MR. HARDING CORRECTS AN ERROR

Greenville, N. C., Mar. 15, 1905.

EDITOR DAILY REFLECTOR:

In your issue of THE DAILY REFLECTOR under date of March 8th 1905, appears a dispatch from Trenton New Jersey, stating that Mr. Coyne had introduced in the house of representatives of New Jersey, a resolution authorizing the governor of that state to return a Confederate flag to the governor of North Carolina, captured by the Ninth New Jersey Volunteers at the battle of New Bern. The article further states that the flag was presented to the Beaufort Plow Boys by the ladies of Beaufort, N. C.

I desire to correct an error into which the New Jersey correspondent has naturally fallen. The Tar Heel flag referred to was not presented by the ladies of Beaufort, N. C., but by the ladies of Chocowinity, in Beaufort county, N. C.

The Beaufort Plow Boys was a company raised by Henry Harding, now of Greenville, N. C., who was at that time a resident of Beaufort county. The company was composed mainly of men from Chocowinity, Pantego and Washington, N. C. The first officers of the company were Henry Harding captain; Thos. H. Satterthwaite, 1st Lieutenant; William Stephenson, 2nd Lieutenant; D. W. Jarvis, 3rd Lieutenant.

The flag was made by the ladies of Chocowinity, N. C. Among those who helped to fashion it, were Miss Julia Harding, sister of Maj. Harding, Miss Julia Patrick, now Mrs. Julia Wilson, mother of Mrs. W. H. Ricks, of Greenville, N. C.; Miss Sarah Crawford, now Mrs. Sarah Swindell, of Aurora, N. C.; Miss Olivia Patrick, now Mrs. Olivia Carmalt, of Washington, N. C.; Miss Julia Hill, now Mrs. Gaylord Shovender, of Pantego, N. C.; Miss Hattie Perry, who now lives near Gritton, N. C., and Miss Mary Winfield, now Mrs. Mary Joyner, wife of Rev. Edmond Joyner, of Columbia, S. C. The latter was chosen by her companions to present the flag in their behalf to the Beaufort Plow Boys.

The presentation of the flag was made in November 1861 by Miss Mary Winfield, who standing on the piazza of the home of Rev. N. C. Hughes at Chocowinity, presented it to the company which was drawn up in line in front of the home. Henry Harding, the captain of the company received it from the hands of Miss Winfield and placed it in the hands of William Richards, the company's color sergeant.

This flag was captured at the battle of New Bern, on the 15th day of March, 1862, by the Ninth New Jersey Volunteer. During the progress of the battle, the flag was stationed on the breast work just in front of the Beaufort Plow Boys. A fierce charge having been made by the Federal troops the Confederates were forced to a speedy retreat to prevent being captured. Just at the moment the Confederates were forced from the breast works William Stephenson, a cousin of Hon. Mark Stephenson, of New Bern, caught the flag staff and with his pocket knife while making up the hill from the works cut the chord that bound the flag to the staff and placed the flag in his knapsack. In the retreat the Confederates were so hard pressed that they were compelled to throw off all incumbrances except their guns in order to escape alive. Thus the flag was lost in the knapsack of William Stephenson.

The Beaufort Plow Boys afterward became Company B. of the 61st Regiment North Carolina troops. On September 5th, 1862, Henry Harding, Captain of Company B., was promoted to Major of the 61st Regiment and W. M. Stevenson became Captain of the Company.

Among those of the old company who still survive are Major Henry Harding, of Greenville, N. C., Seth Bridgeman, of Washington, N. C., William H. Patrick, of Chocowinity, N. C., who became 2nd Lieutenant, William Archibald, of Beaufort county, N. C., William F. Dunby, of Chocowinity, N. C.; Geo. H. Hill, of Washington, N. C.; Seth V. Hodges, of Roanoke Rapids, N. C.; D. M. Jarvis, of Pantego, N. C.; Charlie Mallison, of Washington N. C.; H. D. Satterthwaite, of Ransomville, N. C.; and Samuel Snell, of Hyde county, N. C.

It is with no little interest that the survivors of the Beaufort Plow Boys learn that the flag which was taken from them just forty-three years ago today, is to be returned. Major Harding especially will gladly welcome the return of the flag of the Beaufort Plow Boys, which through the ever changing vicissitudes of war, found its way into the State of New Jersey, and which now, through the softening influence of many years of peace, finds its way "back to home again."
F. C. HARDING.

THE SPIRIT AT WORK.

Great Interest in Meeting at Baptist Church.

The protracted meeting which is being conducted in the Baptist church by Rev. J. T. Jenkins, of Wilson, continues to grow in interest and power. Tuesday night he took for his subject, "Deception" using as a text a sentence from Proverbs. "Surely in vain is the net spread in the sight of any bird."

The devil never says what he means nor means what he says. He offers man just what his nature wants but man gets just what he does not want. The devil never got a man to commit a sin until he deceived him as to the nature of the act or as to the results. Eve thought she was getting great good instead of great punishment when she ate the fruit.

There is not a person in Greenville that expects to be lost, and there is not one in hell who expected to go there.

Thinking you are right does not make you right. "There is a way which seemeth right unto man but the end thereof are the ways of death."

"Boast not thyself of tomorrow for thou knowest not what a day will bring forth." Hell is filled by people who have good intentions. They expect to be saved some time, in some way. This the awful mistake. With nearly all of these it will be said of them, "You are too late."

The services this morning was well attended and exceedingly helpful. The singing was worshipful, the prayers earnest, the preaching profound and heart searching. The song service tonight will begin promptly at 7:30. All persons having a song book like the kind used in the meeting will please bring them tonight. At the close of the sermon an opportunity will be given the unconverted to flee the coming wrath of God by accepting Jesus Christ as Savior. All persons that expect to begin the Christian life should do so tonight by confessing their heart's faith in Jesus Christ.

Notice Red Men.

You are requested to be at the Wig Wam at 7.30 o'clock this evening. Two pale faces for adoption.

FUNERAL OF MR. J. B. CHERRY.

Remains Laid to Rest in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

The funeral of Mr. J. B. Cherry, who died Monday afternoon, was held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The great concourse of people in attendance bore testimony of the very high esteem in which the deceased was held.

The remains were first taken to the Methodist church where the service was conducted by Revs. R. B. John and J. A. Hornaday. A select choir sang three beautiful hymns that were favorites of the deceased in his life. These were "The King of Love my Shepherd Is," "How Firm a Foundation," and "He Leadeth Me."

From the church the remains were taken to Cherry Hill cemetery and placed at rest near the grave of his daughter, Mrs. Zeno Brown. At the grave the choir sang "The Christian's Good Night." The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, expressive of the esteem of friends for the deceased and sympathy for the bereaved.

The active pall bearers were A. B. Ellington, J. S. Cogleton, C. C. Vines, D. E. House, J. L. Little, J. A. Ricks, Dr. C. O'H. Laughinghouse, G. E. Harris, H. A. White, F. M. Wooten, W. L. Brown, R. G. Jeffress, L. I. Moore and C. M. Jones.

The honorary pall bearers were ex-Gov. T. J. Jarvis, J. L. Wooten, Harry Skinner, Sr., A. L. Blow, Sr., C. A. White, E. A. Moye, Sr., McG. Eraul, J. R. Moore, I. A. Sugg, W. H. Ragsdale, C. D. Rountree, D. C. Moore, Dr. E. A. Moye, R. C. Flaagan, R. Hyman, D. L. James, C. T. Munford, A. J. Griffin, E. B. Ficklen, R. L. Humber, R. J. Cobb, L. C. Arthur, R. W. King and J. J. Laughinghouse.

The line of the funeral procession was in the following order: Knights of Pythias lodge in front of hearse.

Active pall bearers on each side of hearse.

Honorary pall bearers directly behind hearse.

Family in carriages.
Friends of family.
Graded school children.

GOOD MORNIN.

It is On the Dry Side of the Creek.

J. J. Satterthwaite, of Mornin, was here today and dropped in to enlighten THE REFLECTOR on the question as to the whereabouts of the town of Mornin, incorporated by the recent legislature.

Mornin is that portion of the town of Pactolus that lies north of the creek and around the depot. Limits of Pactolus were extended to take in this new territory across the creek after the railroad was built and another town sprang up around the depot.

Owing to a division of sentiment on the liquor question, the new part of the town wanted to be dry while the old part preferred to remain wet, steps were taken for a separation, hence the new town of Mornin was incorporated.

And the creek is the dividing line between the wets and the dries but there is a bridge across it.

One Fine Day.

One fellow said he wished THE REFLECTOR would not brag on the weather any more, as every time we said anything about it being good it was sure to cloud up and rain. But today has been so pretty we can't help from saying ain't it fine. And if the complaint gets struck by a blizzard tomorrow let him be thankful that one beautiful day came between.

If many more blunders are discovered the last legislature will go down in history as a gathering of bunglers.

Winston-Salem is to get a breath of Booker Washington. It is announced that he is to speak there on Easter Monday.

The man who is writing on the dangers of wealth did not anticipate that he would excite any alarm in newspaper circles.

General Kuropatkin's resignation was the easiest way out of it. The Japs need not care now whether they capture him personally or not.

That is a nice bid some prominent Democrats are getting in an invitation to be the guests of the Republican club at Greensboro on the occasion of Vice-President Fairbank's speech.

The manager of the Raleigh dispensary says the receipts have fallen off from $150 to $200 per day since the legislature adjourned. It is inferred that the members and visitors made up this difference.

Small Favors.

The President pleased this section immensely by his kindly interest in Stonewall Jackson's grandson and by some similar acts, and now it seems that he has practically made a tender of a good position to the widow of the lamented General John B. Gordon. So far as the South at large is concerned, these evidences of good will be duly appreciated, and they may lead us to overlook the fact that there is no Southern man in the President's cabinet, and, so far, only about one Southern man has received an important diplomatic appointment. The President expects us to be thankful for small favors, and we cannot disguise the fact that we are pleased when these favors are bestowed upon such people as Stonewall Jackson's grandson and the widow of General Gordon. In such acts the President touches the South in a very tender spot and it tends to beget the impression that the South would have been more conspicuously recognized in filling more important places if she had had men adjudged by the President to be fit for the responsibility. True, he is under no political obligations to this section and we have no right to complain on that score, but if he is going to be President of the whole country, as he asks us to believe, we scarcely see how he can so completely ignore this section in filling diplomatic positions and in making up his cabinet. Most of the men sent abroad in all probability have less genuine knowledge of the conditions in this section than they have of the affairs of Continental Europe. It helps to keep the South unknown. It is not known to the people who represent the government abroad, but to them is as so much alien territory—a region of less real interest than the Philippine islands.—Danville, Va., Bee.

Senator Simmons extended an invitation to President Roosevelt to attend the annual assembly of the school teachers of North Carolina to be held next June. The President expressed his appreciation of the invitation, but indicated that he would be unable to accept it.

A Thankless Service.

The legislature has finished its work and the growers have begun to howl. There are some who would grow no matter what the Legislature does, and some who would grow no matter what it fails to do. Some of the newspapers are among the growers and there is such a demand for newspapers of that kind, that it would be remarkable if such literature were not on the market.

The members of the legislature who have done their duty deserve sympathy. It is hard to have to take abuse for faithful service. The good legislator should be commended, even if in some small matters he made a mistake, for we all make mistakes. But few of them, however, will receive any great measure of praise, even, if their work, on the whole is well done. They render the public a thankless service. It is a wonder that any suitable men are willing to accept the trust.—Rockingham Anglo-Saxon.

THREE JURORS CURED

Of Cholera Morbus with One Small Bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates on experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardville, county seat of Cleburne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." For sale at Wooten's Drug Store.

Fleas Broke Up The Meeting.

Pigs, goats and fleas are the subject of proposed legislation by the general assembly of North Carolina. In Pitt Co., churches appear to have been erected on a plan that puts the floor several feet above the ground, with openings between the pillars. Hogs and goats have sought the convenient shelter of this space, until the soil on which the churches stand has become one part sand and two parts fleas. In consequence, religious services have been broken up and congregations dismissed from worship at very inopportune times with alarming frequency.

The nuisance has become so great that the members of the general assembly from Pitt county have introduced bills to require the owners of hogs and goats running at large to fence in the churches, so as to keep these animals from roosting under them.—Newark (N. J.) News.

A Dinner Invitation.

After a hearty meal a dose of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will prevent an attack of indigestion. Kodol is a thorough digestant and a guaranteed cure for indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Sour Rising, Bad Breath and all stomach troubles. N. Watkins, Lesbus, Ky., says: "I can testify to the efficacy of Kodol in the cure of Stomach Trouble. I was afflicted with Stomach Trouble for fifteen years and have taken six bottles of your Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which entirely cured me. The six bottles were worth $1,000 to me." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will digest any quantity of all the wholesome food you want to eat while your stomach takes rest—recuperates and grows strong. This wonderful preparation is justly entitled to all of its many remarkable cures. Sold by J. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

R. A. Brand, general freight agent of the Atlantic Coast Line, gives out an interview in which he states that fertilizer shipments in the large territory covered by his system are way behind, and will be much less than last season. While at present the carrying capacity is taxed to its utmost, the season in which the business can move is very short now, and of course, the total will be much smaller. Truck prospects are said by growers to be exceedingly bright.

Sour Stomach

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich, sour stomach is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let five hours elapse between meals, and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the sour stomach may be avoided. FOOD VALUE OF EGGS.

A Good Substitute For Meat and Easy of Digestion.

Almost everybody eats eggs. There is perhaps no article of diet that is more commonly eaten in all countries than eggs. Hens' eggs are used more than any other kind, although some people eat duck eggs, goose eggs and the eggs of the guinea fowl. Turkey eggs are not so often eaten. They are generally kept for hatching. Eggs are said to be a perfect food, the same as milk—that is, containing all the food elements necessary for the growth and maintenance of the young chick, just as milk does for the young animal. While it is true, of course, that the egg does contain all the elements necessary for the young chick, yet it would not follow that these elements are in the right proportion for the sole nourishment of an adult person. That eggs are a splendid food is not to be questioned, but that eggs alone would furnish sufficient diet for a grown person is hardly probable.

Eggs consist of protein and fat, water and mineral matter. It is the protein or nitrogenous matter that builds up and repairs the tissues of the body, while the fat supplies energy. The white of an egg is often said to be pure albumen, but it also contains phosphoric acid and sodium chloride, or common salt. The yolk contains the fatty part of the egg, phosphorus, calcium, magnesium, potassium and iron. Eggs also contain sulphur, and this probably accounts for the dark stain left by eggs on silver, the sulphur coming in contact with the silver forming silver sulphide. Eggs are very easily digested. Raw eggs are more quickly digested than cooked eggs. Soft boiled eggs, roasted eggs and poached eggs are more easily digested than fried or hard boiled eggs. The stomach will digest a raw egg from one and a half to two hours. Soft boiled and roasted eggs require from two and a half to three hours, while hard boiled or fried eggs must be allowed from three and a half to four hours for digestion. Eggs furnish a good substitute for meat, and we believe it would be far better for the average person if eggs were more frequently used in place of meat. Especially do they make a light, nutritious dish for breakfast instead of the usual bacon or ham or sausage.—Medical Talk.

The Last of Bill.

The first football match for the season in an English town being under discussion, a member proposed that at that game the players should wear black bands on their jerseys, out of respect for a certain Bill B., a popular member of the club who had died some time before.

"I don't see as that's necessary," objected another of the footballers, "seein' as 'ow Bill has been dead this eight months. If 'w'd done it at the time there'd 'a' been some sense in it."

"I know all about that," argued the proposer, "but it's like this 'ere: The ball we played with all last year was blew up with Bill's own breath, and while we'd got that we none of us looked on Bill as bein' really gone-like, but the ball got busted at practice last night, and bang went poor old-Bill, so to speak. That's 'ow the matter stands. So I says, 'ands up, them as votes for black bands and a new ball."

Anything He Could Get.

"I suppose," said the judge as he turned to the burglar, with a merry twinkle in his eye, "in your business you take everything you can get?"

"Yes, your honor," replied the prisoner, noting with satisfaction the judge's pleasant expression and beginning to feel encouraged.

"Oh! As I thought," replied the judge, with more twinkles. "Well, I have a sentence of four years at hard labor that's beginning to get moldy from lying about unused, and if you would just take it away with you it would be better for all concerned."

And then everybody laughed except the burglar.

Spoiled His Compliment.

Mrs. Kindle (whose husband had told her that the apartment house was the proper thing for her, on the principle of suits to the sweet)—Henry said an awfully nice thing to me today.

Mrs. Kindle—Yes?

Mrs. Kindle—Yes. He said this was just the place for me—flats to the—why, somehow that doesn't sound right after all.—Boston Transcript.

Realistic.

"I tell ye what," asserted old man Spiggets, "that there pointer feller is a fine artist."

"What impressed you about his work?"

"Well, thar was a pictur' he called 'The Rainstorm,' an', I swan, it was that nat'ral that I hadn't looked at it three minutes before my corns begin hurtin' me."—Cleveland Leader.

A Country Named For Christmas.

South Africa was discovered by the Portuguese, who were searching for an ocean road to India. Bartholomew Diaz was the commander of the two little ships that formed the expedition in 1482. Eleven years later-Da Gama took another Portuguese fleet south. He discovered Natal on Christmas day and thus named it in commemoration.

DOES A BABY PAY?

One Rapturous Little Hug Wipes Out His Debts.

"Does a three-year-old baby pay for itself up to the time it reaches that interesting age?" asked an author whose works are among the "best sellers." "Sometimes I think not. I thought not yesterday when my own baby slipped into my study and scrubbed the carpet and his best white dress with my bottle of ink, and again later in the day when he pasted 50 cents' worth of postage stamps on the parlor wall and poured a dollar's worth of the choicest white rose perfume out of the window 'to see it wain.'"

"He has already cost me more than $200 in doctors' bills, and I feel that I am right in attributing my few gray hairs to the misery I endured walking the floor with him at night during the first year and a half of his life."

"What has he ever done to pay me for that?"

"Ah! I hear his little feet pattering along out in the hall. I hear his little ripple of laughter because he has escaped from his mother and has found his way up to my study at a forbidden hour. But the door is closed. The worthless little vagabond can't get in, and I won't open it for him. No, I won't. I can't be bothered for—'Rat, tat, tat,' go his dimpled knuckles on the door. I sit in silence. 'Rat, tat, tat.' I sit perfectly still."

"Papa!"

"No reply."

"Peeze, papa!"

"Grim silence."

"Baby tum in—peeze, papa!"

"He shall not come in."

"My papa!"

"I write on."

"Papa," says the little voice, "I lub my papa. Peeze let baby in."

"I am not a brute, and I throw open the door. In he comes, with outstretched little arms, with shining eyes, with laughing face. I catch him up, and his warm, soft little arms go around my neck, the not very clean little cheek is laid close to mine, the baby voice says sweetly: "I lub my papa!"

"Does he pay? Well, I guess he does! He has cost me many anxious days and nights. He has cost me time and money and care and self sacrifice. He may cost me pain and sorrow. He has cost me much. But he has paid for it all again and again in whispering those four little words into my ears."—New York Press.

His Awful Threat.

A Tennessee congressman tells of the financial straits of a man in his state who, saddled with a large and unproductive farm, was compelled to add to his slender resources by taking up the practice of law in Memphis.

"During a tour of inspection the farmer-lawyer was one day making of his white elephant he was maddened to the point of frenzy by chancing to run across several of his field hands calmly resting under a tree singing away for dear life."

"Here, you black rascals!" he shouted, shaking his fist at the culprits. "Get back to work this instant! The first thing you dorkies know I'll quit the law and let you all starve!"

By the Tonic Route.

The pills that acts as a tonic, and not as a drastic purge, are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. They cure Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, etc. Early Risers are small, easy to take and easy to act—a safe pill. Mack Hamilton, hotel clerk at Valley City, N. D., says: "Two bottles cured me of chronic constipation." Sold by Jno. L. Wooten.

PAPOOSE POPCORN
A New Seed Discovery for FORAGE, POULTRY, FOPPING

A subscriber to the Southern Agriculturist secured the original seed from an old Indian in Northwest Texas. After experimenting with it seven years he writes that paper: "With good ground and care it will make from 50 to 100 bushels to the acre, and planted thick and out stalk and all it will make more feed and better feed than anything I ever saw. The old Indian said poultry fed on it would never have the cholera. I have not lost a fowl with cholera since I have been raising it. It also pops beautifully." This article brought hundreds of requests for seed, and now only a few barrels are left. Send 10c for a 3 months' trial subscription to Southern Agriculturist, 39 C. P. Bldg., Nashville, Tenn., and you will get 100 seed by return mail, also details of $50 prize seed-growing contest.

FOR SPRING & SUMMER

In selecting material, choose something that will harmonize with your make-up. Big checks don't look well on stout men and stripes should not be worn by men of a tall, slim build. Be careful, also as to color. Pale complexioned men should be careful of drabs, or a material with a touch of green in them. Browns are better. Blue looks well on most people, but men with reddish hair should not select a shad that is too bright. A little care in this direction goes a long way in improving a mans' looks.

Over 500 styles to show you. Brown serges will take the place of Blues this season. See our $17.50 and $20 line.
