C. L. Cannon went to Grifton Friday.

Prompt Settlement.

Today J. L. Sugg, agent for the Virginia Fire & Marine Insurance Co., of Richmond, received checks covering in full the losses sustained by that company in the fire that occurred here on the morning of the 2nd inst. A settlement in eleven days after a fire occurs shows commendable promptness. This is the first company to settle in full losses from the late fire.

HIS BEST SALESMAN.

Veteran Brooklyn Dealer Uses a Racycle as a Demonstrating Machine.

The gear? That one is 63 inches. Jump on it and take a ride. Then you will tell me that it is the slickest machine you have ever ridden." The speaker was Alexander Schwalbach, the veteran Brooklyn dealer; and he handed a new Racycle to the Bicycling World man and pointed to the door.

Thus forced willy-nilly, the machine was taken to the curb and mounted. The jump from a 73-inch to a 93-inch gear is rather a big one, and the climb of the long Flatbush avenue hill was not apt to render it any less noticeable. The conditions, therefore, were not exactly favorable, nor conducive to an optimistic view of the machine.

The first thing noticed was the sweetness of the running, both up hill and on the level. Each push on the pedals told, as the way the machine shot forward showed. There was no dissipation of power; the frame stays were rigid, and no amount of pushing on them sufficed to bring about any whipping. The machine ran without sound, too. Perfect alignment of chain wheels and scientific cutting of chain teeth were apparent, and the "purring" as the chain rolled over the sprocket teeth was so faint as to be scarcely distinguishable. The set of the handle bars was just right, and the saddle was in such a position over the crank hanger that pedalling seemed easy and natural. There was, too, a rock-like solidity about the whole machine that was pleasant to feel, yet when picked off the ground it was found to be light—almost a featherweight.

The appearance of the machine was attention compelling. The big sprocket wheels—40 and 12 teeth—the attractive lines, the part nickel finish of the front forks, sufficed to cause people to turn and look at it.

At the end of a five-mile spin the wheel was returned to the waiting Schwalbach, with the remark that it would do.

"Nearly every trial makes a sale," was his response. L. H. Pender is agent for the Racycle in Greenville.

Base ball—Greenville vs. Washington, Tuesday afternoon at 4:30. Everybody go.

The nomination for the governorship cannot be said to be seeking the man.

If Colonel Jno. R. Webster is not out of breath we would like to hear a few remarks from him on the dispensary question.

Don't forget the ball game Tuesday afternoon at 4:30, Greenville vs. Washington.

The Edenton editor is supposed to have learned that booming candidates does not have any effect on the landlady.

The newest "Wisconsin idea" is to do up negroes in approved Indiana shape.

The mission of the feminine half hose may be to reduce laundry bills.

On the lathing beach in the daytime and in the ballroom in the evening the summer girl comes pretty near giving away, in one day, about all the secrets there are about a woman's make up.

Delivered in town by carriers without extra cost. Advertising rates reasonable and can be had on application to the editor or at the office. MONDAY AFTERNOON, JULY 13, 1903.

Pactolus is one of the large small towns in the county. It is small in population, but large in area and volume of business. Once upon a time the area was not near so large as now, but the building of a railroad through that section and establishing a depot half a mile from the town proper caused a widening out and building up around the depot. It looked for a while like there might be rival towns on opposite sides of the mill run that separated the two sections, but the last legislature was asked to perform the rite that joined them into one municipality. Now Pactolus is quite a long town reaching well out in two directions.

While the town has only five stores, there are some of the oldest establishments in the county and they do a very large business. Having the advantage of both rail and water transportation, and with a good back country to draw trade from, it is a good point for business. Beside the mercantile business, there is a large lumber and shingle mill, an immense factory is nearing completion for the making of fertilizer distributors, and a well equipped cotton gin does the ginning for that section in season.

And Pactolus has joined the other progressive towns in the county who are using the good offices of the semi-weekly REFLECTOR by having a special department in the paper to tell the news of that section and show its business advantages. Every business man in the town took space in the department.

The commissioners of Wilson county refused to grant license to a whiskey still in that county, and such barrooms as were given license will be allowed to run only the balance of the year, when they will all be closed up. The aldermen of Washington granted license in that town for three months only, giving the saloon keepers that length of time to close their business, and served them with notice that at the expiration of that time licenses will not be renewed. Thus the good work in the cause of temperance goes on all around us. Are Greenville and Pitt county going to remain solitary and alone as the whiskey dumping ground of this section?

The Winston Salem Sentinel says:

"Mr. William Randolph Heast's newspaper supporter at Edenton, it is learned, has deserted him, but he still has the labor paper at Charlotte for him, we suppose. His greatest strength thus far is with the working men's organizations."

How many presidents have the working men's organizations elected?

An Indiana woman is suing for divorce from her husband because he sleeps with his boots on. If the lady will place her feet in her husband's back about midships she will find that she can keep her feet warm just as well as before her husband began to sleep with his boots on.

With an immense wheat crop on their hands and labor scarce, it is not probable that the Kansans will have time to be educated by Mr. Bryan's special issue telling why Judge Clark should be the democratic candidate for president.

A Baltimore man who was in court charged with beating his wife, bit her ear off before the judge and jury. In North Carolina the wife-taster could plead that it was merely his way of showing affection, and be discharged.

A food expert declares that people should eat more bread and butter. Undoubtedly, and an increase in salary would go a long way toward helping the average man to eat more bread and butter, also a few pies occasionally.

It now looks like the Greensboro Female college will remain in Greensboro and continue the splendid work it has done in the past. Which is a credit to the state, and Greensboro particularly.

We hope the people of those towns around us that have put the saloons out of business or are about to do so will not come to Greenville for their liquor. We have trouble enough of our own.

Judge Clark has maintained a dignified attitude ever since he was "mentioned" for the presidency, and this is more than can be said of most of the other candidates.

The pardoning power must be taken out of the hands of the governor. We may not get another as "merciful" as the present one, but we can't afford to take chances.

According to Governor Aycock's theory it would be better for every criminal to escape punishment by paying a fine, providing the fine goes into the public school funds.

The Commoner next grinds out the name of Governor Frazier, of Tennessee, as a presidential possibility. The mayor of Hoboken, N. J., may come next.

No doubt the various murderers in the state feel pretty safe if they have some ready cash. A contribution to the school fund covers a multitude of crimes.

A Boston girl has made a quilt of her old stockings. It would be handy during a Klondyke winter, as it would no doubt keep a man's blood warm.

Iced tea is now declared to be poisonous. Strange, how thousands of people can drink poison all their lives and never know it.

If any man has not been smashed up in a railroad wreck or swept away by floods, let him speak now, or ever afterward hold his peace.

A man named Barefoot conducts a shoe store in a neighboring town.

Chairman Rollins appears to have fired a blank.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me."

Nobody ever saw a girl buggy riding with a one armed man.

THE FOUNDATION OF HEALTH.

Nourishment is the foundation of health—life—strength. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is the one great medicine that enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest, assimilate and transform all foods into the kind of blood that nourishes the nerves and feeds the tissues. Kodol lays the foundation for health. Nature does the rest. Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and all disorders of the stomach and digestive organs are cured by the use of Kodol. Sold by Wooten's Drug Store.

It makes a woman almost as mad to find a long hair on her husband's coat as it does him to find one in the butter.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

"When the stomach is overloaded; when food taken into it that fails to digest it decays and inflames the mucus membrane, exposing the nerves, and causes the glands to secrete mucus, instead of the natural juices of digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach. For years I suffered with Catarrh of the Stomach, caused by indigestion. Doctors and medicines failed to benefit me until I used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure.—J. R. Rhea, Coppell, Tex. Sold by Wooten's Drug Store.

The queer things a woman wears don't puzzle a man as much as why she does it.

Valuable Time Saved.

Slight injuries often disable a man and cause several days' loss of time and when blood poison develops, sometimes result in the loss of a hand or limb. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is an antiseptic liniment. When applied to cuts, bruises and burns it causes them to heal quickly and without maturation, and prevents any danger of blood poison. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville, Farmville Pharmacy, Farmville.

When a mother approves a man who is interested in her daughter it is a sign she would like to pad the gate where they say good night.

A SURGICAL OPERATION

is always dangerous—do not submit to the surgeon's knife until you have tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It will cure when everything else fails—it has done this in thousand's of cases. Here is one of them: I suffered from bleeding and protruding piles for twenty years. Was treated by different specialists and used many remedies, but obtained no relief until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Two boxes of this salve cured me eighteen months ago and I have not had a touch of the piles since.—H. A. Tisdale, Summerton, S. C. For Blind Bleeding, Itching and Protruding Piles no remedy equals DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Salve by Wooten's Drug Store.

JUST ABOUT BEDTIME

take a Little Early Riser—it will cure constipation, biliousness and liver troubles. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are different from other pills. They do not gripe and break down the mucous membranes of the stomach, liver and bowels, but cure by gently arousing the secretions and giving strength to these organs. Sold by Wooten's Drug Store.

The Crown.

There is no mention of crowns before the eighth century after Christ. The crown really did not become the head covering of kings until the times of the Christian rulers after the might and power of pagan Rome were broken. Before those days the crowning was done with a helmet. This change in the method of crowning the rulers is typical of the changes that occurred in the spirit that animated nations and races in the selection of their kings.

The first kings and chiefs, after the world had emerged from the patriarchal forms of government, were selected almost altogether for their prominence as leaders in war. Thus, gradually, the chief of the army became the chief of the nation. Almost all the ancient kings were military despots. Then, with the prevalence of Christianity and the overthrow of the old governments, came the new rulers who claimed to rule by divine right. They, too, were almost all military despots, especially in the beginning, but the world had progressed far enough to demand more proof of authority to rule than mere brute power.

Travels of a Bullseye.

A German scientist says that if a marksman at noon on a cloudless, windless day sets his rifle so that it will cover the bullseye of a target the gun will in the same position the next day, if it also happens to be cloudless and windless, shoot "high left." "The bullseye is apparently attracted by the position of the sun or of any other luminous point," says the scientist, "and apparently during the day follows the course of the sun in a semicircular line on the target."

This seemingly changed position of an object under the changing influence of light cannot, he thinks, be produced by refraction nor by the changing temperature of the air nor by changing barometric pressure. The change of position is instantly responsive to the sun breaking through a cloud. It cannot be akin to mirage, because the shooter would then have to lower his gun at noon instead of elevating it as he now does.

One of the Only 'Kell's' Plays.

An ancient baseball fan tells this story to illustrate the quickness and trickiness of Mike Kelly, the one time king of the green diamond:

"A game between Boston and Washington was played at Beantown. Charlie Bennett was catching, and Mike Kelly was sitting on the bench when a foul which Bennett could not possibly get goes up in the air toward the bench, and Kelly, being captain, yells to the umpire that he will put Bennett out of the game, and at the same time he puts on a mitt with lightning speed and catches the ball. He then tries to make the umpire allow the catch, but the umpire, after wrangling a long time with Kelly, decides the ball was in play and Bennett could not be removed from the game until the ball had been caught by a player in the game, so he ordered the batsman to hit over. This was quick thought of Kelly, even if it did not work."

Glory.

Glory is but a transient dream that gives color to a sleep bespangled with illusions of greatness; a mirage, glittering, but unsubstantial, hovering above the oasis in the desert of life at whose fountain many a weary traveler would quench his burning thirst that he may press on to grander heights. It beckons us on to where the broad light plays on countless graves of those once called great, but now forgotten, upon whose gravestone is chiseled the mocking phrase, "Sic transit gloria mundi." How often does the victor, spent and worn, look around for the laurels and the peace he has earned, only to find the bubble burst, the colors faded.—Roanoke Times.

Tortillas.

Tortillas, the Mexican substitute for wheat bread, are made from selected corn. The kernels are boiled soft in lime water and after being thoroughly washed are rubbed between the hands to remove the outer husk. They are then ground while wet to a soft mass with stones or a peanut butter mill, patted into thin cakes, baked on a dry griddle and eaten while still hot.

Somewhat Inconsistent.

Sir Hartley Williams, a celebrated Judge of Australia, said he once knew a pious lawyer who was in the habit of praying for clients. "Imagine," exclaimed the judge, "the insult to the Almighty contained in the request that he should stir up strife among people, foment discord and promote litigation just to serve the selfish purposes of this pious solicitor."

True Philosopher.

"Well, sir, lightning" sot his house afire, an' a earthquake swallowed half his land, an' then the river riz an' overflowed the whole business!" "Well, what's he a-doin' of now?" "Thankin' the Lord that he' kin swim!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Hard to Meet Them, Though.

Miss Romantique (ecstatically)—I guess in Bohemia every one is Tom, Dick and Harry.

Painter Lott (a poor artist)—Oh, yes, and there are a good many bills there too.—Indianapolis Journal.

Feeless Information.

Mr. Tytephist (at the club)—By the way, doc, what is good for indigestion? Doctor (fellow club man)—Well, a Welsh rabbit is sometimes good for about three days of it.—Chicago Tribune.

One thing is clear to me—that no indulgence of passion destroys the spiritual nature so much as respectable selfishness.—George MacDonald.

THE CLAIM JUMPERS

(Original.)

Before him, coming on horseback, the broad rim of his felt hat flapping with each lobe, was a man whom he recognized as Andy Kitchen, the owner of a claim not far from his own.

"Howdy, Ben?" said Andy, grinning affably, and without lessening his pace added, "Yer claim's jumped."

"What's that to laugh at?" called Ben sharply. "How many of 'em?"

"Two. But one on 'em I reckon you can handle without trouble. He's a little cuss. 'Tother may down you."

Ben would have asked more questions, but Hollowell seemed to be in a hurry and rode on. Here was more trouble. Ben was a peaceful, plodding man, beloved by his neighbors, and the last man in the world to fight except for his rights. But he was not a man to suffer imposition. Besides, he had strong faith in his "hole in the ground" and relied upon it to unite him in time with his beloved wife. He rode on, considering what he should do. He had no faith in peaceful measures, for jumpers were not respecters of justice and usually did not jump a claim unless prepared to maintain their ground. He finally concluded to reconnoiter the jumpers from a distance and watch for an opportunity to catch them apart.

It was about 10 o'clock in the morning and a bright summer day when Ben left the road and struck a trail through a wood which led to his claim, now but half a mile distant. The birds were singing in the trees, and everything about him was so peaceful that he approached the encounter before him with still greater reluctance. His young wife was ever present in his thoughts, and he could not dismiss a picture of her anguish if it were fated she should hear that he had been killed by the jumpers. After going as far on horseback as he dared, lest he attract attention he dismounted and proceeded on foot, pausing behind a tree in sight of his claim and his cabin beside it.

There was no one about, but the cabin door stood open, and smoke issued from the stovepipe chimney. Between two trees swung a hammock, in the center of which was a bundle. Ben eyed all this cautiously, listened till he was convinced that there was no one present, then boldly went forward. Curious to learn what was in the hammock, he pulled apart its sides and revealed a roll of blankets. But as the blankets contained something, he pulled aside a corner covering one end of the bundle and revealed—

Well, what Ben revealed was no more striking than the expression of his face on seeing it. The stern look he had worn up to this moment melted into one as kindly as, more kindly than, had ever rested on his features. He looked down into the face of a sleeping baby.

For a time the diminutive creature slept on, then began to stretch its little legs and fling its little fists about, at last opening a pair of blue eyes, which it fixed intently on Ben.

"Reckon you're the little jumper," said Ben, giving the baby his finger to clutch. "I hope the big one is no more formidable. If your dad has taken my property I don't see how I can have the heart to dispossess him." By this time Ben was on his knees beside the baby, making all kinds of grimaces and saying all kinds of ridiculous things to show his good will and attract the child's attention. Then a sudden thought struck him. He remembered Andy Kitchen's grin when he announced that the claim had been jumped.

"By thunder!" he exclaimed. "Suppose the big jumper is a woman!" For a moment his face fell. If it was so, what an uncomfortable situation! Even the shooting he had expected was not so bad as that.

He was so engrossed with this thought and the baby, in whose face he fancied he could trace something pleasantly familiar, that he did not hear a footstep approaching. Then he felt a light touch on his shoulder. Instinctively his hand flew to his revolver as he turned.

He looked into the smiling face of his wife.

There are certain scenes as well as emotions that are indescribable. Neither the scene nor the emotions in this case can be painted in words. Never was man more completely turned from the passion of strife to that of love. There was one long embrace that it seemed would never end, then a gradual relinquishment, after that explanations.

Susie had prevailed upon a relative to furnish means with which to prosecute Ben's claim, besides funds to enable her to take them to him herself. A letter telling him of her intended journey had arrived the day after his departure for Frisco. Susie on her arrival, finding him gone, quietly took possession of his cabin and waited his return. When he came she had gone for water.

Ben's claim turned out a bonanza. In time he organized a company to work it, and he called it the Little Jumper. OLIVE PENNEWELL.

Rheumacide

Continues to make Miraculous Cures

READ THIS LETTER:
ALMOST A MIRACLE.

DILLON, S. C., Aug. 18th, 1902.

Gentlemen:—In September, 1899, I took rheumatism in a very bad form. In a month after the disease started I had to give up my work and go to bed. It continued to grow worse until my arms and hands were badly drawn, so much so that I could not use them. My legs were drawn back until my feet touched my hips. I was as helpless as a baby for nearly twelve months. The muscles of my arms and legs were hard and shriveled up. I suffered death many times over. Was treated by six different physicians in McColl, Dillon and Marion, but none of them could do me any good, until Dr. J. P. Ewing, of Dillon, came to see me. He told me to try your "RHEUMACIDE." He got me one bottle of the medicine and I began to take it and before the first bottle was used I began to get better. I used five and a half bottles and was completely cured. That was two years ago, and my health has been excellent ever since. Have had no symptoms of rheumatism. I regard "RHEUMACIDE" as by far the best remedy for rheumatism on the market. I cannot say too much for it. I have recommended it to others since and it has cured them.

Will say further, that I began to walk in about six days after I began to take "RHEUMACIDE," with the aid of crutches; in about three months after I began to take it, I could walk as good as anybody, and went back to work again.

Very truly,
JAMES WILKES.

LIKE FINDING MONEY.

J. L. Wooten Offers Popular Medicine at Half Price.

J. L. Wooten, the popular druggist, is making an offer that is just like finding money, for he is selling a regular 50 cent bottle of Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia at half price. In addition to this large discount he agrees to return the money to any purchaser whom the specific does not cure.

It is quite unusual to be able to buy fifty-cent pieces for a quarter, but that is what this offer really means for it is only recently, through the solicitation of Druggist Wooten that this medicine could be bought for less than fifty cents. He urged the proprietors allow him to sell it at this reduced price for a little while, agreeing to sell a certain amount. The result has justified good judgment, for the sale has been something remarkable.

Anyone who suffers with headache, dyspepsia, dizziness, sour stomach, specks before the eyes, or any liver trouble, should take advantage of this opportunity, for Dr. Howard's specific will cure all these troubles. But if by any chance it should not, J. L. Wooten will return your money.

The specific is very pleasant to take, coming in the form of small granules, and there are sixty doses in every package. It is especially convenient when traveling, and no one should start on a journey without a bottle of this reliable medicine.
