FIRST BALE NEW COTTON

Brought Two Years in Succession by Same Man.

The first bale of cotton of this year's crop to come to the Greenville market was brought in Wednesday afternoon by Thomas Little, colored, a tenant on the farm of Mrs. Nana Brown four miles from town. The bale graded middling and was purchased by Speight & Co. at 11 1/2 cents, and shipped to A. M. Agelasto & Son at Norfolk.

The same man brought the first bale last year and received the same price as for the one this year. Last year's bale was brought in Sept 3rd, being eleven days later than the first one this year.

Mr. W. H. Norris Dead.

Mr. William Henry Norris died at the residence of his son, Mr. M. T. Norris, on North Blount street at ten minutes past ten o'clock last night, after an illness of several weeks, at an age few persons are permitted to reach. He was born January 14, 1822, and was therefore in eighty-third year at the time of his death.

His wife, Mary Yates Norris, died just three years ago, and since that time his home has been with his son. His sons living are Messrs. M. T. and W. C. Norris and S. B. Norris, of this city, and James Norris, of Wichita, Kansas and one daughter, Mrs. J. N. Booth, of Hertford, N. C.

Cortelyou May Choose.

Washington, Aug. 23.—It is current belief that George B. Cortelyou can be secretary of the treasury, but that he informed the president that he prefers to remain at the head of the postoffice department. Stuyvesant Fish and a host of others have been mentioned for the treasury portfolio, and now the name of Mr. Yerkes is added as a formidable candidate.

Arrivals today include L. E. Marx of Asheville, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Hais and son, of Concord, W. P. Wood and M. J. Pool, W. L. Small and J. L. Simpson of Elizabeth City, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Tomlinson, of Wilson; C. E. Blades of New Bern; J. A. Mills, of Raleigh and A. H. Price, of Salisbury.

Charles W. Allgood is appointed rural delivery carrier on route No. 3 Washington, with John M. Allgood as substitute.

Quiet in the Building Line.

Just now is about the quietest time in building operations that Greenville has had in a long time. You can watch out for more activity in this direction at an early day. Just now the new Methodist church is the only building of consequence in course of erection.

Tribe Meeting.

The Red Men will meet tonight at the wig wam at half past eight o'clock for the purpose of drilling preparatory to going to Winterville Friday night to institute a new tribe. W. P. Edwards.

Preliminary Examination Free to All.

Dr. J. Henry Odom, main office Atlanta Ga. The well known eye specialist, will be in Greenville, N. C., at one of the hotels, Saturday Sept. 2, 1905 and will be here 10 or 15 days and longer if the citizens of the town and county need his services. He cures all diseases of the eye, fits glasses to suit everybody, old and young. Duplicates lenses in your old frames. The eyes cause headaches. Many diseases are cured by looking after your eyes, nose, ears and throat.

Libel Trial at Greensboro.

Greensboro, N. C., Aug. 23.—The taking of testimony was concluded this afternoon in the libel suit of W. H. Osborn vs. M. T. Leach and the Raleigh News and Observer. Judge Ward announced that he would allow eight hours for the argument of counsel. High attorneys appear in the case and it is expected that five or six speeches will be made the case going to the jury tomorrow evening.

Col. Osborn's cross examination took place this morning and the plaintiff rested his case just before noon, when Fred L. Merritt was put on the stand by the defense. He was the reporter who interviewed Col. Leach and wrote the article which appeared in the News and Observer and which was responsible for the libel suit. After Mr. Merritt's testimony had been received a number of letters, etc., were introduced in evidence. Editor Josephus Daniels of the News and Observer took the stand for an hour or more.

Suicide of a Prominent Man of Wadesboro

Wadesboro, N. C., Aug. 23.—W. C. Hardison, a prominent citizen of this place, committed suicide at one o'clock tonight by shooting himself through the head. Business trouble was the cause.

The deed was committed only half an hour after reaching home from Blowing Rock, where he had been on account of his health. He died almost instantly. The suicide is attributed to ill health, coupled with recent heavy losses occasioned by the failure of the Independent Cotton Oil Company, of Darlington, S. C. Mr. Hardison was owner of one of the mills controlled by this company. He was offered the presidency of the concern shortly before the suicide of President R. K. Dargan, but declined it.

Russia is Suspicious

St. Petersburg, Aug. 23.—It was stated today that the sudden departure from St. Petersburg Monday night of Prince Hillkoff, minister of railroads, was for the purpose of investigating the causes of several serious accidents which occurred recently in Southern Russia to military trains going to the Far East. In one of these accidents which took place in the vicinity of Kazani, twenty-six soldiers were killed and two officers and a forty soldiers injured.

Plans Have Been Approved.

Senator Simmons yesterday received a notification from the war department to the effect that the department had approved the plans for construction of the proposed railroad bridge from Morehead City to Beaufort, across the sound.

The work on the erection of the bridge will be commenced immediately.—News and Observer.

A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR.
$50.00 REWARD

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Whereas, official information has been received at this department that William Williams murdered Lawrence Hopkins, of Pitt county, and whereas, it appears that the said William Williams has fled the State, or so conceals himself that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him.

Now, therefore, I, R. B. Glenn, Governor of the State of North Carolina, by virtue of authority in me vested by law, do issue this my Proclamation, offering a reward of Fifty Dollars for the apprehension and delivery of the said William Williams to the sheriff of Pitt county at the Court-house in Greenville and I do enjoin all officers of the State and all good citizens to assist in bringing said criminal to justice.

Done at our City of Raleigh, the 14th day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and five and in the one hundred and 29th year of our American Independence.
By the Governor: R. B. GLENN.
Jas. D. Glenn, Private Secretary.

BREAKING THE SABBATH.

The Argus says an effort is being made to secure Sunday mail for Lumberton and it hopes the effort will fail. It says the passing of a train during Sunday school hours is a curse and if mail were opened it would be more demoralizing still. Yet if towns having Sunday mail were deprived of it they would feel lost. It's all in being used to a thing. If a town has never had Sunday mail it gets along about as well without it; but once used to it one feels compelled to have it.—Statesville Landmark.

The comment of the Landmark is true, but it does not remove the wrong incident to Sabbath violation. The commandments given on Sinai nearly six thousand years ago have not been repealed. Jehoiakim in his wicked reign as king of Judah undertook to destroy the law, perhaps under the delusion that without the law there would be no sin, but neither his penknife nor the flames expunged the law or its penalty. At the present day men have the idea that on the plea of business necessity or convenience the law to keep the Sabbath holy may be violated with impunity, but the law continues in force as first given, and sooner or later there will be an accounting for every violation.

Russia is right good at putting up bluffs, if nothing else.

What's the matter with the Georgia editors? They all seem to be daft after office.

People in New Orleans are not near so scared of tax bills as they are the mosquito bills.

No woman likes a man who is over stuck on himself. They want to do the "stucking" part, and we don't blame them.

Miss Alice is keeping very quiet about the Sultan proposing to her. Guess it is because she is so far away that we can't hear what she does say.

The board of trustees of the Thomasville Baptist orphanage has elected Rev. M. L. Kesler, of Morganton, as general manager of the institution to succeed Rev. J. B. Boone, resigned.

So far as we have heard no one has suggested that a meeting be called to organize the business men of Greenville in a co-operative body to advance the interests of the town. Something needs to be done to put Greenville forward.

We think that Major Taggart is in just about the hole he ought to be in. Any man who will stand for his wife to drink champagne and get drunk in private, let alone in public, is no man at all. Such affairs are to be deplored, but it serves him right.

Tough on the Frog.

A Newton man discovers that a toad applied to the foot of a fever patient and kept there, would certainly cure the patient. It may be that the same is a well known remedy, known of old, but it is new here in Newton, he says. A young man in this county has been very low with typhoid fever for several weeks; so ill, in fact, that the physicians gave him up to die. Another young man had typhoid and took the frog treatment and was cured, and so the treatment was applied to the patient with gratifying results. The young man is reported as convalescing. The toad, the story runneth, turns green and dies, having drawn all the fever from the patient. It seems to be an excellent remedy, but it is tough on the frog.—Gastonia Gazette.

The boat rocker is not to be compared with the principals in the tragedy reported from Genecoe, Illinois:

"Herman Melin and Len Brooks, camping at Rock River, were drowned yesterday. In company with two young women they went out rowing. Thinking the water shallow they threw the young girls overboard. Scrambling back, the girls threatened to throw the young men out. The young men jumped into the water and were drowned."

You can't kill 'em all.—Salisbury Post.

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat-producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated. Lean, thin, stringy people do not have enough Pepsin in the stomach, while fat people have too much Pepsin and not enough Pancreatine.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Man in the Kitchen.

The helplessness of mere man in the presence of ordinary domestic tasks was illustrated in the case of the old miner, who explained that he had once tried to improve his cooking by studying a book of recipes. "It was no use," he sadly confessed, "because every one of them receipts starts off with 'Take a clean dish.'"

Benefit of a Rural Life.

Fresh country air is wholesome and a sovereign remedy for many of the ills that afflict the weary city dweller. The tendency in this country has been too much to crowd into the great cities, and many of the poor of the slums and overtaxed tenements would be greatly benefited if they could be removed to the farms. The magazines that encourage the love of rural life are doing a great work, and not the least feature of their mission is the cultivation of the aesthetic quality. They promote a love for the beautiful in nature that will result in the preservation of much of the natural loveliness of the country that has been too ruthlessly dealt with by the unappreciative utilitarian in the past. —Nashville Banner.

All in Her Eye.

A woman noted for her good management—a phrase which is often a euphemism for parsimony—was making some garments for her small daughter. She had limited herself as to material, and proud of her success in achieving much with little, exclaimed as she finished her work, "There's not enough left to put in your eye!"

Caught the Tip.

A quack doctor whose treatment had evidently led to the death of his patient was examined sternly by the coroner. "What did you give the poor fellow?" asked the coroner. "Ipecacuanha, sir." "You might just as well have given him the aurora borealis," said the coroner. "Well, sir, that's just what I was going to give him when he died."

GAINSBOROUGH, THE ARTIST.

He Painted Portraits For a Living and Landscapes For Pleasure.
Gainsborough, while painting portraits for a living, painted landscapes for his own pleasure and lived at Hampstead during the summer that he might be constantly in fellowship with nature. It was this love of nature and of simple things and the faculty of seeing beauty in them that gave such a choice distinction to his work, because it was the expression of his own simple, lovable personality. He had beauty in himself, and all his life it fed on simple delights—the joys of nature, of domestic happiness, of music and of his own art.
He was born in the little town of Sudbury, on the river Stour, in the beautiful county of Suffolk. As a boy he loved to ramble in the country, sketching, and showed so much inclination for it and so little for any other kind of study that when he was fifteen he was sent to London and placed under the care of a silversmith, who procured him admission to the St. Martin's Lane academy. Here he worked for three years studying painting. Gainsborough's eighteenth year was an eventful one. He hired three rooms in Hatton gardens and set up as a painter on his own account. Meeting with little encouragement, he returned to Sudbury. There he fell a victim to the charms of a young lady of seventeen, Miss Margaret Burr, who had an annuity of $1,000, married her and established himself in the country to the town of Ipswich. Here he worked on happily and quietly for fifteen years, continually studying in the open air and executing such small commissions for portraits as came to him, until he had succeeded in discovering for himself a manner of painting suited to his needs and had developed an extraordinary skill.
In 1760 he moved to Bath, at that time the most fashionable city outside of London. The gay world of that time congregated there to drink the waters. Gainsborough's success was immediate, but with increasing wealth there was no alteration in his simple method of living.—Charles H. Caffin in St. Nicholas.

The Sickly Octogenarians.

They were neither of them brilliant scholars, but they liked to move with the times as regards their knowledge of current events, so the daily newspaper was regularly delivered at their humble domicile, and it was Jennie's duty to read out during breakfast time all the most interesting items of the day. One morning, after wading through the latest intelligence page from the front, she turned to another page of the paper and said: "Herbie, it says here that another octogenarian's dead."
"What's an octogenarian?"
"Well, I don't quite know what they are, but they must be very sick creatures. You never hear of them but they're dying."—Scottish American.

The Cakes of Our Childhood.

It must be a common experience with us all to look back with something of wonder, even of humiliation, to the things in literature or art we once thought exquisite and of highest worth. The oratory we once sat under, the music we once sang or played, the engraving we used to buy and hang on our walls when we were eighteen and infallible—how poor and cheap they often seem after a quarter of a century or so, during which we have read more, thought more, used our eyes more and drunk deeper of the "still sad music of humanity!"

Herbivorous Animals.

Herbivorous animals do not eat all of nature's menu. The horse refuses the water hemlock that the goat eats with avidity, and, on the other hand, the goat refuses some plants that are eaten by the sheep. The tobacco plant is avoided by all save the goat, man and the tobacco worm. Some botanists think that no plant is absolutely poisonous, but only relatively so, being harmful to only certain animals.

Real Beauty.

A reply which was at once wise and witty is said to have been made by a gentleman to whose decision in regard to a certain matter two pretty young girls appealed. They were discussing the question as to what constitutes beauty in a hand and differed greatly in opinion. At last they referred the matter to the old man, of whom they were both very fond. "My dears," said the old gentleman, with a kindly smile, "the question is too hard one for me to decide. But ask the poor, and they will tell you that the most beautiful hand in the world is the hand that gives the most freely."

A Nice Little Mission For Pa.

"Pa, what's an iconoclast?"
"One who smashes idols."
"I'm one."
"Pshaw! No you're not. You don't understand what I mean."
"Yes, I do. I just busted that little idol ma paid $100 for and had so much trouble smuggling through the custom house. You tell her, will you? I've got to go out and see a boy."—Chicago Record-Herald.

GRANT AND LONGSTREET.

A West Point Friendship That Held Throughout Their Lives.
The strong schoolboy friendship which began at West Point between Grant and Longstreet lasted throughout their lives. Grant was of the class after Longstreet, but somehow their silent, serious natures were in spontaneous accord, and, says Helen D. Longstreet in "Lee and Longstreet at High Tide," they became fast friends from their first meeting. That one was from the west and one from the south made no difference, just as later it made no difference in their feeling of personal affection that one led the army of the Union and the other was a Confederate general.
General Longstreet often spoke of the details of the capitulation at Appomattox. He said that when he went into the conference room in the McLean residence as one of the Confederate commissioners he was compelled to pass through the room occupied by General Grant as his headquarters.
He felt curious to know how General Grant would receive him. He had loved Grant as one of his closest boyhood friends, but times were much changed. Grant was victor, he was vanquished. He was therefore prepared to observe the rigid demeanor of those between whom ceremony only forces recognition. But as soon as he entered the room Grant rose, approached him with a greater show of demonstration than ever in the older days and slapped him on the shoulder, exclaiming: "Well, 'Old Pete,' can't we get back to the good old days by playing a game of brag?"
At West Point the nickname among the boys for General Longstreet was "Old Pete."
The important part of that meeting, the splendid bearing of the conquered Confederate, the modest demeanor of the Union victors and, above all, the noble generosity of Grant in refusing to accept the sword of Lee and in giving the fairest terms possible under the existing circumstances, these are known to all who have read United States history.

A Use For Him.

An Englishman who was traveling in the west in the early days fell in with a long train of prairie schooners. The leader of the caravan, according to the Buffalo Commercial, announced that he and his fellow emigrants were going to found a town, having everything that was needful and nothing that was unnecessary. "We won't have any waste," he said. "There isn't a person in our party who won't do some important duty in the new town." The Englishman pointed to an old and feeble man, with a bent back and a long, thin, white beard.
"But that very old man there," he said. "He can't possibly be of any use to you, can he?" "Oh, yes," said the leader. "We open our new cemetery with him."

Let It Go at That.

The heavy villain of the barn storming aggregation stalked into the workshop of the village editor.
"What did you mean by referring to me as a 'misfit' in your write-up of the performance last night?"
he roared.
"I meant," answered the local molder of opinion, "that you were entirely too great for the company you are with."
And the heavy villain, being a stranger to the ways of the village editors, believed him. -- Chicago News.

Her Great Need.

Little Alice is old for her years.
One evening after she had gone to bed she heard mamma and papa laughing in much enjoyment over a game of finch. She longed to get up and join them, but she knew she must not. The next morning at breakfast she was very quiet. Presently she drew a deep sigh:
"I feel the need of a husband,
mamma; I do feel it!"--Lippinsott's Magazine.

Not Intended For Use.

There are some things which no man can ever learn, no matter how intelligent and earnest a student he may be.

"My dear, you look perfectly discouraged," said little Mrs. Nash's most intimate friend. "What is the matter?"

"I am perfectly discouraged," said Mrs. Nash tearfully. "You know that foot rest with the handsome embroidered top that I gave George for his birthday? Well, I've noticed it had begun to look almost a little shabby, and I couldn't imagine why, for it stands away from the windows, and I've taken great care of it, and when I came down earlier than usual from putting Janey to bed last night what do you suppose I saw?"

The friend shook her head hopelessly.

"I found," said Mrs. Nash, with bitterness, "that George Nash had taken that footstool out into the center of the room near his Morris chair and had put his feet--with his boots on, too--right on it!"

"After You, Sir."

A French paper tells the little story of an old violinist who occasionally played with his manservant, who had been the best fiddler in his native village.

"Why are you always one or two beats behind me?" demanded the violinist impatiently one day when no tappings of his foot or frowns had served to make the valet realize his fault.

"But, monsieur, it is that my old fiddle has the respect," said the man meekly.
