Latest Dispatches of Wrecked Excursion.

Number of Dead May Reach 100--Worst Wreck A. C. L. Ever Had--Several From Greenville Killed and Injured.

They were anxious moments to the crowd that waited around the telegraph office Thursday evening and until well into the night to get further information from the wrecked excursion train at Bruce, Va., told about in Thursday's REFLECTOR, and in which a number of Greenville people were involved. Those having friends or kindred in the wreck were anxious to learn of their safety, and to enable them to get as much information as could be had the telegraph office was kept open at night an hour later than usual.

As details of the wreck came in the horror and magnitude of the disaster increased. Early reports stated that the engine and one car had gone overboard into the river, while later the number increased to three cars, and the list of casualties grew from 7 killed and 24 injured to 20 killed and about 50 injured, with the belief that even more cars were submerged beneath the cars.

It was known Thursday night that among the identified dead the following were from Greenville: Walter Forbes, a young white boy.

Nelson Peebles, colored. Doc Hemby, colored. Mary Jones, colored. John Marable, colored.

Advices were sent for the bodies of these to be sent to Greenville by first train.

W. E. Jolley, white, manager of the excursion was reported missing and believed to be drowned. Heber Forbes, the other white man who went to assist him, was reported in a hospital, injured but doing well.

It was expected that today would bring more definite information of the extent of the disaster, and as this came to hand its horrors has increased. When the train went into the open draw bridge it was running at a speed of 15 or 20 miles, the engineer having ignored the rule to stop his train at such bridges. Both the engineer and fireman saw the open draw too late to stop the train. Airbrakes were applied but did not work, the engineer and fireman jumped to save themselves, and the engine and two coaches filled with human beings plunged through the opening into the river.

The work of rescuing began as early as possible after the wreck and during Thursday afternoon as fast as bodies were brought out the dead were taken to undertaking establishments in Portsmouth and the injured to hospitals in Norfolk. The list of dead and injured that has been furnished does not near tell the tale of the disaster. It is impossible to even identify all who are brought to the surface, while there are many others whose bodies lie at the bottom of the river in such a mangled condition that even after being up they can never be recognized. Many who have lost their lives in the wreck will fill unknown graves owing to this impossibility to recognize them.

The streets adjacent to Scott's undertaking establishment in Portsmouth where bodies were taken for identification, are a mass of humanity, mostly negroes who are there searching among the dead for friends or relatives. The frequent wails of grief that rend the air tell when such have been found. The scenes are pitiable.

This morning several bodies were taken into Portsmouth that were found during the night and the search is still in progress when the last information came from Norfolk. It is believed that the list of dead will reach 50 or 60, while some fear it may go to 100 by the time the worst becomes known, as very few who were in the two coaches escaped alive. Wreckers were at work today in the effort to raise the coaches from the river, and when this succeeds more bodies will be found.

The difficulty in identifying is the cause of so few names being furnished.

In a message to THE REFLECTOR this afternoon the names of the following additional from Greenville are given among the dead:

Mary Parvis. Celta McRae. Sidney Thomas. Jack Atkinson.

The following names of injured are also given: Heber Forbes, white, who is in Sarah Leigh hospital slightly injured. Flora Harrington, Wm Harris, Alfred Braxton, all slightly injured; Monson Marable, leg broken; Ida McRae, Ed Doggett, Lizzie Edwards, Addie Telfair, Sallie Knight, Stewart Gray, Willis Gay.

The bodies of Walter Forbes and some of the colored people will reach Greenville on this evening's passenger train, and the excursion train with those who escaped from the wreck will come about 11 o'clock tonight.

This was the worst wreck that has ever occurred on the Atlantic Coast Line.

JUST WHAT WE NEED

"It behooves all Raleigh to pull together on one of her foremost propositions: the immediate organization of another Building and Loan Association. Such associations are parts of industry and are feeders to banks and props to substantial citizens. We want and must have a more direct co-operation in local affairs, and such a way of money saving is a sort of kindergarten toward such action. There is no possible way of figuring the benefits to the city and to the people, either individually or collectively."

The above is from the Raleigh Times, and we are glad to give the paragraph space. A building and loan association is no new thing for our capitol city, for she already has one, and the urging of another on the part of the Times is a sure indication of the great benefits and value there is to be derived from such an enterprise.

This paper has for a long time advocated the organization of a building and loan association for Greenville but somehow our people are mighty slow to act

Mrs. Burnett, the 200 pound woman who wrecked a fast Pennsylvania express is now in trouble. Mrs. Burnett didn't put any obstruction on the track—she just failed to clear the track, and a rear end collision was the result. The road is threatening to bring suit against Mrs. Burnett for damages.

The Pittsboro Record, edited by Maj. H. A. London, has entered upon its 28th year. The Record was founded in 1878 by Maj. London, and has been solely under his management ever since. It is a paper always true to principal and shuns not to express the honest convictions of its editor.

The bar association put a ban upon lawyers hunting up clients to bring suits, but if it was unlawful for a lawyer to take a case on the percent basis you would hear of less suing the company.

Everybody to his own liking. If John Wannamaker thinks Booker Washington is as good as himself we see no reason for other people trying to convince him to the contrary.

Senator Elkins says the Republican party is divided, and that he can not lead a divided party. Just be easy, Senator, the Democrats will do the leading.

A Russian newspaper man says Russia didn't know the Japanese before the war. Guess Russia has had all the introduction she wants now.

In ancient times kissing a pretty girl was resorted to as a sure cure for the headache. We have always believed in the old-fashioned remedies.

A certain contemporary rises to remark that there is "not much old-fashioned Democracy left." Fact is, there has been too much of it left.

We view with alarm the continued advance in the price of calico. It goes to show that the girls will become dearer to us all the time.—Wilmington Star.

The Teacher's Troubles With Foolish Parents

Every school teacher knows what it is to contend with a pupil that is allowed to have his own way at home, and a boy who has parents that "take up" for him when the teacher whips him is to be pitied—not on his own account but because he has such foolish parents. We had rather have a boy brought up in an orphan asylum than to have him brought up by parents who have no more discretion or sense of duty than to get mad with the teacher who, in the discharge of his duties, gives their boy a part of what he needs with a hickory sprout. There's nothing that will put devilment and rebellion in a boy and carry him to the dogs any faster than the foolish habit of parents in taking sides and sympathizing with him when he runs up against a whipping at school. Some great philosopher has said that while imperfections of nature cannot be entirely removed, they can be greatly diminished by wise management. When a boy is naturally possessed of a mean disposition and happens to have parents who, under false sympathy, refuse to compel obedience, that boy is more than apt to be heard from later on through the criminal court records.—Our Home.

The Jim Crow Text Book.

The late superintendent of education for Wake county made a recommendation that has attracted far less attention than it deserves. It is, briefly stated, to give the negro school children text-books with pictures of negro children and not of white boys and girls. He thinks that these text-books should be simple and he argues that "the average negro child cannot handle abstract questions. Their minds are not equal to those of the white children. It is also a mistake to put readers in the hands of negro children with the pictures of white girls and white boys in them. It helps to increase the desire for social equality. Give them readers with pictures of negro girls and negro boys and farming implements in them." There is sound logic in this. We are not so sure about the study of pictures of white children increasing the desire of negro children for social equality, but the general idea of negro books for negro children is a good one. Such books would undoubtedly stimulate a greater desire for learning in the breast of the little darkies.—Charlotte Chronicle.

There are few states in the union according to the latest statistics, which are not investigating official corruption of various degrees and kinds. Some of them have legislation openly and notoriously on the market. Members are bought like so many cattle. Great and righteous indignation is created and in some instances the people have risen in their might, demanded and secured reform. No one suggested for a second that because a Legislature was flagrantly corrupt that it be abolished. Yet a corrupt Legislature is far more detrimental to public interests and demoralizing to public sentiment than any minor branch of government could be. So we view the dispensary business. Admit that there is graft and corruption in it, does it necessarily follow that honest men cannot be obtained to operate it?—Columbia Record.

The physical view of the health of the men in Wake county jail for embracery is now being urged upon the governor, who is told that continued imprisonment for Rogers and Sorrell may mean death. Very properly Governor Glenn says that this is not a case to be diagnosed by lawyers, but by physicians, and that he must hear from a "non partisan" board of doctors that confinement means death before he can think of "prison bounds" relief.—Raleigh News and Observer.

The District of Columbia disfranchised itself in order to keep the negroes from voting and in doing so it set the pace for all the Southern States. In face of the fact that the negroes cannot vote in Washington, they flock there in greater numbers than in any other city in the United States. The negro population of Washington is nearly 87,000. In the depots there, they are always in evidence as good, if not better than the white folks.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Sick headache results from a disordered condition of the stomach and is quickly cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Jno. L. Wooten, druggist.

Nothing on the Market Equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

This fact is well known to druggists everywhere, and nine out of ten will give their customers this preparation when the best is asked for. Mr. Obe Witmer, a prominent druggist of Joplin, Mo., in a circular to his customer, says: "There is nothing on the market in the way of patent medicine which equals Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. We sell a dozen of this preparation." For sale by Jno. L. Wooten, druggist.

They Appeal to Our Sympathies. The bilious and dyspeptic are constant sufferers and appeal to our sympathies. There is not one of them, however, who may not be brought back to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. These tablets invigorate the stomach and liver and strengthen the digestion. They also regulate the bowels. For sale by Jno. L. Wooten, druggist.

A Warning to Mothers.

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to grip. If it does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by Jno. L. Wooten, druggist.

THE STORY OF A HAT.

An Amusing Experience Except to Those Interested.

An amusing story—that is to say, amusing to any but the parties directly concerned—is told to account for the marked coolness between two society belles.
One of them gave a garden party recently, and the other, who was invited and whom we may call Miss A., was greatly chagrined to hear from her milliner that a new hat she had ordered for the occasion could not possibly be ready in time. Anxious to appease her customer's wrath, however, the milliner offered to lend her something from her shop.

The offer was grudgingly accepted, and Miss A. appeared at the garden party wearing a dainty confection of chiffon and flowers.

She was somewhat startled at the look of surprise and bewilderment with which the hostess regarded her headgear.

"Oh, don't look at my hat," said Miss A. "The fact is my milliner disappointed me at the last moment, and this is some wretched cheap thing she lent me until my new hat is ready."

"Indeed!" said the hostess in freezing accents. "It seems to me a more stylish and ladylike hat than you have ever worn before. But as for the milliner, I'll never forgive her. She has behaved disgracefully and ought never to be patronized again!"

Between the coolness of her reception and the fervor with which the hostess denounced the milliner Miss A. was fairly nonplused.

Then she sought counsel of a friend.

"Whatever is the matter with her?" she asked, having explained the circumstances.

"I should say," was the friend's reply, "it is because you are wearing her hat, for I happen to know that she bought that identical one at your milliner's yesterday and left it behind to have some alterations made, and I don't think your remarks on it were calculated to soothe her feelings!"—London Tit-Bits.

A Captain of Industry.

For several days the policeman on the beat had observed a small boy who spent the most of his time lounging near a downtown street crossing and seemed to have nothing to do. One morning he accosted him.

"Tommy," he said, "or whatever your name is, you do entirely too much loafing around here. Hadn't you better be at home?"

"I ain't loafin'," indignantly replied the boy. "I got a reg'lar job here."

"You've got a job? What is it?"

"De guy wot owns dis store pays me a dollar a week for keepin' dis crossin' swept clean."

"But I never see you doing any work," said the policeman.

"Course not," returned the boy. "I takes de money an' lets out de job for 50 cents a week to de kid wot's out dere sweepin' de crossin' now. He gits his pay reg'lar an' don't have to do no head work huntin' jobs."—Youth's Companion.

A Story of Tom Reed.

Among the prominent men of New England there was none perhaps who wore a larger collar than Tom Reed. One hot day in the summer of 1901 Reed was in Portsmouth, and having to wait for a train he decided to make an impromptu toilet, changing his collar, etc. So he hid himself to the nearest haberdasher's and began a general survey of the collars displayed in the store. "Waited on, sir?" queried one of the clerks. "Not yet," responded Reed, and then added, "I would like a collar." "What size?" piped the clerk. "Size 20," answered Reed. "We don't keep collars so large, but I think you may be accommodated at the store just around the corner." Reed found the store around the corner to be a harness shop.

Franks From Caribbean Sea.

They caught one fish far down in the Caribbean that had no eyes in all nor any places for eyes, but long antennae ran out from its nose by which it felt its way and found its food. Another fish, a big fellow, had eyes which grew on stems or stalks that stuck out six inches from its head. Then came one with an eye that grew on a long stem like a lily stem, quite eighteen inches from the nose.—St. Nicholas.

History in Tapestry.

The "Bayeux tapestry," called Bayeux from the place where it is preserved, is a pictorial history on canvas, more minute in some particulars than written history, of the invasion and conquest of England by the Normans in 1066. Tradition says it is the work of Matilda, wife of William the Conqueror, and the ladies of her court and that it was presented by the queen to the Cathedral of Bayeux as a token of her appreciation of the services rendered to her husband by its bishop, Odo, at the battle of Hastings. The tapestry is a web of canvas or linen cloth 214 feet long by 20 inches wide. There are on it 1,512 figures, only three of which are those of women.

AYDEN ITEMS.

AYDEN, N. C., Aug. 18, 1905.
Frank Dixon spent the day here yesterday.
Mrs. Land, of Wilson, who has been visiting friends in Greene county left here Thursday for her home.

Dr. Palmer, of Hookerton, left Thursday for a trip up the road. His son Norville Palmer spent the day here with friends.

Mrs. Melissa Ellis, of Timothy, spent the first part of the week here with friends.

Prof. T. E. Peden came home yesterday from his summer vacation up in Ohio.

J. R. Smith and daughter, Miss May, spent Thursday in Greenville.

A right good crowd of colored people went from here on the excursion to Norfolk yesterday.

Miss Minnie Cox, of Winterville, spent the earlier part of the week visiting friends in Ayden.

Will Alexander has been in Ayden for the past several days on business, but will return home today.

Spurgeon House, of Winterville, has been here on a visit to his grandmother.

The four year-old child of Jesse Ab. Stocks died Wednesday and was carried down near Black Jack yesterday and buried in the family grave yard. This is the fifth child Mr. Stocks has lost. Mr. Stocks still has 17 living children and besides he is one of our very best citizens.

Mrs. McLawhorn is on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. W. L. House, in Winterville.

Mrs. A. L. Edwards came home Tuesday from a visit to Kinston.

Mrs. Abram Cox after several days very pleasantly spent with friends has returned to her home.

Rev. J. R. Tingle, of Belhaven, an old resident of Ayden, is here on business.

Will Jenkins gave us a sweet potato Wednesday, of this year's product, that weighed something like two pounds and measures about 15 inches in circumference and 5 inches in diameter. Mr. Jenkins is one of our best friends and we are proud of the fact, for he is a good looking fellow and an all round man besides. After we sun our potato a little we are going to have a feast. We can't until Monday for there won't be enough.

We regret very much that J. D. Fleming and family have moved to Grifton. They have many friends in Ayden who wish them success and happiness in their new home.

A photographer has pitched his tent on the square next to the postoffice.

We don't know of course, but it does seem a little careless on the part of some one to allow so much going and coming from Norfolk under present conditions of affairs. Surely something ought to be done. Self protection if nothing less demands it.

Mrs. John Wilson came up on the train yesterday and is stopping with friends in the country.

R. T. Dickerson and family came home yesterday from a visit to the parents of Mrs. Dickerson near Grifton.

Miss Thomas, of Kinston, is visiting Mrs. J. T. Smith, Jr.

Misses Blanch and Sadie May Cannon have come home from Kinston.

J. A. Harrington went to and returned from Farmville Wednesday. The people of that town surely ought to have a high regard for him. He just thinks Farmville a beautiful town and the sun never shined on a better and grander people, we pity the man who dares make the assertion in Mr. Harrington's presence.

T. W. Hart at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening had a caller at his home who requested permission of a stay of no definite duration. Mr. Hart after careful thought and serious consideration deemed it wise to grant the young man's request. We were unable to learn the name of the stranger, but it is promised us at a later period. We hope Mr. Hart and his friend a happy life.
