EXCURSION DID NOT GO.

Crowd Not Large Enough to Make the Price.

There was to have been an excursion from here to Tarboro today by one of the colored Sunday schools of the town. When the passenger train came by Tuesday evening a coach was dropped here for use by the excursionists and the train was to pick the coach up when it came along this morning. A number of colored people were at the depot this morning ready for the excursion, but the train came and went and left them standing there. It turned out that one hundred excursionists were necessary to make the required price for the train to pull them, and as that many did not show up the excursion was called off. There was disappointment among those who wanted to go.

Mrs. J. D. Bundy Dead.

The many friends in Greenville of Rev. J. D. Bundy, presiding elder of this district, learn with regret of the death of his wife which occurred at their home in Rocky Mount Tuesday afternoon. Rev. R. C. Craven, of Tarboro, was passing through Greenville on the evening train, and told friends whom he saw at the depot of Mrs. Bundy's death. He said she had been suffering slightly some days from a boil on her hand, but up to Monday had experienced no great inconvenience from it. Monday night she was bitten by a mosquito, from which it is supposed blood poison set in. The poison developed rapidly and she died Tuesday afternoon.

United States Commissioner Appointed for Pitt County.

We are informed that Judge Thos. B. Parnell, of the Federal court for the eastern district of North Carolina has appointed Col. I. A. Sugg a United States Commissioner and Col. Sugg has accepted the position. It is very evident that there is great need in this county for such an officer, and we believe the good people of the county will heartily endorse the appointment, and believe the appointment a most excellent one.

Hurts Fodder But Makes Hay.

It is the happy man who looks at the bright side of things. As a farmer was asked if the rain was not ruining much fodder. "Yes," he replied, "but it is making hay grow as fast as you ever saw it." So it is not so bad after all.

MISS SALLIE ANN JONES.

A Born Teacher Who Willed Her Estate to an Orphan Asylum.

I have your request to contribute a sketch of some great North Carolina teachers whom I have known, for publication in the educational edition of your paper to be issued on the 13th, inst. In the attempt to comply with your request, I will as briefly as possible, present your readers, one perhaps unknown to fame and yet one, who if judged by her true and high apprehension of the responsibility of a teacher, her long and arduous service as an educator and her remarkable success in impressing those who came under her influence with a proper appreciation of the value of moral and intellectual culture, would, I think be deemed worthy a place by the side of those who occupy the most exalted positions in the Pantheon of North Carolina's truest and worthiest sons and daughters.

About sixty-five years ago, or to be exact 1838, Miss Sallie Ann Jones, then a young lady of eighteen or twenty years, opened a primary school in an upper room of the residence of Miss Annie Evans of blessed memory in the good old town of Greenville. Her school soon outgrew the capacity of that room and was removed to the old Masonic Lodge, thence on to the Greenville Academy, whose halls had been honored by the presence and services of such teachers as Ellenwood, Lovejoy, Henry Dimmock, Judge E. J. Warren, Dr. C. J. O'Hagan, David R. Wallace, Mr. James Murray and others.

For more than a quarter of a century this primary school was an abiding institution in that town, attracting by its well earned reputation, a large patronage from Pitt and the adjoining counties, and few were the boys and girls of that section and period who did not share its advantages. It was strictly held to its original basis, never transgressing in its curriculum, the elementary branches of English—these were taught, however, with a precision and thoroughness never excelled elsewhere.

Miss Jones was a lady of rare intelligence. Her mind had been developed and cultivated by study and by careful and judicious reading; she had a genius for teaching and was devoted to it as a life work; she knew how to excite and sustain in the minds of her pupils, an interest in their studies and possessed to an eminent degree an aptitude for imparting instruction; she was thoroughly systematic in all things, and proverbially prompt; and best of all, scorned any refuge that might serve as an excuse for an evasion of duty. It follows from the above, that the discipline in her school must have been nearly perfect. She won by her gentle and sympathetic bearing towards her pupils their confidence and esteem, and yet with her uniform conscientiousness, she was inexorable in the maintenance of discipline; her rules were to be obeyed. Upon the table at which she sat laid the insignia of authority—the dread instrument of retribution—the studious and obedient regarding it with a humorous complacency, while the disobedient and delinquent, it was an object of terror. There are two venerable and most estimable ladies living today in the good city of Raleigh, one of whom can testify to the truth of the above statement; the other, if not from personal experience, can, as an eye witness confirm the testimony.

I recall quite a number of her boys, who have risen to distinction in life, a few to eminence, and scores of her girls who have graced the most polished circles of society from whose homes, sons and daughters have gone forth, who are today the benefactors and ornaments of the communities in which they live. It was she who guided their youthful feet in the paths of virtue and learning, and it is through them, that the gracious influence of her life is going out and on in ever widening circles.

In the course of her useful career she accumulated quite a nice little estate which dying, she bequeathed to one of the orphan asylums in the state, an act strikingly in accordance with her noble and generous nature. T. C. DAVIS.

Wilson, N. C., Aug. 10.

[The above was taken from the recent educational edition of the Raleigh News and Observer. It will be read by the people of Greenville with much interest, especially the many who were pupils of Miss Sallie Ann Jones and love her memory.—Editor]

Friday Night.

The Imperial Entertainment Co. that is to appear in Masonic temple opera house Friday night, has just closed a most successful summer season at Wrightsville beach, where thousands of people witnessed the splendid performances. The life motion pictures are worth seeing and should not be missed.

Next Wednesday, 23rd, is the excursion to Norfolk.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., Aug. 16.

Mrs. Sarah Taylor, our popular milliner, left Monday morning for Baltimore, where she expects to purchase her fall stock of goods.

Misses Hattie Kittell and Lala Chapman have gone to Gold Point to visit Misses Vivian and Lyde Roberson.

C. A. Fair, of Ayden, was in town yesterday.

Miss Mollie Bryan is visiting friends at Bethel.

Last Saturday morning the little daughter of Dr. Cox was playing with her pet kitten, as usual, when the kitten bit her. No notice was taken of the bite until a little later the kitten began having fits and soon died. Then great fear was entertained as to the kitten's having hydrophobia. The kitten's head was preserved and on Sunday Dr. Cox, with his wife and little Grace, left for hospital in Baltimore taking with them the kitten's head.

Mrs. J. W. Sparks left yesterday morning for Baltimore to purchase a full line of millinery.

Many of our citizens have cleared their side walks of grass and weeds and they have a much better appearance. A few seem to dread the hoe, but after a little rest here is no doubt but what they, too, will be sharers in nice and clean sidewalks.

After an extended visit to relatives near Washington, Miss Magdalene Cox came home Saturday night.

Mrs. M. I. Cox has been visiting friends in Ayden. After a very pleasant visit there she came home yesterday morning.

See Hunsucker's nice buggy robes before buying. They are very pretty and just the kind you want. Don't fail to see them.

Prof. G. E. Lineberry came home Saturday night from Fremont and the surrounding country and left yesterday morning for Bertie county.

Frank and Charlie James of Stokes were in town Sunday.

Mrs. McGlohon, of Ayden, came up yesterday morning to spend a few days with her daughter, Mrs. W. L. House.

Major Manning, a former student of Winterville High School, was here Sunday.

To Whom it May Concern.

This is to certify that I umpired the game of ball between Ayden and Ormondville, August 3rd, and that there was an understanding before the game, between both captains—McKinnie and Turnage respectively—and myself, that only seven innings were to be played.

Willis Dixon.

Miss Lillie Carmer Dead.

Miss Lillie Carmer, daughter of Mrs. J. R. H. Carmer, died at Washington Tuesday. She was well known in Greenville, where she frequently visited some years ago, and had a number of friends here.

SLIM PROSPECTS OF PEACE.

The news from St. Petersburg shows that Russia thinks the terms of peace proposed by Japan are absurd, and the sentiment there is that peace is impossible unless there is a modification of these terms. The balance of the world looks upon Russia as whipped in the fight, but that nation appears not ready to acknowledge the defeat. The official sentiment given out at St. Petersburg is as follows:

"That the terms of peace are regarded in their entirety as quite impossible of acceptance and close scrutiny has not removed the very unfavorable impression their first reading has produced here. If they are not modified especially in the matters of indemnity and territorial concessions peace it is thought is impossible and the continuance of the negotiations useless.

"The Japanese terms are regarded in Russia as demands which might be made upon an utterly crushed and powerless enemy but it is absurd to propose them to a power like Russia which has half a million men in the field facing the enemy. This army is in good condition and eager for action. It possesses many advantages of position.

"The more hopeful feeling which is noticeable here can be traced to the conviction that Mr. Witte, who is thoroughly cognizant of the views of the Russian government would not continue negotiations at Portsmouth unless he had reason to believe that Japan would reduce her demands sufficiently to render them acceptable to Russia. The Russian envoys went to Portsmouth ready to make reasonable and honorable concessions and if peace is to result from the negotiations on American soil Japan also must show an equal spirit of reasonableness and sincerity in her protestation for peace."

Crum, the negro collector at Charleston, did not get a crumb of comfort at Asbury Park. He took his wife up to that popular New Jersey resort and thought he would ride around the board walk in a rolling chair like the big white folks. He went to the keeper of the chairs and was told he could get the chair if he would roll his wife himself, as the white boys were not made to roll colored people. Crum would not do the rolling so had to walk.

"Dead soldiers draw no pensions" is one of the "pointed paragraphs" appearing in the Chicago News. There must be some mistake in this, or how could the pension roll of a war forty years ago keep on increasing rather than decrease? That pension roll creates the impression that a name once on it stays there forever.

Down in New Orleans they say the negro is practically immune from yellow fever, and the reason given is that his skin is so thick mosquitoes can't get their bills through.

All the other varmints are paling into insignificance along with the mosquito. It is to be hoped if people start out gunning for them that the game wardens will not interfere.

Since it has been given out that the president has reconsidered the idea of calling an extra session of congress in November, the country can draw an easier breath.

The Raleigh Evening Times has increased its size from six to eight pages and added the Associated Press telegraph service. The Times grows better all the time.

If Governor Vardaman, of Mississippi, thinks Louisiana started the yellow fever just to spite him, why don't he take it to get even?

Graft for the Members.

It has just been made public that 978 fountain pens and 2,650 jack knives that cost the state about $15,000 were supplied to the 290 members of the Connecticut General Assembly that has just closed. This supply was in the nature of extra stationery, the state at the opening of the Legislature furnishing every member in both houses with all the stationery and pens and knives that the legislators are supposed to need during the session. The $15,000 was expended for extras in this line.

There were thirty-five Senators and 225 Representatives. It has been figured out by the State Controller's Department that more than three fountain pens and nine knives went to each legislator, if the extra supply was evenly distributed, but it was claimed that there was no such equal distribution. Nearly 2,000 knives and about 700 fountain pens were bought for the house alone. It was said that about a third of the members got neither extra pens nor extra knives and that about half of the rest received only one pen and one knife apiece.—New York Sun.

Water Alone is Symbolic.

Here's to Governor Hoch, of Kansas! As the accompaniment to the toast we quaff of water—the same fluid with which the battleship Kansas was christened Saturday at Camden, N. J. Some may think that it was eccentricity on the part of Governor Hoch to have the battleship christened with water instead of with champagne and others may think that it was a desire to be odd in order to create notoriety. For our part we think that it was good judgment and fair mindedness. Why not christen a battleship with water? And why christen it with champagne? The former is unanswerable and to the latter can be made the reply that there is no sensible reason; aside from tradition. There may not be any harm in christening a battleship with champagne, but there certainly is no good in doing so. Champagne does not coincide with a proper conception of christening. Water does. Its purity corresponds precisely with the nature of the event. Let water be used, say we.—Wilmington Dispatch.

When one wants a particular commodity one is much gratified to come upon an advertisement telling where it may be had, what it will cost and other facts about it. The information is in the nature of news, which is more important to the person interested than data concerning thecession of Sakhalin or the status of the Equitable war. Wise merchants recognize, this unending hunger for store news and enrich their "ads" accordingly.—Ex.

We believe in economy in all things but economy does not always mean necessarily the expenditure of a small amount of money. It is sometimes economical in the end to spend money on what seems a large scale. Too often we think that the best city, county or state government is the one that spends the least money. The best government is the one that gives the people most in return for the money spent.—Winston Sentinel.

A woman swearing offends no more against morals than a man swearing, but she offends more against manners, and by about as much as we are the more shocked at her swearing than at his, by so much do we hold manners above morals.—Life.

A correspondent of the Charlotte Observer fires this query at the bug editor: "Do a doodle do?" Well, we don't know about that. But we do know that a "cock-a-doodle do."—Wilmington Star.

Mr. Obe Witmer, a prominent druggist of Joplin, Mo., in a circular to his customer, says: "There is nothing on the market in the way of patent medicine which equals Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These tablets invigorate the stomach and liver and strengthen the digestion. They also regulate the bowels. For sale by Joo. L. Wooten, druggist.

A Warning to Mothers.

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to grip. If it does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be prepared at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by Joo. L. Wooten, druggist.

SELADANG SHOOTING.

A Sport That Calls For All of the Hunter's Skill and Nerve.

Called tigon (incorrectly) in India, seladang in Malaya, siang in Burma and gauding in Siam, the gaur (Bos gaurus) is the largest and fiercest of all the wild cattle, with hoofs small in proportion to its height and of deerlike rather than oxlike character. Its sense of smell is as acute as that of the elephant and its vision much keener. When you seek one of these cattle you need all your hunter's skill and your nerve, for next to the elephant and bracketed with the Cape buffalo of Africa I believe its natural temperament and the character of country in which it is found make the seladang in the Malay peninsula the most formidable quarry on earth.

In India, where the range of the gaur is the hilly, wooded districts, they are more apt to be found in herds of some size and, because of the more open sections, less difficult of approach and less dangerous to the hunter than in the Malay peninsula, where the jungle is the densest that grows, and almost invariably the quarry has the man at a disadvantage. In Malay it is snap shooting, where the game on being wounded turns hunter and, concealed, awaits the sportsman, who must approach with infinite caution, with senses always alert and hand ever ready if he would stop or turn aside the vicious charge. You may never in this jungle survey the field of operations from some vantage point, but in the close growing angle of vines and canes and thorn bushes and heavy coarse weed of grasslike mass, through which you can never get even dim sight for over twenty yards and most of the time can scarcely see that many feet ahead, you must follow the tracks of the seladang you have wounded, never knowing at what instant the maddened beast may burst from the jungle practically right on top of you. One seladang I was fortunate enough to finally get was only just at the other side of a bamboo clump when he started his charge full at me. This is the dangerous and the unavoidable feature of hunting the beast in Malay. Luckily for the hunter, the seladang, if unsuccessful in its charge, passes on to await him at another point. Never have I heard of one turning instantly to a second charge after missing the hunter on the first rush. But, on the other hand, if the seladang charges home it remains to gore its victim.—Outing.

A Spelling Lesson.

Brown (to Sharpe, who prides himself on his spelling)—I bet I can give you a word you can't spell.

Sharpe (scornfully)—I bet you can't.

Brown—Very well. How do you spell "need," meaning to need bread?

Sharpe—Poof! K-n-e-a-d, of course.

Brown—Wrong!

Sharpe—Wrong? Meaning to knead bread, you said, didn't you?

Brown—Yes.

Sharpe—Well, it's k-n-e-a-d, I tell you.

Brown—Not at all. You k-n-e-a-d dough, but you n-e-e-d bread. It's a simple word. Sorry you couldn't spell it.

Louis Philippe and Soult.

Louis Philippe knew that Marshal Soult clung to power, and that his fall would be bitter to him. But when the time came the future ministers, with Thiers at their head, were assembled at the Tuileries, while in the next room Louis Philippe broke the news to Soult. The interview took a long time, and the new ministers were not without some apprehension. Finally the door was opened just enough to allow the king's queer pear shaped head to pass, and he whispered: "A little patience, gentlemen. Just a little patience—we are weeping together."

Some Flower Names.

Who could guess that the dandelion was the "dent-de-lion," or lion's tooth; the tulip so called because it looks like a turban, and tulip was another name for turban? The beautiful gladiolus is a sword lily—"gladiolus" in Latin means "a little sword." It is so called from the shape of its leaves. The asphodel is from the Greek word, meaning "king's spear." The name daffodil comes from "asphodel," and so means the same thing.—St. Nicholas.

Delightful.

The last bus, full, of course, inside. Rain falling in torrents. Conductor—Any gentleman get outside to oblige a lady?

"She can come and sit on my knee if she likes," said a gentleman. And to his great surprise in bounced a buxom wench, who forthwith appropriated the offered knee. After a time the man got into conversation with his fair burden, asked her where she was going and on hearing her destination exclaimed, "Bless me, that's my house!"

"Yes, sir," blushing replied the fair one. "I'm the new cook."—London Tatler.
