sympathy for the hard lot of the boy king of Spain, but we'd take the job just the same.

Insanity is said to be on the increase among negroes. Now this is an insufferable encroachment upon the rights and privileges of white people.

"Edison has invented an apparatus to extract gold by means of a blast of cold air," says the Charlotte News. And Atlanta has a citizen who extracts gold without any excuse whatever.

"The Pennsylvania libel law may not be so bad, as newspaper should be able to prove any charge it may make against that state," says the Durham Herald. Yes, anything from petty thievery to kidnapping a city.

We learn from the esteemed Dunn Guide that Harnett is in no danger from the liquor brewers through a defective legislative act. We don't believe Harnett would stand for the devil's workshops, though, even if the law allowed it.

The last legislature made a big mistake in not providing a home for degenerate and incorrigible newspaper pirates. In its issue of Wednesday the Wilson News only steals about a column of REFLECTOR editorials. We advise the people of Wilson to keep their hands on their pocket books when they see the News coming.

"The Greenville REFLECTOR will please take notice, I have not written about the negro as a voter, a citizen, or a social disturber; but as a lunatic. Please bear in mind, too, this is my first offence in writing on this subject," says the Raleigh Times. You are not guilty, but don't let it happen again.

The first note of "Dixie" at the opera house last night sent an electric thrill through the blood of old and young, and the shouts could be heard a mile. The hearts of men and women who have seen three score years and never beat tumultuously as the old familiar air was rendered. The composer of "Dixie" ought to have a monument whose top would pierce the clouds, but he has what is better—a monument in the hearts of the people that will endure long after the grandest stone has crumbled to dust.

A Rich Retort.

The Atlanta Journal makes this remark: "There was wild excitement in North Carolina over the report that four hundred people had been cast ashore by the storm. However, it turned out that they had no money." No, they were clean broke. They had evidently met up with an Atlanta clerk in their travels.—Winston Sentinel.

Why Willie Wasn't at School

The following excuse was received by a Yancey county school teacher from the mother of one of her pupils. "Respected Miss. Please excuse Willie for absents. He fell down stairs just before school time and we teared his internal insides was hurt at first, but they ain't. The doctor says that no part of his anatomy is hurt but brewzing of the epydermis of the outside hide and also his hipp hurt some. But he narrowly escaped fatal death. So kindly excuse."—Black Mountain Eagle.

About Carnivals.

The carnival which was held in Raleigh last week seems to have been on a little higher plane than such performances usually are. And yet, according to the report made by the News and Observer through an interview had with many business men, there is reason to believe that Raleigh has little helped, if not much hurt by the carnival.

Almost every one said that the amusements were nice, with the exception of one indecent show, which was shut up, or made to conform to decency; but in matters financial it did Raleigh little or no good.

A gentleman who was there and made some observations of it all said in the Commonwealth office this week that it will take Raleigh some months to overcome the setback which the carnival gave the city.

The opinion of a majority of the clearest headed men in every town where such street exhibitions are held is, that the towns which have them once are satisfied with the experience and wish it no more.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

It was only a short time ago that this country gave $20,000,000 for the Philippines. If the trade was to be made now, it is quite likely that the price would be nearer 20 cents.—Greensboro Patriot.

Dave Hill is still testing the insulation in the hope that Presidential lightning may yet strike him.—Charlotte News.

Mr. Joseph Pominville, of Stillwater, Minn., after having spent over $2,000 with the best doctors for stomach trouble, without relief, was advised by his druggist, Mr. Alex. Richard, to try a box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. He did so, and is a well man today. If troubled with indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, lack of appetite or constipation, give these Tablets a trial, and you are certain to be more than pleased with the result. For sale at 25 cents per box by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

A man may be said to have reached a ripe old age when he begins to fall off.

GREATLY ALARMED

By a Persistent Cough, but Permanently Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. H. P. Burbage, a student at law, in Greenville, S. C., had been troubled for four or five years with a continuous cough which he says, "greatly alarmed me, causing me to fear that I was in the first stage of consumption." Mr. Burbage, having seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised, concluded to try it. Now read what he says of it: "I soon felt a remarkable change and after using two bottles of the twenty-five cent size, was permanently cured." Sold by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Woman is most lonely when she knows a secret and has no one to tell it to.

Too Great a Risk.

In almost every neighborhood someone has died from an attack of colic or cholera morbus, often before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. A reliable remedy for these diseases should be kept at hand. The risk is too great for anyone to take. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has undoubtedly saved the lives of more people and relieved more pain and suffer than any other medicine in use. It can always be depended upon. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

The most successful man earns his bread by the sweat of other people's brows.

A Farmer Straightened Out.

"A man living on a farm near here came in a short time ago completely doubled up with rheumatism. I handed him a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and told him to use it freely and if not satisfied after using it he need not pay a cent for it," says C. P. Bayder, of Pattens Mills, N. Y. "A few days later he walked into the store as straight as a string and handed me a dollar saying, 'give me another bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I want it in the house all the time for it cured me.'" For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Some people's clothes are like actions—they speak louder than words.

The Wastes of the Body.

Every seven days the blood, muscles and bones of a man of average size loses two pounds of wornout tissue. This waste cannot be replenished and the health and strength kept up without perfect digestion. When the stomach and digestive organs fail to perform their functions, the strength lets down, health gives way, and disease sets up. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that rebuilds the tissues and protects the health and strength of the mind and body. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. It is an ideal spring tonic. Sold at Wooten's Drug Store

For the Royal Zoo

[Copyright, 1903, by R. D. Marshall.]
We were in South Africa capturing wild beasts for the Royal Zoological gardens of London when we got word that a lion had entered a cattle kraal about five miles away the night previous and killed and carried off a steer. We made for the spot at once and began digging a pit.

When our pit was completed, it was 10 feet long, 6 feet wide and 12 feet deep, and we cut and drew up a lot of heavy poles to place across it in case we had to keep him prisoner for two or three days.

It was a full moon that night, and from the post in one of the huts I caught sight of the lion at about 9 o'clock. He came to within 200 feet of the kraal and sniffed the air as if his suspicions had been aroused. He was a fine target for a rifle, but under the circumstances he was safe from my fire. The cattle soon scented him and crowded to the other side of the pen, and the dogs of the village likewise made a great fuss, but his lordship was not in the least put out. I could not have seen him better by daylight. Aside from his mane there were black tufts on his legs, with a black plume at the end of his tail, and I was determined to make him my prize if it took a year of waiting and planning.

The lion scented danger, however, and sheered off, and we saw nothing more from him that night. On the next night he showed up before we were on the lookout. The natives in driving in the cattle had failed to round up a yearling calf, and we heard nothing from the estray until the lion showed himself. Just at dusk he roared loudly, and as the moon came up we caught sight of him advancing upon the kraal. The calf was on the other side of the inclosure keeping very quiet, but as the lion stopped and roared again the frightened animal began running around the pen to seek for the gate. As he came around on our side, running blindly and never seeing the lion, the latter crouched and sprang. As he struck the calf he seized it by the neck and wrenched it to right and left, killing it on the instant. For five minutes he stood facing us with his claws on the carcass, growling defiance. Had a man shown himself outside of a but the lion would have charged right at him. After awhile, finding that his deft was not accepted, he picked up the calf and trotted away as a dog would with a bone. Twice before he reached the thicket he paused to look back, but we had no thought of moving out of our shelter.

As the calf was not in good condition, the natives believed the lion would return next night, but he did not. Orders were issued for the people to keep very quiet during the day and for the herd to be penned an hour earlier than usual.

On the second night after getting the calf we heard the old fellow roaring good and strong as he left his lair, and the head man said to me:

"We are sure of him this time. Can't you tell by his roar that he is hungry?"

It is doubtful if the lion ever roars because of hunger. His roar may rather be considered a challenge to his enemies. The natives insisted, however, and they were right, except that he did not appear as soon as expected. He went off in the other direction, roaring at intervals and perhaps looking for a change of diet.

It was close on to 11 o'clock, and we had not heard his voice for an hour, when I suddenly heard something walking with a tread as heavy as that of an ox. I thought it was an ox until I saw the lion himself. The moon was up, and he advanced upon the kraal without even looking our way. His bearing exhibited grim determination. He walked straight to the spot where he had leaped before, halted for an instant to see if the fence had been strengthened since his other visit, and, with an angry growl and a switch of his tail, he went over. The cattle belated and rushed about, but after a couple of minutes the head man whispered:

"He certainly fell into the pit. See! The cattle have become more quiet. Let us go at once."

At a signal we all rushed for the gate and opened it. We were not a moment too soon, as the fellow was springing up and catching the banks with his paws. We hustled the poles across the excavation, weighted them down, and then everybody in the village began to sing and yell and dance. I had promised the people a keg of rum, ten pounds of powder and five muskets in case of capture, and the reward was a big thing to them. The cattle were turned out, fires lighted, and all spent the night in watching and rejoicing.

The cage was made with double bars, each as large as a man's arm, and of hard wood. We had it ready by night, but the lion was by no means ready to enter it. Our only way was to draw him up into it by main strength. For two whole days he defied our every effort, seeming to grow fiercer with every failure on our part, but on the third day we got the better of him. We kept him from food and drink for four days, but he neither fell away nor abated one jot of his ferocious spirit. I did not start him until the tenth day of his capture, hoping for a change, but as none came he was finally turned over to a guard of natives and his journey began.

In due time he reached the Royal gardens, but savage as ever, and even after ten years of captivity he was the most ferocious brute in the whole collection and feared by everybody. He was one of the few lions born with such a savage spirit that taming is an impossibility. M. QUAD.

Mulatto's Influence.

Through the medium of "race papers" and magazines, the pulpit industrial and political gatherings and associations, the mulatto wields a tremendous influence over the negro. * * * The negro, like the white man, responds more readily to bad influences than to good, and the example and precepts of a hundred men like Washington and Du Bois may be easily counteracted by the advice and influence of men of whom the mulatto type unfortunately furnishes too many examples. * * * The most prominent mulatto editor of the country is credited by the Washington "Post" with having declared that he was "tired of bearing about good niggers—that what he wanted was to see bad niggers, with guns in their hands." One of the leading "race papers" in the country, published at the national capital, in enumerating certain things which it would like to see occur, as being beneficial to the negro, included "the death of a few more men like Charles Dudley Warner," and this merely because that good man and true friend of the negro had, shortly before his death, reached and expressed conclusions concerning negro higher education at variance with opinions he had formerly entertained.—Alfred H. Stoue, in the May Atlantic.

The Duke's "Thirteen Clock."

An ingenious timekeeping arrangement exists today which was designed by that famous Duke of Bridgewater who laced South Lancashire with canals and died a hundred years ago. The duke was a great stickler for punctuality, and he was annoyed that the workmen on his estate at Worsley did not return to work after dinner as promptly as they left off when the clock struck 12. When he remonstrated, he was told that while the workmen always heard the clock strike 12, they often failed to hear the single stroke of 1. The Duke of Bridgewater quickly found a remedy for this difficulty. He had a clock made that would strike thirteen times an hour after noon, and that clock proclaims 1 o'clock with a baker's dozen of sonorous strokes to this day. The "thirteen clock" is one of the curiosities of Worsley Hall.—Westminster Gazette.

Sex of Gems.

The Romans, following the Greek mineralogists, divided gems into males and females according to the depth or lightness of their color. These terms are thus alluded to by Theophrastus: "Both these (beryl, carbuncle, emphax, crystal and amethyst) and the sard are found on breaking open certain rocks, presenting certain differences, but agreeing in name with each other. For of the sard the transparent and blood red sort is called the female, while the less transparent and darker kind is termed the male, and the cyanus also is named one sort the male and the other the female, but the male is the deeper in color of the two." The cyanus, or cyanos, of the ancients is said, though probably incorrectly, by many modern mineralogists to be identical with our sapphire.

THE FAULTLESS FITTING SHOE FOR WOMEN

Let us assume that your shoes fit you. Now, what next? What is most important? Unquestionably, style. If it has style you want it. If it has not style, but everything else, you do not want it. The style of a Dorothy Dodd is unique. It cannot be duplicated by any other maker, because the Dorothy Dodd is a totally different construction from any other ladies' shoe. Besides being exclusive in style, it holds the foot firmly at the instep, prevents the foot from slipping forward, and gives a correct poise in walking. It makes the foot look nearly a whole size smaller. That's curious, and you won't believe it until you see it. Just for once try the Dorothy Dodd Faultless Fitting Ladies' Shoe and prove the truthfulness of our assertion.
