THE MERCERIZED CONTROVERSY Still Continues to Burn Advertising Space and Money.

"EFF" Mary had a little lamp
The Vapo, resolute
And everywhere that Mary went
The lamp was always seen,—
For Mary had the whooping cough—
She would cough, cough and cough
And but for Mary's little lamp
She'd cough her head right off,
But every night by Mar, 's bed
The faithful lamp burned bright,
And Mary's cough and parents' too,
Could rest the whole long night

Ideal clothes are not easily defined, but it's easier to define than to make them. Ideals vary, what satisfies one man doesn't please another. That's what makes ideals an index to character, and also what makes ideal clothes difficult to produce. There are some general principles, however, and good quality is one of them.

The Style of Your Clothes

the pattern, the price you pay disclose your taste and common sense, but the quality is an index of character.

If you pay an all wool price for "mercerized cotton" fabrics that shows that you are easily "flimflamed," but your ideals may be good. If you willingly buy and wear the "mercerized cotton" adulteration, because it looks good, and nobody knows the difference, that's another indication. Maybe you govern your conduct by the same test.

Be an All-Wool Man

when it comes to buying clothing. Your clothes can be as good as they look if you say so. Our label means all wool and best workmanship, it is a small thing to look for, a big thing to find. Let your next suit have

LOCALS.

The colors red and blue are in evidence everywhere.

The "cock of the walk," Washington, is here in full force.

It has been like a big holiday, and really beat the 4th of July.

There were just four excursion boats that came up from Washington.

The oldest inhabitant has not seen Greenville so worked up over base ball as today.

The traps decorated with Greenville's colors made a pretty show on the street today.

Sheriff Tucker and Deputy Dudley cut the grass on the court house lawn this morning.

If THE REFLECTOR seems a bit base ball cranky, just mark it down that we are with the folks.

The thermometer reached the highest mark of the summer today, registering 95 degrees in the shade.

Washington umpire came in this morning. He called himself an umbrella mender, but the fans don't believe it.

The most pleasing thing that came along with the Washington aggregation was pretty girls. But Greenville held her own.

Terrible Blow By a Shaft.

Washington, N. C., June 22.—A well-nigh fatal accident happened yesterday at the lumber mill of Mr. W. B. Willing on the outskirts of town. A boy named Wright who was engaged in assisting his father on some work was struck by a rapidly revolving shaft and seriously hurt in the side and stomach. It is feared that he is also injured internally.

Washington colors, yellow and black, are much in evidence. Every rooter and rooterine who came along was bedecked.

P. N. Baile, of Winston, an excellent citizen of that place, died Thursday.

Greenville knows how to treat visitors white and always does so.

Don't be uneasy, Greenville will sober down again.

The Selection of Peace Envoys.

St. Petersburg, June 22.—The Russ says it is authorized to say that Count Cassini, the retiring Russian ambassador at Washington will not participate in the peace negotiations, but will leave the United States immediately on the arrival of Baron Rosen, his successor.

From independent sources the Associated Press confirms the statement of the Russ, that Count Cassini will have no part in the peace negotiations.

The question of a temporary suspension of hostilities seems to rest with Japan. In the meantime the chancelleries of St. Petersburg and Tokio are occupied with the selection of the plenipotentiaries. It can now be regarded as settled that they will number three on each side.

An important consideration requiring adjustment is the desire of each country to appoint negotiators of equal rank, and this increases the probability that M. Witte, president of the committee of ministers, may be one of the Russian plenipotentiaries if Japan names the Marquis Ito, president of the Japanese privy council. It is possible that M. Neillidoff, the Russian ambassador at Paris may not go to Washington. As dean of the Russian diplomatic corps he was the first choice of the Foreign Office, but he is of advanced age and his health is not robust. It is still an open question whether he may not ask to be relieved of his mission. In such an event it is considered certain that Baron Rosen will be appointed.

Government Crop Report.

Washington, June 20.—The weather bureau's weekly summary of crop conditions says:

Further improvement in the condition of cotton is very generally indicated throughout the cotton belt. The crop is now in a good state of cultivation, although some fields continue foul in portions of the central and western districts and in Florida. While, as a rule, good growth is reported, the plant continues small. Lice are still prevalent in North Carolina, but are less numerous in South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama. Considerable damage by web worms is reported from Oklahoma and Indian Territories, where some fields are being devoted to other crops. Boll weevils are spreading in Northwestern Texas but generally the damage is not great. Tobacco planting is largely finished except in the more northerly sections and the crop is generally doing well.

Pointed Paragraphs.

It's a wise proverb that knows its own father.

He who wears a long face doesn't necessarily live the longest.

In marriage one and one make one; in divorce one from one leaves two.

Any fool can write poetry, but it takes a wise guy to swap it for ready money.

Men who talk much usually say but little, and bore everybody except themselves.

Nothing worries a pessimist more than the noise made by people who shout for joy.

When a young man asks for the hand of a heiress he means the one in which she carries her purse.

Occasionally a bachelor kisses a baby girl because he hasn't the nerve to tackle one nearer his own size.

In after years it usually gives a married man a headache every time he hears another man whistling the wedding march.

THE WEATHER

Showers and cooler tonight. Saturday partly cloudy, showers and cooler in eastern portion.

AYDEN ITEMS.

AYDEN, N. C., June 23, 1905.

About 12 couples of young men and ladies left here Wednesday morning in wagons for a fishing frolic a few miles out in the country. They report fish bites, mosquitoes galore, tolerably warm, a nice time, a crowd on its return hungry and tired, but a day most pleasantly long to be remembered.

R. F. Johnson, who has been here for quite a while in the commission and brokerage business, has gone to Kinston to live and will conduct a similar business there. Mr. Johnson was very popular with our people and we all regret to part with him. We hope however in his new home success may crown his efforts and may his friendships formed there be as sincere as those in Ayden.

The family of W. L. McLawhorn are visiting over in Greene county and he says he finds himself in a deplorable position with nothing to eat and nothing to wear.

The first cotton blossom of the season was brought to town by W. C. Edwards from the country.

Mrs. William Worthington and children left on the train Wednesday for a visit to relatives over in the Mount Pleasant section.

John Sparks, of Kinston, has been here this week.

L. C. Quinerly, who has been away from home for quite a while returned Wednesday evening.

Miss Fannie Hardee, of Greene county, after visiting Miss Ida M. Edwards left on the train yesterday for Greenville.

W. E. Patriek has been to Kinston and returned.

Sulphurous!

No one has yet called for the umbrella left in our office Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Craven and Miss Ida W. Edwards took in the game of ball at Greenville Wednesday.

A large number of people expect to go on the excursion next Wednesday from here to Kinston.

Mrs. Grizzie McLawhorn living on the outskirts of Ayden was found in her home yesterday by the neighbors in an unconscious condition, she having suffered a stroke of apoplexy. Her condition is still very serious and grave apprehensions are felt as to her recovery. She is a very old lady and is among the first settlers of Ayden.

A. J. Tyson left this morning for Washington.

Exum Dail went to Washington Tuesday and returned Wednesday.

Miss Sudie Doughty, of Pamlico, is attending the institute at Winterville from this point.

Miss Lula Nobles is in attendance upon the institute.

Hon. J. L. Fleming and his brother, Dr. Major Fleming, of Greenville, were very pleasant callers to see us Tuesday.

B. F. Manning, of Winterville, passed around one of those pleasant smiles here during the week. You all know Benjamin.

Miss Pattie Skinner, of Greenville, is here on a visit to her brother, Dr. L. C. Skinner.

Thompson to Stay.

It will be a source of pleasure to the base ball fans to know that "Bull" Thompson the man who pitched the Suffolk game, has decided to stay with the Greenville team. He is a strong man, and will strengthen the team in several ways. He is a pitcher and a hitter.

Teasing Fried: "What makes that new baby at your home cry so much, Tommy?" Tommy (indignantly): "It don't cry very much and anyway, if all your teeth were out and your hair off and your legs so weak you couldn't stand on them, I guess you'd feel like crying yourself."

FRIDAY, JUNE 23, 1905.

Even the war news is not in it with base ball in Greenville.

Some folks may be waiting for a double tax to remind them when tax listing time is.

For keeping in the public eye the rivalry between Charlotte and Greensboro is sharp.

Interest in the Republican double newspaper venture at Greensboro has about run its course.

The weather bureau has been trying for several days to make it "cooler tomorrow." It continues warm.

A Western judge says playing poker is wicked gambling. Wonder how much the judge lost in his last game?

An exchange says that Newport society are to try Turkish cigarette. They will serve them right if they find them guilty.

The man who argues that we should sleep more may be talking good logic, but all of us have years without number of sleep awaiting us when it is all over here. The rest will come bye and bye.

The difference between a politician and a statesman is this. A politician is a man who has held an office and wants another one. A statesman is a man who has held office and keeps right on holding one. See the difference?

It took just about five years to settle the Gattis Kilgo case. It certainly looks to us like some method ought to be devised wherein litigation might be settled in a shorter space of time. The prolonging from one court to another very often brings about hardship to the side that is weaker financially. As to the merits of this case we confess to know very little, but it is a fact that the man with the ability financially to prolong litigation indefinitely wields too great a power in our courts. It did seem so in this particular case.

A Salisbury distiller who has swindled the government out of $22,000, was tried in the Federal court at Charlotte and given his choice of two sentences: To go to prison for two years and pay a fine of $5000; or restore the money of which he had defrauded the government, go to jail for two months and pay a fine of $200. He accepted the latter. But what we started out to say about this man is that the mayor, a minister and several other prominent citizens of Salisbury went to the trial and testified to his integrity and good character. And he a distiller who had stolen $22,000.

The county commissioners have levied a road improvement tax of 61 cents on each $100 valuation. While the tax is small, it will raise enough revenue to pay interest on a bond issue sufficiently large to put all the roads in the county in good condition. If bonds were issued for this purpose all the people of the county could quickly get the benefit of improved roads, and the present generation would have nothing but a little interest to pay each year for the benefit derived. There are some people who lift their hands in horror when a bond issue is proposed, but it is the cheapest way to get improvements. Good roads would be the best investment that could be made.

THREE JURORS CURED

Of Cholera Morbus with One Small Bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Cleburne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." For sale at Wooten's Drug Store.

State Auditor Dixon is sending out to the pension boards of the various counties copies of the new pension law, together with the list of pensioners from each county. The present law was amended by the last Legislature as follows: "Provided that the county board of pensions may place upon the pension roll in the classes to which he or she would otherwise belong any Confederate soldier, sailor or widow, disqualified by the provisions of this section who may appear to be unable to earn a living from property valued at as much as $500 or more for taxation, and who may appear to the board, from special circumstances, worthy to be placed upon the pension roll." Regarding this new provision State Auditor Dixon says: "Of course this matter is left entirely with the county pension board and it is earnestly desired that the latter be extremely careful in making thorough examination of each application who has property over $500 in value, because every one of this class who is placed upon the pension rolls will take money from those who possibly need it worse, and unless the cases are extremely urgent I think it would be wise for the county pension board not to approve this class of pensioners."—Raleigh cor. Charlotte Observer.

Quality vs. Quantity.

Hard muscles and strong body do not depend on the quantity of food you eat, but on its perfect digestion and proper assimilation. When you take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure your system gets all the nourishment out of all the food you eat. It digests what you eat regardless of the condition of the stomach and conveys the nutrient properties to the blood and tissues. This builds up and strengthens the entire system, overcomes and cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Belching, Sour Stomach etc. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for what is sometimes called America's national disease. Dyspepsia, is destined to eventually work a wonderful and lasting benefit to sufferers from this distressing and mind harassing condition. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten.

According to the State census just completed New York city contains a population of 3,987,252; the total vote for President in that city at the election of November, 1904, was 368,072. The industrious assessors of Philadelphia have discovered and returned on their latest lists 375,812 resident voters. Comment is unnecessary.—Philadelphia Record.

Bilious Bill the sleepy head, Dearly loved to lay a bed, Couldn't wake him if you shook him;

When his slumbers overtook him, Suddenly he started waking, Ev'ry morn when day was breaking.

What's this magic necromancer? EARLY RISERS, that's the answer.

The Famous Little Pills, "Early Risers" cure Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness, etc., by their tonic effect on the liver. They never gripe or sicken, but impart early rising energy. Good for children or adults. Sold by John L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Not Too Jubilant

And now the estimate for the year's cotton crop has been set at eight million bales. On this estimate already some persons are counting on high prices next fall. It is not safe to become too jubilant over such a prospect, even if the forecast were a reasonable one. It was Henry W. Grady, we believe, who said that cotton is a fool. It might be added now that it often makes fools of men. Humanity's memory is treacherous in some things, and object lessons often count for little; and if the expectation of ten cents for cotton next fall should take a good hold upon the people now, they might get ten cents and be no better off than if they should get only eight cents. Such expectation would flush the people with a spirit of extravagance and their accounts would be larger at the end of the year. Let's not be too jubilant over the prospect of high prices in the fall. Many changes can come in four months.—Scotland Neck—Commonwealth.

Sour Stomach

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich, sour stomach is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let five hours elapse between meals, and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the sour stomach may be avoided. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville.

No Tax For $2 Hotels

The State Auditor has received notice from sheriffs that certain hotel keepers in the State will not pay the tax levied in the revenue act of the last Legislature on hotels for the reason that the section of the act is defective in that there is no tax levied on hotels charging a two-dollar rate. It provides that for hotels charging one dollar and less than two dollars a tax of 25 cents per room shall be levied, and hotels charging more than two dollars a tax of 50 cents per room.

This leaves the "two-dollar houses" without a tax specified, although the Legislature intended to have two dollar houses pay 50 cents per room. The Williams House, Clinton, is the first to decline to pay the tax and counsel for the proprietor is George E. Butler, Republican Representative in the last Legislature from Sampson county.—Raleigh Post.

We do not believe that actually tampering with the jury has defeated the ends of justice nearly so often as the system that allows lawyers for the defense to pick jurors known by them to be favoring to their client.—Durham Herald.

Cured of Lame After 15 Years of Suffering

"I had been troubled with lame back for fifteen years and I found a complete recovery in the use of Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says John G. Bisher, Gilliam, Ind. This liniment is also without an equal for sprains and bruises. It is for sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville.

Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and—if he cares to do so—can tell you that he knows very little about the bulk coffee he sells you. How can he know, where it originally came from, how it was blended—or with what—or when roasted? If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For OVER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed at our factories, and until opened in your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming in contact with dust, dirt, germs, or unclean hands.

In each package of LION COFFEE you get one full pound of Pure Coffee. Insist upon getting the genuine. (Lion head on every package.)

(Save the Lion-heads for valuable premiums.)

"Born Enemies" And a Token of Eternal Surrender

Dinner was just over at the mess room of the young officers of the White hussars, stationed outside of Pontivy, and a group of gay fellows stood idly lounging on the beautiful terrace that overlooked the city.

Suddenly Lieutenant Kirby turned to one of the men behind him and, seizing his arm, cried mischievously:

"It's no use, old man! We all know about it, so you might as well confess!"

The officer to whom he had spoken looked up in astonishment. He was a singularly handsome fellow, with honest blue eyes and a proud bearing.

"What in thunder are you talking about?" he demanded amiably.

"Don't look so surprised," replied the other. "Every one here knows that you are engaged to Miss Kitty Darass."

"They know more than I do, then," was the calm reply. "Because I happened to lead the cotillon with her the other night at Lady Ashe's and because I have been seen riding with her and her brother it follows, forsooth, that I am engaged to the lady! It is just what you might expect in a little garrison town."

Lieutenant Kirby listened with an incredulous smile.

"That's all very well," he said, "but if I had been in your place I should have looked nearer home. Colonel Gregory loves you like a son, and Miss Madeline is a most bewitching young lady. But Bobby Erskine is the favored mortal at present, lucky dog!"

This time his words produced a distinct effect.

"Erskine and Madeline—little Mad! Why, she is only a child!"

"That shows all you know about it," said Kirby teasingly. "Children have a way of growing up and becoming fascinating young ladies."

Bernard Worthington did not reply. He had received a shock, and it was not long before he made some excuse and hastily quitted the company of his fellow officers.

"Decidedly we are 'born enemies!'"

Bernard walked rapidly in the direction of the colonel's house. The curtains were not yet drawn and showed the large parlor brilliantly lighted, but the balcony, Madeline's favorite place, was empty.

The lieutenant was just about to ring the bell when the young girl's laugh rang out clearly above his head. "Without doubt Bobby Erskine was there."

He turned away, furious with himself and every one else. The impudent young puppy! What business had he to be coming around Madeline? And why hadn't he, Bernard, seen that the colonel's daughter was no longer a child, but a very beautiful young lady? Did it need a stranger to make him recognize the transformation? The lieutenant kicked himself mentally.

Returning to his rooms, he sat for a long time watching the silvery moonlight that flooded the window. He could think of nothing but Madeline, and now she must detest him for his domineering ways, entirely forgetting the many little courtesies that no one but he had shown the colonel's tomboy daughter. Bernard's mind was full only of the sharp speech he had made her a few days before when her levity had seemed particularly ill timed, and the memory of a tear she had dashed away became intolerable.

In fact, that single tear prevented him from sleeping. He tossed and turned in vain.

At last, with the dawn and an early ride through the cool country, the lieutenant succeeded in getting some order in the confused chaos of his ideas. Promptly at 10 o'clock he made his way once more to the colonel's door, and this time he did not hesitate as he rang the bell.

The maid led him to the back of the house, where a wide piazza overlooked the beautiful garden.

Troubled, his heart beating wildly, a thousand confused ideas rushing madly through his head, Bernard looked about him. The piazza was deserted, but down under one of the big trees the young fellow caught a glimpse of a white dress.

He hastened down the steps and surprised Madeline reading, or, rather, pretending to read, though her attitude was listless, and it seemed to the lieutenant that she looked sad. He stammered an excuse for his early visit.

Madeline received him with a weary smile.

"Are you not always welcome?" she said in answer to his excuse.

Bernard sat down beside her, wondering how to begin the subject that lay nearest his heart.

"I wanted to make sure of a little visit with you," he said. "I shall probably be very busy for the next two or three days."

"Was that the reason you did not come to see us last night?" asked Mad a trifle bitterly.

"Last night? No; I—I had a headache."

"Doubtless your new duties as fiance prevented you also. How is the attractive Miss Kitty?"

"Confound Miss Kitty! Do you believe that cock and bull story, too, Mad? I thought you had more sense than to credit every story that the gossips in this infernal place set going," growled Bernard.

A sudden smile crossed Madeline's piquant face, but she repressed it instantly.

"Why, I thought she was such an intelligent lady—so well balanced and methodical—quite the vision of your dreams," she added, a spice of malice in her tone.

"She is a thousand miles from being the lady of my dreams!" declared the lieutenant warmly, looking earnestly at his pretty companion. "She? Never! She has none of the charm, the freshness, the wit, that would attract me. I want at least a show of tenderness in the woman to whose mercies I intrust my heart—some one who will love me, if only a little. Besides, Mad," he added, suddenly restraining his impetuous outbreak, "you might have trusted me enough to know that I would have told you before any one else if it was anything serious. Do you trust me at all, Mad?" he asked after a pause.

The young girl looked at him in surprise.

"Because if you do," Bernard continued without waiting for an answer, "I want to ask you a question. May I?"

Madeline nodded her head in consent.

"Tell me, then, is it true that you have encouraged young Erskine?"

The colonel's daughter moved impatiently, but Bernard braved her displeasure.

"I cannot tell you how much I hope it is not so," he went on. "Bobby is a good chap, but not at all the kind of fellow for you. You would never be happy with him in the world. You can't depend upon him for an instant. I realize that what I am saying and doing may seem unworthy of an officer and a gentleman, but, oh, Mad, I desire your happiness more than anything else in the world, and I cannot bear to see you throw yourself away upon a man who I know is not worthy!"

The lieutenant stopped. He was pale, but his voice rang clear and earnest.

"Thank you," said Mad after a slight pause. "I did not know that Mr. Erskine was desirous of making me his wife. Certainly I have never, never given him the smallest encouragement in such an idea."

She was silent for a moment and then added dreamily:

"If ever I marry it will be with a man to whom I can give my whole confidence, some one whose companion I will be both glad and proud to become and who will be gentle and kind with me."

Bernard looked at her. He had never seen her in this mood before. She had always flouted him whenever he had tried to be serious.

"What a brute you must think me, Mad!" he murmured contritely. "How could I ever have been such an ass as to scold you?"

Madeline moved her hands in a pretty gesture of denial, and her eyes spoke eloquently. Bernard looked at her, scarce daring to hope. Behind the blue eyes lay a love too strong to be denied, and the young man seized both the white hands in his. Just then a deep voice exclaimed above them:

"Seems to me that for two enemies you are not doing a killing business this morning!"

"Oh, colonel, colonel," cried Bernard, turning toward the piazza, "will you—would you?"

"Will I, would I what?" laughed Colonel Gregory.

"Now you are jesting with me! Give me Madeline for my wife! I beg you. I love her."

The colonel called to Mrs. Gregory, who was inside.

"My dear, what is your advice?" he asked, smiling. "Here is Bernard, who declares he wants Madeline for his wife because he loves her. Do you think it can be true?"

Mrs. Gregory looked happily at her daughter.

"What do you say, dear? Are you not afraid of such a severe husband?"

Madeline glanced up to where her mother and father were standing; then she turned frankly to the eager young fellow beside her.

"We are not 'born enemies' any longer," she said softly.

Nor were they.

But one of the first presents that the young officer gave his promised bride was a beautiful pin made in the shape of a sword with the handle set with sparkling brilliants.

"In token of eternal surrender," he said, kissing her.—Boston Herald.

Queen Quality

It Sets the Style.

What do we mean when we say that the styles of most of the shoes for women originate with the "Queen Quality" Shoe?

Simply this. The "Queen Quality" is, and always has been a leader. It gets up its own original patterns at great expense, and has established a reputation for the style and beauty of its creations.

OTHER MAKERS ARE CONTENT TO AWAIT THEIR APPEARANCE, and then copy them as closely as possible.

But "Queen Quality" "sets the style"—don't forget that!

And one other point—"Queen Quality" offers twice as many styles for your consideration as any other shoe.

You cannot suggest a need which is not fitted with a "Queen Quality" shoe specially designed for it.

Does not this realize the ideal of a strictly custom shoe? And such a shoe for $3.00. Think of it! Oxfords $2.50.
