BOYS WITH GUN.

One Accidentally Kills the Other.

A distressing accident occurred near Winterville, Saturday afternoon, in which a boy lost his life. Ollie Kittrell, a son of C. T. Kittrell and Louis Crawford, a son of David Crawford, both about 16 years of age, were out together shooting at the mark with a breech loading gun. While young Kittrell had the gun young Crawford happened to step in front of it just in time to receive an entire load from the gun in his left shoulder and was almost instantly killed. Young Kittrell was almost wild with grief over the accidental slaying of his playmate. Both families are greatly distressed. The victim of the accident was buried Sunday.

Convocation.

The convocation of the Episcopal church which met at St. John's church, near Grifton, last week was thoroughly appreciated and enjoyed by all who attended it. Every service was well attended, and the sermons and addresses were excellent. One specially interesting address was that of Mr. F. A. Boyle, of Jamesville, on Sunday school work. It was filled with sound, practical advice based on the experience of a life's work, and it was spoken with an earnestness that touched all who listened to it.

Instead of having night services dinner was spread on the grounds and the second service was held in the afternoon. The pleasure of having dinner on the grounds at St. John's can be fully appreciated only by those who are familiar with the generous hospitality of the people in that community.

Might Continue a Month.

The first of August was the time set by the dry goods merchants to again keep their stores open at night. The days are yet long, the weather very warm, and there will hardly be enough business at night to pay for keeping the stores open after 7 o'clock. If they all continued the early closing until September it would be just as well.

Marriage Licenses.

Register Deeds R. Williams issued only one marriage license last week. That was for Henry Baker and Bertha Vincent, white.

The total number of licenses issued during July was 19, of these 15 being for whites and 4 for colored.

Fist Fight.

Two white men from the country struck a difference while in town today. They proceeded to settle the matter with their fists and fought it out fair in Sullivan, Corbett style, but without referees or timekeeper. Only a little blood was drawn.

Swallowed a Fly.

A gentleman in town swallowed a fly, Sunday evening, and for awhile was quite a sick man. It is best not to try to exterminate the flies by swallowing them.

The manner in which F. M. Hornaday edited THE REFLECTOR during the absence of the editor, last week, shows that he has talent for newspaper work. He should not hide that talent under a bushel nor bury it in a railroad office, though he seems to have fascination for the latter.

The Negro And Education.

The thirst among the negroes for education is largely a matter of the imagination. We have been warned that under the Amendment the colored boys would be stimulated to double diligence in order to qualify themselves for the suffrage, while the white boys would belaggards in the race. We happen to be brought in close contact with the educational interests of Thomasville and have been amazed to find the negroes so indifferent to the education of their children. Paying less than a third of taxes sufficient to provide for the running expenses of the colored school, though a new and modern house has been erected and two teachers employed for eight months in the year, the negroes have hardly averaged twenty per cent. of the children of school age in the township, and although the teacher is above the average in ability, nine-tenths of the negroes are down on him and do all in their power to impede the progress of the school under his management. We see it stated also that in Durham county, one of the best organized counties in the State, the negroes send only twenty five per cent. of their children while the white people send seventy five per cent. of theirs. The trouble seems to be that the negroes are willing enough to accept help from the white people provided they control the schools, but they are unwilling even to receive light and knowledge if it must come to them through white people. Which proves what we observed at the beginning of this article, namely that the desire among the negroes for education is a figment of the brain. They have no educational spirit among them, but they do love a hurrah and a great parade; and forced to do solid work in graded schools, supervised by white men, they decline to patronize them at all. Truly the colored citizen is a curious element, and hard to handle. As was remarked by a disgusted member of a school board the other night the management of mules and negroes is about one and the same; and it seems to be about that way.— Archibald Johnson in News and Observer

Husband And Wife Do Not Speak.

In a trial before a justice of the peace here yesterday an elderly couple were put on the stand as witnesses in behalf of a neighbor, and it was developed that they had not spoken to each other in fifteen years. The man said in explanation that he and his wife had had a little quarrel fifteen years ago and he had said in his anger that if he ever spoke to her again he hoped God would strike him dead, and now he is afraid to talk. The conversations are carried on through the children.—Monroe Journal.

Would Be Ashamed to Meet Judas Coming Down a Hog Path

It really looks like the poorest shoat of a Southerner cannot help drawing the line against Rooseveltism when it strikes at his home like the Chicago platform does in its negro plank. Judas Iscariot's self respect reasserted itself when, self-condemned and feeling meaner than a suck-egg dog, he went out and hanged himself. It is to be hoped that there are very few Southern men who would be ashamed to meet Judas coming down a hog path.—Wilmington Star.

Two Revelations

Once there was a Mormon bishop who had only one wife.

And it came to pass that one day the bishop's two counselors came to see him and said they desired to "take counsel" with him.

"Bishop," said the first counselor, "we have come to talk with you on a matter of grave concern to the church. We think you ought to take another wife."

"What! Me? Me? No, no, no, man! Tut, tut, tut! I'm too old; I'm too old," sputtered the bishop.

"Now, look here, bishop," said the second counselor. "You're not any older than Brother Brigham Young."

"Yes, but then—"
 "And then consider. You have a nice, large house, plenty of room, and you are rich enough to provide for two more wives if you should see fit to take them."

The bishop smiled a superior smile.
 "Ah, there never was a house built big enough for Betsy and another wife."

"Why, you don't mean to tell us that Sister Betsy would object to walking in the path which the Lord has so marvelously opened up for his chosen people?" exclaimed the first counselor.

"Oh, no, I suppose not," replied the bishop hastily, "only, you see, Betsy has been a mighty good wife to me all these years and a good mother to the children, and I could hardly think of doing anything—"

"There need be no trouble," put in the second counselor. "Look at Brother Lyman. He has three wives, all living in the sweetest accord, and one house much smaller than yours. It is really not right for you to delay any longer, bishop. It is creating much comment among the brethren."

"Yes," added the first counselor, "when I was in Salt Lake City last week Brother Young spoke of it."

"Did he indeed? What did he say?"

"He said he was sorry you were not upholding the doctrines and covenants more devoutly."

There was a long pause, during which the bishop gazed abstractedly at the distant mountains. Finally he spoke in a constrained voice:

"Well, even if I should be willing—"

"In that case," said the first counselor, "there is Brother Edwards' niece, just come over with the latest shipload from Wales. A very nice lady. Doesn't talk English very well, but very devoted to the true religion."

"Yes, but how do I know that she would be willing to become a plural wife?" And the bishop laughed.

"That's easy enough. I've already had some talk with Brother Edwards. You leave this to me. I'll arrange matters."

"Well, there's no hurry. I'll think about it. I'll let you know," said the bishop, rising, and so the conference came to an end.

As they walked around the corner of the barn, the bishop's wife was just coming out of the barn door with her apron full of eggs she had been gathering from the hay mow, and her black eyes were snapping.

That night, after the children had retired for the night, the bishop and his wife sat by the fireside alone and talked.

"Simon," said the bishop's wife.

"Yes, Betsy."

"What did those fellows want today?"

"They wanted to see me on some church matters." And the bishop had a sudden and severe fit of coughing.

"Church matters," sniffed Betsy, "and I'll warrant their poor wives were at home chopping sagebrush to cook with! They'd better be tending to their own business."

There was a long silence.

"Simon."

"Yes, Betsy."

"I saw that niece of John Edwards', that has just come over from Wales, in tabernacle last Sunday."

"Is that so?"

"Yes, and I don't think I ever saw a homelier woman in all my life nor one that looked more disagreeable and—hateful."

Another long silence.

"Say, Simon."

"Yes, Betsy."

"I've just been thinking of the old home in Tennessee. Do you remember how it looked the day we were married?"

"Why, yes," spoke up the bishop, with sudden interest, "of course I do. It was in May, and the trees—"

"May, you goose! It was in June, and the trees had been in leaf for weeks, and mother's hollyhocks were in blossom in the front yard. Do you remember the schoolteacher who used to want to walk home with me from church and the compliment he paid me that day?"

"Yes; said you was the fairest flower of all. Ha, ha! What was his name? Summers?"

"Oh, no. How forgetful you are! That was the name of the young lawyer from Nashville I threw over because I liked you better."

"You'd better have married him. He made a big fortune, they say."

"Ridiculous! He wasn't as tall as I am by half an inch and as conceited as sin. Most any girl would have preferred you, even if we did have to live in a log cabin at first."

"That was as neat a log cabin as there was in the county, if I did build it myself," said the bishop proudly.

"Yes, and, Simon, don't you know that I sometimes think it was a great mistake for us to come to Utah at all. We could have been good Mormons there just as well."

The conversation was reaching a point the bishop always dodged. He rose, stretched his arms, yawned and said:

"Well, we can go back there some time and see the folks—when we get rich. It's late. We must go to bed. I've a big day's work for tomorrow."

During the next two or three months the bishop and his counselors were often seen together, but they seemed to make no headway in their efforts to get the bishop to take another wife. One day he received a letter from Brigham Young requesting him to call and talk over matters of importance at the earliest moment when he could make it convenient to visit Salt Lake City. Betsy seemed strangely averse to his making the trip, but after many delays he went. He was closeted with Brother Brigham for several hours, and when he returned to his home in the broad valley by the lake he was strangely silent and meditative for several days. Betsy asked no questions, but seemed to be expecting something to happen, and it did.

One morning as the family was gathered about the breakfast table and the bishop had asked a blessing he leaned back in his chair and said solemnly:

"Wife, last night I had a revelation from the Lord."

"Indeed!"

"Yes. An angel appeared to me in a vision and foretold the future and gave me a message to the living."

"What is it?" asked Betsy meekly.

"It was—ahem—revealed to me by the angel that I had not been walking as I should before the people; that I have been guilty of a sinful neglect of duties in the past. It was revealed to me that I should take Jane Edwards to the endowment house next week and have her sealed to me through all eternity. The Lord hath spoken. Blessed be the name of the Lord!"

The children all looked at Betsy, expecting an outburst, but none came. She calmly poured the coffee, carved the loaf and presided at the table as though nothing had occurred. The bishop was surprised and apprehensive, but as the day passed and no signs of trouble appeared he recovered his serenity and felt thankful that affairs were moving along so nicely. So it was a shock to him when, at the breakfast table next morning, after he had invoked the divine blessing, Betsy, instead of pouring the coffee, said:

"Tommy, keep your hands down. Mary, keep the baby quiet for a minute. I have something to say. Simon, last night I had a revelation from the Lord."

"Yes?" said the bishop feebly.

"Yes. An angel appeared to me in a vision and foretold the future and gave me a message to the living."

"What was it?"

"It was revealed to me by the angel," went on Betsy, slowly and firmly, "that I had been a good and faithful wife to you for twenty-one years; that I had left a good home to share a log cabin with you in the mountains of Tennessee and then came to Utah to please you, and in all these years I have never murmured nor complained. And if you take Jane Edwards or any other woman to the endowment house or any other place and have her sealed to you it was revealed to me that the next time you set foot inside this house I would take down the old shotgun we brought from Tennessee and blow your head off. The Lord hath spoken. Blessed be the name of the Lord! Tommy, pass the bread."

And that is the way it happened that the bishop never had but one wife.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Real Oyster Feathers.

A woman I know has a housemaid who makes up in devotion to fashion what she misses of respect to the mother tongue. She came home with an amazing hat the other day and showed it with pride.

"It didn't cost so much, either," she said. "The bare hat was $2, and the rest was $3. You see, it's trimmed with real oyster feathers."

OXFORDS

The Accepted Time.

Now is the accepted time to wear Oxfords and now is the accepted time to purchase a new pair. Our stock has been slaughtered but we recently bought a filling order, and bought too many, and we are overstocked, and in order to reduce our stock, we offer every pair at a bargain. Our stock comprises three lines, "Dorsch" "Banister" and "Crossett" made in all styles and in all leathers, in Tan or Black. Call in and examine our stock whether you buy or not. It is a pleasure to see you

C. S. FORBES,

THE MAN'S OUTFITTER.

THE ULTRA SHOE

The salient features of The Ultra are its fine workmanship, excellence of material, desirability of style, and elegance of fit and consequent comfort to the wearer. These are unequalled in the world of footwear.

In addition The Ultra is equipped with our patent cushion insole, a device which gives the shoe flexibility and durability, insuring a maximum of ease and comfort to the wearer, and protecting the foot from the ill effect of the hot sidewalks of summer as well as from the dampness of wet weather. This feature alone is well worth the price of the shoe.

We present a wide range in styles and finish, and are able to meet the requirements of the most fastidious as the more conservative patron and we invite a thorough inspection of our line. Ultra in name, Ultra in character, Ultra in every feature that contributes to fit, comfort and style. In finish, material and workmanship we are proud to present to all lovers of good taste in footwear a shoe for which we have never yet had to make an apology.

Eight month.
Masons meet tonight.
County commissioners in session today.

Look well to your advertising, Mr. Merchant.

Several Greenville people went out to Flat Swamp Sunday.

Now for the new tobacco season and picking-up of business.

I will pay you cash for your Bees wax. S. M. SCHULTZ.

Melons have become more plentiful and there is a fall in price.

The rumbling thunder this afternoon sounds like a storm close by.

One thing ahead of the fine crop prospects is finding sufficient labor to house them.

Mrs. Hiram Sanderson, Janesville—Our baby was never strong; our physician advised Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. One package made her strong, rosy and healthy. Thanks to your Tea, Wooten's Drug Store.

Everybody wait for the big excursion from Kinston to Norfolk, Va. Sept 1st and return 2nd September for colored people under the management of Julius S. Fleming and Rev. Amos Blount, fare for round trip $2.00

THE WEATHER

Fair tonight and Tuesday.

Work the Roads.

The county roads ought to be put in good condition now. The tobacco market has opened, the cotton season will soon be on, and there will be much hauling done. Overseers should not wait until winter to have the roads worked

Victim of an Unfortunate Accident

Mr. U. A. Moseley, the genial Charlotte traveling man, is spending his vacation with his family at the old Mosely homestead, at Drake's Branch, Va., met with a serious accident Tuesday, sustaining a severe sprain of the hip. The information came in a private letter and details of the accident were not given. The letter states that Mr. Moseley is confined to his bed and his physician insists upon absolute rest and quiet. The many warm friends of the splendid gentlemen will hear with genuine sorrow of his misfortune and will wish for his speedy restoration.—Charlotte Observer.

Mr. Moseley is a brother of Mrs. W. T. Lipscomb, of Greenville

BETHEL, N. C., July 29, 1904.
Miss Lillah Mann, of Whitakers, is visiting Misses Mattie and Effie Grimes.

Wade Andrews and wife, of Tarboro passed through town today.

The Grind ere k and dam company give a barbecue at the lam Wednesday. There were many visitors and they all went home satisfied.

There is a new visitor in town stoppin' at the G.ner house

There was a delightful ice cream supper given by the Baptist Sunday school Tuesday night at Rev. J. E. Hocut's. The happiest crowd of little folks you ever saw were there.

Miss Sophia Morton, of Robersonville, is in town today.

The whole of Bethel went to Greenville Wednesday all on business.

Mrs. W. O. Barnhill, of Greenville, is spending a few days with friends here.

Mrs. F. C. James bids us all farewell Tuesday morning for Boston where she expects to spend a few months with old friends.

Don't forget to call and buy you a nice shirt before they are all gone at T. A. Carr's. They are the nicest and cheapest in town and a new lot of all kind of laces and trimmings.

Miss Lillie White and sister, Ruth, will leave in a few days for their home in Edenton.

Misses Effie and Mattie Grimes and Lillah Davis Mann, took the train this morning for Tarboro.

B. R. Puckins and wife, of Robersonville, were here shopping today.

CLOTHING!

We give you not only the best you can buy, but thest the money paid can buy. Quality & value combined argue for your patronage

This is an agreeable sort of Store to patronize. You can recognize at once, from the way you are served, that your best interest is being studied. We study the fit of every garment you try on much more closely than you do, and when the purchase is completed there's not a line of a garment that isn't perfect. Two and three piece suits divide honors of patronage. Some want vests, some don't. We're able to offer each the widest possible variety of fabrics for selection.
