Oct. 21, 1903.

There was Thomas Breslin, mill owner and a millionaire of Troy, N. Y. And then there was Helen Watson, who worked for her daily bread in Thomas Breslin's mill.

If you measure by the rules of society they were separated absolutely, miles and miles apart. But the rules of society have very little to do with hearts or real worth. In this fine country of ours it is not necessary for an old name to find another old name before meeting, or for millions to wed millions. Honest love is still the thing, and its none of the world's business that the girl worked for her living, or that the man's family history is lost in a haze, once his grandfather is passed.

Thomas Breslin admired the mill worker. She had a good face and a good heart. She was faithful and kind. It is easy to find out those things. A good woman shines like a flawless diamond. Then Helen Watson became a hospital nurse, and her first patient was a son of Mr. Breslin. She nursed him tenderly and "mothered" him, which is better than medicine, and he recovered.

Thomas Breslin's mind was made up. He loved like a boy. He could see no happiness in this world without Helen Watson. There was no thought of money or position. The millionaire realized that no man is good enough to measure worth with a good woman. He realized that in affairs of the heart most men receive more than they can possibly give.

And so they were married. The mill folks gave them a reception. There was a dance in the town hall, and they are very happy.

It was just one of life's little romances, that is all.—Winston-Salem Journal.

After a woman passes forty, and her cares grow lighter, she passes into a second gigglehood.

Two Atchison women are taking the same kind of baths: One to get fat and the other to get thin.

BETHEL ITEMS.

BETHEL, N. C., Oct. 22, 1903.

Mrs. Geo. Howard, who has been ill for some time, died this morning. Mrs. Howard has been a great sufferer from cancer. She went to the hospital for treatment, but her case was beyond control.

M. O. Blount has returned from the Raleigh fair. He reports a good time. The fair this year, he says, is a great success, "fine as silk."

Rev. Mr. Bar'ker, on account of illness, discontinued his meeting at Conetoe. He is now seen on our streets with his old time cheer.

Coy Monk, of Greenville, is on our streets again.

Miss Effie Grimes left yesterday morning to attend the fair. She contemplates a visit to friends in other cities before she returns.

Miss Nannie Moore and Miss Cornelia Manning, two of Pitt's most charming young ladies, spent the day in Bethel.

The Athenian Literary society of the graded school held its regular meeting this afternoon. There was very warm debate on the subject "that traveling is more helpful than reading." Messrs Fred Mayo and Dan Cherry represented the affirmative; Messrs. Henry V. Stator and Judson Blount, the negative. The other numbers on the program were a recitation, by Miss Maud Barnhill; and a reading, by Miss Estelle Jones. There is much interest manifested in the work of the literary society.

The new books at the graded school have been marked and the children are reading them. It takes much of the time of the librarian, Miss Mattie Grimes, to let out and receive books, when the school is not in session. Thanks to all who have contributed to our library.

POLLY IS HERE.

Doc Waddell Arrives With the Remarkable Faust Minstrel Parrot.

Doc Waddell, known to every newspaper office in the country, arrived this morning to announce the Ted E. Faust Minstrels, that are to be at the opera house, Saturday night, Oct. 31. He has with him Mr. Faust's remarkable talking parrot, which has the power of prophesy, foretelling the weather, tipping winners at the race track and predicting additions in the family.

Last night at Kinston the parrot was made a life member of the Elks. A brother presented the application for membership of Miss Polly Faust. A dozen brothers were on their feet in a jiffy, and objected. They argued that a woman cannot be admitted to membership. The argument waged warm, finally the outside guard stated that Miss Polly desired to be heard. The parrot came in, the Elks shook the building with applause and promptly made Polly a life member and on the way to her hotel from the lodge room the parrot to every one she passed cried: "Hello Bill! I's just got it for life!"

Tickets Almost Gone.

THE REFLECTOR sewing machine prize tickets are nearly all gone, there now being only 16 of them left. In a few days more the winning number can be announced and those who hold tickets should be on the lookout for it. Look up your tickets and have them ready when the announcement is made so as to see who gets the machine. If any others want to pay their subscription and get a ticket they should be in a hurry before the few left on hand are gone.

Friction Between White and Colored Troops.

Fort Riley, Kas., Oct. 22.—Some friction has developed between members of the Texas regiment and the troopers of the Tenth cavalry, who are colored men. Some of the Texas men have forbidden the troopers to pass through their camp on any pretext, and the colored soldiers who comprise one of the best cavalry regiments in the army are displeased at the order. Numerous fist fights have already occurred, and last night a detachment of the troopers descended upon the camp of the Texas regiment and carried off one man, who, however, was released in a short time. Men of the Texas regiment have found it necessary to travel in squads when ever they visit the commissary store near their camp.

THE PERFECT DAY.

Into our lives—a rose amid the thorns,
 A star night—there came one perfect day,
 Framed all in sunshine, lit with light of love,
 And compassed round with blessing ev'ry way,
 Hush! let us keep it sweet,
 By God's own grace—complete.

Now, though the shadows gather round our path;
 Now, though the darkness rise and hide the light
 Now, though we never read life's aftermath,
 Now, let come what may,
 We know one perfect day.

Sweet, looking up, we know that pain must rise,
 And strife, to mar that days' most perfect peace;
 But, looking farther, in God's light of love
 We see the land where all the discords cease;
 And where, God grant, we may Relive that perfect day.
 —Margaret Ethel Ashton.

SAVES TWO FROM DEATH.

Desperate throat and lung diseases yield to Dr. King's New Discovery as to no other medicine on earth. Infallible for Coughs and Colds. 50c and $1.00 bottles guaranteed by Wooten's Drug Store. ROLLINS TO ROOSEVELT.

From the Morning Post's Washington correspondence we note that Chairman Rollins has been giving the president a pipe line full of hot air about the republican party in North Carolina, and Theodore, with his smile that is anything but "child-like and bland," took it all in, and expressed himself as being "perfectly de-lighted."

Mr. Rollins, who is now official undertaker to the late North Carolina republican party, tells the president that the republicans will wage a lively fight in the coming state campaign, and that the democrats are badly divided among themselves.

To those who are familiar with the situation it appears that Mr. Rollins has either gone into the mendacity business by the wholesale or is having a good joke at the expense of the president. For surely Rollins knows there is not one word of truth in his report to the throne at Washington. He knows that the republican party in North Carolina is as dead as his own conscience appears to be, and that it will be many, many years before its resurrection. He also knows that the democrats are so confident of victory for years to come they do not even consider it worth while to split.

As story-teller to His High and Mighty Teethship Theodore the Onth, Chairman Rollins is a success, for he tells his master only the stories he likes to hear, but as a live political manager he is a cipher.

We have laws against carrying concealed weapons, and when the guilty party is caught up with he is more or less heavily fined. But when he uses the weapon to kill a man he goes unwhipped of the law.

Canada is not satisfied with the Alaskan boundary commission's award. Well, somebody had to be dissatisfied, and it would have been this country in case Canada was satisfied.

When Theodore came back from his lengthy Western tour it was given out that the Washington grafters trembled in their boots, but the public has witnessed nothing to justify trembling.

Pittsburg papers are discussing the question, "When is a man rich?" We are barred. If it was, "When is a man not rich," we think we could rise to the occasion.

A Raleigh hardware ad is headed "To the Shooting Public." There is one man in Raleigh who will no doubt be interested.

Mr. Ashley Horne, of Johnston county, has been elected president of the State Fair association. He is a better man than his office.

If Dowie leaves New York without flim-flamming the Yankees, we'll take his picture out of our rogue's gallery.

Some of Dowie's followers are pining for Chicago and Zion City. It's not such easy living in New York, after all.

It costs money to advertise, but it costs more not to.

The News has been pleased to observe the discriminating references to a recent editorial on the rival of the duel. Our contemporaries with two exceptions understood exactly what was meant, namely, that if street assassinations are to continue and be unpunished merely because bad blood was proved, then our civilization has not passed the dueling stage and we had better return to the duel for a period in order to give each man a fair chance. The two exceptions are the Greenville News and the Atlanta Journal. Well, we can furnish the Journal with an idea and the Greenville News sometimes with an article which it appropriates bodily from this paper without credit. But we cannot furnish either contemporary with brains.—Charlotte News.

How much of a North Carolina city Norfolk is, is told in this paragraph from an editorial in The Norfolk Landmark: "Norfolk is almost as much a North Carolina city in geography and population as a Virginia city. It may be called the greatest port of both states without any question. The majority of the city's trade is probably with the Old North State." We have heard it said recently that half of the people of Norfolk are North Carolinians.—Charlotte Observer.

Norfolk is a city of which to be proud, and owes undoubtedly much to North Carolina enterprise and North Carolina trade. Danville is another Virginia City North Carolina built.—Winston-Salem Sentinel.

Is it Right?

Is it right to build churches to save men, asks a contemporary, and at the same time license shops that destroy them?

Is it right to license men to sell that which will make a man drunk and then punish the man for being drunk?

Is it right to derive a revenue out of a traffic which no decent man defends?

Is it right to license a man to make paupers, and then tax sober men to take care of them?

Is it right to license a saloon to teach vice, and then tax people for schools to teach virtue?

Is it right to teach a boy to restrain his passions, and then vote to license a place where his worst passions will be inflamed?

Is it right to take care of your own boy and vote to license a place which ruins your neighbor's boy?

Is it right to preach justice and charity, and then vote to license a thing which robs the widow and orphans of their bread?—Michigan Issue.

When Haywood and Tillman were acquitted they shook hands with the jurors and with the judge. We can't recall the time, place or the man, but our recollection is that some years ago in North Carolina when a prisoner who was acquitted thanked the jury the judge held him in contempt or at least reprimanded him. His honor held that the jury was supposed to have done only its duty and deserved no thanks. This was correct but in the Haywood and Tillman cases the defendants probably thought the jury deserved thanks under the circumstances.—Statesville Landmark.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectively and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville; B. L. Davis Bros., Farmville.

Many mothers of a Like Opinion
Mrs. Pilmer, of Cordova, Iowa, says: "One of my children was subject to croup of a severe type, and the giving of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy promptly, always brought relief. Many mothers in this neighborhood think the same as I do about this remedy and want no other kind for their children." For sale by Wooten's drug store, Greenville, R. L. Davis Bros., Farmville.

The Lime Juice Island.
Nearly all the lime juice used in the world comes from the tiny island of Montserrat, in the British West Indies. The lime grows wild in many West Indian islands, but only in Montserrat is it used commercially. That island is one vast garden of lime trees, and nowhere in the world is there a finer sight than its thirty miles of orchards, laden with the fruit of the lime or fragrant with its blossoms.

The fruit is gathered by negro women, who carry it down the hills to the shipping port in big baskets on their heads. Like all West Indians, they are remarkable for their ability to carry heavy weights in this manner. Once the company which controls the lime juice industry sought to lighten the burden of its laborers by introducing wheelbarrows.

The negroes filled the wheelbarrows readily enough, and then carried them on their heads as they had been used to carry the baskets. Many a negro woman will carry a hundredweight of limes on her head for a distance of a mile or more.—Indianapolis News.

Naming the House.
The custom of naming a ship when it is launched with the breaking of a bottle of wine on the prow is a survival of an ancient practice which had many forms. In early times, when the frame of a house was raised, the bottle of wine was broken on the ridgepole. The usage is mentioned in McLellan's "History of Gorham, Maine."

It was the custom at a raising to break a bottle of spirit on the ridgepole and to repeat some rhymes, "paming the frame," as it was called. When, in 1839, Jacob H. Clement of West Gorham raised a stable, John Phinney, an old Revolutionary soldier who was present, repeated the following lines, which he said were used in naming the frame of Captain John Stephenson's house and barn, which were raised about 1775:

FOR THE HOUSE FRAME
Cursed is the Tory's heart
Which from the congress laws depart;
If the laws they do not fear,
I hope they will not prosper here,
And if the laws they do obey
I hope they will prosper in corn and hay.

Chair Postures.
It is one thing to have a chair and another to know how to sit on it. The ideal of a graceful sitting posture has varied in the different ages of the world. The Egyptian sat bolt upright, the knees and feet closely pressed together. It was the ceremonial attitude. The Greeks and Romans, when they were at liberty to forget their dignity, sat stooping, with one or both elbows supported by the arms of the chair.

The Chinese ideal was with the knees and feet wide apart. They have maintained that attitude in sitting for 400 years. The Saxons and early Norman kings are represented in old manuscript and on coins in the same position. Down to a date comparatively recent, kings and queens received sitting stiffly on their thrones, any marked change of posture being thought to derogate from the royal dignity. They now receive standing.

A Legend of February.
Here is the pretty legend which tells why February has only twenty-eight or twenty-nine days. Long ago, they say, February was a gambler, and he was so unlucky that he soon lost all his money. Like other gamblers, he tried to recover it, and he said to his companions that if they would lend him some money he would give them as security one of his days. January and March, who were naturally associated with him more often than any of the other months, accepted his offer, and as poor February soon lost the money which he had borrowed each of them acquired one of his days.

That is why January and March have each thirty-one days and February has only twenty-eight in ordinary and twenty-nine in leap years.

Ungrateful Girl.
"Miss Pechis," began Mr. Klose, "if you marry me you can be assured that"— "I'm sorry, Mr. Klose," the girl interrupted hastily, "but it is impossible. I can never marry you."
"What! Well, if that ain't ingratitude. Didn't I bring you a box of candy last week?"—Philadelphia Press.

Nothing More Doing.
The Mistress—How long were you in your last place?
Cook—Three weeks, ma'am.
The Mistress—And why did you leave?
Cook—Sure, ma'am, all the dishes were gone.—Detroit Free Press.

Woolgathering.
"For one's wits to go woolgathering" is an allusion to a pitiful industry sometimes seen in older countries. In parts of France, Germany and Spain very old people are sometimes employed in gathering wool from bushes in sheep pastures where it has been plucked from the fleece as the animals pass too close to the branches.

She Agreed.
Spinks—What made him so mad?
Winks—He told his wife she had no judgment, and she just looked him over critically from head to foot and said she was beginning to realize it.

How They Would Sound.
Mrs. Galey (musingly)—Suppose I should publish my love letters?
Mr. Galey—Why not simply make a public acknowledgment that you married an idiot?

His Own Exclusive Privilege.
A man calls himself a fool a hundred times a day, but it isn't safe for some one else to do it just once.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Cause of Lockjaw.

Lockjaw, or tetanus, is caused by a bacillus or germ which exist plentifully in street dirt. It is inactive so long as exposed to the air, but when carried beneath the skin as in the wounds caused by percussion caps or by rusty nails, and when the air is excluded the germ is roused to activity and produces the most virulent poison known. These germs may be destroyed and all danger of lockjaw avoided by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely as soon as the injury is received. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and causes cuts, bruises and like injuries to heal without maturation and in one third the time required by the usual treatment. It is for sale by Wooten's drug store, Greenville, E. L. Davis & Bros. Farmville.

Attention, Tobacco Farmers.

The Farmers' Consolidated Tobacco Co. has been organized under the laws of North Carolina, and all arrangements necessary have been made for the conduct of a tobacco warehouse, business at the Farmers' warehouse, Greenville, N. C. We ask the patronage and support of the tobacco growers of the country simply on the ground of merit and mutual interest.

This is a corporation, and unlike an individual business partnership, the stock holders are in no way responsible for any debts that may be made by the company. We simply say this because the report has been circulated to the contrary. We shall endeavor to merit your patronage. We don't promise you more than anyone else, but we do at all times guarantee you the best market price.

Look into this business, examine its charter and see if it is not to your interest to support and patronize it.

Yours to Serve,

The Farmers' Consolidated Tobacco Co.

North Carolina, Pitt County. To All Whom It May Concern: This is to certify that in July, 1902, I had a fistula in anus which had given me trouble for ten years past and I had consulted several physicians and had followed their prescriptions to the letter and continued to grow worse until I could not walk, and for eight months I could only walk on crutches, and in this condition I was advised to call on Dr. Moore, colored, which I did, and under his treatment I at once began to grow better and in one week the trouble was removed and I was perfectly well, feeling like a 16-year old boy, and the trouble has never returned.
