SUPERIOR COURT.

Report of the Grand Jury.

The following cases have been disposed of since last report: Aaron Cox, rape, guilty of assault with intent to commit rape.

L. E. Smith, carnally knowing female under 14 years of age, mistrial.

G. A. Bell, embezzlement, not guilty.

The grand jury made the following report:

We have examined the home of the aged and infirm and find the inmates well cared for.

We respectfully recommend to the county commissioners that the buildings that are not plastered or ceiled be made so for the comfort of the inmates, as we find several of the buildings very open and uncomfortable.

We further recommend that one Mattie Vick helpless and insane be removed to an asylum where she can be better cared for.

We visited the jail and recommend that the ceilings in the rooms be repaired.

We further recommend for the health of the prisoners that the water works with sewer be placed in the jail building.

We found the jail clean and the prisoners well cared for.

We visited the sheriff's, clerk's and register of deed's offices, examined the records and books all of which we found in good condition.

We find the public roads in bad condition. We therefore recommend that the county commissioners see that the supervisors and overseers comply with the road law that our roads may be put in better condition.

GEN LEE DEAD.

Passed Away Friday Night.

Washington, D. C., April 29.—Gen Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, who was stricken with paralysis Friday morning while on a train between Boston and New York, died in this city at 11 o'clock last night. He was brought on here from New York and was in a hospital when the end came. He was conscious until within a few minutes of his death. He began to grow weaker about 9 p. m., and expired peacefully about two hours later. He recognized his brother who came in to see him about half an hour before he passed away.

The family were summoned, but none of them had reached Washington when he died. General Lee has two sons in the army, one of them in the Philippines and the other in San Francisco on his way to the Philippines.

The body will be prepared here for burial, but arrangements for the funeral are not yet made. The interment may be at Arlington cemetery unless the family wish it to be in Virginia.

At the Christian Church.

At the Christian church tomorrow the usual services will be held as follows: Sunday school 10 a. m. Preaching by the pastor 11 a. m. Y. P. S. C. E. at 7:15 p. m. led by Miss Vernessa Smith. Preaching by the pastor at 8 p. m.

A special feature of the services will be the new hymns which will be used during the "Martin Family" meetings next week. A large choir has been rehearsing them and all lovers of good singing are invited to come and join in the beautiful and soul stirring music. Special music at both services, solos and quartets. H. H. MOORE, Pastor.

Farewell Sermon.

Rev. A. T. King will on Sunday night preach his farewell sermon as pastor of the Baptist church here. Next week he will leave for his new charge in Richmond.

THE CONFERENCE.

Admirable Sermon by Dr. Kilgo.

Friday afternoon session of the conference was opened with devotional exercises by Rev. D. L. Earnhardt.

The following were elected to represent the district conference in the annual conference: Delegates—Paul Jones, Wiley Brown, Col. J. F. Bruton, W. K. Jacobson. Alternates—E. G. Hart, Gov. T. J. Jarvis, E. L. Daughtridge, J. J. Edwards.

Elm City was chosen as the place of meeting of the next district conference.

Dr. F. D. Swindell made a very interesting talk on woman's work. Others of the ministers made interesting reports of the spiritual condition of the church on their respective charges.

The committee on missions made its report.

At night Dr. J. C. Kilgo, president of Trinity college, preached. Knowing his reputation as an eloquent, learned, magnetic speaker, our people were anxious to hear him and the church was packed in both auditorium and gallery.

Preceding the sermon Paul Jones, of Tarboro, sang a beautiful solo "Lord, I Come." His voice is rich and full of sweet melody and the song was superb.

Dr. Kilgo's text was "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation every one that believeth." The emphasis of his discourse was the power of the Gospel—the great work of God in making redemption possible, and its power to enter the very heart and being of man and do for him what nothing else can do—regenerate him, transform him from sin to righteousness. The sermon was from a master mind, a deep thinker, accompanied by the force and guidance of the Holy Spirit, and the large congregation listened eagerly to every word.

This morning conference opened at 9:30, devotional exercises conducted by Rev. B. B. Holder.

The committee on orders reported that W. F. Galloway has passed an approved examination and this conference recommended him to the annual conference for admission on trial.

The characters of the following local elders and deacons passed: W. F. Galloway, H. Powell, W. H. Call, J. Y. Pegram, T. H. Bain and W. J. Gay.

The committee on quarterly conference records made its report.

Others of the ministers made report of the spiritual state of the church on their charges.

Rev. J. V. Williams preached at 11 o'clock.

The closing session of the conference is being held this afternoon.

A Wonderful Saying.

The largest Methodist church in Georgia, used 32 gallons of L. & M. mixed with 24 gallons of oil, thus making paint cost about $1.20 per gallon. They calculated to use 100 gallons of other paint. Saved about $80.00 and also got a big donation of L. & M. Dealers gladly sell L. & M., because their customers call for it, and say they used it 12, 14 and even 30 years ago.

Don't pay $1.50 a gallon for linseed oil, which you do in ready-for use paint.

Buy oil fresh from the barrel at 60 cents per gallon, and mix it with L. & M. paint.

It makes paint cost about $1.20 per gallon. Sold by H. L. Carr.

If Carnegie keeps on he may get his wealth distributed around after awhile. The announcement is made that he has set aside $10,000,000 to provide annuities for worn out college professors.

The Durham Herald says that in rounding up the vagrants the officers are also delivering a heavy blow to the blind tigers. We would not be at all surprised if that does not about fit the situation down this way also.

The South mourns the death of gallant General Fitzhugh Lee. He was the last survivor of that historic name who took such important part in the civil war. He was a gallant man, a hero, a statesman. His people loved him with deep devotion and all sections of his country honored him. Since the civil war he has held many positions of trust, both in his state and nation, to all of which he carried honor, dignity and fidelity. His name will be loved so long as history shall last.

Calls Him Little.

A well informed colored man was speaking to the editor of The Commonwealth about how small some men can become. He referred to the disposition some men show in their disagreement with an editor. He said if an editor prints something that such a man does not endorse he will at once have his paper discontinued. Such a man becomes so little, he said, it's a wonder he doesn't fall into an ant hole and get lost. Well, that is contracting a man very much, we must admit, but we are compelled to say that the figure of speech was well employed. It is very simple in any person to suppose any newspaper can pursue a policy or give expressions that will suit every one who reads it. To do such a thing would mean a separate issue of the paper of each reader, which would put most of us out of business at the end of the first issue. But from the colored man's viewpoint, some people would better look out, lest they fall into the ant hole and get lost.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

Some of the papers are wondering why it was that President Roosevelt, upon leaving for the West, left Secretary Taft instead of Vice President Fairbanks sitting on the lid. It is a very old but a very good witticism that a Vice President has nothing on his mind except the state of the President's health; and it is not of record, so far as we know, that any President has been overly fond or considerate of his Vice. Upon this general record and the specific fact that upon leaving Washington President Roosevelt left the Secretary of War instead of the Vice President in charge, the story that Mr. Roosevelt favors Mr. Fairbanks as his successor after the present presidential term may be dismissed as apochryphal.—Charlotte Observer.

Yes, North Carolina, is "the most homogeneous State in the American union." This is to say, there are fewer foreign born residents here than in any other State. This might be a very comfortable fact to ponder over sometimes, if there were enough of our own folks to fill all the avenues of industry and keep the good Old North State blooming and blooming with prosperity. But, with so large a percentage of our fertile lands turned over to grass and weeds this year, and so many of our farmers crying aloud for help to properly cultivate that in hand, we may seriously doubt that a properly constituted citizen of the State has very much disposition to "point with pride" to our "homogeneousness"—and exclusiveness.—Raleigh Times.

Forget About Your Stomach

If your digestion is bad the vital organs of your body are not fed and nourished as they should be. They grow weak and invite disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat, cures indigestion and all stomach troubles. You forget you have a stomach from the very day you begin taking it. This is because it gets a rest—recuperates and gradually grows so strong and healthy that it troubles you no more. E. L. Babcock, Amherst, Minn., says: "I have taken a great many remedies for indigestion but have found nothing equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure." Kodol digests what you eat, cures indigestion, Dyspepsia, sour stomach, belching, heartburn and all stomach troubles. Its preparation is the result of many years of research. Sold by J. L. Wooten.

Russian Losses at Mukden.

The Novos Veremya says that the Russian casualties at Mukden were two generals, 1,985 officers and 87,677 men killed, wounded and prisoners or missing.

The captured numbered two generals and from 7,000 to 8,000 officers and men; the missing from 10,000 to 12,000; wounded removed 55,000. The Russians lost 22 guns, including twenty-six quick-fires. All the siege guns were removed two days before the retreat.

A Tried and True Friend.

One Minute Cough Cure contains not an atom of any harmful drug, and it has been curing Coughs, Colds, Croup and Whooping Cough so long that it has proven itself to be a tried and true friend to the many who use it. Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marion, Ind., says: "Coughing and straining so weakened me that I run down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. After trying a number of remedies to no avail, One Minute Cough Cure entirely cured me." Sold by Jno. L. Wooten.

Don't Get the Habit.

Some Schoolboy Answers.
A Brooklyn schoolteacher sends some answers given by boys in her class in an examination:
"What are zones?" "Zones are belts running around the earth, giving out heat as they run."
"What do we import from Italy?" "Italians."
"Of what is the earth composed?" "Sand, water, air and human beans."
"What causes a fog?" "The night before."

For Ten Years.

"For ten years," said the new boarder, "my habits were as regular as clockwork. I rose on the stroke of 6, half an hour later was at breakfast, at 7 I was at work, dined at 1, had supper at 6 and was in bed at 9:30. I ate only plain food and hadn't a day's illness all the time."

"Dear me!" said a hearer in sympathetic tones. "And what were you in for?"

All the Signs.

"Why do you think your son is going to turn out to be a genius?" "Well, he hates work and won't trim his finger nails, and he's got the idea in his head that the whole blamed world is out after his scalp, so I reckon he must be one of them genius fellers and liable almost any day to do something that'll just natchelly surprise everybody clean dumb."—Chicago Record-Herald.

PAPOOSE POPCORN

A New Seed Discovery for FORAGE, POULTRY, FOPPING

A subscriber to the Southern Agriculturist secured the original seed from an old Indian in Northwest Texas. After experimenting with it seven years he wrote that paper: "With good ground and care it will make from 50 to 100 bushels to the acre, and planted thick and cut stalk and all it will make more feed and better feed than anything I ever saw. The old Indian said poultry fed on it would never have the cholera. I have not lost a fowl with cholera since I have been raising it. It also pops beautifully." This article brought hundreds of requests for seed, and now only a few bushels are left. Send 10c for a 3 months' trial subscription to Southern Agriculturist, 39 C. P. Bldg., Nashville, Tenn., and you will get 100 seed by return mail, also details of $50 prize seed-growing contest.

A GLASS OF WATER.

When to Drink It and the Effects It Will Produce.

Drink a glass of water when you get out of bed in the morning. Never mind the size of the glass. Let the water be cold if you will. Some people prescribe hot water, but that isn't necessary. You may have washed your face already and relished the experience. You may have taken a cold plunge into the tub and delighted in the shock and its reaction. The brisk use of the toothbrush has left your mouth clean and the breath sweet. But you are dirty still. Drink a glass of cold water and enjoy the sensation of being clean inside. All that is luxurious in the cold bath cleansing the outside is artificial. That which should prompt the glass of water after sleeping is natural. As a test, tell the nine-year-old protestant against his morning scrub of cold water that he may escape it by drinking half a pint of the fluid. He will jump at the opportunity.

Sleep has drawn upon the water in the blood, and the instinct of the animal under natural conditions is to replenish the circulatory system and distend the blood vessels anew. The food in the stomach which had so much to do toward inducing sleep has disappeared, leaving a mucous substance in the alimentary canal. Yet man would wash his face and leave these half clogged canals to do the duties of another day.

Drink a glass of cold water in the name of cleanliness. It becomes one of the shortest and easiest of toilet duties. It is swallowed in a second, and in five minutes it has passed from the stomach, taking with it the clogging secretions of the alimentary tracts. It has left behind the stimulus that goes with cold water, and by filling the arterial system to the normal it puts a spur to the circulation that has grown sluggish in the night. It is one of the greatest of awakeners and one of nature's own stimulants.

Drink a glass of water before breakfast, another before luncheon and another before dinner. Water is the best, cheapest and pleasantest medicine.—Chicago Tribune.

STAR DISTANCES.

The Method by Which These Are Measured by Astronomers.

What is the length of this room? Any one can make this simple measurement with a two foot rule. How far is it from this house to the end of the street? This question also can be answered easily with a surveyor's tape measure. But how many people ever think of the possibility of measuring the distance of an inaccessible object? To discover how far away a thing is when we cannot reach it in order to measure the distance—this is a problem of a very different kind. And when the distant goal of measurement is one of those luminous stars from which we are sundered by the profound depths of space, when that object is not only supremely inaccessible, but also remote to a degree as nearly infinite as the human mind can grasp—in such a case the problem of distance is not merely one of attractive difficulty; it is one that stirs the imagination strongly.

Bessel was the first to solve this observational problem. His method was simple enough. We have seen that the actual quantity of parallactic change in a star's position diminishes with the star's distance. Consequently we have but to measure the amount of this change in order to have at once an estimate of the star's distance.

So Bessel selected his star on account of its large motion, as indicated by the older star catalogues. His method of observation, like every method destined for conspicuous success, was perfectly simple. Two small auxiliary stars were selected near the one under observation for parallax. Every observing night Bessel measured the exact distance on the face of the sky between each small star and the parallax star. He judged quite correctly that these two insignificant objects must really be almost infinitely far from us. If such was the case, they must be perfectly free from any appreciable parallactic shift, even according to the Copernican theory. If, on the other hand, the suspected star really is near us, it must suffer parallactic changes, and these must make it appear to swing back and forth during the year between the two auxiliary stars.

Bessel did not depend upon the ordinary astronomical telescope. He was provided with a more accurate measuring contrivance than had ever been used before his time. This instrument, called a heliometer, is especially adapted for the most precise determination of short distances on the sky—such distances as those separating his parallax star from the two auxiliary ones. With it he was able to determine exactly the parallactic changes in his star's position, and he proved that these changes satisfied perfectly the mathematical conditions that govern motions of this kind.—Professor Harold Jacoby in Harper's Weekly.

A Faithful Cat.

My husband had a devoted cat a few years ago that used to meet him at a certain lamppost near the house every evening on his return. She would then escort him home with many manifestations of joy and sit under his chair while he dined, waiting to receive her dinner from his hand.

One winter a business trip took him away from the city for several weeks. Nights of fruitless watching at the lamppost, her trysting place, we called it, were followed by listless days, when she would eat scarcely anything. She would sit under his empty chair at meal times and sniff dejectedly at the most appetizing morsels. At last she seemed to give up hope, or else her weakness prevented her from walking so far, and the lamppost knew her no more. Toward the end of the third week and just a day before my husband returned she died—of grief and starvation.—Cat Journal.

A Busy Little Woman.

They had just been married. She was very pretty and lovable, but very fresh to the household duties, and the husband was a very patient man. One night, however, she had a great surprise in store for him, so, putting her arms around his neck and kissing him, she said:

"Come and look, darling; I have been stitching up two big slits in your coat."

He then kissed her to hide the look which came over his face, called her a busy little woman and then went out and groaned.

She had sewn up his coat tail pockets.

It Was His.

A small boy was telling his mother of a mishap which had occurred to a playmate of his. The youngster, it appeared, had been regaling himself with one of those large, marblelike candies which are a particular delight of childhood, and in a moment of excitement it slipped down and stuck in his throat. But, said the narrator, they succeeded in relieving him.

"Oh," said his mother, "you got it out, did you?"

"Naw," was the impatient answer; "we shoved it down; it was his, wasn't it?"—Harper's Weekly.

Some Japanese Customs.

Widows in Japan cut their hair short and comb it back plainly without a parting unless, indeed, they are prepared to accept fresh offers, in which case they give a broad hint of their inclinations by twisting their hair round a long shell hairpin placed horizontally across the back of the head. Marriageable maidens distinguish and, as it were, advertise themselves by combing their locks high in front and arranging them in the form of a butterfly, which is something to be caught, or a fan half open, and adorning these significant designs with bright colored balls and gold or silver cord. Speaking generally, the dressing of the hair, which is changed at intervals from childhood upward, is an indication of the age and position of the simple minded and fascinating female Jap.

Draft Dogs.

In Holland and Belgium the dog occupies the place which the donkey does in several other countries. In the former, the sight of a couple of dogs dragging along a pushcart loaded with vegetables, flowers or shining milk cans is a familiar one. They trot along underneath the cart, within easy reach of the blunt toe of the sabot of the woman, who walks behind it to guide it by the handles attached at that point. In Belgium the dogs are hitched in front, as the Russians attach their horses to their droskies, three abreast, and are guided by a pair of rope reins fastened to a muzzle about the nose of the dog in the middle.

Sour Stomach

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich, sour stomach is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let five hours elapse between meals, and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the sour stomach may be avoided.
