WHITE

None were issued for white persons.

Thrown from Buggy.

End of the Century Book Club.

Reported for Reflector.)

The End of the Century Club held its regular semi-monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon, February the twenty-third with Mrs. F. G. Hartman. The president, Mrs. R. R. Cotten, presided and several interesting topics were discussed, among them the establishment of a public library for the benefit of the town.

After the usual routine of business the study of Shakespeare's plays was resumed and under the play of Henry VI, the following program was rendered:

A brief summary of Cade's Rebellion by Mrs. F. C. Harding.

Sketch of the War of the Roses by Mrs. J. L. Little.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Misses Mary Higgs and Myra Moore. The meeting was one of the most delightful of the club's many pleasant ones.

Second Appearance.

Sunday was the second day for the appearance of the ground hog, and as he saw his shadow again there will be some more winter yet. The tradition says the ground hog first comes out the 2nd of February. If he fails to see his shadow he stays out and winter is regarded as over. If he sees his shadow he goes back in his hole for 40 days. On his second appearance if he sees his shadow he goes back for 10 days more.

Pithy Paragraphs.

A stitch in time saves a lot of verbal darning.

Some people are so much in the way that they are continually falling over themselves.

There is no use in crying over spilt milk unless you have a kind hearted milkman.

A successful man can never be any failure.

Wanted "Noledge" Knocked Into Him.

The Danbury Reporter says that a Stokes county teacher received the following note from the mother of one of her pupils: "Dear Miss: You write me about whipping Sammy. I hereby give you permission to beat him up any time it is necessary to learn him lessons. He is just like his father—you have to learn him with a club. Pound noledge into him I want him to git it, and don't pay no attention to what his father sez, I'll handle him."

Glory to this Stokes county mother! She hasn't education, but she has more common sense than a majority of those who claim to be educated. She knew the boy and she knew the medicine he needed.—Statesville Landmark.

It Was a "Bust."

A few days ago a certain young man living near town, bought himself a nice Sunday pair of shoes. After trying them a while he concluded that they needed stretching. He asked a friend for advice and was told to fill the shoes with peas and pour hot water on them.

He laced up the shoes and filled them with peas and hot water and put them away to stretch. Sunday morning upon examination he found his shoes very much swollen and bursted all over. He will hardly try peas and hot water for stretching shoes again.—Chapel Hill News.

Court Next Week.

The March term of Pitt Superior court, for the trial of civil cases, will begin next Monday. Judge Justice will preside.

Union Services.

The first of the union services in which the several churches of the town have joined, was held Sunday night in the Presbyterian church. The congregation was very large and good interest was shown. Rev. J. A. Hornaday preached an excellent sermon from the text "Take away the Stone." He said that God requires human hands to do all they can do, and when the limit of their ability has been reached then God completes the work.

He urged his hearers, especially Christians, to remove all stones of doubt, of unbelief, of inactivity, so that a great blessing in the saving of souls could come upon Greenville during this meeting.

A service was held at 10:30 this morning conducted by Rev. W. E. Powell. Tonight's services will begin at 7:30 and the sermon will be by Mr. Hornaday.

Native of Greenville at Head of Big Hat and Cap Company

Mr. C. G. Joyner, of the firm of Joyner, Witz & Co. is a moving spirit in North Carolina circles in Baltimore and represents the most enterprising spirit in the business life of that city.

Mr. Joyner is a native of North Carolina. He is fond of his home state and takes as much pride in the growth of the town of Greenville, where he lived many years, as do the present business men of that hustling little city. Mr. Joyner is considered the best posted business man in Baltimore on subjects relative to Southern trade. He has built up an enormous business and adds daily a large number of friends from all sections.—Raleigh News and Observer.

LETTER TO CARLOS HARRIS

Greenville N. C.

Dear Sir: Let's talk it right out before folks; there's nothing to hide in your business or ours; if there is, we'd better hide ourselves.

We are in trade to make money; so are you. We make it by saving our customers' money; so do you. Our object, in trade, is to save your customers' wood from rotting; yours the same.

We work for thousands of property owners; you for a few. We can do some things that you can't do; we have the facilities. You can do some things that we can't you are there. Let us work together; be faithful to one-another. We can serve our customers better by working together and being faithful to one-another.

Seoul, March 12—It is reported that the Russians have set fire to the town of Wiju on the Korea side of the Yalu river and have retreated across the river into Manchuria. A complete Russian evacuation is proceeding, due to the Japs' advance toward the north.

A skirmish of cavalry occurred at Kasan, north of Anju, Korea, on March 8th, in which the Russians were driven back. The losses are not known.

A premature explosion in a rock quarry near High Point caused the death of a young man named Virgil Jester.

Business Houses Closed.

All the business men of Greenville have agreed to close at 7 o'clock p. m. during the progress of the union services in the Presbyterian church. This will give both business men and employes an opportunity of attending the services. Such interest on the part of the business people in religious services is commendable and we believe a great blessing to the town will result from this series of meetings.

Notice.

I will be in Winterville on Thursday March 17th, and my office in this city will be closed on that date. DR. R. L. CARR.

Greenville volunteer firemen meet tonight.

Coming Friday Night.

Marvelous voices are possessed by the singers with the great Barlow and Wilson's Minstrels. Among the vocalists are Thomas Ameor, the phenomenal male soprano; Jos Allmon, stereopticon singer, Geo. Lamberson, high baritone; Lou Walsh, primo basso, R. E. Mace, baritone and the wonderful basso profundo, Chas. McArdel. Willie Bass the beautiful boy vocalist from the choir of Grace Church, Chicago, will render pretty ballads at each performance.

Barlow and Wilson's Minstrels gave a crisp and clean cut entertainment last night, to a large and fashionable audience. Every feature was new and clever. The olio of novelties was a series of very excellent specialties.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Less Than Half-Price.

I have five music cabinets left over of a lot bought sometime ago at a bankrupt furniture sale in Norfolk at about fifty cents on the dollar. These cabinets can be seen at A. H. Taft & Co's., furniture store, all marked in plain figures less fifteen percent. If you have any earthly use for a music cabinet it would pay you to take a look at them. They are of choicest mahogany and latest design. G. G. FINEMAN.

MONDAY AFTERNOON, MARCH 14, 1904.

IS HE A PROPHET.

Doubtless the most of our readers have learned that the editor of The Watch Tower, published at LaGrange, N. C., has resigned his position as editor, and his resignation has been accepted.

The resignation of this editor, was brought about by his violent opposition to the dispensary, and more especially the dispensary plan in Greenville.

Before these incidents in the dispensary contest are dropped from public notice, we would like to ascertain when this minister of North Carolina became an inspired prophet, that he can speak with such certainty concerning what our Lord would do were He to come to Greenville.

If this particular preacher possesses genuine inspiration, and can speak with authority from God on the dispensary question, a larger company of doctors of divinity in North Carolina will stop to listen.

A great company of ministers, godly men they are, from every denomination of Christians laboring within the state, have prayed for divine guidance on this subject. If the answer has come and the full light revealed to the LaGrange editor alone his brethren are entitled to it. Let our brother furnish his credential as a prophet. He either speaks as a prophet or utters blasphemy.

Receiver McBee is going at things high handed since he has taken charge of the Atlantic & North Carolina railroad. Among other things he has dismissed general superintendent S. L. Dill, one of the most efficient railroad men in the South. Mr. Dill has been prominently connected with the road for thirty-five years. This receivership business ought to come to a speedy end and let the state and individual owners of the road manage their own affairs.

Asheville feels a little puffed up over the passage by the senate of a bill appropriating $60,000 to enlarge the Federal building in that city. Passing a bill for the appropriation does not mean plunking the money right down, and there may be a long time of waiting for it. This is the experience of other towns where appropriations have been authorized.

The Durham Herald intimates that as only pure apple cider can be sold there it is supposed to mean that it cannot be watered.

One thing can be said about the candidates so far mentioned as wanting the nomination for governor—they are all good men.

Many of the state papers are complaining of the laxity of our divorce laws but they had as well be demanding a tax on dogs.—Durham Herald.

Perhaps President Roosevelt's failure to appoint any more negroes to office in the South is due to the fact that the colored Southern vote is not worth having, now that the United States Supreme Court has decided that southern suffrage laws are constitutional.—Winston Journal.

The Orange, Va. Observer, an exceptionally bright and interesting paper, has just had a happy birthday celebration. It is twenty-three years old.

We owe it to the press of the state that we shall never witness another public execution in our state. Columbus, the county that permitted it some days ago, did so in clear violation of the law. No other county will follow this example.—Raleigh Times.

A Vapid Slander.

Some public lecturers seem to prefer sensational statements to truthful ones. Now it is Mrs. Hodgkinson at a meeting of the Progressive Health Club of Chicago, who declared that "the heart of the woman of wealth generally is more responsive to the whine of a dog than to the appeal of a girl who is homeless and penniless."

This is a vapid slander upon rich women. While there are a few of whom the statement of Mrs. Hodgkinson might be true, her sweeping statement is absurd. If she would learn the benefactions of rich women, she would find that most of them do a thousand good deeds that help girls who are in need. There isn't much difference between rich women and poor women: nearly all women are kind-hearted and love to listen to the "appeal of a girl who is homeless and penniless." The Chicago lecturer was speaking of the exception.—Raleigh News & Observer.

Working a Wise Way.

There is a man in this here town, and he is wondrous wise, for when he marked his prices down he then did advertise. And when he saw his trade increase, will all his might, he marked still lower every price, and advertised again. And when he advertised again, his rivals stamped and swore, to see folks rush with might and main, to patronize his store. And while they sat in solitude, and saw him cumber win, that man behind the counter stood and raked the shekels in. And when he raked the shekels in and saw his fortune rising, he took a goodly lot of tin and kept on advertising. Each day a generous sum he'd sink, and demonstrate full plain, the more one pays for printer's ink the greater is his gain.—Orange Observer.

A SERVING MAID

(Original.)

Olive Horton was a nursery maid. Had it not been for the dress of a servant, no one would ever have taken her to be one. She was refined looking, and there was something in her manner that also bespoke refinement. She seemed to have little in common with her fellow servants, who, though they were not admitted to her friendship, never turned against her. Real superiority is always sooner or later recognized, and Olive Horton came to be regarded by them as of a higher class. Most of them believed that she was the daughter of some gentleman who had broken down financially. What put a finishing touch to their sense of their own inferiority was the discovery that Olive kept singular looking books in her closet, which she brought out and studied after her charges were asleep.

Elliott White, a nephew of Olive's employer, on returning from a trip abroad, visited his aunt, and one morning, while recounting his travels, Olive came into the room. She gave but one glance at Elliott, but his eyes became fixed upon her and followed her till she left the room. He tried to resume the thread of his recital, but in vain. His tongue would not describe what had been driven from his thoughts. Since the girl was a servant he had the good taste not to show the interest she had created in him. The truth was that that silent figure which had entered the room had taken out with it all there was of value in his nature.

What came of this is only what comes in such cases. Elliott White's aunt one day was surprised at hearing a fragment of dialogue between her nephew and her servant.

"The fever! It never leaves me," he said.

"I have told you to go away from me and stay till you are cured."

"And you?"

"I shall never be cured, but I will not be your wife. My respect for myself may not be strong enough to hold me, but my love for you will never permit me to drag you down to my level."

"You are better educated than half the girls, who only learn as parrots learn. I am sure you came of gentle parents. There has been a financial crash in your family, and when it came you bravely began at the bottom and you will rise to the top."

"That is not so. If it were I would own it to you." A step in the hall ended the dialogue. The aunt and mistress went away troubled, but she never mentioned what she had heard to the lovers or any one else.

Olive was taken ill, and a doctor was called to attend her. When he went downstairs after his first visit he found Elliott White in the library. Elliott had been waiting for him with feverish anxiety.

"Well, doctor?" The doctor looked at him searchingly. He had heard those words too often in other cases of anxiety not to know that the young man was the girl's lover.

"Strange," said the doctor, looking at Elliott with a faraway expression.

"But, doctor, tell me—is it a bad case?"

"I'm afraid it is."

"For heaven's sake, don't tell me there is no hope?"

"There is hope," said the doctor, still looking at Elliott with the same singular expression. "Why are you so interested?"

"Doctor, I am in torture. I am wild. I can tell you, a physician, to whom many a secret is laid bare, that I, a gentleman, love this servant maid. If she dies I shall go mad; if she lives I shall go mad, for I can't marry her."

"No, you can't marry a servant unless you want to make your life hers. But be of good cheer. I do not promise that she shall live, but I promise that if you marry her you will marry a lady."

Elliott stood staring, his expression plainly asking, "What do you mean?" But the doctor did not choose to explain just then and, seizing his hat, broke away.

Ten days later the servant was out of danger. One morning when the doctor called he brought with him a lady who went to Olive's room, where she stayed a long while. Elliott was in the house and wondered what it all meant. When the lady went away the doctor came downstairs with her, and the two stood for awhile talking in the hall, but all that Elliott could hear was the lady asking, "How soon can I take her home?" When the visitor had gone the doctor went into the library, where he found Elliott.

"I have something to tell you," he said to the young man. "Nineteen years ago I assisted at the birth of a girl, the child of wealthy parents. There was a malformation of the right clavicle—I mean shoulder blade—that I had not seen before. I never forget exceptional cases, and when putting a hot appliance to the shoulder of the girl upstairs I knew she was one of my medical children. This much I feel at liberty to tell you without revealing a professional secret. That the child was a founding I may also say. But how she came to be a founding I cannot reveal, though I may assure you that she was born in wedlock. The lady who has just gone is her mother."

The misshapen shoulder blade troubles Mrs. Elliott White as any malformation, however slight, will trouble the person of whom it is a part, and she would like to have it operated upon. Her husband will not consent. He considers it the most important link in the chain of his life's happiness. Mrs. White is one of the prominent women in the city of her residence. MARY ALICE BARKER.

DO YOU WANT STRENGTH?

If you want to increase your strength you must add to and not take from the physical. In other words, food that you eat must be digested, assimilated and appropriated by the nerves, blood and tissues before being expelled from the intestines. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure adds to the physical. It gives strength to and builds up strength in the human system. It is pleasant to the taste and palatable, and the only combination of digestants that will digest the food and enable the system to appropriate all of its health and strength-giving qualities. # Dorothy Dodd SHOES.

The "Dorothy Dodd" Shoe has that something in beauty and style that means individuality.

It possesses "style" in the highest degree; it gives distinction to the foot. In the diversity of kinds there are styles for every person from the exquisite evening slipper to the sturdy winter street boot; they all have a light, airy gracefulness peculiarly their own, which is sure to appeal to a woman's eye. "DOROTHY DODD" Shoes Fit, They Fit Perfectly.

Shoes should always fit closely under and about the instep so as to make it impossible for the foot to slip forward and crowd the toes, while the ball and toes should have plenty of room thus giving free play to the foot.

This is exactly what "Dorothy Dodd" shoes do. Our new Spring Styles in oxfords and sandals will be every body's.
