A SOLEMN, IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL

Sorrowing Friends Place the Body of W. E. Jolley at Rest a Little Past Midnight.

The special train bearing the remains of W. E. Jolley, who lost his life in the excursion wreck at Bruce, Va., last Thursday, reached Greenville at 11:15 o'clock Saturday night, the special having been delayed some hours at Suffolk. Though the hour was late a large number of friends of the deceased waited at the depot to meet the remains.

It had been thought earlier in the day that the body could be kept until Sunday morning for burial, but upon arrival it was found in such condition owing to its long stay under water that it was deemed best to bury it as early as possible. So instead of taking the body to the late residence of the deceased, where more sorrow would have been added to the already heart broken wife and two small children, a midnight funeral procession was formed and wended its way to Cherry Hill cemetery where a grave had been previously prepared.

It was as solemn a funeral cortege as Greenville has ever witnessed, men with bowed heads and heavy hearts following in measured tread in the silent hours of night the body of a friend to an untimely grave, one to whom the summons had come without a moments warning when he was in the full vigor of health and the prime of young manhood.

Nearly two hundred attended the funeral and not one was there through curiosity, but every heart was weighed with sadness for the deceased and throbbled with sincere sympathy for the widow and fatherless children.

The pall bearers were T. R. Moore, R. C. Flanagan, Paul Metrick, S. J. Nobles, F. A. Patrick, James Evans, H. A. Manning and J. T. Keel.

At the graves services were conducted by Rev. R. B. Fleming. His impromptu remarks upon the sad occasion were beautiful and impressive. Strong men wept as the beautiful words came from the lips of the young minister, and as his fervent prayer to God in behalf of the young wife and little children was offered there was not a dry eye in all the assembly. The company of sorrowing friends, the open grave at midnight upon which the stars looked in silence and the moon shed silvery rays, the pathos, sympathy and tenderness with which everything was said and done, made a scene so impressive as never to be forgotten by any one present.

Recovered Stolen Wheel.

J. B. Latham, of Washington, was here today after a bicycle that had been stolen from the front porch his residence sometime ago. He found the wheel, at the repair shop of W. E. Moore and had proper identification to prove it was his property.

The wheel had been left at Mr. Moore's shop by a negro to be sold and W. E. Nichols, one of the rural mail carriers, bought it and had since been using it. Neither Mr. Moore nor Mr. Nichols knew the name of the negro who carried the wheel to the shop. The wheel was surrendered to Mr. Latham.

Pocket Picked.

J. J. Evans lost $3 in small change at the depot Saturday night. He was in the crowd waiting for the special train and thinks that during the jam around the car when the train arrived some one picked his pocket. He missed the money after getting back down town.

Two More Bodies Found.

This Makes Seventeen That Have Been Recovered.

Information from Norfolk today says that the bodies of two more victims of the excursion wreck have been recovered. One of these was the negro Furgerson who was the bridge tender. The other was an unknown colored man, mutilated, and was supposed at Norfolk to be Grant Warren, of Greenville, for whom inquiry had been made, but Warren turned up home Saturday night alive and well.

This makes a total of 17 bodies that have been recovered but there are others yet unaccounted for. The bridge will be restored ready for traffic in a day or two.

Mistake in Body.

When the first list of identified dead from the excursion wreck was sent here the name of Mary Jones was among them. No one by that name was known here but it was thought it must be Mary Joyner who had gone on the excursion. When the train bringing the bodies and survivors arrived Mary Joyner's friends were at the depot to meet her body and were gratified at seeing her come off the train alive but somewhat injured. The corpse labeled Mary Jones was later identified as Adelaide Carr, who was reported missing, and her people took charge of the body.

Card of Thanks

To the many good people and friends in Pitt county and especially to the many of Greenville and Winterville: We desire to express our sincere gratitude and thanks for their many acts and expressions of kindness to our boy, Wiley, who was so unfortunate as to lose his life. We cannot express our feelings in his and our behalf in this our sad bereavement. May God bless them all.

M. G. MOYER and wife, FLORENCE L. MOYER. Aug. 19, 1905.

Two Excursions Cancelled.

Two excursions intending to run for colored people today were cancelled. One of them was to have gone from Greenville and the other from Plymouth, both to Norfolk. There was so much excitement among the colored people because of the wreck to the excursion train last week that the promoters of these two excursions were afraid they could not get crowd enough to pay for the trains so asked the railroad to cancel the contracts.

$50 Reward.

Governor Glenn has offered a reward of $50 for the arrest and delivery to the sheriff of Pitt county of William Williams, colored, who murdered Lawrence Hopkins, colored.

Miss Jessie Lee Sugg sang a beautiful solo, "Face to Face" as an offering in the Baptist church Sunday night. Her voice is very sweet and she rendered the song excellently.

Knows of No Better Preparatory School.

Having had, since 1899, three sons in the Bingham school near Mebane, N. C., for one year, two for two years and one for three years. I feel prepared to say that I have nothing to regret as to sending them there, taking into consideration the desirable general and local environments, including health, moral influences, physical development and their general methods of training a boy.

I know of no better preparatory school for boys and young men.

B. D. Heath, Pres't. Charlotte National Bank.

TWO CARS COLLIDE.

The Accident on Wrightsville Beach Saturday Night.

There was a collision Saturday night at 9:45 o'clock between the small car that runs back and forth on the beach and the freight car. Two ladies who were on the passenger and one gentleman were hurt but not seriously. The accident was caused by the passenger car running into an open switch.

The passenger car was in charge of Motorman E. P. Cassidy and Conductor W. B. Jones and the passengers on the car were Mrs. Einstein and daughters, Misses Eva and Florence Einstein, of Kinston; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Whitmire, of Greenville, S. C.; Miss Hazel Comback, of Plainfield, N. J.; Mr. A. L. Stern, of New Bern; Mr. Kuhn, of Chicago; Miss Margaret Kahn, of Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. Chamberless, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Messrs. F. D. and Julius I. Bear, of Wilmington and Miss Virginia Silverman.

Only three of the passengers were hurt, Miss Eva Einstein, who had her ankle badly sprained and was bruised about the body; Miss Hazel Comback, whose right elbow was injured and she was also bruised; Mr. L. Kuhn, of Chicago, ankle sprained. Miss Comback is a niece of Mrs. J. S. Chambers, of this city—Wilmington passenger.

The watermelon wagons will soon have to give way to sweet potatoes and pumpkins.

The editors in South Carolina who cannot write up a "yard" about old man Ben these days are slow goers.

Some politicians are about as big as a hole in a bucket of water where you have stuck your finger in and then pulled it out.

An ocean liner which recently arrived in New York had 109 babies on board. We guess the passengers had a right squally voyage.

Russia will not give up any more than she is compelled to, and Japan won't take any more than she can get. This is about the size of the whole thing.

It is reported that Kentucky is suffering for water. We suppose, of course, it is the crops, for the average Kentuckian don't drink much water.

It is said that an Englishwoman is coming to the United States to teach benighted Americans that this old earth is flat. It is rather flat in this part of the country, but this lady will find that her theory is flatter than the earth.

A number of counties in North Carolina are having what they call reunions or home coming days. That is they set a certain day and send out invitations to all the natives who have moved away from the county to come together in a reunion and have a festive occasion. We like the idea and think Pitt county might adopt it. There are a number of our citizens living elsewhere in this and other states and it would be a joyful time to get them together in a reunion with the home folks. Lets get a move for this and have a Pitt county reunion.

Proper Precautions Needed at Drawbridges.

Because the sufferers in the fearful wreck of yesterday at the open drawbridge of the Atlantic Coast Line were not even citizens of Norfolk and were mostly colored people who have not influential friends, it is scarcely to be expected that permanent reform in the care of drawbridges and in providing safety appliances against the recurrence of similar wrecks will result.

The American idea is one of get-there. We demand development, progress, speed. And, as a result we have each year a casualty list on railroads greater than the number of people killed and wounded in any great battle in the world's history.

On the other hand, as a substitute for the sa-redness of human life we have life and accident insurance policies and recourse to the courts for damages.

It should be the rule of all the railroads that men of the best intelligence and ability procurable shall guard drawbridges. The Atlantic Coast Line had a negro to tend its bridge. Was he the best man who could have been had for this position? Perhaps. He is dead now and this is not a reflection upon him. The general tendency is to put the blame upon the engineer. But at a drawbridge there should be more of a safety check than this man seems to have had.

What precautions does this road take for having trains flagged down when the drawbridge is open? Presumably none, for the engineer aboard the wrecked excursion ran his train right up to the draw before he knew that it was open.

It was good luck alone that prevented anyone of us from being aboard the wrecked train, for presumably, the precautions taken in one case for preventing wrecks are taken in all.

About the best thing that we can suggest is that whatever steps possible should be taken to prevent accidents at these drawbridges. We should not leave action such as this to the railroads. It should be made State law that every train or street car approaching one of these at all in frequent use should be allowed to proceed across only after a proper signal has been made by some one far enough away from the draw to permit a train going at full speed to stop by gravity.

The Southern railroads have no longer the excuse of poverty to prevent their employing good men, paying them good wages and maintaining proper safety devices and organization to prevent accidents like that of yesterday.—Norfolk Dispatch, 18th.

Yellow Fever and the Paper Bill.

It is a gloomy soul that does not see some bright lining under the dark cloud and that does not get a laugh out of its own distresses. Our contemporary, The Southwestern Presbyterian, of New Orleans, complains that while thousands of dollars are due it on the subscription list, only $60 has come in during the last two weeks, in a time of stress when even the most obdurate and hard hearted debtor ought to feel his pity move! And yet, in its temporary poverty, it can laugh at a timid frightened subscriber, a woman, who writes excitedly to stop the paper and that she will remit "when the fever is over." The editor says that "she seems to think New Orleans has quarantined against checks or money orders! Send us one or the other, madam, and we will assume all the risk of its infecting us. In addition, we cheerfully agree to fumigate all telegrams sent especially if they are money orders, and all talks over the long distance 'phone.'"—Charlotte Chronicle.

There's a Moral in This.

"Do you see how smoothly this little bit of machinery is working?" said a scientific man to his son. "I have put a few drops of oil on it—that is the reason. Now take a hand full of this sand and cast it among the wheels." The son hesitated. "It will spoil the running, father," said he, "and how can it ever be cleaned again?" His father smiled, "You are right, my son—as to this machinery. But I notice that you habitually practice sand throwing at other things," and as the lad looked amazed, he added, "Good manners are the drops of oil upon the delicate wheels of life. Bad manners are the grains of sand that clog and ruin its usefulness. You hesitate to cast sand into this machine. Can you not be as wise where life is concerned?"

After the Non-Listers.

The Commissioners of several counties in the State have started to make a thorough investigation to ascertain the persons who have failed to list their property and poll for taxation. Every county should do likewise. It is a duty to men who list their property for taxation that all others do likewise, for it is a great injustice to nine-tenths of the tax payers if one tenth escape paying their share of the public burden. The rate of taxation should be reduced wherever possible. The first step, after securing proper valuations and even more important, is to compel every person liable to list and pay taxes.

Let none escape!—News and Observer.

A judge out West rendered a decision the other day, that a jackass had a moral and legal right to bray whenever the spirit moved him. This judge might possibly find some business just now in the town of Mount Vernon, N. Y., where a new curfew law has been put in force by the social board of health. By this law roosters are prohibited from crowing between 10 o'clock at night and 6 o'clock in the morning. Dogs are prohibited from barking during the same hours. Certainly this looks like a job for the jackass judge.—Charlotte Chronicle.

They Appeal to Our Sympathies.

The bilious and dyspeptic are constant sufferers and appeal to our sympathies. There is not one of them, however, who may not be brought back to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. These tablets invigorate the stomach and liver and strengthen the digestion. They also regulate the bowels. For sale by John L. Wooten, druggist.

Nothing on the Market Equal to Chamberlain's Cholera, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

This fact is well known to druggists everywhere, and nine out of ten will give their customers this preparation when the best is asked for. Mr. Obe Witmer, a prominent druggist of Joplin, Mo., in a circular to his customer, says: "There is nothing on the market in the way of patent medicine which equals Chamberlain's Cholera, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. We sell and recommend this preparation." For sale by John L. Wooten, druggist.

A Warning to Mothers.

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to gripe. If it does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by John L. Wooten, druggist.
