STATE NEWS.

John D. Biggs, a prominent citizen of Williamston, died, Monday after-noon.

Official report on the Raleigh & Pamlico S. M. railroad says that eleven miles are graded and the bridge across Neuse river, near Raleigh, will be completed in a few days.

A charter was granted by the secretary of state Friday to the Southern Tin Company of Gastonia, with an authorized capital stock of one $1,000,000. The purpose of the corporation is to engage in mining, smelting and preparing for market tin, brass, zinc and other metals.

H. Clay Grubb, the Davidson county man who killed his brother-in-law, a little more than a year ago, was acquitted at Salisbury Saturday after a trial lasting several days. Monday morning Grubb and a man were riding along the road five miles from Salisbury when they were shot from ambush and both men dangerously wounded.

Before day Saturday morning robbers went to the plant of the Standard Oil company, in Raleigh, murdered W. H. Strickland, the one-armed night watchman, robbed the safe in the office of about $25, and set fire to the buildings to cover up their crime. The office, warehouse and stable were burned, four mules perishing in the latter. The property loss is estimated at $30,000.

DECREASE IN COTTON ACREAGE.

North Carolina Sets the Pace With 25 per Cent. Curtailment

State secretary Parker, of the North Carolina Alliance is collecting statistics very rapidly to show the decrease in cotton acreage in North Carolina. He said: "The increase will be at least 20 per cent. and in all probability will exceed that figure. In fact I would not at all be surprised if it reaches 25 per cent. I am sure that in the reduction of acreage no state will exceed North Carolina. The results of the returns show that our farmers have kept their word as to reductions. Take these counties for example, the returns being made by scores of farmers in each county; Granville fully 25 per cent. Hertford, 20; Warren 25; Rockingham, 27; Stanley, 25; Martin, 25; Edgecombe 20; Gaston, 25; Lenoir, 20. These may be taken as typical." It is learned from other sources that the decrease in acreage will run very close to 25 per cent, in all the cotton growing districts of this state. The farmers promised that they would reduce 25 per cent.

Youthful Burglars Caught

Washington, N. C., May 22.—Some youthful burglars were apprehended yesterday by Chief George Howard. The Fisher Tobacco Company's store was broken into in broad daylight and a quantity of tobacco and cigars stolen. Suspecting some youngsters who are given to such tricks, he investigated and found his suspicions correct. It has since developed that the grocery store of Mr. J. F. Taylor was entered several times during the past week and small sums of money stolen each time. The assumption is that the same set of boys committed all the crimes.

Sunday School Institute

Rev. Hight C. Moore, Sunday school field secretary for North Carolina, held an institute here in the Baptist church Monday night. His talk and explanation of Sunday school work were very interesting, especially to those engaged in the work.

HELP THE ROADS.

Make Vagrants Do Work on Them.

Not long ago Justice of the Peace C. D. Rountree sentenced a number of vagrants to the county roads and put them to work for thirty days. Under the Pitt county road law passed by the last legislature, the mayors of towns and magistrates of the county can sentence all offenders to the roads wherever the judgment is imprisonment. The chairman of the board of county commissioners is sending out letters to the mayors and magistrates asking their cooperation, so that the convict force to work the public roads may be made as large as possible with the least expense to the county. This is a good way to get the county roads improved.

AN INSPIRING OBJECT LESSON.

Under the above heading in the Raleigh News and Observer of Sunday, Editor Daniels gave a long article about Winterville and things that impressed him on his recent visit there to deliver the commencement address at Winterville High School. We take the following extract from the article as an object lesson of what a good man can accomplish:

The story of Winterville is largely the story of Amos G. Cox, who is literally the father and founder of the town. It was born in his brain and he has been the leader in the industrial, educational, political, social and religious life of the place. He has prospered and is a man of large wealth for his section, every dollar of which has been honestly acquired. His career should be an inspiration to the youth of the State, and that is my reason for touching upon it here. We are accustomed to hear some young men bemoaning that they have no chance and that the Door of Opportunity has been closed to them. The creation of trusts and combinations has made success by independent manufacturers in many lines more difficult, but today as always there is a chance of winning success by any man who is resolved "to find a way or make one." The story of how Mr. Cox "made the way" how he made bricks without straw, and how he is the same industrious and unassuming man while prosperity smiles upon him is one that should be known far and wide in North Carolina. His example is a stimulus to young men in school here. It will be a stimulus to young men everywhere who read it.

Twenty-five years ago—it may have been thirty, though you would never suspect that they were old enough—Mr. and Mrs. Cox began life in their first home, and they lived in an old log house with dirt chimney, and one corner of the old house rested on the ground, because the block was rotten. They were full of faith and industry then, and as success has smiled upon them and they live in a better house, they make it bright and attractive—the centre of a hospitality that gives pleasure to all who share it.

It was about 1880 that Mr. Cox first introduced his cotton planter, the foundation of his manufacturing success. The beginnings were small and crude. He began his canvass to sell his planters by hauling them on a rail-body cart because he could not afford a better means of canvassing.

Times have changed since then and Mr. Cox is now at the head of companies, worth over $50,000—perhaps more. He has made money—not a great fortune as men in cities or men particularly favored—and when he has made money he has shared it with his church and poured it out to help to educate young men and women. He has learned that it pays to invest money in immortal mind.

Mr. Cox is the sort of captain, of industry the world needs—men of affairs who practice the doctrine "make all you can, save all you can, give all you can," and who keep in close touch with those struggling to make the best of themselves that is possible. Mr. Cox never "rubbed his head against a college wall," but he appreciates education perhaps more than many who enjoyed the best advantages, and is doing more in proportion to his means to educate the people of his section than any man I know in North Carolina. Providence looks kindly upon such men, and in nearly every instance these lines are descriptive of what happen to him:

"There was a man and people called him mad; The more he gave away the more he had."

Mr. Cox has made money and put it in buildings for the development of brains, and he has made more and more as he has given more and more. If every community in North Carolina had such a citizen as Mr. Cox, illiteracy would soon be banished from North Carolina.

If the decision of the government to purchase supplies for the construction of the Panama canal in foreign countries because they can be bought cheaper than at home does not give protection a black eye, then we do not understand it.

Judge A. W. Tourgee, well known as the author of the "Fool's Errand," and American consul at Bordeaux, France, died Sunday morning. He was a native of Ohio but once lived in North Carolina.

Mr. Bryan is preparing a trip to Europe to study conditions on the other side of the big pond, with an eye especially to municipal ownership of public utilities.

Bigelow, the defaulting Milwaukee banker, says "I was a fool, and that's all there is to it." Not all by a good deal. He was a thief as well.

They are now trying to make Secretary Morgan resign from the cabinet. He is being given until October to do so.

Strictly Genuine.

Most of the patent medicine testimonials are probably genuine. The following notice recently appeared in the Aftonian, Kan., Globe: "Joe Tac, a well known engineer, running on the Pacific between Wichita and Kiowa, lately appeared in a big one, with a picture, and when he was in the office today, we asked him about it. He says terrific pains in his stomach, and thought he had cancer. His druggist recommended Kodol and he says it cured him. He recommended it to others, who were also cured." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and cures all stomach troubles. Just as surely as the sun shines your stomach can be brought back to its originally pure condition and life sweetened by this lasting and truly the greatest digestant known. Sold by Jno L. Wooten.

An Indiana man has just sent to the State's conscience fund $150, which he says he stole twenty-four years ago. At that rate, it will take Banker Bigelow a good while to restore that $2,000,000 he pinched from the Milwaukee bank.

Bifious Bill was getting bloated, and his tongue was much coated. Patent "tonics" wouldn't cure him. Companies would not insure him. All his friends were badly frightened.

But their spirits soon were lightened. For Bill said—and they believed him, EARLY RISER pill relieved him. The famous little pills "Early Risers" cure Constipation, Sick Headache, Billiousness, etc., by their tonic effect on the liver. They never gripe or sicken but impart early rising energy. Good for children or adults. Sold by Jno L. Wooten.

At The Confessional.

As a result of the outcry on account of the decision about purchases of steel for the canal construction work, some very interesting literature is to be found in the Republican papers these days. The thick-and-thin protection press is aghast, but some of the papers of the Republican party feel it their duty to stand up to the President. For instance, The New York Tribune—the editor of which has recently been appointed ambassador to England—comes to the confessional with this on it lips.

"When the 'stand patters' drive home to the people a realization of the fact that steel rails can be purchased abroad for the Panama Railroad at $20 a ton, whereas they would compel the government to pay our manufacturers $33, though our manufacturers would deliver those same rails in Great Britain for $22 a ton which cost them at Pittsburgh about $12 a ton, instead of winning sympathy for our traders so 'abused' by their own government they will awaken sympathy for our private consumers."

Thus we have by an authority the outright admission of that which is so often denied, to wit: that foreigners can purchase American protected products cheaper than they can be bought by our own people. Of course it is true—as the present case of steel rails, worth at Pittsburgh $32 a ton, sold in this country at $33 and in England at $22—but it is interesting every time it is confessed. —Charlotte Observer.

Sour Stomach
 When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich, sour stomach is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let five hours elapse between meals, and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the sour stomach may be avoided. THE CANDY MAN IN MEXICO.

He has an Ancient History Dating Back to the Aztecs.

The street candy peddler is one of the things that attract the attention of the tourist on his first arrival in Mexico, says Modern Mexico. As the climate is warm enough to be out of doors all the year around, the candy vender is to be found at his post from one year's end to the other, including Sundays, Saturdays and feast days. The candy man has a very ancient history. The Aztecs were very fond of sweets, of which they understood the art of making very many kinds and varieties, of which they understood the art of making very many kinds and varieties. The soldiers of Cortes tell us that on their way to this city from Vera Cruz on that memorable march against the city of the Aztecs they were met along the way by venders who sold sweets of many kinds, which became very agreeable to the taste when once they had got accustomed to them. The candy vender takes up his place at the corner of a street, where he remains all day from early morning till late at night. As a general thing, too, you may find him in the same place all the year round. Once a vender has possession of a certain place the other venders recognize his right and do not molest him with competition. Sometimes a vender will sell only one kind of candy. In this case he in all probability makes it himself. However, many venders have lately been seized with the progressive spirit of the times and display quite a little stock in trade of kinds of sweets, most of which are not known outside of Mexico.

The candy vender generally has a small folding table about 1 1/2 by 2 1/2 feet in dimensions. On this he piles all his wares. Therefore you have no trouble in finding exactly what you want, for there it is all spread out before you. If you do not find it there you need not make further inquiries. The vender will not have it.

There are over a thousand street candy venders in the City of Mexico. Some of these have push carts, an inspiration of the new age of modern Mexico. These are generally more ambitious than their fellows and generally go about from fair to fair. They are to be found about the better markets and the plazas on feast days, and they generally hang around outside the schools, where they sell to the children on school days. Some of these venders, who are generally young fellows, have made considerable money.

A Sum in Addition.
 Mrs. Flaherty stepped off the scales in the back room of the grocery store as soon as she had stepped on.
 "Sure these scales is no gud for me," she said in a tone of deep disgust. "They only weigh up to wan hundred, an' I weigh wan hundred an' noineety pounds."
 "It's easily discouraged ye are," said her companion, Mrs. Dempsey, cheerfully. "Just step on to thir twic, me dear, an' let James here do th' sum 'r ye."

NOT AN ADVERTISEMENT

But a Notice Issued to the Customers of Baker & Hart.

It is a well established fact that no other paint manufactured anywhere is the equal in durability and covering capacity of "Town and Country Paint." Like all other commodities of recognized merit this excellent paint has not escaped the attention of counterfeiter, and various other kinds of paint, none of which possess any of the distinctive and desirable qualities of "Town and Country," are being offered as its equal, thus employing the reputation of this deservedly popular paint to sell an inferior product.

"Town and Country paint" will readily distinguish itself when on duty, but it is difficult for those who are not familiar with paint to appreciate the importance of using the best. "A rose called by any other name will smell as sweet" is an old saying, just as all paint is paint in the minds of many inexperienced consumers. But we believe that those who expect the best results for the money when they buy paint will appreciate any suggestion that will offer more positive and ready means of securing the right kind of paint. Be sure that the paint you buy is branded "Harrison's Town and Country Paint."

It is neither our desire or purpose to decry the character or quality of any other paint, and certainly not that of our honorable competitors, but it is proper that we should make an effort that will, while preserving the proper distinction between a perfectly pure paint and a so-called pure paint, enables the property owner and the trade at large to guard against the mistake of buying undesirable paint that is claimed to be just as good on the reputation of "Town and Country Paint," which is, as every one knows, of unquestioned merit, and which during our experience of over one hundred years of good paint making we have jealously guarded.

Baker & Hart, Greenville, N. C., are our wholesale and retail distributors.

Queen Quality

It Sets the Style.

What do we mean when we say that the styles of most of the shoes for women originate with the "Queen Quality" Shoe?

Simply this. The "Queen Quality" is, and always has been a leader. It gets up its own original patterns at great expense, and has established a reputation for the style and beauty of its creations.

OTHER MAKERS ARE CONTENT TO AWAIT THEIR APPEARANCE, and then copy them as closely as possible.

But "Queen Quality" "sets the style"—don't forget that!

And one other point—"Queen Quality" offers twice as many styles for your consideration as any other shoe.

You cannot suggest a need which is not fitted with a "Queen Quality" shoe specially designed for it.

Does not this realize the ideal of a strictly custom shoe? And such a shoe for $3.00. Think of it! Oxfords $2.50.
