LAST MOMENTS OF LEO XIII

Passed Over the Bar With a Smile on His Lips.

Rome, July 20.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon, according to the official announcement, the long struggle of Leo XIII with death came to an end. So many premature reports had been circulated, including one from an official news service earlier in the day, that the first news report was hardly credited. A half dozen times within a fortnight his physicians believed that the fatal hour had come, but each time the pope's inflexible will conquered physical disability for a time, until there almost grew up in Rome confidence in his power to defy the great destroyer.

Tonight Catholic and non-religious Rome unite in respect for the brave and devoted spirit of the grand old man. His end was peaceful and undimmed by delirium, and in fact such as he desired. The clouds that eclipsed his mental faculties yesterday drifted away and he bade a calm farewell to those about him, with full knowledge that his last hour had come.

BLACK BEAST'S DARK CRIME.

Preys Upon Helpless Woman and is Arrested.

Asheville, N. C., July 20.—Saturday night John Barnett, a negro, attempted to commit a criminal assault on the 17-year old daughter of Rev. Willis Ballard, a Free Will Baptist minister, at their home on Big Ivy. During the night the negro entered the house by raising a window and began tearing the covering from Miss Ballard's bed before she was awakened. Terror stricken, the young woman screamed, which brought other occupants of the house to her door. Mr. Ballard was not at home that night, but the negro evidently did not know this. Only two or three women, palsied with fear, were there.

Leaping through the window Barnett fled to the woods. He was arrested yesterday and was immediately brought to Asheville by deputy Sheriff Hensley, who feared the fellow would be lynched if he was allowed to remain in that section. The negro will be given a hearing before Justice Dillingham on the 22nd.

GUNS AND KNIVES AT FUNERAL.

Negroes in Western Cumberland Go on the Warpath.

Fayetteville, N. C., July 20.—Yesterday afternoon at the negro church near Manchester in the western part of Cumberland county, where funeral services were held, Robert and Lawrence Williams, negroes, appeared, one with a breech loader and the other with a musket, and had a quarrel. When the women got the guns away Lem Elliott engaged in a quarrel and was stabbed by Robert Williams in the back and badly wounded, whereupon Elliott drew a revolver and shot Williams in the leg. A stray bullet also wounded a negro named Farmer, who was brought to the hospital for treatment.

If a lynching was ever justified it was in the case of that Kentucky man who was lynched because of the fear that, owing to his money and influence, he would escape punishment for his crime.—Durham Herald.

HARGIS MEN PREDOMINATE.

Another Kentucky Farce is Being Enacted.

Jackson, Ky., July 20.—Circuit court convened here today in special session for the investigation of the burning of the Ewen hotel and the attempted bribery of Capt. B. J. Ewen, principal witnesses for the prosecution in the assassination cases of Curtis Jett and Tom White. Judge Redwine refused to vacate the bench and empanelled the grand jury, which is charged to investigate not only the burning of the hotel and the alleged attempt at bribery, but also the assassination of Dr. D. K. Cox, which occurred in April, 1902. The jury was taken from the regular panel selected by the jury commissioners, who are Hargis' constituents. This is causing dissatisfaction.

REGULAR WEEKLY REVOLUTION

Is Being Pulled Off in Venezuela According to Hoyle.

Soledad, Venezuela, July 19.—At 5 o'clock this a. m., an engagement between the government forces and the revolutionists occupying Ciudad Bolivar, began in two different directions. The revolutionists opened the battle at 6 o'clock; the smoke over Ciudad was so thick that it was impossible to see the city. At 7 o'clock the government troops after a terrible fight lost more than one hundred men, captured the cemetery. At 8 o'clock the Venezuela fleet consisting of five men of war, shelled the government buildings of Ciudad. At 10 o'clock the revolutionist flag had disappeared from the government buildings and at 11 o'clock all the streets near the buildings was captured by the government forces and a charge of all the government forces on the city was ordered.

TRAVELS IN PACKING CASE.

Captain Ewen's New Kentucky Life Insurance.

Jackson, Ky., July 20.—Capt. B. J. Ewen arrived here tonight in an express car concealed in a small box. He had come from Lexington in this box, leaving it only when a long stretch of country was being traversed by the train and there was no danger of being seen. Tonight he remained in the car alone, going to his home about 10 o'clock.

New Pope in August.

London, July 21.—The Rome correspondent of the Standard says that if the pope left no bull modifying the rules of the conclave the new pope may be elected in August.

$75,000 Fire.

Danville, Va., July 18.—The Star warehouse on Spring street operated by C. D. Noel and Company, and the large four story prizery owned by John B. Anderson and company were entirely destroyed by fire tonight. From the warehouse the prizery caught and between $15,000 and $20,000 of tobacco was entirely destroyed and the building practically burned to the ground. The total loss will amount to about $75,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, JULY 21 1903.

EPHRAIM IS JOINED TO HIS IDOLS.

The North Carolina state militia has become a part of the United States army, and will soon go into encampment armed with United States army rifles and commissaried with United States army embalmed beef and ossified hard tack. Twist and turn the thing over as you will, the above is the plain, unvarnished fact.

We know that our condemnation of the Dick militia law cannot alter the course of events, but we believe it is wrong and contrary to the spirit of the republic as founded by the fathers, and believing it wrong we must condemn it, be Ephraim ever so securely joined to his idols. And though we are resigned to the coming years for justification of our course, we can but regret that such a journal as the Wilmington Messenger should have its eyes blinded by the softness and insidiousness of this attack upon our liberties. THE REFLECTOR considers that with a rank South hating administration in power, as at a present, North Carolinians have no country except North Carolina, and we are averse to accepting anything which comes to us from those who have compelled us call them enemies.

The Messenger recently said:

"The Greenville REFLECTOR is still pitching into the officers of the state guard for having 'accepted' the Dick militia bill, as if their acceptance or rejection could have anything to do with its going into effect in this state. Congress passed the bill under authority of the constitution and it immediately became the law of the land. The president had certain control over our state troops before the passage of that act and has had ever since the act of congress passed, under authority of the federal constitution, in 1795. This act was amended in 1861.

"Instead of the Dick bill turning control of the state troops absolutely over to the president, its terms, in fact, restrict the powers granted to the president in both the other acts.

"The Messenger published on the 16th instant an article from the Charleston Post which went fully into this feature of the bill and quoted the sections of the other two acts defining the powers of the president over the state troops. A comparison of their provisions with the Dick bill will show that the latter greatly restricts the president's powers as to the conditions under which he may call upon the state troops and the length of time he may keep them in the field.

"The Dick bill makes liberal provisions for maintenance of the state troops, while restraining the federal government's former power over them. What can there be so alarming in this?"

"THE REFLECTOR is not alone in its opposition to this measure. There are other papers in line with it, notably the Savannah News and the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

"We cannot see that the question of states' rights is at all involved—certainly no more than in the passage of the act of 1795. In fact the states have greater rights under this than under either of the other two bills because now the president can call upon the states' troops only after he has exhausted the available force of the federal government, while heretofore he could call on state troops for duty either within or without their own states in the first instance. Under the old laws, as soon as the 'judiciary was exhausted' the president had power of recourse directly to the state troops. Now he cannot call upon them until he has exhausted his federal forces. There is no trampling of states rights in that."

The Messenger is right about one thing—the action of the officers in accepting the Dick law had nothing to do with the case. The enlisted men agreed to serve the state militia three years, unless sooner discharged, and the Dick law nor any other law can alter the terms of that enlistment. It rest with each individual member of the militia to accept or not as he sees fit. We advise them not to accept, and if the Dick bill was really a law we would advise them to disobey it.

If, as the Messenger says, the Dick law does not change the status of the state troops, does not give the president a power it was never intended he should have—why is there such a thing as the Dick law? What is it for? No claim has ever been made that it is to conserve the public good. No one has ever claimed that the law was needed, either by the state or United States. Will the Messenger tell us what the Dick bill is for, if it does not federalize the state militia?

We believe the Messenger is somewhat ahead of its friends who approve of the law, as our contemporary actually claims that the Dick law not only does not confer new powers upon the president, but restricts his powers. Let us see the facts. Below we quote the old law under which the president could call out the militia:

"Whenever the United States are invaded, or are in imminent danger of invasion from any foreign nation or Indian tribe, or of rebellion against the authority of the government of the United States, it shall be lawful for the president to call forth such number of the militia of the state or states most convenient to the place of danger, or scene of action, as he may deem necessary to repel such invasion, or to suppress such rebellion, and to issue his orders for that purpose to such officers of the militia as he may think proper."—Revised Statutes, Section 1642.

And here follows a provision in the Dick bill:

"Whenever the United States is invaded, or in any danger of invasion from any foreign nation, or of rebellion against the authority of the government of the United States, or the president is unable, with the other forces at his command, to execute the laws of the Union, in any part thereof, it shall be lawful for the president to call forth, for a period not exceeding nine months, such number of the militia of the state or states or territories or of the District of Columbia, as he may deem necessary to repel such invasion, suppress such rebellion or to enable him to execute such laws, and to issue his orders for that purpose to such officers of the militia as he may think proper."

The president has never had such power, or, if he has, he has not for 100 years exercised it. If he had it, why was it necessary to have the Dick bill passed in order to give it to him?

Under the construction placed upon this new law by the army college board it goes even further and requires a state to forego its right to organize and maintain volunteer commands for its own purposes, which shall not be subject to the orders of the president, and to turn over to the United States the volunteer commands now in existence. If this construction be correct, congress recognized its inability to enforce such a law, for there is no provision made for its enforcement and the only penalty incurred by a state which refuses to comply is the forfeiture of the benefits accruing under the law.

We repeat, North Carolinians have no country except North Carolina, and never will have as long as a rabid, jealous radical administration controls affairs. The Dick bill is only one of a series of tyrannies. Others will come as the radicals grow in power. It is what we expect.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Aljee Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me." CATARH OF THE STOMACH.

When the stomach is overloaded; when food taken into it that fails to digest it decays and inflames the mucus membrane, exposing the nerves, and causes the glands to secrete mucin, instead of the natural juices of digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach. For years I suffered with Catarrh of the Stomach, caused by indigestion. Doctors and medicines failed to benefit me until I used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure.—J. R. Greenville, N. C.

Happiness.
We are forever children. When we are infants we cry for the moon; when we are grown up we cry for happiness. And we always cry for the wrong thing because we never know what is good for us. It is a man's lot to mistake his wants and to be disappointed. It is his purpose in life always to grasp for the useless thing, to strive for that which has no merit, to hope for that which perishes as soon as he holds it in his hands. We have our ideal of happiness, but we endeavor to realize it in ways which are not good for us.

Happiness, as we perceive it in this terrestrial sphere, is a saddening illusion. It never lasts, because it cannot. It never satisfies, because it is not made to satisfy. The land of El Dorado forever remains east of the sun and west of the moon—that is, nowhere. It is the fatal morgana, the mirage of the desert of life. Happiness remains happiness while it is an illusion. Mortality is not made to hold and to enjoy it. It is mortality's lot to chase jack o' lanterns—to cry for the moon, which cannot be obtained because it hangs so high up in the heavens.—Valley Magazine.

He Got Up.

There is a keen knowledge of human nature in the following bit of fun from the Lewiston Journal, but no more than might be expected from a down east tavern keeper who has had a long experience with autumnal sportsmen, of whom many are called, but few get up: A mighty hunter from Boston "put up" at a quaint little Maine hostelry and left word in the office that he wished to be called at half past 4 in the morning. Sharp at that time the next morning came a thundering rap at his door.

"All right! I'll be down in a minute!" called a muffled voice from under the quilts.

"You get up here now and sign this receipt!" commanded Uncle Cy.
"Receipt? What receipt?" demanded a very wide-awake voice, and the bed squeaked loudly.
"Waal," grunted Uncle Cy, "I don't calkerlate to have ye bumping down to the office at 8 o'clock declaring that ye ain't been called."

A Humorous Mixture.

In a Scotch church an old minister who was very deaf was also very anxious to introduce some new hymnbooks into the church and asked his precursor to give out the notice immediately after the sermon. The precursor, having a notice of his own, gave out that members of the congregation wishing to have their children baptized were to send their names into the vestry. The old minister, thinking that it was the notice about the hymnbooks, stood up and said, "And I wish to say, for the benefit of those who have not any, that they may be had in the vestry any afternoon, between the hours of 3 and 4—ordinary little ones at a shilling each, and special little ones, with red backs, at one and three."

What He Is Worth.

"What a curious habit we have," remarked the street car philosopher, "of saying that a man is worth so and so many thousands of dollars. I know men who have many dollars who, judged from any reasonable standard that I know, are not worth anything at all. It is refreshing to hear occasionally of men who do happen to be worth a great deal even though they are rich and who are anxious that people should forget they have money and think of them only for their qualities. All the same, it always gives me an unpleasant turn when I see a man's worth put down in dollars."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A Bismarck Incident.

It used to be the privilege of Austria's representative at any conference of representatives of the German states to smoke, the others refraining. This was supposed to be an acknowledgment of Austria's supremacy. At the first conference that Bismarck attended as Prussia's representative he began to puff smoke across the conference table as soon as the Austrian diplomat lit up. That set everybody present to smoking on equal terms, and Austria's supremacy got a blow.

Why He Wanted His Letters.

He—If you insist upon it I suppose it is all over between us, but I wish you would return my letters.
She—Why, you are not afraid I shall make use of them to your disadvantage?
He—No, but I've got my eye on another girl, and I could use them writing to her, you know.—Exchange.

Badly Balanced.

"I am a self made man," said the proud individual.
"Well, you are all right except as to your head," commented the other part of the conversation.
"How's that?"
"The part you talk with is out of proportion to the part you think with."—San Francisco Wasp.

A Pessimist.

Little Sister—Puttin' us out of the room just—boo, hoo—cause there's company!
Little Brother—But maybe they won't eat all the cake.
Little Sister—Oh, you can't trust—boo, hoo—company with cake!—Puck.

An Even Score.

"What is your objection to him, papa?"
"Why, the fellow can't make enough money to support you."
"But neither can you."

A Souvenir.

"A souvenir," said the thoughtful man thoughtfully, "is something that we consider to be worth a whole lot more than its value."—Exchange.

Rural Deliveries Stand If Needed.

Washington, July 18.—The post-office department today made public the following:

"There seems to be a wide misunderstanding as to the present attitude of the department regarding rural free delivery. The statement has been published quite generally, particularly in the west, that rural routes that do not handle three thousand pieces of mail per month and supply one hundred families are to be discontinued. It is not the purpose of the department to disturb routes already established unless they are manifestly unnecessary. But as long as all of the routes that are asked for cannot be established because of the lack of sufficient money, the routes that will supply the greatest number of families should certainly have preference.

$73,397 Shortage.

Washington, July 19.—The special report of the treasury experts on their examination of the affairs of Auditor Petty, of the District of Columbia, fixes the shortage in that office for which James M. A. Watson, a clerk, is now in jail, at $73,397, the figures heretofore announced. The experts criticize the system by which the money was handled in the auditor's office and made recommendations which in effect divorce the funds from the auditor's office and enlarge the powers of the district disbursing offices.
