WASHINGTON

CORRESPONDENCE

Washington, D. C. May 25.

A typical sample of the special legislation which characterizes every Congress has just come to the attention of your correspondent. One Thomas J. Mormon, of Columbus, Ga., enlisted for the Mexican war September 1, 1847. In December he became involved in a scrape, was tried by court martial January (1848) and found guilty of being accessory to murder, sentenced to various penalties including dishonorable dismissal at the close of the war. He subsequently deserted and was absent during January and February 1848. After the war he deserted his wife and ran away with another woman, to whom he was never married. Since that time, Mormon and his wife both died, but the woman with whom he ran away has secured the passage by congress of a bill (Private No. 473) "correcting Mormon's record" so as to make it appear that he was honorably discharged. Now the woman referred to has applied for a pension and it is feared will secure it. It is more than likely that if the pension commissioner refuses the pension, as he will if possible, congress will pass a special pension bill allowing it. The prevalence of this type of legislation is well known to every person familiar with congress and is creating a drain on the government funds which is appalling.

The prospect of a serious conflict between Senators Hanna and Foraker grows daily more likely. Senator Foraker has announced that he will urge the passage of a resolution by the Ohio convention expressing the wish of the convention that Mr. Roosevelt be the republican nominee in 1904. Mr. Hanna, on the other hand, has declared that he would oppose such a resolution. Hanna claims that a resolution approving the president's administration thus far will prove all sufficient and opposes the state's committing itself further than that while Mr. Roosevelt has still more than a year to serve. It is shrewdly suggested that the junior senator from Ohio fears that his influence at the White House will completely vanish, once Ohio has endorsed the president. Of course the belief that Mr. Hanna desires to be a candidate himself in 1904 is also strengthened. The convention, which occurs the first week in June, will be watched with the keenest interest and a large number of politicians, not only from Ohio but from other states, are preparing to attend. It is believed in Washington that Foraker will win and if he does it will constitute a body blow to the political future of Senator Hanna.

The Department of Justice has located half a million dollars worth of the property of ex-Captain Carter who is serving a term in the Leavenworth penitentiary for embezzlement from the government. The Department has been working very quietly in the matter and this fact was learned without the approval of the officials who have the case in charge. Attention is now being turned to the Greene and Gaynor property and it is believed that already some clues to their holdings have been secured. When the evidence regarding all the property is secured and properly prepared, another effort will be made to extradite Greene and Gaynor and a new trial in the federal courts in Chicago will be commenced, by which it is hoped the government will be able to recover a large portion of its loss from the Carter embezzlement.

There is great gratification at the State Department over the news that the permanent treaty between the United States and Cuba has been signed at Havana. This treaty incorporates all the provisions of the Platt amendment. The treaty still remains to be ratified and, although ratification by the Senate of the United States is certain, there is some question as to the action of the Cuban Senate. The title to the Isle of Pines remains to be settled by a subsequent treaty. The provision which permits the United States to establish naval stations at Guantanamo and Bahia bay are regarded by American officials as the most important provisions of the new convention. The specific location of these stations is not included in the treaty but a selection of the points named has been the outcome of subsequent negotiations.

Another story which comes from Ohio and is received here with much interest is to the effect that Mayor Tom Johnson, of Cleveland, and "Golden Rule" Jones, Mayor of Toledo, will join forces to elect the latter to the Senate to succeed Hanna. Mayor Johnson is in complete control of the Cleveland organization and Jones ought to be able to control the Toledo members of the legislature, so that there is some ground for the democratic hopes. Jones has four times been elected mayor against the strongest opposition and despite the fact that he refused to commit himself to any party declaring that party should cut no figure in municipal politics. The last time he was elected he received 100,000 votes.

Secretary Cortelyou of the Department of Commerce is not saying much these days but he is doing a "heap o' thinking" about Secretary of the Treasury Shaw who has passed along to the new cabinet member a most difficult and perplexing problem, that of employing women immigrant inspectors. The six inspectors who were appointed some time ago at the instance of certain religious and philanthropic associations, served ninety days and were then dismissed on the recommendation of Immigration Commissioner Williams who did not consider that they performed any useful office. Now, Rev. Josiah Strong, president of the American Institute of Social Service, Mrs. Margaret Dye Ellis of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Miss Sadie America of the Woman's Municipal League and National Council of Jewish Women and Mrs. Florence Kelly, formerly an Illinois factory inspector, have come to Washington to secure the reinstatement of the female inspectors.

I am directed by the executive committee to call a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the graded school at the office of Jarvis & Blow at 3 o'clock p. m. It is earnestly desired that every member of the board be present.

A Good Talk.

The congregation at the Baptist church Sunday morning heard an excellent talk by Pro. G. E. Lineberry, of Winterville. His subject was the child, and he spoke forcibly of the duty of parents in looking after the physical, mental and moral development of their children, the part the child should take in advancing his own development, and the provision God had made for making this development possible. The talk was earnest, impressive and filled with good thoughts on the subject.

MONDAY AFTERNOON, MAY 25, 1903.

"MUVVER".

In a New York mansion, filled with gold and silver plate, with numberless beauties of art, with scores of servants, a little boy is dying of internal hemorrhages. Physicians, nurses and the lad's father crowd around, but their skill is of no avail. The child is two years old and has never been very strong. As the cruel tide of blood rushes into his throat his little form writhes and turns in agony, and he cries: "Muvver, muvver; I want my muvver."

But his "Muvver" does not hear him—does not come. She is an actress, Grace George, and while her boy is dying she is on the stage of a theatre, kicking up her heels, singing bright songs, pleasing the great audience of pleasure-seekers. They tell us that while she sang and danced her heart was breaking, but who can believe she has a heart? Who can believe that one spark of mother love remains in her breast? She does not need money—she is the wife of a rich man. She does not need fame—her name has been applauded by thousands. But she loves her "art"—she must do her duty to the theatre management, even though her child's last cry on earth is for "muvver".

Every word of this tragedy is true. It is no set frame for a moral. It is to horrible for moralizing. But may the Lord have mercy on that woman when she has grown old, when her "art" no longer pleases and excites the crowd, when her conscience cries out in the still hour "muvver." Lord have mercy upon her.

Albertus Jay Beveridge, from the banks of the Wabash faraway, is said to have had dreams in which he saw himself in the vice president's chair. We hope he will wake up in time to get out of the way of the choo choo cars.

Discussing Judge Clark, a New York paper says he was careless in the matter of selecting his birthplace. Don't let it trouble you, judge. Things might have been worse—you might have been born in New York.

It appears to us that some of these stories about democratic presidential possibilities come from republican sources. We didn't know there were so many fools in the democratic party.

As no one has thought to ask Judge Clark what he thinks about it, perhaps it would be as well to let it go to the credit of the gaiety of nations.

You can get a line on the present quality of Lincoln, Neb., statesmanship and politics from the fact that Mr. Bryan is still discussing silver.

That snapping, popping noise you hear is made by the cotton, corn and tobacco crops getting a hump on after Sunday night's rain.

A contemporary asks, "How did the elephant get his trunk?" We don't know, but suppose he got it from the baggage master.

Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis says he would gladly make up Booker Washington's bed. See "chambermaids wanted," Doc.

Of course Sir Thomas Lipton has a place fixed up where he can keep that cup.

The Hendersonville Breeze blows in. May it never strike a snag.

Mr Thomas Independent Hill is rather slow in declaring for Judge Clark.

THE STATE PRESS

If the tax assessors make a general increase in the valuation of property the republicans will attempt to make campaign thunder out of it, but this is not honest unless they can show where the democrats have squandered the funds of the state.—Durham Herald.

"Every child has the right to demand of us that we train him to a wholesome respect for law," say the Male Principals' Association of New York, who wish to return to the good old customs of the rod and switch and ruler.

The question with us is, will the going back to the good old days accomplish the end desired. If so, we are in hearty accord with this association. There has been a constant and persistent getting away from this position by the modern school teacher. And without pretending to know which is better, the old or the new method of teaching, we confess our preference for learning to spell before reading and the old "blue-back" spelling book; also for a conservative use of the switch in the school room.—Raleigh Times.

Some of the vehicle drivers have almost discarded harness for their rigs these warm days, nothing but the tugs being used. They claim the horses pull almost as well, and galling the back by the saddle, and chafing of straps is avoided.—New Bern Journal.

Several ambitious North Carolina towns desire to know why Dr. Winston did not mention them in his speech before the North Carolina Society of New York. Nothing short of calling over the entire list in alphabetical order would have been generally satisfactory.—Winston Sentinel.

Taxes Can't Be Listed With The Register. The county commissioners have been instructed by the corporation commission that it is not lawful for taxes to be given in before the register of deeds, and that persons who fail to give in at the proper time to the list taker should be

Mr. Joseph Pomerville, of Stillwater, Minn., after having spent over $2,000 with the best doctors for stomach trouble, without relief, was advised by his druggist, Mr. Alex. Richard, to try a box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. He did so, and is a well man today. If troubled with indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, lack of appetite or constipation, give these Tablets a trial, and you are certain to be more than pleased with the result. GREATLY ALARMED

By a Persistent Cough, but Permanently Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. H. P. Burbage, a student at law, in Greenville, S. C., had been troubled for four or five years with a continuous cough which he says, "greatly alarmed me, causing me to fear that I was in the first stage of consumption." Mr. Burbage, having seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised, concluded to try it. Now read what he says of it: "I soon felt a remarkable change and after using two bottles of the twenty-five cent size, was permanently cured." Sold by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

The people living in the vicinity of Sugar Loaf mountain are very much excited over the report that the mountain is smoking and that smoke, is coming through the crevices. No doubt old Sugar Loaf is entertaining an unusual crop of copper worms and the boys are working a little overtime.—Concord tribune.

A Farmer Straightened Out.

"A man living on a farm near here came in a short time ago completely doubled up with rheumatism. I handed him a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and told him to use it freely and if not satisfied after using it he need not pay a cent for it," says O. P. Rayder, of Pattens Mills, N. Y. "A few days later he walked into the store as straight as a string and handed me a dollar saying, 'give me another bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I want it in the house all the time for it cured me.'" For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

The tyranny with which Secretary Roots elects to govern the expressions of all army officers, active and retired, is causing the greatest dissatisfaction with the present administration, not only among the officers but among their friends.—Tarboro Southerner.

Too Great a Risk.

In almost every neighborhood someone has died from an attack of colic or cholera morbus, often before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. A reliable remedy for these disease should be kept at hand. The risk is too great for anyone to take. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has undoubtedly saved the lives of more people and relieved more pain and suffering than any other medicine in use. It can always be depended upon. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville; Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

Strange Animal Friendship.

Pathetic instances are told of strange friendships between animals in captivity. A curious incident occurred in New Orleans some years ago, when a bear was lowered into the cage of an old African lion. The keepers supposed it would be torn to pieces, and many people assembled to see the barbarous exhibition. The bear at once assumed the offensive and rushed at the lion, but, to the amazement of the onlookers, the lion, hitherto regarded as extremely savage and dangerous, placed his paw upon the bear's head as if to express his pity and tried to make friends with him.

Taking the bear under his protection, the lion suffered no one to approach the cage and did not sleep until he was exhausted, so closely did he watch over his new friend. He even allowed him to share his food.

The two animals would lie down side by side, the lion usually with a protective paw over the bear. His delight in companionship was manifested unmistakably, and his captors were humane enough to let the two share the same cage.—Kansas City Independent.

Powdering the Hair.

In 1705 the mayor of Yarmouth, England, issued the following proclamation: "Owing to the present enormous price of corn and the alarming apprehension of a scarcity in that most necessary article, many towns throughout the kingdom have set the laudable example of leaving off for a time the custom of wearing powder in their hair, by which means a great quantity of wheat must infallibly be saved to the nation, and if the price be not reduced it may at least be prevented from increasing. We, therefore, the mayor, justices and principal inhabitants of Great Yarmouth, do recommend the example as worthy imitation, and we flatter ourselves the military will not hesitate to adopt it, being fully convinced that appearances are at all times to be sacrificed to the public weal, and that in doing this they will really do good."

Four Great Musicians.

Palestrina was a revolutionist in his day, but is now virtually obsolete even for the severest classicists. Gluck was as radical an innovator as Wagner, yet it is only occasionally and with difficulty that one of his works can now be briefly resuscitated. Beethoven was a madman even to many of the best musicians as late as 1805, when, as that musical veteran, Professor Haupt, himself said, the "Fifth Symphony" was rehearsed in Berlin for the first time, and the orchestra dashed the music from the racks, declaring it was crazy and could never be played. Now this same "Fifth Symphony" is considered a model of form, and its composer is the cherished idol of conservatives and classicists.

Pity For Western Nations.

The Chinese enjoy the greatest liberty. The laws of the western nation are too numerous and too severe. Instances of their bondage may be given. All the children in the country are bound to attend school at a certain age. When an author wants to print a book, he has to ask for a copyright. Before a man can start a newspaper he must apply for a certificate from his government sanctioning him to do so. There are fixed regulations governing all companies and firms. All marriages must be reported to a certain department for registration. Thus there is no liberty between husband and wife.—Peking Sin Pao.

Miniature Trees.

The Japanese art of making miniature landscapes and gardens consists chiefly in starving the plant so as to retard the circulation of its sap or life giving juices. Furguson, who was one among the first of English adventurers to visit China and Japan, mentions the fact that he saw at Canton "a box about the bigness of a ladies snuff box, which did not containe a littly dirt and sixteen tiny littly trees, foure of which were in full blow, the whole boxe, trees and all so small that a man could put them in hys mouth together."

Transcaucasia.

Transcaucasia grows almost every known grain in the world. The forests of the Caucasian mountain range produce saffron, madder, oak, walnut and boxwood lumber, while apples, pears and grapes grow wild in these forests to such an extent that they are exported in large quantities. The wine of Caucasia is also exported, and the cotton of the country is second only to that of Egypt.

Gold and Silver Beetles.

The most remarkable gold beetles in the world are found in Central America. The head and wing cases are brilliantly polished with a luster as of gold itself. To sight and touch they have all the appearance of that metal. Oddly enough, another species from the same region looks like solid silver freshly burnished.

His Dearest.

Wife—Do you love me as much as ever?
Husband—I reckon so.
Wife—Will I always be the dearest thing in the world to you?
Husband—I am sure you will unless the landlord raises the rent.

How She Felt.

"How do you feel after your ordeal?" asked the fair divorcee's friend as they came down the courthouse steps.

"Feel?" repeated she, with a gurgle of triumph. "I feel completely unmanned!"—Houston Post.

The question of who founded Rome, isn't half so interesting as the identity of the gentleman who made her howl.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

The X-Rays.

Recent experiments, by practical tests and examination with the aid of the X-Rays, establish it as a fact that Catarrh of the Stomach is not a disease of itself, but that it results from repeated attacks of indigestion. "How Can I Cure My Indigestion?" Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is curing thousands. It will cure you of indigestion and dyspepsia, and prevent or cure Catarrh of the Stomach. Kodol digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold at Wooten's Drug Store.

Bet not, fret not.

The Wastes of the Body.

Every seven days the blood, muscles and bones of a man of average size loses two pounds of wornout tissue. This waste cannot be replenished and the health and strength kept up without perfect digestion. When the stomach and digestive organs fail to perform their functions, the strength lets down, health gives way, and disease sets up. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that rebuilds the tissues and protects the health and strength of the mind and body. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. It is an ideal spring tonic. Sold at Wooten's Drug Store

Schooner Ashore,

The schooner Inez Cowper, bound from New York for Brunswick, Ga., was stranded near Chicami comico, N. C., Saturday morning during a thunder squall. The vessel now lies head off shore and there is no serious danger of going to pieces unless the wind increases from the east. The crew and life-saving station are trying to float her.

Hail.

Mr. W. S. Roach, of Coxville, tell us there was some hail Sunday night in the Haddock's Cross Roads section, but no damage of consequence was done there.

Mr. R. L. Davis says there was also a little hail at Farmville, and that above there near the Geene county line it was heavy and caused much damage to crops.

Nameless Oats—A Wonderful Production

Mr. John C. McGowan brought to town Saturday a bundle of oats that are the most wonderful ever seen here. They were from one single seed and there were 126 stalks about 4½ feet high and a good heavy head on each stalk. On one head of an average stalk there were 74 seed, making 9,324 oats grown from one seed. Mr. McGowan says he has some that grew 145 to the single seed. He does not know the name of these oats. The seed were purchased of J. B. Cherry & Co. It is possible that no other country in the world could grow so much from one seed as Pitt county. Owing to the very dry season the oat crop was almost a failure. Had there been a full crop there might have been 25,000 seed from a single seed.

TRAPPING A THIEF

[Copyright, 1903, by C. B. Lewis.] "Of all postal employees," said the special service man, "the letter carrier has the greatest temptation thrown in his way. He goes out over his route with hundreds of letters and is sorting and resorting until he can give a pretty good guess at the contents of each one. There is, however, but one course for him to pursue. He must make up his mind to be strictly honest. If he cannot withstand temptation he is doomed. He may escape detection for a few weeks or even months, but there is nothing surer than that he will be caught in the end. And one of the most powerful weapons of the post office inspector is the decoy letter. It trips up more rascals in the service than all other schemes combined.

"Before the day of postal notes, money orders and the registry system people used to inclose bills in their letters. There has been no falling off in the custom. It is calculated that one out of every ten letters mailed has at least a dollar bill in it. The sum total for the year runs up into the millions. The percentage of dishonest postal employees is very small, and yet on their account all the honest ones must be watched.

"He who steals knowing that the chances are ninety-nine to one that he will be discovered must be either very desperate or very silly, or so you will argue. And yet when you take the case of a post office employee you generally find that he is an intelligent person and had no pressing need to turn thief. If you will take up the case of each individual letter carrier convicted during the last five years you will discover that the temptation has been less than $30 on the average and that none of them had pressing need of the money. There are, no doubt, plenty of employees who have stolen a letter or two and gone no further, but it is also true that, after the ice is once broken, a person seldom holds up until exposure comes. Letters containing money are easily "spotted" by the handlers, no matter how much pains you go to to conceal the contents.

"I had a case in a western city five or six years ago which astonished me, even though I was old in the business and seldom surprised at anything.

"A boy had come into the post office and so conducted himself for a long term of years that he was at last made assistant chief clerk. He had the absolute confidence of postmaster and all employees. During his time there were three different inspectors on that route, and all "banked" on him, as the saying is. He aided us to detect three or four thieves in the office, and such was his reputation for integrity that no change of administration could remove him.

"One day I was sent out there on an investigation; something crooked in the office. I consulted with the postmaster, and he turned the whole case over to 'Honest Abe,' as the boys called the man I refer to. He was anxious to help me straighten things out, and he seemed to make every effort in that way. I was about the place for a week and failed to get the slightest clew. Then, unknown to any one, but more by accident than design, I employed a method which I cannot allow you to make public. The result was that I arrested the assistant as he was leaving the building and found no less than twelve money letters in his pockets. Even with that evidence of his criminality bulging out of his pockets he was on his way to my hotel to see me and propose a trap by which the guilty party could be caught.

"He had a wife and three children. His salary allowed him to live more than comfortably. What did he want of the money? To buy lottery tickets. He was buying them at the rate of $200 per month, hoping to make a big strike. When his house was searched we found 165 one dollar tickets for the current drawing, but he intended to make the number an even 200. In six months he had purchased over 700 tickets, and yet all his prizes did not foot up $100. It isn't six months since he left prison where he served his sentence.

"I believe, and it is the belief of all officials of the postal department, that that lottery did more to dishonor postal employees than all the other temptations combined. Thousands of letters containing one and two dollar bills were constantly passing through the mails. A percentage of the employees who handled them argued that the lottery was dishonest and under the ban of the department and that the money would be lost to the sender even if they didn't steal it. In two years I alone detected fourteen dishonest employees and brought them to justice. I will relate one case which had some special features.

"A railway mail clerk on a certain run south of the Ohio river was under suspicion. The suspicion arose from a singular circumstance. He was a single man, thirty years old, and had only his salary to live on. His name was among a list of donors for a fund to erect a church, and he had given $725. When I found this out I dropped all other clews and concentrated on him. While I was watching he turned in $275 more, thus bringing his subscription up to $1,000. One day after I had all my plan laid I entered his car and held him up. He had thirty letters in his pocket, all of them containing money and addressed to the lottery. He attempted no defense and urged only one excuse. He thought the money had better go into a church building than into the coffers of the lottery. He had not converted a penny to his own use, and he frankly acknowledged that it was his intention to steal $2,500 and then quit." M. QUAD.

THE FAULTLESS FITTING SHOE FOR WOMEN

Let us assume that your shoes fit you. Now, what next? What is most important? Unquestionably, style. If it has style you want it. If it has not style, but everything else, you do not want it. The style of a Dorothy Dodd is unique. It cannot be duplicated by any other maker, because the Dorothy Dodd is a totally different construction from any other ladies' shoe. Besides being exclusive in style, it holds the foot firmly at the instep, prevents the foot from slipping forward, and gives a correct poise in walking. It makes the foot look nearly a whole size smaller. That's curious, and you won't believe it until you see it. Just for once try the Dorothy Dodd Faultless Fitting Ladies' Shoe and prove the truthfulness of our assertion.
