ARRIVING DAILY.

There is one thing that we do not claim in our business to do and that is to sell goods cheaper than they can be bought—neither do we want to create the impression that our store is full of shop worn, out of style goods nor by filling our store with show bills and sign boards will we try to impress false ideas in your mind that we are going out of business, but we do wish it understood that we are receiving daily shipments of the newest things in and kindred materials so desirable with the women folk of Greenville and Pitt county, and we do hope that you will at least favor us with a visit to see these many new things.

RIBBONS, SILKS, EMBROIDERIES, LACES

Pulley & Bowen,

THE HOME OF WOMEN'S FASHIONS.

Greenville Lost.

In the game at Washington Monday Greenville lost by a score of 6 to 0 in favor of Washington. Through the fifth inning the game was beautiful, neither side succeeding in crossing the home plate. In the sixth Greenville made a serious error that gave Washington two runs. This seemed to unnerve our boys and by other errors they let Washington get four more on them in the two last innings. Greenville was put at a disadvantage early in the game by the Washington pitcher striking Turner with the ball and hurting him so badly that he was practically out of the game. Two others of the team were given heavy blows with the ball from the pitcher.

What They Said.

At last, after a courtship extending over a period of two years ten months and seventeen days, he had proposed and she had handed him the answer.

"Darling," he gurgled, "you are worth your weight in gold."

"Then I must do very valuable," she replied, "for it has been an awful long wait."—Chicago News.

Now, Did You Ever?

The old gentlemen had just stepped into the crowded train and had accidentally trodden on Algy Fitzgerald's foot.

"Confound you, you careless old buffaw!" cried Algy. "You've crushed my foot to a jelly!"

"Ah!" said the old man calmly. "Call's foot jelly, I suppose!"—London Hit Bits.

Higher Qualification.

Cutten—Jorgins is always bragging about his wife's cookery. Is she such a famous cook?

Dryde—No; she's more than that. She's a hypnotist. She has Jorgins under such perfect control that he'll eat anything she cooks, no matter how bad it is.—Chicago Tribune.

John Milliken, of Wilmington, while going out to pay off some hands at work in a swamp, was waylaid by three negroes and robbed of $103. The robbery occurred on the public road within two miles of the city.

Potato Market.

The prices on potatoes today were quoted as follows: New York, $1.25 to $1.50. Pittsburg, Pa., $1.85.

THE WEATHER

Partly cloudy tonight, showers on the coast, warmer in the extreme western portion, Wednesday fair.

NOTES ON DRINKING WATER.

1. The diseases most often transmitted by polluted drinking water are typhoid fever, cholera, dysentery and diarrhoeal diseases.

2. A pure and reliable water supply is the first requisite for continued good health. Shallow, open wells are very dangerous. The dug well is now obsolete and especially undesirable in cities and towns. It should, whenever practicable, be abandoned for the driven or bored well, or, much better, a public water supply properly safeguarded. Bored and driven wells should have a water tight casing of galvanized iron. They should never be less than 60 feet deep.

3. Where dug wells are continued in use a pump should be used rather than a bucket. The platform over the well should be water-tight. The casing of stone or hard brick should extend at least 2 feet above the level of ground. It should be covered with good cement inside and out.

4. Drainage or surface water should not flow toward a well from a stable, pig pen, privy, or any such place. None of these should be located, nor should kitchen or chamber slops be deposited on the ground within 150 feet of any well or spring.

5. Dug wells should be pumped or bailed dry and all sediment down to original bottom removed at least once a year. The inside of casing should be carefully examined at intervals and all cracks filled with cement or mortar of good quality.

6. The use of unfiltered cistern or rain water for drinking is not safe in localities where the English sparrow or the common pigeon abound. These birds often defile roofs with their excrement, and also carry thereupon polluted material, such as straw, rags and waste paper.

7. The use of patent household water filters is not recommended, unless they can be and are frequently and thoroughly cleaned and disinfected by boiling.

8. When a water is suspected of being polluted, before using it should be heated to 170° F. for 5 minutes or boiled for 1 minute. These temperatures for the time given are fatal to all known pathogenic bacteria. The "flat" taste of boiled water can be removed by pouring the water a few times from one vessel into another placed 2 or 3 feet below.

Altar Workers Will Sell Cream Tonight.

The Altar Workers Society of the Methodist Episcopal church will serve cream on the court house green tonight for the benefit of the new church building. The public patronage is earnestly solicited to help a worthy cause. Drop by on your way to the orphans' concert in the opera house.

Fully Explained.

"Pa, what is an entente cordiale?" "That's a polite way of referring to it when a couple of fellows who haven't been the best of friends decide to let bygones be bygones and step in to have a drink on it."—Chicago Record-Herald.

AYDEN ITEMS.

AYDEN, N. C., June 13, 1905.

Mrs. John Sparks and children, of Kinston, who have been visiting the family of J. A. Forrest, have returned home.

Miss Hattie Doughty, of Pamlico, after several days here with Mrs. C. M. Holton is now at Winterville attending the institute.

Wm. King and daughter, Miss Mollie, of Lenoir, are here on a visit to relatives.

Misses Ida W. and Annie Edwards spent Thursday and Friday with friends in Hookerton.

Misses Fannie Waters and Lucretia Willis who have been visiting Mrs. Ed Hooks, returned to their homes in Vanceboro Friday.

Elias Turnage, of Ormondville, was here during the week.

The receipts of the orphans entertainment and subscriptions in Ayden amounted to $103.40. Good, our people are magnanimous and kind and whenever the little orphans come to Ayden they will find open homes and a warm welcome.

Last Friday night the town commissioners passed an ordinance prohibiting the selling of cool drinks, merchandise &c, and ordering all places of business closed from Saturday night at 12 o'clock until Monday morning the usual business hour.

Claude and Tom Dawson, of Grifton, were here Sunday.

Misses Mary Hodges, of Kinston and Annie Lee Perry, of Macon, spent from Saturday until Monday with Miss Ida W. Edwards.

Miss Annie Joyner left on the train Saturday for a visit to friends and relatives.

Mrs. Dan Speight and Miss Lucy Speight are visiting Mrs. W. L. McLawhorn.

Misses Nina and Blanche Cannon came home Saturday from Greensboro where they have been attending the N. and I. college.

Miss Maynie Ives passed through on the train Saturday on her way home from attending school at Greensboro.

Sometime about the middle of May, Master Floyd Dixon while riding between Winterville and Ayden found a pocket book containing several dollars which he is anxious to return to the proper owner if they will see him and give a satisfactory description of same and pay for this notice.

There were many visitors here from the country Sunday to hear the orphans sing at the Baptist church. The little orphans are just fine and everyone should hear them. Certainly the Oxford Orphan Asylum is a grand and noble institution. Its work and the great good accomplished is a credit to the state and its benefactors.

The Orphans Tonight.

The amount realized from the concert tours of the children from the Oxford Orphan Asylum increase each year. The children give something of real value in return for the small admission fee to the concert. Many people are interested in and led to aid a noble work. The revenue from these tours maintains a number of homeless, orphan boys and girls. Give the concert class a liberal patronage tonight.

Fair Drinking Water.

A sample of water taken from one of the taps of the water plant in Greenville was sent to Gerald McCarthy, State Biologist, for analysis. In his report of analysis he says it is "Fair drinking water, free from surface contamination. Good steaming water."

The law requires that examinations of the water be made monthly.

Hear the orphans in the opera house tonight.

TRIBUTE TO JAMES B. CHERRY.

Address delivered June 11th, 1905, by Thomas J. Jarvis, at the memorial exercises held by Tar River Lodge No. 93 Knights of Pythias, upon the life and character of James B. Cherry, deceased, a member of said Lodge.

Death has made a vacant chair in our Castle Hall. It has invaded the precincts of our sacred Circle and taken from our midst our much beloved brother, James Burton Cherry, and we are assembled this evening, as a Lodge, to express our sorrow and to engage in these memorial services. The melancholy duty of preparing and delivering an address upon his life and character has been assigned to me.

James B. Cherry was born in the county of Pitt on the North side of Tar river, about eight miles from Greenville, on the 17th day of January, 1840. He was left fatherless in infancy and his education devolved upon a fond mother and devoted relatives and friends, at whose hands he ever received the kindest attention and affectionate care. He was educated at the academies in Greenville, Oxford and Asheville, and received from these institutions a liberal academic training. He was married in December, 1860, to the lovely and accomplished Miss Pattie Sherrod, and there was born of this happy union two lovely daughters, Mangie and Nina. Mangie still survives her father, and is the beloved wife of our esteemed townsman, the Hon. F. G. James. Nina married Dr. Zeno Brown, and died in the splendor of young womanhood. She preceded her father by several years to the beautiful realms above. His wife, Pattie, died February, 1869, and on the 16th of March, 1875, Mr. Cherry was married to Miss Ada M. Pearce, the "sweet singer of Greenville," who still survives him. There was born of this marriage J. B. Cherry, Jr., who bears the honored name of his honored and beloved father. Mr. Cherry died on the 13th day of March, 1905, after weeks of painful illness. Those weeks witnessed a heroic struggle between a vigorous and well preserved constitution and a constantly advancing illness. Mr. Cherry seemed to realize that the end was approaching, but his life had been so pure and just and upright that death had no terror for him. He was greatly attached to his family and friends, and the thought of leaving them naturally gave him pain; but the Great Beyond seemed to open up to him bright and beautiful visions. All through his illness he had the closest and most unceasing attention that love and affection could bestow, and every hour and minute of his departing days was watched with all the tender solicitude that affection and skill could give. Soft and delicate hands soothed his brow and kept the beats of his pulse, while skilled physicians and strong men stood around his couch ready to render any possible service. But disease at last triumphed, and amid the silence of the chamber of death, broken only by the wailing of the sorrow stricken family and friends, his spirit winged its everlasting flight to the shores of a blessed immortality where the good life he lived is sure to receive a crown of glory. Two days later a great concourse of people, in attestation of their love and esteem for him, followed his remains to the grave; and on a beautiful bright sunny day, just as nature was beginning to take on new life, typical of that new life upon which his soul was entering, we laid his body to rest to await the final call on the great Resurrection Morn.

Mr. Cherry rendered valuable public services to the county in which he was born and reared. At an early age he was made clerk of the Superior court of Pitt county, which office he held and the duties of which he faithfully discharged prior to 1868, while he was yet a young man. In 1874 he was elected treasurer of Pitt county, which office he held continuously for sixteen years, and until he voluntarily declined a re-election. In 1898 he was again elected treasurer of the county and continued to serve in that office until 1904, when he again voluntarily declined a re-election. His public service was an open book to be read by all men, and I dare stand here today and say that there was never an hour during the twenty two years that he had in his keeping the public funds of the county but what he could have accounted for every penny that he had received, and made a full settlement upon an hour's notice. No citizen or tax-payer gave himself the slightest concern about the public funds while J. B. Cherry was their custodian, because every one knew that the last penny was absolutely safe. He gave us an example of fidelity, honesty and correct dealings in public life that no one can excel, and that all should strive to emulate.

Such was the confidence and esteem in which he was held by his fellow citizens, and such was his great popularity in the county, that whenever there was a great political battle to be fought, the party to which he belonged and to which he rendered loyal support, always looked to him for leadership and sought to avail itself of the influence of his name by making him one of its candidates, and it is a significant fact that placing his name upon the ticket went far to give it assured victory. In 1874 when a great political struggle was to be made by his party, his name was placed upon the ticket and victory perched upon its banner. In 1898, when his party again marched forth to heroic struggle for supremacy, it again placed his name upon the ticket and victory was again assured. I do not think I use extravagant language, or overstate the fact, when I say that there has not lived in Pitt county, in the last fifty years, a man who had more completely the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens or who possessed greater popularity.

Quality vs. Quantity.

Hard muscles and strong body do not depend on the quantity of food you eat, but on its perfect digestion and proper assimilation. When you take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure your system gets all the nourishment out of all the food you eat. It digests what you eat regardless of the condition of the stomach and conveys the nutrient properties to the blood and tissues. This builds up and strengthens the entire system, overcomes and cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Belching, Sour Stomach, etc. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for what is sometimes called America's national disease, Dyspepsia, is destined to eventually work a wonderful and lasting benefit to sufferers from this distressing and mind harassing condition. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten.

Everything would seem to indicate that the prediction as to peace in the Republican newspaper camp was a trifle premature. In the meantime the Democrats are enjoying the fun. —Winston Sentinel

They never gripe or sicken, but impart early rising energy. Good for children or adults. Sold by John L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder. If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. Mrs. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Milo Center, N. Y.

Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and—if he cares to do so—can tell you that he knows very little about the bulk coffee he sells you. How can he know, where it originally came from, how it was blended—or with what—or when roasted? If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For OVER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed at our factories, and until opened in your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming in contact with dust, dirt, germs, or unclean hands.

In each package of LION COFFEE you get one full pound of Pure Coffee. Insist upon getting the genuine. (Lion head on every package.)

(Save the Lion-heads for valuable premiums.)

NONA

Some years ago I passed several weeks at a fishing village on the coast of Brittany. What a hole it was! But how picturesque! Finding myself in the vein for work, I lingered in this out of the way corner until the end of the month of September, which by a rare chance in rainy Finistere was that year exceptionally mild and clear.

My most frequent promenade was along the beach, having on my right the bleak and rocky cliffs and on my left the unbroken stretches of sand—an immense desert of sand left bare by the outgoing tide. Two or three times I had exchanged civilities with some custom house officer going his rounds, his gun slung over his shoulder. I was so regular and peaceful a promenade that the sea swallows were no longer afraid of me and hopped in front of me, leaving the print of their star shaped feet in the wet sand. I walked six or eight kilometers a day and returned home with my pockets filled with those faint shells which are found by burying the hand deep down in the damp pebbles.

This was my favorite excursion. However, on the days when a strong breeze was blowing and the tide was very high I abandoned the seashore, and, climbing the village street, I strolled along the sandy moor, or else I settled myself with a book on a bench in a corner of the cemetery, which was sheltered by the church tower from the west end.

It was a lovely spot, conducive to sadness and reverie. The church tower stood out against the autumn sky, over which dark clouds were scurrying. Crows, whose nests were in the steeple; flew out with their hoarse cawing, and the shadow of their large wings glided over the scattered tombstones, almost hidden in the grass.

In the evening more than at any other time, the last rays of the setting sun bathing the sea as though with blood, the ragged branches of the skeleton of an old apple tree silhouetted against the crimson sky and the deep intense stillness of the wild home of the dead flooded my soul with melancholy.

It was on such an evening as I have just described that, wandering among the tombs, many of which bore under the sailor's name this mournful legend, "Died at sea," I read on a new cross the following words, which astonished and puzzled me: "Here reposes Nona Le Maguet. Died at sea Oct. 26, 1878, at the age of nineteen."

Died at sea! A young girl! Women hardly ever go out in the fishing boats. How did this happen?

"Well, monsieur," said a gruff voice behind me suddenly, "you are looking at poor Nona's tomb."

I turned around and recognized an old sailor with a wooden leg whose good graces I had acquired by the aid of a few glasses of brandy which I had given him in the taproom at the inn.

"Yes," I replied. "But I thought that you fishermen never permitted women to go out with you. I have even been told that they bring you misfortune."

"And that is the truth," responded the good man. "Besides, Nona never went into a boat. Would you like to know how the poor little one died? Well, I will tell you."

"First of all, I must tell you that Pierre, her father, was a topsman, like myself, and an old comrade. At Bourget, when Admiral La Ronciere raised his golden helmet on the point of his saber, and we flung ourselves, hatchet in hand, on the embattled houses, we marched elbow to elbow, Pierre and I, and it was he who received me in his arms when those cursed Prussians put a ball in my thigh. That same evening in the ambulance at the fort Pierre held my hand to give me courage while the surgeon amputated my limb, and he was there at my bedside when the admiral brought me my medal. But those rascally Prussians got the best of us, and we were sent home. I, with my wooden leg, was practically helpless, but Pierre, who was uninjured, hired on board a fishing smack. Very soon afterward his wife died from an intermittent fever, leaving him the care of little Nona, who was going on ten years of age."

"Naturally while the widower was at sea it was I, his comrade, I, the old bachelor, who cared for the little one. She was a good and pretty child, monsieur; courageous and sweet tempered. We very often went to the rocks at low tide to gather turtles, shrimps, prawn, and sometimes we were fortunate enough to find a lobster. Ah, but we were good friends!

"This went on for about two years. Nona had made her first communion, grown and shot up like a thistle in the sand. But one day the Amelia, Le Maguet's boat, was overtaken in a storm and wrecked.

Herbert Spencer's Ear Stoppers. The philosopher had an infirmity common to great minds and little. He was selfish in regard to conversation which bored him, and he carried this selfishness to such a pitch that he bought a pair of ear stoppers and applied them regularly. When conversation in which he had taken part went on too long for his patience or when some unmerciful talker held forth he would take out of his pocket his ear stoppers and hastily put them in place, not removing them till he believed all danger to be past.—Saturday Review.

SUITED.
A barrel for the boozier,
A hand out for the beater,
A knock-out for the bruiser
And "Notice" for the feet.
"Notice" is the name. All druggists sell it and guarantee the result.

The skipper did not haul in his sail soon enough, and the boat struck on that reef you can see over there—just a little more to the starboard. There were four men in the crew—the skipper, two sailors and my poor Pierre. But the sea only gave up three of the drowned men and retained my comrade. Nona became an orphan. It goes without saying that I did my best to replace her father, but the child, even after the first sorrow passed away, did not seem to console herself. And do you know why, monsieur? Because of an idea all the women around here have. They believe that a soul must remain in pain until the judgment day unless it reposes in consecrated ground. We men do not believe in all this nonsense when we know what happens when there is a death on board ship. But Nona could not be forced to believe other than the women had taught her and continued to burn candles at all the pardons in the neighboring towns for the repose of her father's soul.

"However, in spite of everything, time is a famous merchant of forgetfulness, and Nona after a few years appeared to me to become somewhat reconciled. Besides, her grief had not prevented her from growing handsomer and taking a pride in herself, and it is not because I loved her like a father, but, upon my honor, she was the freshest and prettiest young girl in the parish. We lived so happily together. We were not rich, to be sure, but we lived, and we enjoyed ourselves all the same. I had my pension and my medal, and then we used to go together to hunt for lobsters in the rocks. The trade is a paying one, and there is only one danger—that of being overtaken by the tide. Ah, unfortunately that was how she met her death, poor little one!

"One day when my rheumatism confined me to the house she went fishing alone. It was just such a day as today, the sky clear, the wind high. When the rock searchers gathered together with full baskets they perceived that Nona failed to respond to their calls. There was no possible doubt. Great God, she had been delayed and surrounded by the rising tide! She had been drowned! Ah, what a night I passed, monsieur! At my age, yes, a hard hearted man like me, I sobbed like a woman. And the remembrance came to me of the poor child's belief that to go to heaven she must be interred in consecrated ground. Therefore as soon as the tide went down I went to the shore and, with the others, searched for the body.

"And we found poor Nona," continued the old sailor in a trembling voice. "We found her on a rock covered with seaweed, where, knowing that she was going to die, the poor little one had prepared herself for death. Yes, monsieur, she had tied her skirts below the knees with her fichu, through modesty, and with her old idea uppermost had attached herself to the seaweed by her hair, her beautiful black hair, certain that she would thus be found and interred in consecrated ground. And I can say, I, who know what bravery is, that there is perhaps not a man brave enough to do likewise."

The old man was silent. By the last gleam of the twilight I saw two great tears rolling down his weather-beaten cheeks. We descended to the village side by side in silence. I was profoundly touched by this simple girl's courage, who, even in the agonies of death, had retained the modesty of her sex and the piety of her race, and before me in the distant immensity, in the solitudes of the heavens and the sea, gleamed out the beacon lights and the stars. Oh, brave men of the sea! Oh, noble Brittany!—From the French of Francois Coppee.

Risk Too Great For Him.
"If you are suffering from insomnia," said the old school doctor to the patient, "just lie down, prop your head on a pillow and get some one to take hold of your throat, pressing gently with the fingers on each side, and you'll soon fall asleep."

But the next day when he asked the young man if he had followed instructions the latter replied gloomily: "No, I didn't. There was nobody at home but me and the mother-in-law, and I couldn't quite make up my mind to risk letting her get that hold on me."

Queen Quality

It Sets the Style.

What do we mean when we say that the styles of most of the shoes for women originate with the "Queen Quality" Shoe?

Simply this. The "Queen Quality" is, and always has been a leader. It gets up its own original patterns at great expense, and has established a reputation for the style and beauty of its creations.

OTHER MAKERS ARE CONTENT TO AWAIT THEIR APPEARANCE, and then copy them as closely as possible.

But "Queen Quality" "sets the style"—don't forget that!

And one other point—"Queen Quality" offers twice as many styles for your consideration as any other shoe.

You cannot suggest a need which is not fitted with a "Queen Quality" shoe specially designed for it.

Does not this realize the ideal of a strictly custom shoe? And such a shoe for $3.00. Think of it! Oxfords $2.50.
