CIRCUS DAYS ARE NIGH.

Sautelle's Shows Will Appear in Greenville for the First Time Thursday, October 8th—Two Performances.

In the menagerie attached to Sig. Sautelle's new big twelve combined railroad shows which will be seen at Greenville Thursday afternoon and evening, October 8th, will be found several dens of lions, including a pair of young cubs, which are as playful as kittens and may be handled with as much freedom as a pet dog. The sire of this pair is known as Sir Charles and is one of the most highly educated lions now before the public. When Mr. Sautelle first began to buy a menagerie Sir Charles was one of his earliest purchases. The outward form of this king of beasts seems to speak the superiorities of his inner qualities. His figure is striking, his look confident and bold, his gate is proud and his voice terrible. His stature is in every respect compact and well proportioned, a model of strength joined with agility. While nearly always good natured and friendly, now and then Sir Charles exhibits the same instincts of the untamed king of beasts with one exception. Instead of attacking with paw and teeth, he will content himself with trying to knock the trainer down by the furious lashing of the tail. The quick agitation of a lion's tail has nearly as much power as an elephant's trunk, and the trainers around the Sautelle shows have been more than once floored and painfully bruised by allowing themselves to come in contact with Sir Charles' tail when the brute was in an ugly mood. Sir Charles' mate, Lady Cloe, is as fine and large a lioness as one will see in many a long week's travel. The collection of lions to be seen in Sautelle's menagerie is second to none in the United States. There are not only lions in this superb department, but typical representatives of every distinct specie of animal in existence. Notwithstanding the magnitude of this feature one ticket admits a person to all its wonders.

Tillman Trial Has Begun.

Lexington, S. C., Sept. 28.—At 11 o'clock this morning Solicitor Thurmond announced the state ready in the case against Tillman charged with the murder of Gonzales, January 15th last. Congressman Geo. W. Craft, of Aiken, Tillman's law partner at Edgefield, announced that the defense was ready. The prisoner was arraigned and the trial began, the jury being obtained with relatively small difficulty from the original panel by 1:15 p. m. At 3 p. m., after recess the examination of witnesses for the state was commenced and half dozen were disposed of before adjournment for the night.

$9,000 Steal at Biltmore.

Asheville, N. C., Sept. 28.—The resignation of a member of the Biltmore estate, owned by George W. Vanderbilt, and a well founded report that the office is short the sum of $9,000, created a big sensation here. Mr. Vanderbilt is here looking after the matter personally. The defalcation is said to be only two or three. A combination of two or three of the office force made the steal.

DIDN'T WORRY THIS GIRL.

Heard Tales of Woe, But Played the Game to the Limit.

A girl in this town had a proposal of marriage Sunday night, and asked a week to consider it before filing her answer. She then organized herself into an investigating committee, and commenced faking testimony from the married women of her acquaintance. The first one she visited used to be a belle, and the most admired girl in the town before she was married six years ago. The cross-examination brought out the fact that she had three children, did all her own work, including washing and ironing, and hadn't been down town in four weeks, and that her husband hadn't given her but $2 since she was married, and that he had borrowed and forgot to pay back $10 which her brother gave her once as a Christmas present. He bought her a new overcoat with the money, while she wore the same plush coat that she wore when he was courting her. An other woman whom she visited quit teaching school three years ago to marry "the handsomest and best dressed man in town," and she is now supporting him. A third didn't dare say her soul was her own when her husband was around, though she used to write some lovely essays when she was in the school on the "Emancipation of Women," and the fourth woman she visited was divorced. After visiting them and summing up the evidence, she went home and wrote to the young man. She will be married next month.—Minneapolis (Kas.) Messenger.

Wild Chase for Horse Thief.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 28th.—In his night clothes and on a horse going at full speed, T. Parnard Boswell, in the gray dawn of this morning, fired ten shots from a breech loading gun at a horse thief who roared before him on a blooded animal he had taken from the Bluefield Stock Farm. The thief jumped from the horse he was riding and escaped in the woods.

Jury for Haywood Trial.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 28.—The most important action of the Wake county Superior court which convened today was the ordering of a venire of 250 men from which to draw a jury to try Ernest Haywood for the killing of Ludlow Skinner in February last. Judge R. B. Peebles is on the bench. The case is set for Thursday.

North Carolinian in Limbo.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 28.—James Betts, a master painter who came here recently from Oxford, N. C., was arrested tonight on a warrant sworn out by Wm. Broughtigan, his partner, charging him with defrauding him out of the sum of $16. Betts was locked up and at a late hour tonight had not been bailed.

A PURGATIVE PLEASURE.

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness or constipation you know what a purgative pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. They do not gripe, sicken or weaken, but give tone and strength to the tissues and organs involved. W. H. Howell of Houston, Tex. says "No better pill can be used than Little Early Risers for constipation, sick headache etc." Sold by John L. Wooten.

CUT OUT LAT-IN AND FRENCH

Too Many Frills in Public School Courses—Better Return to the Old Blue Back Speller of Our Fathers' Days.

The Biblical Recorder, of Raleigh, in referring in its issue of last week, to an incident in its town, observed that "it is generally admitted that the city administration is, from the mayor down, the weakest on record." The Observer remarked upon this that The Recorder is not only "a very able but a very outspoken paper," and this tribute finds additional justification in this passage from an editorial in The Recorder of this week: "We need a campaign throughout North Carolina in behalf of economy in public administration, and especially in our towns and cities. We should never stop until public affairs are conducted as economically as private affairs are. In some of our towns we notice they are maintaining departments of Latin and French in the free schools. This is an imposition. We should be content to confine instruction in our free schools to reading, writing, arithmetic, geography and history. The pretentious efforts of the superintendents to make frying-size colleges of the graded schools should be suppressed by the school boards."

This is something that has long needed to be said, and that many of us have long wanted to say, but we didn't have the sand.—Charlotte Observer.

Graded Schools to Open in Oct.

The trustees of the graded schools held a meeting Monday night and adopted rules and regulations for governing the schools. Mrs. Willie Hughes was elected as one of the teachers. This completes the corps of teachers. The school for whites will open on Tuesday, Oct. 6th, and for colored on Wednesday, 7th. All children in the district between the ages of 6 and 21 years old are entitled to attend the schools. The white children will all meet at the court house Tuesday morning to be examined for grading, and the colored children will meet at their school house Wednesday morning. All who will attend the school should be present.

HORRIBLE FALL FROM 5th FLOOR

But Don't Get Excited--It May Be a Fish Yarn.

"You have heard of the bump-tiousness of young doctors?" inquired the man who had been setting off some of the failings of youth "Well, just see if you ever heard the like of this! When I was living in an apartment house in New York, on the fifth story, two painters were at work painting the exterior. The ladder on which they were at work was without a rail, which is required by law. Both young men seemed reckless, for I watched one as he braced against the wall and threw out the ladder by the pressure of his feet, while his companion reached across an angle of the wall to paint a distant strip. It was a most foolhardy trick, and I turned away sick at the sight. Not a minute later there was a crash. The ladder had swung back and lurching the young man down upon the pavement five stories below. "Of course, I telephoned at once for an ambulance. In it was the driver and a young doctor. The latter came into the court yard and approached the injured man, who lay moaning on the flagstones. He lifted his hand to feel his pulse and asked: "Does your head ache?" "Now, wouldn't that jar you?" concluded the New Yorker, whose lip curled with scorn at the memory of the scene."—Lewiston Journal.

During the recent trial in New York of Samuel J. Parks, a walking delegate, on the charge of extortion, ex-Chief of Police Devery appeared in the court-room.

"I have no particular business here," Devery said, "only Parks is a friend of mine, and I want to give him my moral support." Then before he left, Mr. Devery told a story of a young doctor. "This young doctor," he said, "had too much in the evening, after working hours. One night his best patient, a rich and straight-headed old woman, sent for him, and he would call on her, though he was pretty far gone, and he knew it. "So he took another drink to brace him, got into his carriage and drove to the old woman's house. He found her in bed. He asked her a question or two, ashamed all the time of his thick voice, and then he took hold of her wrist to count her pulse. "But he found he couldn't count her pulse; he was too far gone even for that. Turning a deep purple with mortification and shame, he said, 'Drunk, by jove,' and without another word he staggered out of the room and went home. "Next morning a letter was brought to him, and he opened it with a groan, for he recognized the handwriting of his rich old female patient, and he knew that now she was giving him his dismissal. But out dropped a check for $150, and he read something like this. "Dear Doctor—I know only too well that you discovered on visiting me last night the unfortunate and shameful condition in which I had placed myself by accident; but I trust you will regard what you witnessed as a professional secret, and I inclose a small check that will, I hope, be sufficient to repay you for your trouble."

The Carolina Club will have its formal opening tonight in the club rooms.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, SEPTEMBER 29, 1903.

The Smithfield Herald, has, we think, over-stepped justice in publishing the following.

"In the past we have adverted in complimentary terms to the conduct of a certain superior court judge who, not a century since, held court in Smithfield. We have seen and heard more of the man since then, and we can better understand some of his "judicial" utterances since having arrived at a truer estimate of his character. No presiding judge can be polite and courteous to witness, lawyer or jury who had passed the night in a drunken debauch."

The Herald grossly wrongs every superior court judge in the state save the guilty one. What does our contemporary think to gain by such innuendo? Who is the guilty judge? If you know, it is your bounden duty to speak his name, that public opinion may strip him of his abused and betrayed honors. Why mince matters? The only right thing to do is to give that judge's name, charge him with the offense and prove it. Any other method is contemptible, cowardly.

Sunday wrecks seem to occur almost as regular as Sundays come, and it looks like the railroads had better annul their Sunday traffic or prepare to go out of business. The Southern railway had a most terrible wreck near Danville Sunday afternoon, in which the whole train was demolished, nine men killed and several others seriously injured. Some may argue that these wrecks would have occurred anyway and Sunday had nothing to do with them. That may be so, but all the same it reminds us of what an old colored man recently said in reply to the question if he had ever lost a tobacco barn. "No, sah, I don't allow 'baeco cured in my barns on Sunday, and I ain't never lost one."

Greenville is dust and sand-cursed. The street crossings in some places are half leg deep in fine, powdery sand, and the streets being so narrow, every passing vehicle fills the eyes, throat and lungs of pedestrians with a quick cough producer. Street sprinkling would help some, but the thing the town needs is a liberal layer of oyster shells, at the crossings, at least. When ground up and packed hard this makes very good and pleasant streets. In dry weather present conditions are almost intolerable, and in wet weather the mud makes it worse, if possible.

President Turner, of the Raleigh & Pamlico railroad, says two construction forces will be put to work on the road Oct. 1st, at Wilson, one working west to Raleigh and the other working east to Pamlico sound. It will be a glad day for Greenville when we see the first sign of the road.

J. Wiley Shook may eventually land on another soft spot, but he will not immediately forget his fall.

If the A. & N. C. railroad does not pay, but can be made to pay, the change should be made at once.

The News and Observer's reunion edition is worthy of the grand occasion.

Let Raleigh come out victorious in its fight against the saloons and the cause of temperance in North Carolina will go forward with electric impulse. Every man, woman and child in the state ought to wish the capital city God-speed in its endeavors against the common enemy of all.

Harvie Jordan, of Georgia, has been elected president of the National Farmers' association, recently in session at Niagara Falls. Mr. Jordan is a representative Southerner, and probably knows more about cotton than any other man in the country.

North Carolina is still broad enough to hold all her sons who have wandered afar, no matter how great and grand they may have grown. The October reunion at Greensboro should be a matter of pride to every North Carolinian who lives today.

Don't bite of the ends of your mustache. A man out west did that very thing, and now the doctors think he will recover from an operation for "appendy," made necessary by the patient's fondness for hair.

It seems that the doodlers are turning out their own. It is doubtful if J. Wiley would be jobless today if Jeter C. were still the guide, philosopher and friend of the doodlers.

When we gaze upon the picture of the state capitol building as it will (?) appear when remodeled, we remember that Durham once had a picture of an union depot.

Perhaps the president does not care to visit the South so soon after scaring those Mississippi bears so badly.

We hope the conflict between civil and military authority in Colorado is not a sign of the times, but we fear it is.

No, constant reader, that is not an Apache war-hoop you hear; it is a football yell.

A negro was recently lynched at Lynchburg, Tenn. Selected a properly named town, anyway.

The Father's Call.

Through meadow land and pasture
The children wander far;
Bright on the west horizon
Shines out the evening star.

And far across the dingles.
We hear our father call;
"Come, children, hurry homeward,
The night is going to fall."

And hurry, scurrying wildly
We'd answer to his call;
"Come, children, hurry homeward,
The night is going to fall."

We always found him waiting
Just where the shadows rude
Took on queer shapes of terror,
Outstarting from the wood.

I wonder will he call us
When falls that denser mist;
I wonder will he be there
To keep the children's tryst?

To send across death's valley
That dear and welcome call;
"Come, children, hurry homeward,
The night is going to fall."

COSTLY ATTENDANCE

(Original.)

I was standing on the quarter deck (this was before the time of bridges aboard ship), working out of New York harbor, when a man came up the companion way, looked wildly about him and gasped in astonishment.

"Well, my man," I sang out, "what's the matter?"

"I don't know," he said. "How did I get aboard this ship?"

"You probably skulked aboard, but you won't skulk now you've got aboard. You'll work your passage."

You see, we had so much of this sort of deadbeat that we'd got tired of it, and I didn't propose to be humbugged. The man was well dressed—in fact, too well dressed to make a sailor of or for him to stand heaving coal into the furnaces. I looked him over and made up my mind to make a cabin boy of him.

"Now, see here," I said; "it is too late to put you ashore. You know that or you wouldn't have shown yourself till later. I've got to take you to Liverpool. You go to the head steward and tell him to get what he can out of you."

While I was speaking the man seemed to be trying to recall something. Then he thrust his hands into his trousers pocket, then into all the rest of his pockets, evidently looking for money. Then he turned to me and said:

"Put me ashore."

"Put you ashore? I would without your asking if I could. I've got the mails on board, and I daren't lose an hour."

I was watching him like a cat and felt sure he was playing the emotions that would be expected of him under the circumstances.

"What am I to do, captain?"

"Do what I told you to do—go to the head steward for work."

He disappeared from above the companionway, and I heard nothing more of him till I went to my cabin, where I found a protest drawn up in legal form against my taking him to Liverpool and demanding to be put ashore.

At first I was staggered, but I'd seen many a sharper dodge than that, and I assumed that the man had brought the paper aboard with him. I paid no attention to it and in a few days forgot all about the fellow, till one day he appeared in the saloon, where I was at dinner, and handed me a plate of soup.

"Used to waiting on table?" I asked.

"Oh, yes."

"Where have you done any waiting?"

"Summers—hotels."

"Like it?"

"It's the easiest job you could have given me, but it'll be rather expensive for you before my bill is paid."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that every time I hand you a plate of soup it'll cost your company $1,000."

I smiled good humoredly, being quite amused at the man's "gall." It was evident he was trying to bluff me into giving him a first class passage out and home again. Still the next morning I awoke before daylight and got to thinking about the fellow till I began to be worried. Caution said treat him as if you believed him. You'll lose nothing. Whereas if you don't and he's all right he may make trouble for you.

But the matter had gone too far for me to retreat, and I took no action.

On the return trip, the second morning out, who should I see on deck, dressed in a jaunty English suit, puffing a good cigar, but my shanghaied man.

"Good morning, captain," he said.

"What'll be the run today?"

I looked at him pretty steadily for a moment, then turned on my heel and went to the purser, who told me the man was down on the list as Nelson Brentwood of New York. I began to fear I was in for trouble.

Just before we reached New York, going into my cabin one morning, I saw on my bunk a paper. I opened it and read:

THE — STEAMSHIP CO.
 To Nelson Brentwood, Dr.
 Handing the captain five plates of soup $5,000
 Other services as cabin boy 5,000
 Loss of time 40,000
 Total $50,000

I began to quake. I'd carried off some one, or rather, some one had got himself carried off to get up a lawsuit to bleed the company. However, there would be no use now paying any attention to the matter. I ignored it, though I confess it bothered me.

Soon after we were docked I was called on by the agent for a statement covering the case of Mr. Brentwood. I gave it and heard no more of the matter till the day before I sailed. Then I received an envelope addressed to Nelson Brentwood and a letter from the agent asking me to sign the communication in the envelope and forward it with other inclosures. The inclosures were an unrecipited bill of Nelson Brentwood for handing him five plates of soup at $1,000 a plate and a check for $5,000. The communication was a humble apology for taking him to Europe against his will. I signed the letter and dropped the package in the mail.

When I returned on the next trip I got the explanation. Brentwood was a graduate of — college and during vacations had waited on table at summer hotels. He had studied law and was a brilliant but unsteady man. He had been employed in a case in which he was the one man living so well posted as to handle it successfully and was sure to win. The opposing counsel had given him a supper the night before the trial, got him drunk and shanghaied him, paying a large bribe to some of the company's servants aboard my ship. The affair cost the company $45,000, besides my bill for having a first class lawyer for a waiter.

DISTRESS AFTER EATING CURED.

Judge W. T. Holland of Greensburg, La., who is well and favorably known, says: "Two years ago I suffered greatly from indigestion. After eating, great distress would invariably result, lasting for an hour or so and my nights were restless. I concluded to try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and it cured me entirely. Now my sleep is refreshing and digestion perfect." Sold by John L. Wooten.

THE GENUINE VS. COUNTERFEITS

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeit and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter, of Shreveport, La., says: "After using numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by John L. Wooten.

To All Whom It May Concern: This is to certify that in July, 1902, I had a fistula in anus which had given me trouble for ten years past and I had consulted several physicians and had followed their prescriptions to the letter and continued to grow worse until I could not walk, and for eight months I could only walk on crutches, and in this condition I was advised to call on Dr. Moore, colored, which I did, and under his treatment I at once began to grow better and in one week the trouble was removed and I was perfectly well, feeling like a 16-year old boy, and the trouble has never returned.
