LAST DAY OF CONVENTION

ONE OF THE BEST MEETINGS DISCIPLES HAVE HELD.

THE CHURCH IS FLOURISHING Officers and Committees For Ensuing Conventional Year Named.

WEDNESDAY—AFTERNOON

The session opened with devotional exercises led by Rev. J. L. Burns.

The president announced the following committee on program: J. J. Harper, J. W. Tyndall, W. E. Powell.

A timely address on "Aspiration in the Sunday school" was delivered by M. S. Spear.

Miss Vonnie Leggett, of Plymouth, delighted the audience with a song, "In Thy Love."

Delegates were requested to meet the evangelizing committee for the purpose of pledging the amounts the churches would agree to raise for state missions.

A letter was read from Dr. F. D. Powers, of Washington City, which stated that owing to the death of a member of his congregation he would be unable to attend the convention. Rev. J. B. Jones was appointed to preach at night in his stead.

Rev. J. W. Tyndall spoke on the work at Dover.

Ex-Senator W. R. Williams here asked permission for Rev. D. W. Davis to present an important matter to the convention. Permission was granted and Mr. Davis spoke at length on the disposition of the C. C. College property at Ayden. He told how the brethren there once struggled to establish and maintain a Christian College and in order to get the sympathy and co-operation of the convention stock in the institution to the amount of $500 was given to the body. Later when the property now known as A. C. College, at Wilson, was offered to the convention it was declared advisable to purchase it, as it best suited the purpose for a college. This grieved the Ayden brethren, as it seemed to them that the convention had gone back on them and given a death blow to their school. With the aid of the public school money of which they had the benefit the school continued, but since the law had forbidden the further use of public school money in connection with a sectarian school, it was found the C. C. College would have to close. Thereupon the stockholders at Ayden decided to sell the property for a graded school and use the proceeds for building a Christian church in Ayden, and he thought this convention should allow its interest in it to be turned back to them to go into this church building, instead of donating it to the A. C. College at Wilson, as some wanted to do. He thought this was right, as the convention had never given but a little more than $40 to the Ayden college and one union meeting gave $100, the Ayden people raising the balance by individual effort. He said to turn this money back would win the Ayden brethren over to the support of A. C. College, while not to do so would cause friction that would in the end cost much more.

Early in the course of his remarks Mr. Davis was interrupted by Mr. A. J. Moye, who said he was incorrect in some of his statements. Mr. Moye attempted to give his reason of it when he was ruled out of order by the president and told he could speak after Mr. Davis had finished. This he did, strongly opposing giving the money back to Ayden and urging to give it to the Wilson school. To bring the matter to a focus Mr. Davis offered the motion that the $360 paid by the people of Ayden be turned back to them to be used in building their church. Ex-Senator Williams spoke warmly in favor of the motion urging the return of the money, as did also Rev. C. W. Howard. The president stated that the proper officers of the convention board had signed the deed transferring the property, but that the deed was withheld until the convention had the opportunity to decide what should be done with the money in question. While he expressed no opinion as to what disposition should be made of it, he did not think it proper to base argument for its return to Ayden on the point of it being right to do so. Mr. Davis replied that he stood for the right and therefore favored it. There are but two sides to the question, and if it is not right to return the money then it is wrong. Dr. Coggins, president of A. C. College, was warmly applauded when he arose and said he favored returning the $360 to Ayden. The question was called and there were but two votes in the entire convention against the motion. The convention then adjourned with benediction by Dr. Cobb.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

The attendance at the night session was so large that the church was more than filled and many had to be turned away.

The devotional exercises were led by Rev. I. W. Rogers, of Bertie. Rev. J. B. Jones, who was asked to preach in the place of Dr. Powers who could not come, did not take a text for his discourse but simply made a talk on the origin, belief and growth of the Christian church. A portion of his talk was in advocacy of more purity in church life, the lack of which was a great hindrance to the progress of the church. Along this line he roundly censured the worldliness of those churches that keep among the membership persons who give card parties, attend dances and theatres, and resort to oyster suppers, festivals, shows, etc. to raise money to carry on the Lord's work.

Miss Leggett, of Plymouth, favored the audience with another delightful solo.

The benediction was by Rev. P. B. Hall.

THURSDAY.

The morning session of the convention opened at 9:45 with devotional exercises, by Rev. P. B. Hall.

Rev. P. S. Swain, chairman of report on ministerial relief, submitted the report, which was adopted. Remarks on the report were made by Messrs. Williams, Rightsell, Moye and Swain.

Rev. J. B. Reesess, chairman of committee on obituaries. Only one death among the ministers of the convention, that being Rev. A. O. Hart, had occurred during the year and an eulogy to him was read. The report was adopted by rising vote.

Rev. J. B. Jones read a telegram from three students of this state at Lexington, Ky., who sent greetings. (Col. 3:5.) The secretary was instructed to respond to the telegram.

Dr. J. C. Coggins, president of A. C. College at Wilson, addressed the convention on "Christian Education." He said the greatest question of this or any age is education. It has to do with mind and soul-spirit. Every thing has been built up by spirit. Matter cannot make itself, cannot move itself—some spirit must move it. Spirit lies at the basis of material world building. Education means enlargement, development. Christian education means to train ourselves from a Christian standpoint, that we may understand things from the Divine mind, that will consecrate us to the service of God and humanity. Neither God nor man can be served so well in any other way as by proper education. We need educated men. It is all right to have zeal and enthusiasm, but it needs education to direct it. We need an educated ministry, men who know the Bible. The more Christianity there is the more harmony there is. The more we know the more we will appreciate. It is a mistake to suppose that science and the Bible or philosophy and the Bible are opposed to each other. Both have the same author and there is harmony between them. The soul that can recognize God's hand in everything will do more good for humanity than any other.

It is important for us to be educated; it develops our powers. Is it possible in this age for the poor to get an education, for them to be properly trained for God and humanity? A Christian education will make us unselfish, ready to give something to the world rather than only to take from it. Money getting is pre-eminent in the minds of many who claim to be Christians. That should not be the question, but it should be how much good can we do to the world. We are not all to be preachers. Christ was a workman and dignified labor. Doing our best for the world is true service to God.

There is opportunity for every poor boy and girl to get an education if it is desired. Do your part and the way is provided. There is a way if there is determination.

Dr. Coggins' address was indeed a master one, eloquent, forceful, instructive and was listened to with closer attention.

Rev. J. J. Harper followed in a plea for A. C. College and asked donations to help the institution. Several responded.

George Hackney, treasurer of the college, read a report of the financial standing of the institution.

The morning session adjourned with benediction by Rev. J. T. Grubbs.

THE REFLECTOR overlooked mentioning in the report of the proceedings for Tuesday afternoon an excellent address on "Send Me" made by Rev. Merritt Owen, of Washington.

Dr. Coggins will preach tonight.

Fiscal.

A small girl recently entered a grocer's shop in the East End and said to the shopkeeper in a shrill piping voice: "Please, sir, I want half a pound of butter, an' a pennyworth of cheese, an' muvver says she will send a shilling in when father comes home." "All right," said the shopman, who was used to this sort of thing. "But," continued the child, "muvver wants the change now, because she's got to put a penny in the gas meter."—London Men and Women.

Use Convict Labor.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON, OCTOBER 29, 1903.

HANDWRITING ON THE WALL.

The following dispatch was sent from Weldon to a Richmond paper recently:

"A prominent citizen of this place said today: 'I think the open saloon is best for the towns as the drinking men buy more whiskey than they want to drink at a time when they go to the dispensary and consequently get drunk before they get home. I would rather buy a drink than a drunk any day. Everywhere in the state that the dispensary is maintained the streets are covered with whiskey bottles and the alleys with drunken men. I do not think that the dispensary law will ever be a success in this state.'"

Kinston, Grifton and Graingers will likely vote today for the open saloon. All these towns are very orderly and few drunken men are seen in them."

Maybe the "prominent citizen" said it, but we believe if his identity were uncovered, it would be found that all his prominence was derived from his support of the worst thing in the world—the open saloon.

As for the statement "that everywhere in the state that the dispensary is maintained the streets are covered with whiskey bottles and alleys with drunken men"—well, words fail us to express our contempt for a man who can and does lie like that. It is so obviously false, we do not even consider it necessary to prove it so.

We do not claim that a dispensary is the best and most expedient solution of the saloon question, but we do claim that it is far better than a regime of open saloons, and the history of the dispensary in nearly every town in the state where it has been established is ample ground for our claim.

We believe that the sale of liquor should be prohibited by law, but not until the people are educated up to that point. Before passing prohibitory laws we have got to train men's hearts and heads to abhor the vile poison. Until that is done no law can prevent the use of whiskey, and after it is done, according to the lights of science and civilization, no law will be needed, or if needed at all, as a matter of form.

The newspaper correspondent whom we quote above slanders Kinston, Grifton and Graingers, and insults his superiors in morals and intellect. Kinston has already voted in the dispensary, contrary to our false prophet, and we have heard of no agitation of the question in either Grifton or Graingers.

"All three of these towns are very quiet and orderly and very few drunken men are seen in them," fabricates the correspondent. Wherever there are open saloons there is public drunkenness, crime and debauchery. The mayor of Greenville has drunks and disorderlies before him every day, and the same is true of any open saloon town that is large and important enough to draw a crowd.

The liquor question is a complex one and cannot be settled in ignorance, prejudice and hate. Neither can great changes be brought about in a day. But whoever has eyes to see with and ears to hear with knows that temperance and anti-saloon sentiments and principles are making such strides in North Carolina today as the world has never seen before. For every saloon victory there are a half dozen anti-saloon triumphs. The capital city of the state has voted in the dispensary, as have other towns and cities from our Western border to the sea, and many towns have absolute prohibition. The saloon business in North Carolina is gradually collapsing, and when the time is ripe it will be no more. 'Tis the handwriting on the wall, as plain as the doom of Belshazzar.

Slowly, as against great odds, but surely, right and sense and decency are coming into their own. Men are turning against liquor and back to their wives and children, and are remembering that their boys and girls will grow up in a hell hole of strong drink, or in a home of peace and decency—just as he wills and votes. No wonder the liquor dealers are "troubling deaf heaven with their bootless cries." The human current that has entered their doors these long, painful, crime-stained years is lessening, slowly, 'tis true, but every single whiskey victim who turns back to his wife and children and the pure dreams of youth robs the saloon of a boy, maybe two or three, and puts away forever the pain and misery of a drunkard's life and doom.

We harbor no bitterness against the men who operate saloons. We would not judge or condemn them, nor any other human soul, and we do not advocate the abolition of their business from a personal view. They and we are sinners all, and it is not for one to sit in judgment upon another. We believe the saloon or liquor business is the greatest curse with which mankind has ever been afflicted. We have talked and written against it for a quarter of a century, and shall continue to do so as long as the breath of life is spared us.

The Atlanta News is absolutely the only Southern paper that we have seen or heard of that commended the Tillman verdict. And yet the Literary Digest quotes it at length as representing the opinion of the Southern Press. The North does not understand the congenital and acquired limitations of John Temple Graves' mental processes.—Charlotte News.

In Raleigh lawyers could not be found to prosecute Haywood and in Asheville none could be found to defend Dr. Jay. In this difference in the nature of the crimes, the size of the pile, or the lawyers themselves?—Durham Herald.

It is usually the cast that a prohibition election stirs up bad feeling in a town, but there is nothing of the kind here. Thus far it has been the quietest campaign ever waged in town.—Durham Herald.

It seems to be the opinion that if Mr. Love did not make a mistake in writing his book he make a mistake in not getting out of the Baptist church before doing it.—Durham Herald.

Judge Peebles was sick and could not hold court this week. If this had to happen what a pity it did not happen a few weeks ago.—Durham Herald.

Those gold brick swindlers were guilty beyond a doubt and the court that turns them loose upon a technicality will thwart the ends of justice.—Durham Herald.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville; B. L. Davis Bros., Farmville.

Many Mothers of a Like Opinion

Mrs. Pilmer, of Cordova, Iowa, says: "One of my children was subject to croup of a severe type, and the giving of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy promptly, always brought relief. Many mothers in this neighborhood think the same as I do about this remedy and want no other kind for their children." For sale by Wooten's drug store, Greenville; B. L. Davis Bros., Farmville.

FLEISHMAN AND BRO.

The Fate of Hannibal.
Hannibal's life and fate were supremely great and sad. He was a patriot who had only the best interests of his country at heart. In the wars of Carthage against Rome he carried his armies across the strait of Gibraltar, over the Alps and into Italy, to the very gates of Rome. For more than a score of years he remained there, supporting his forces upon the enemy and proving himself to be such a literal and lasting scourge that the Roman mothers would quiet their children with the sound of his dreaded name. Finally, when old in years and he was driven forth and defeated, he had made a record in his way unparalleled throughout the annals of ancient warfare.

Yet in his old age he became a fugitive, wandering from one country to the other and finding no rest, owing to the vindictive persecutions of the Romans, who were then all powerful. At last, discovering no spot on earth open to him as a refuge, deserted by his former friends, his country enslaved and his once imperial native city in ruins, he gave way to despair and ended his life with poison.

Grant's Baggage.
General Grant always yielded in a sort of whimsical way to his wife's domination of himself and his affairs. The "family" ran the household as it pleased, without much reference to General Grant's predilections. Once at the railway station in Galena he called the attention of a friend to a truckload of trunks ready for shipment east. "Do you see that pile?" he asked. "That is the Grant baggage. Do you see that little black valise away up on top? That's mine."

Sex of Gems.
The Romans, following the Greek mineralogists, divided gems into males and females according to the depth or lightness of their color. These terms are thus alluded to by Theophrastus: "Both these (beryl, carbuncle, opaph, crystal and amethyst) and the sard are found on breaking open certain rocks, presenting certain differences, but agreeing in name with each other. For of the sard the transparent and blood red sort is called the female, while the less transparent and darker kind is termed the male, and the cyanus also is named one sort the male and the other the female, but the male is the deeper in color of the two." The cyanus, or cyanos, of the ancients is said, though probably incorrectly, by many modern mineralogists to be identical with our sapphire.

A Question of Courage.
Phyllis—Yes, he was paying attentions to her quite a long time.
Blanche—Perhaps he hadn't the courage to propose.
Phyllis—Oh, I don't know. Perhaps he had the courage not to propose.—Town and Country.

An Obstinate Man.
"Is it true the jury disagreed in that murder case?"
"Yes; they say there was one blamed crank that held out for convictin' the man who done the killin'."—Chicago Tribune.

Musical Diagnosis.
"What an awful voice that man's got!" said the manager, who was listening to the throaty tenor.
"Call that a voice?" said his friend. "It's a disease!"—Punch.

The Same Thing.
A New York paper asks, "Will man become obsolete?"
Don't most of them get married?—Columbus Enquirer-Sun.

The Original Carnation.
The original carnation was a five petaled bloom native in the south of Italy. It was imported into England about the time of the Norman conquest. As early as 1619 horticultural works gave minute directions for the cultivation of the flowers in winter. The carnation industry has risen to considerable importance during the last ten years, according to Town and Country. As 2,500,000 of young carnation plants are sold each year and florists produce an equal amount grown by themselves which are not sold, the entire production of young carnation plants approximates 5,000,000 and upward a year. These plants are grown under glass during the winter time for cut flower purposes, producing an annual average of more than 100,000,000 blooms. What becomes of this enormous number of flowers is somewhat of a mystery. They are put to innumerable uses.

Waterproofing Boots at Home.
I have for years used successfully a dressing for leather boots and shoes composed of oil and india rubber, keeping out moisture and uninjurious to the leather applied, leaving same soft and pliable. To prepare same, heat in an iron vessel either fish oil, castor oil or even tallow to about 250 degrees F.; then add, cut into small pieces, vulcanized or raw india rubber about one-fifth of the weight of the oil, gradually stirring same with a wooden spatula until the rubber is completely dissolved in the oil; lastly, add to give it color a small amount of printers' ink. Pour into a suitable vessel and let cool. One or two applications of this are sufficient to thoroughly waterproof a pair of boots or shoes for a season. Boots or shoes thus dressed will take common shoeblacking with the greatest facility.—Scientific American.

Some people are so conscientious about loving their enemies that if they haven't any they are perfectly willing to make a few.—Philadelphia Record.

DIETING INVITES DISEASE.

To cure Dyspepsia or indigestion it is no longer necessary to live on milk and toast. Starvation produces such weakness that the whole system becomes an easy prey to disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that one cares to eat, and is a never failing cure for indigestion, Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Kodol digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold by John L. Wooten.

Attention, Tobacco Farmers.

The Farmers' Consolidated Tobacco Co. has been organized under the laws of North Carolina, and all arrangements necessary have been made for the conduct of a tobacco warehouse, business at the Farmers' warehouse, Greenville, N. C. We ask the patronage and support of the tobacco growers of the country simply on the ground of merit and mutual interest.

This is a corporation, and unlike an individual business partnership, the stock holders are in no way responsible for any debts that may be made by the company. We simply say this because the report has been circulated to the contrary. We shall endeavor to merit your patronage. We don't promise you more than anyone else, but we do at all times guarantee you the best market price.

Look into this business, examine its charter and see if it is not to your interest to support and patronize it.

Yours to Serve,

The Farmers' Consolidated Tobacco Co.

KODOL
Digests What You Eat.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol

Digests What You Eat

Mrs. Loring Nichols of Penn Yan, N. Y., writes: After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and untrammelled action.

Bottles only $1.00. Six holding 2 1/2 times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

To All Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that in July, 1902, I had a fistula in anus which had given me trouble for ten years past and I had consulted several physicians and had followed their prescriptions to the letter and continued to grow worse until I could not walk, and for eight months I could only walk on crutches, and in this condition I was advised to call on Dr. Moore, colored, which I did, and under his treatment I at once began to grow better and in one week the trouble was removed and I was perfectly well, feeling like a 16-year old boy, and the trouble has never returned.
