MISSIONARY INSTITUTE AND CONFERENCE.

Former Closed and Latter Now in Session

At the Wednesday afternoon session of the Missionary Institute in the Methodist church the first subject discussed was "Our difficulties and how to meet them." This was led by Rev. H. G. Stamey and participated in by B. B. Holder, L. E. Sawyer, E. C. Sell, Dr. Betts, D. L. Earnhardt, B. E. Stanfield, J. L. Ramley and J. Y. Everton.

"How I secure my collections," was the subject interestingly discussed by L. E. Thompson.

Rev. J. A. Hornaday spoke with much earnestness on "How can we get the Washington District to pay in full the missionary collections?"

After this many questions of interest were ably discussed by the various ministers and many of them expressed their pleasure and the benefit that had been derived from this session of the institute. The institute closed with the afternoon session.

DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The introductory sermon of the District Conference was preached Wednesday night by Rev. R. C. Craven, of Tarboro. His text was "Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted." He said that the world is keyed to suffering and that men are measured by their capacity to endure. Lives are sweetened and brought into closer touch with Christ and heaven through trial and affliction. We are made perfect through suffering. "These are they that have come up through great tribulation."

It was an excellent discourse and elicited many heartfelt amen. After the sermon the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered, a large number of communicants partaking the emblems of Christ's broken body and shed blood.

The business sessions of the conference began at 9:30 o'clock this morning with Presiding Elder J. D. Bundy presiding.

The organization of the conference was completed by the election of G. S. Prichard secretary, and the appointment of Rev. J. D. Bundy, Rev. J. A. Hornaday, and ex-Gov. T. J. Jarvis a committee on Divine worship.

The hours for the assembling of the conference were fixed at 9:30 a. m. and 3 p. m.

After the appointment of committees and transaction of routine business conference adjourned at 11 o'clock for preaching. At that hour Dr. T. N. Ivey, editor of the Raleigh Christian Advocate delivered an excellent and able sermon on the "Power of the Gospel."

The afternoon session is in progress as we go to press.

Dr. G. F. Smith, Presiding Elder of Warrenton district, will preach at 8 o'clock tonight.

Closing Exercises of Ayden Graded School.

The closing exercises of our school will take place on Friday evening, May 5th. As our auditorium is very small we will not be able to accommodate a large crowd. It will be necessary, therefore, to issue tickets and take them up at the door. As many persons will receive tickets as we shall be able to provide for. The exercises will embrace only one night, inasmuch as there will be religious meetings in town the same week.

T. H. KING, Supt.

Union Meeting Cancelled.

Notice has been given that owing to advices from several ministers that they could not attend the meeting of the Roanoke Union which was appointed to be held in the Baptist church at Williamston beginning Thursday night and continuing through next Sunday, that the meeting has been cancelled. The meeting will be held at Williamston on a later date.

EVENTS IN TARBORO.

Wedding of Popular Couple—Odd Fellows and Pythians Celebrate.

Tarboro, N. C., April 27.—One of the most notable social events of the season is the marriage of Miss Josephine Philips, of this place, to Mr. Albert Pike, of Washington, D. C., which occurred here today. Owing to the recent death of the bride's father which is yet respected by deepest mourning, the function was unattended by ostentation, and only a quiet and simple home wedding was had. Besides the immediate families only a few most intimate friends were present. At one o'clock the bride with her brother, Dr. James J. Philips, was met at the improvised altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Robert Coe, while Miss Sue Curtis played the wedding march. Rev. Mr. Harding, rector of Calvary Parish, spoke the words of Episcopal ritual that solemnized the bonds of union. The bride is a daughter of the late Judge Frederick Philips and is well known and exceedingly popular within the social circles of the State.

The groom is a son of Gen. Albert Pike, U. S. A., and is very popular among his host of friends. A luncheon was served immediately after the ceremony and at 2:30 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Pike boarded a northbound train for a brief tour after which they will spend the summer in Ohio before finally reaching the capital city, their future home.

The members of Edgecombe Lodge No 50, I. O. O. F. celebrated the 86th anniversary of their order last night in manner that well befitted the occasion.

A short program was carried out in the city hall. The chaplain opened the ceremonies with prayer, the choir sang several favorite selections. Miss Evans, of the graded school faculty, made a splendid talk on Odd Fellowship and briefly recited the origin, growth and development of the order and the great good the three link brothers had accomplished. Rev. Mr. Harris also made a few minutes talk that was very interesting. A variety of cake and cream was served.

Tonight the K. of P.'s will have a meeting and big banquet. A number of members from the eleven different lodges in this, the second district, are in attendance and several toasts will be responded to. J. H. M. Cordon, the fashionable caterer, has prepared for the brethren and guests a sumptuous repast.

Conference Notes.

No man in attendance upon the district conference has more friends among the people of Greenville than Dr. G. F. Smith, of Louisville. He was pastor here for four years and everybody loves him.

Paul Jones, of Tarboro, editor of the North Carolina Law Journal, is one of the lay delegates to the conference.

Dr. A. D. Betts is the oldest member present, both in years and service. The dear old soldier of the cross is looked up to as a father by the other members. His very presence and influence are helpful and inspiring.

Dr. T. N. Ivey, editor of the Raleigh Christian Advocate, is one of the prominent visitors at the conference. He is one of the ablest men the denomination has in the state, and is both an editor and speaker of force.

The way our people are putting in electric lights indicates that the plant will early get on a paying basis.

Four prominent citizens of Kershaw, S. C., have been arrested and placed in jail on warrants charging them with participating in a lynching.

A second man has now arisen to make Milwaukee famous, and between the beer maker and bank embezzler it keeps in the public eye.

An old Asheville negro who tried to commit suicide was tried in the Superior court for attempting self-destructive, was convicted and sent to the chain gang for two years.

The railroads around Durham have grown so in the habit of doing things at night they are going to open the new depot at one minute past midnight on the morning of May 1st.

The strawberry season is now in full blast and they are moving at the rate of about a hundred cars a day from the Wilmington section. This is a great industry for Eastern North Carolina and brings thousands of dollars in return.

The Charlotte Observer can breathe easier. The $10,000 libel suit that has been pending against that paper for three years has been non-suited. The plaintiff did not have any case, but was a long time admitting it.

The South Atlantic Missionary Conference of the M. E. Church, South, to be held in Asheville, May 17-21, is a meeting of much importance. The conference will embrace the North Carolina, Holston, South Carolina and Western North Carolina conferences. Four bishops and other prominent men of the church will take part in the proceedings.

Judging from an article in the Nashville Graphic, the people up that way are suffering from the same go-as-you-please schedules of the Atlantic Coast Line that the people down this way have to endure. Really there ought to be an end to such inconvenience to the public. If the Coast Line is going to continue such inconvenience the people would do right in refusing to patronize it when other means of transportation are available.

The Bank is The Last Place For a Gambler.

The shocking defalcation of the Milwaukee banker stunned the financial world. He was only last year president of the National Bankers' Association and was esteemed to be one of the ablest and honestest bankers in America. He "made haste to be rich," took a plunge on Wall street and a whirl in wheat. He lost heavily in both and is today a defaulter for a million and a half dollars, a dishonored and disgraced man. If he had won, would he be disgraced in the eyes of the world if they had known of his plunging? He committed the crime the day he used the money of the bank with which to speculate. The man who does that is in every moral respect a defaulter, even though he may be lucky and replace the money.

The bank official who speculates, who bets on margins, who gambles either in futures or by "craps" is unfit for that responsible position. The last place in the world where a gambler is wanted is in a position of trust where he handles the money of other people. Sooner or later his passion for gambling will overpower him, and then good bye to the money of depositors. As soon as a bank official seeks to get rich quick, the best thing for the directors to do is to give him his walking papers. The trouble with the prominent banker in Milwaukee was that he was determined to get rich in a hurry and to do that he used the money belonging to others, he used it, and now he is a criminal. His fate is the fate of all other bank officers who begin to gamble.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Forget About Your Stomach.

If your digestion is bad the vital organs of your body are not fed and nourished as they should be. They grow weak and invite disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat, cures indigestion and all stomach troubles. You forget you have a stomach from the very day you begin taking it. This is because it gets a rest—recuperates and gradually grows so strong and healthy that it troubles you no more. E. L. Babcock, Amherst, Minn., says: "I have taken a great many remedies for indigestion but have found nothing equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure." Kodol digests what you eat, cures indigestion, Dyspepsia, sour stomach, belching, heartburn and all stomach troubles. Its preparation is the result of many years of research. Sold by J. L. Wooten.

A Tried and True Friend.

One Minute Cough Cure contains not an atom of any harmful drug, and it has been curing Coughs, Colds, Croup and Whooping Cough so long that it has proven itself to be a tried and true friend to the many who use it. After trying a number of remedies to no avail, One Minute Cough Cure entirely cured me." Sold by Jno. L. Wooten.

LETTER TO W. H. RAGSDALE.

Greenville, N. C.

Dear Sir: A property-owner of Skowhegan, Maine, had a house to paint, and "saved 10 cents a gallon" by trying another paint than Devoe.

But his paint was 10 per cent. short measure; 10 per cent. of the liquid was water; and 33 per cent. of the pigment barytes.

How much, do you think, he saved?

One of the difficulties, in paint, is the fact that a cheat is as good as a paint, till you find it out; and lots of men go through the world and never find out the cheats that keep them poor.

Go by the name; be willing to pay a few cents more for Devoe; be glad to.

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVOE & Co.

Night In a Dungeon

It was an old and yellow manuscript that Jack and Arthur found in the bottom of the little hair covered trunk up in the attic. Perhaps the reason it had escaped notice was that the trunk was lined with paper of nearly the same color. However that may be, none of us had ever seen it before, and when on that rainy afternoon we were all gathered in the sitting room Aunt Harriet opened it.

"It is in your great-grandfather's handwriting," she said, and of course we all crowded around to see it. "Your great-grandfather was a Frenchman, and of course this is written in French." This brought forth a number of disappointed exclamations, but when Aunt Harriet added, "And if you wish I will translate it as I go along," the faces of the group brightened, and all settled themselves comfortably to hear what Great-grandfather D'Almar had to tell:

It was a piece of ill luck that I at last fell into the duke's hands. He had long sought to do me some harm in payment for the trick I played him in running off with the woman he loved, but for fifteen years I had avoided him and escaped his vengeance. At last, however, I was snared by one of the duke's retainers, and, being blindfolded, was conveyed whither I know not, for when the bandage was removed I was being led through a large stone hall and my conductors were making ready to thrust me into a narrow dungeon which one of them unlocked. It was of no avail to reason with the men. They were under the duke's orders and dare not disobey him.

So they closed the door upon me and pushed the bolts in place with a crash, and I was alone. The dungeon was entirely made of stone, with but one small and strongly barred window near the roof. The only piece of furniture in the room was a small stone bench, upon which I seated myself to think over the sudden circumstance which had placed me in this strange and unpleasant position.

Not a bit of anything was to be seen. In fact, the cell was bare of everything except the bench on which I sat, and that was merely a projection from the stone wall. I had always been accustomed to have good things to eat when I wanted them, and the thought of being without food for any length of time was not very pleasant. In fact, I had never been without my regular three meals a day.

There seemed no possible way of escape, and all I could hope for was clemency from the duke. I thought he would hardly dare kill me in his own house. He might perhaps try to starve me to death. But at these thoughts I clinched my hands and shut my teeth firmly together. I would not give up without a struggle.

The moonlight commenced to shine in through the bars of the window, first in sizzly little streaks and then as the moon rose higher in a blaze of white light. There was some companionship in this, and it cheered me a little, and as the feeling of hunger had almost passed away I determined to make myself as comfortable as possible with the limited resources within reach. Removing my coat, I rolled it up to form a pillow, and then, after offering up my customary prayer, I lay down upon the stone bench and in a few minutes, like a tired school-boy, I was lost in a deep and dreamless sleep.

How long I slept I cannot say, but after a time I awoke with a sensation as if I were choking. The sensation did not cease when I left my improvised bed. It seemed rather to increase. Why this should be I could not discover until as I again sat on the bench I perceived peculiar vapors issuing, as it seemed, from the stone sides of my prison. On closer examination I found in the walls at each end of my cell a number of small holes, which were without doubt connected with pipes on the outside of the wall.

A sudden horrible suspicion assailed me. Was the duke trying to exterminate me with the fumes of some deadly gas? I tried to reach up and stop the holes with my hands. By standing on tiptoe I could just reach two, but was forced to withdraw my hands immediately as a stream of steam was forced against them. Almost suffocated with the fumes, I rushed to the bench and, mounting it, managed to grasp the iron bars of the window and pull my head up to breathe some of the fresh air. This was not an easy task, but by forcing an arm out and around a bar I managed to cling there, where I could breathe the pure air.

Hanging in this way I gradually became insensible, and when I regained consciousness I found, to my great delight, that the instrument of torture had been removed. Could it be possible that the duke was watching me from some concealed hole and was inflicting this punishment upon me for the pleasure of seeing me suffer? It made my blood boil to think of such a thing.

I was beginning to regain strength and courage when a new dread presented itself. As I lay on the floor of the cell I was horrified to see the roof slowly but surely descending upon me. It was a matter of but a few minutes when my life would be crushed out by that great weight of stone. I had heard of similar means being employed, to punish criminals in the Italian prisons and it had always made me faint and sick to think of such a thing.

Down it came, slowly, but not for a moment staying its deadly approach. I could touch it now with my hand as I stood up. I fell on my knees to pray. When I again stood upright my head struck the still descending roof. I endeavored to stand straight, using all my might to resist the downward pressure, but in vain. Again I fell upon my knees. The weight reached my head and pressed me farther down. I was now lying on my face. The air felt hot and unbearable. I turned on my back and with my hands and knees tried to push back or at least stop the farther descent of that awful wall.

As I did so I thought I could hear a chuckling noise which sounded like laughter. At length, in hopeless despair, I lay still and awaited the end. My body was pressed gently against the floor. The weight on my chest was so great that I could not breathe. I made a violent effort to scream, then moaned faintly, and that was all I was conscious of.

That was not the end, however. The bright sun shining into my place of torture and imprisonment roused me to consciousness and brought back the awful remembrance of the evening before. The roof had been raised to its original position and there was nothing to show that it had ever moved. My head throbbled with fever and a burning thirst parched my throat and mouth. I cried aloud for some one to bring me water, but there was no answer.

Then I rose and flung myself with all my weak strength against the bolted door, but it gave not an inch. I staggered to the seat and fell upon it, with my face against the stones, in order to gain some slight relief from the coolness. I placed my tongue and lips against the stone, but it gave only momentary relief.

Hark! What was that? Surely it was the sound of running water. What other torture would they offer me? I wondered. How close the water sounded! I turned my head and saw, to my delight, streams of pure water flowing from the holes of which I have already spoken. I flung myself to the ground with a cry and commenced to lap up the water which was fast covering the floor. The fiend! It was not water, but some fiery liquid which scorched and shriveled up the skin of my mouth. I flung myself back on the seat and resolved not to move again, but patiently await death.

But the water still kept on flowing. What did it mean? It was creeping slowly up to the bench. Was drowning in this fiery liquid to end my sufferings at last? Well, I would lie still and let its mission be accomplished without a struggle. But this was impossible. The instinct of self preservation was still strong within me, and I stood up. The water was now up to my waist and rising. What would be the use of prolonging life by swimming in this liquid? I might as well give up at once and die. Still I struck out with my arms and tried to keep my head above the liquid. In my feeble state it was hard work.

I tried to float. My head sank, and again I put forth my little strength and managed to keep on the surface for a short time. Then I felt that I couldn't hold out any longer. I sank once and rose again, making no effort to save myself. Then I sank and rose once more. Then I realized that I could rise but once again and opened my eyes to catch a glimpse of the sunlight streaming in at the other end of the cell.

To my intense delight I saw only a head of beautiful golden hair, and a little voice which came from the child who had her arms about my neck said: "Why, papa, why do you take a nap? Come, leave your musty old books and go down to the spring with me to get a drink of water."

Easily Answered.

"The subject for discussion at the next meeting of the Village Debating society is, 'What Is Truth?'"

"Indeed? Well, that is a question that should be easily answered."

"I'm not of your opinion. What is truth?"

"Truth is what two persons speak when they fall out with each other."

—London Tit-Bits.

"Outway" and "Inway."

Now that the word "subway" is a recognized classic, would it not be well to find better words than "exit" and "entrance"? The passages to and from the "subway" should logically be the "inway" and the "outway." Yours for Saxon speech.—Local Cor. Boston Transcript.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Reported for Reflector.

Wednesday was the eleventh birthday of Mamie Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Tanstall, and in honor of the natal day invitations were sent out for all of her little friends to assemble from five to seven o'clock, and enjoy themselves to the limit at the home of the young hostess.

Many beautiful tokens of esteem and friendship were number among the large number of presents, and attested the popularity of Miss Mamie Ruth.

The threatening weather could not dampen the joys of the occasion, and all had a splendid time in romping and games.

The refreshments were abundant and satisfying, and it was with regret that time finally brought the happy hours to an end.

Miserable Train Service.

The passenger train being two hours late Wednesday night, delaying a number of delegates who were coming to the district conference, delaying the housekeepers who had prepared supper for them, and delaying all in getting to church, is a specimen of what Greenville has to suffer from inefficient railroad service. Maybe some day Greenville will have enough trains for people to get in and out of the town on time.
