LEAP YEAR DANCE.

The Ladies Take a Hand at Entertaining.

The young ladies of the town gave a leap year dance in the opera house, Monday night, that was in all respects a complete success.

There were some features connected with the occasion that were very amusing, as well as giving some good pointers to the young men. To begin with, the young ladies, to pay the men back for their usual tardiness in making engagements for dances, did not let any of the latter know who would take them to the dance, or if they would be taken at all, until the day arrived. Again after having the first dance in the hall, the young ladies led their partners to seats and gathered in the centre of the room to talk among themselves, and the young men for the time being were a blank looking set of wall flowers.

The young ladies did the clever thing, however, by presenting their escorts with carnations and by giving them an elegant supper in Carolina Club rooms after the dance was over.

Those taking part in the dance were as follows:

Miss Ada Wooten with C. S. Forbes.

Miss Nell Skinner with Fred Forbes.

Miss Nina James with J. Benj. Higgs.

Miss Mary Higgs with T. J. Moore.

Miss Bessie Patrick with C. B. Mayo.

Miss Lottie Blow with J. D. Garden.

Miss Bertha Patrick with A. M. Moseley.

Miss Sallie Cotten with F. M. Wooten.

Miss Helen Forbes with Frank Skinner.

Miss Mary Gottlieb with P. S. Cotten.

Miss Jessie Lee Sugg with B. F. Bernard.

Miss Lillian Cherry with Dr. Josh. Tayloe.

Miss Margaret Skinner with Will Lipscomb.

Miss Ethel Skinner with Blount Pearce.

Miss Pattie Skinner with C. S. Carr.

Howard Making a Fight.

Capt. J. M. Fleming, Warden of State's Prison, and J. D. Honeycutt, formerly of Raleigh's police force, left yesterday for Chicago to identify William Howard, alias Hoolman, the postoffice robber who escaped from the penitentiary here five years ago, and who was recently arrested in Chicago. Messrs. Fleming and Honeycutt will testify there in habeas corpus proceedings brought by Howard. It seems he has employed counsel and is making a big fight. He was imprisoned here for robbing a safe in a postoffice in Virginia. At the time Howard was arrested the penitentiary here was used for the incarceration of Federal prisoners from this section of country. Now they are sent to Atlanta. — News & Observer 31st.

Fire Destroys a Town.

Greenville, Miss. Jan. 31—A fire at Hollandale destroyed every building in the town, except two dwellings, yesterday and caused a loss estimated from $150,000 to $200,000.

HER FATE A SECRET.

Mystery Attached to Removal of Mrs. Maybrick.

London, Jan. 31—In spite of the mystery with which officials shroud the action in connection with the reported release of Mrs. Florence Maybrick, who is serving a life sentence for poisoning her husband, it can be definitely said that she has been removed from Aylesbury prison. At the United States Embassy it was most emphatically declared that she had not been pardoned, and that she was still a prisoner.

Where she has been taken remains a mystery, but reports from Aylesbury are to the effect that she has been removed to some institution in Cornwall. The home office and the governor of Aylesbury prison refused to make any kind of a statement on the subject.

TERMS OF RELEASE.

The Daily Mail says that Mrs. Maybrick is now in Liverpool, and that the following conditions attached to her release from prison: That she will not appear on the public stage or write a book of her experience, and shall in no way endeavor to attract attention to herself.

Regarding the case of Mrs. Maybrick, interest in which has been revived by reports that she has been released from prison in England, State Department officials say there has been no recent communication between them and the English government in the matter. The last information the department had regarding the case, and this is now some months old, was that Mrs. Maybrick probably would be released late in the coming summer.

The Peril of the Cotton-Boll Weevil.

The approximate value of the cotton crop of the world is between seven hundred and fifty and eight hundred millions of dollars. Of the world's cotton, the United States produces about 80 per cent., and this enormous proportion in the production of one of the great raw products of the world's consumption is a prominent factor in placing the United States in her present position in relation to the trade balance of the world. Of the enormous amount of cotton grown in the United States, the state of Texas has for years produced, approximately, one-third. Cotton alone brings to the state of Texas over one hundred millions of dollars annually, and when the price of the staple reaches the high figure of fourteen cents per pound, which it has reached within the past few weeks, the value of a good cotton crop to the state would surpass two hundred million.

With a good crop, however, the price is naturally much lower; but even in the depressed times of a few years back, when five cents per pound was all that the grower could get, cotton still remained the great crop of the state, and the great crop of many of the other Southern States.

One of the prime reasons for the present high price of cotton, aside from the clever manipulations of the market, has been not an unprecedentedly small crop so much as a rather well founded fear of enormous damage by an insect which for the past few years has caused an annual loss to the State of Texas exceeding ten millions of dollars in actual cotton destroyed, and an annual loss of possibly one hundred millions in the effect of this destruction upon industries depending upon or connected with the cotton crop.—From "The Mexican Cotton-Boll Weevil," by L. O. Howard, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for February.

Young Men in Politics.

It turns out, after all the discussions about it, President Hadley, of Yale, did not say that "only rich men should go into politics, because only they could stand the inevitable temptations of political life." If he had made that statement, it would have ranked with the other freak statements that every now and then emanate from colleges and universities. As explained by the New York Times, here is the substance of what President Hadley said:

"He did not warn all except the rich out of politics, but advises a young man not to seek office until he had made himself in some measure independent of its pecuniary rewards, so that immediate starvation or an approach to it for himself and family might not be the consequence of failure to win an election, or of dismissal from a place secured."

How much money does it take to make a man "in some measure independent of its pecuniary rewards?" That will vary with individual tastes and with environment. It would have been better if President Hadley had warned young men not to go into politics until they had made a place for themselves in their profession or business calling and warned all men not to be dependent upon the pecuniary returns of office-holding. There is no doubt that some men in politics succumb to the temptation of doing wrong because of pecuniary need, but—stop and look about you a minute! Is it not oftener the man of fair means who wishes to use his "pull" to get rich, or to increase his wealth rapidly, who is the promoter of schemes of graft and corruption than the man who needs the money to support his family?

Go into any branch of government, from a board of aldermen to the United States senate, and the men in all these bodies who are the most dangerous to good government and civic righteousness are not the men who are dependent upon their salaries, but men of means—often the very richest. There is need of electing only honest men to office, whether rich or poor. In this day of get-rich-quick schemes there is quite as much danger from the promoter as from the man who needs cash to keep his family from starving.

There is much wisdom in President Hadley's advice. Young men ought not ever to go into politics, except because they wish to advance a principal or make better government. Sometimes poor men and rich men ought to accept office. Nothing is more honorable than honorable public service, but nothing is so certain to destroy the prospects and the usefulness of any young man as to make a profession of politics. It should command his interest and his time and his civic religion, but he should lay deeper the foundations of his life career.—News and Observer.

SOUTH DAKOTA WINS BOND SUIT

A Divided Court Decides That North Carolina Must Pay $27,400.

Washington, Feb. 1.—By a divided bench (5 to 4) the Supreme court today decided that the state of North Carolina must pay the state of South Dakota $27,400 before January 1, 1905, being the value of the ten second mortgage bonds of the Western North Carolina Railroad, issued by the state in 1867, and which were donated to the South Dakota by Simon Schafer of New York for the purpose of bringing the suit. The opinion was written by Justice Brewer and was concurred in by Justices Brown, Peckham, Harlan and Holmes. The four justices who dissent and sustain North Carolina's contention are Chief Justice Fuller and Justices White, McKenna and Day.

As to the second mortgage bondholders (Schafer Brothers of New York) the court held that they were not proper parties to the suit and could not recover. But the validity of these bonds having been established despite North Carolina's decision to compromise them at 25 cents on the dollar, the opinion generally prevails that the holders of them will be able to force a compromise with the state and ultimately obtain something like their face value. The principal of these bonds is understood to be about $250,000 and with coupons unredeemed it is understood they approximated a value of $600,000.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, FEBRUARY 2, 1904.

Cotton just keeps right on climbing until everybody is wondering where it will stop.

Dispensary or no dispensary, distillery or no distillery. These are the questions. Which side are you on?

If you want to see barrooms closed in Greenville put in your best work for the dispensary during the next month. Election day, March 2nd, will decide the issue.

The big newspapers can rest easy now. Announcement has been made that room will be provided for them all on the press platform at the republican national convention to be held in Chicago June 21.

Chicago is in a fair way to get all the wind punched out of the city and go busted. Damage suits for personal injury amounting to nearly thirty-eight millions dollars are pending against the city. There is a picnic ahead of the lawyers there.

Every voter in the town of Greenville should go to the polls on March the second and cast his vote for the dispensary which will help to suppress the use of so much liquor, which is wrecking so many lives and homes, and robbing women and children of their daily comforts.

The Atlantic Coast Line has established a pension board and will retire employes between the ages of 61 and 70 years, who have been 10 years or longer in the service of the company, and will give them a monthly pension amounting to 40 per cent of the salary received. The sum of $50,000 a year will be set aside for this purpose. This will be generous aid to old employes who have become incapacitated for work.

The scientific world is interested in an experiment to be made at South Bend sometime soon, by some physician who says he can keep a negro baby in its early infancy from turning black. When a negro baby is first born, it is said that it can hardly be distinguished from a white child, as both are red, and this experiment is to cause the colored child to turn white by degrees instead of black. If this experiment proves to be a success, what will we do with the rice question?

"There is danger in high cotton," says a contemporary. Maybe so, but not to the man who grows it or to the South or to the national balance of trade. High cotton averted a panic, enables the South to carry its own obligations, and will give comforts to thousands of homes. If there is "danger in high cotton" the South will pray for danger and plenty of it!—Raleigh News and Observer.

Panama asks for annexation. That's not a circumstance to what it will ask for after being annexed.—Atlanta Journal.

Sooner or later death appears to come to all men save those drawing pensions which they do not fully merit.—Atlanta Journal.

No congressman should be entitled to mileage unless he uses the money for that purpose, but of course all will take it, if for no other reason than they think somebody else will if they do not.—Durham Herald.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C. Feb. 1. 1904

On Wednesday there was a strange sight in Washington; a quadron of United States cavalry glittered and clattered down the avenue to escort the new Secretary-of-War Taft, from the depot to his hotel. Has it come to this, that a citizen when called to the cabinet must have a military escort? When did such a parade ever before take place?

The administration has distinguished itself by doing another extraordinary and unheard of thing. On the retirement of Secretary Root it has published at government expense a biography of him of a thousand pages, painting in pictorial detail his heroism in directing affairs in Cuba, the Philippines and Panama. Are Hay, Moody, Hitchcock, Wood, Funston, and the rest to have thousand page (auto?) biographies at the expense of the people? And what is the matter with the thrilling career of Hades-Roaring Jake Smith? Are annual histories of strenuities to be the thing hereafter?

If all the bills before congress to erect monuments in this city to famous men are enacted into laws, a sum aggregating a million dollars will be appropriated and statues will be erected to Baron Steuben, Count Pulaska, Frederick the Great, General Grant, General Sheridan General McClellan, General Harrison, Alexander Hamilton, William McKinley, Pierre L. Enfrant, the civil engineer who laid out Washington, and Longfellow. It is said they will be placed on horseback, even the poet, because he rode Pegasus so gracefully and well. The city will possess twenty or thirty of these galloping heroes—the largest bronze cavalry squadron of any city in the world. A proposition to give George III standing room on the corner opposite Frederick the Great is now in order.

General Sickles nominate Gen. John C. Black for the democratic presidential candidate.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina made the first democratic speech in support of the Panama treaty. He said, "Much in the president's conduct I disapprove of; much I regard as improvident and unwise; as rash and dangerous to the peace and welfare of this country; as contrary to the traditional policy of this government in its dealings with other nations, especially those of this hemisphere and as not calculated to advance us in the affection and esteem of mankind,"—but he should probably vote for the treaty, unless, perhaps, and if, &c.

The talk of the day is the vigorous and brilliant maiden speech of Senator Stone, ex-Governor of Missouri, in denunciation of the president's conduct concerning the Panama canal. He said he had justified secession and rebellion and taken active part in the dismemberment of a sister republic; and he added, "I am willing to believe it is due more to impulsiveness, and to that volcanic, irrepressible love he has for things eruptive, tragical, lurid, and sensational, than to any other cause. I take no pride in seeing my country strut before the world like a swagging bully on the stage."

All who want a dispensary in Greenville should be at work.

We began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in 1887, and finding it such a reliable remedy for colds and croup we have never been without it in the house since that time. We have five children and have given it to all of them with good results. One good feature of this remedy is that it is not disagreeable to take and our babies really like it. My baby had Eczema so bad that its head was a solid mass of scabs, and its hair all come out. I tried many remedies but none seemed to do any good until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The Eczema is cured, the scabs are gone, and the little one's scalp is perfectly clean and healthy, and it's hair is growing beautifully again. I cannot give too much praise to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.—Frank Farmer, Bluff City, Ky. In buying Witch Hazel Salve look out for counterfeits. DeWitt's is the original and the only one containing pure Witch Hazel. The name E. C. DeWitt & Co is on every box. Sold by J. L. Wooten.
