OVER A HUNDRED YEARS OLD.

A Remarkable Colored Man Daily Seen On Our Streets.

In Greenville there lives a colored man, Louis McGowan, who is no doubt the oldest person anywhere in this section if not the oldest in North Carolina. We met the old man on the street and asked him his age. He said he did not know just what it was, but taking the best information he could get as handed down from his old master, he is nearly 117 years old. He has a calculation from the births of his deceased aunts by which he arrives at this conclusion.

It may not be that he is quite as old as he says, but there is no doubt of his being a very old man. His activity for one of his extreme years is remarkable. He goes about at will and does considerable work, being very reliable as a woodcutter and gardener. He says the rheumatism got hold of him about six months ago, and he loves to get around and "work it off." "I have just engaged to cut some wood for Maj. Harding," the old man said, "and I hope he has a cord of it in his yard, as cutting wood is a good cure for the rheumatism."

"Uncle Louis," as everybody calls him, is a good Bible student and loves to talk the Scriptures, especially if he can find any one to explain the "hard things" he comes across. He is a Primitive Baptist in faith and has done some preaching in his day. He says he does not have to beg in his old age, as besides the work he is yet able to do for himself, his children and grand children are good to him and he does not believe he will ever come to want.

LITERARY AND SOCIAL MEETING

Greenville Epworth League Highly Entertained.

Friday night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Brown a literary and social meeting of the Epworth League of Greenville Methodist church was held. Notwithstanding threatening weather the parlors and piazza of Mr. Brown's beautiful home was crowded with the young people, and mingled with them were some of the older ones.

The feature of the evening was a guessing contest. Lists of questions were given out, and the answer to each question was a name of a flower. Many of the answers were very amusing, and all seemed to be highly enjoying the effort to answer, although with several it was but an effort. As usual, two prizes were given—the first to the one who guesses most, and a "hooby" to the one who misses most. The first prize, Tenyson's "Idle of the King," was given to Miss Nellie Pender, and the hooby became the property of Miss Nellie Barnhill.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, by their charming and cordial hospitality were ideal hosts, and everyone felt "at home." The leaguers will be glad when another social and literary meeting is held at this charming home.

The following program was rendered during the evening, and the participants were at their best:

Solo, by Miss Nina James: (on titled Good-Bye, by Tom).

Recitation, by Mrs. C. L. Hornaday who was called twice more, and rendered suitable recitations to the delight of all present.

Reading, by Miss Bernice Hornaday The Bishops of Our Church.

Music.

Presentation of prizes.

Music.

The music of the evening was well rendered, and much appreciated. The singing of Miss Nina James was especially enjoyed, and deserves special mention.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., Aug. 26.

Prof. Nye returned home yesterday evening from an extended trip up the road. He says that in every section visited the reports of the excellent work done in Winterville High school had preceded him, and it was no trouble to secure new students. Truly it seems that the school will reach high water mark Sept. 4.

Calyin Mills, of near Black Jack, was here Wednesday making arrangements to place his daughter in school here. He is an old Confederate soldier and fought valiantly in several of the fiercest battles of the war. Mr. Mills has an excellent memory and can vividly portray the scenes of those dark bloody days. He has also been a great bear hunter, and has had many narrow escapes from Master Bruin as well as from the Yankees.

Friday afternoon Henry Nelson and sisters were out driving and returning after dark, his buggy came in contact with a tree. Result shafts of his buggy broken and a lonely walk home but nobody seriously injured.

Azor Ellis, of Ayden, is here putting the tin roof on the new stores. While he is tinning, the carpenters are ceiling and flooring, for there is a rush to get in these new buildings as soon as possible.

After purchasing her new stock of millinery, Mrs. Sarah Taylor returned Thursday night from Baltimore.

Mrs. Sparks has an excellent line of millinery goods in the depot, which she expects to open up in one of the new stores in a LIEUTENANT COTTON WOUNDED.

Pitt Countian in Army Meets Accident

His many friends throughout North Carolina will regret to learn that Lieutenant Bruce Cotten, of Ninetyfourth Company Coast Line Artillery, stationed at Fort Flagler, was seriously wounded in the foot recently by the penetration of a rifle ball which was accidentally discharged while he was at target practice.

Lieutenant Cotten is well known in many sections of this State, and has a large number of friends. He is the son of Col. R. R. Cotten, of Cottondale, his old home, near Bruce, Pitt county. Mrs. Julian Timberlake, of this city is Lieutenant Cotten's sister. Lieutenant Cotten's condition is reported as being greatly improved, and he will soon visit his father's home at Cottondale plantation. He will be warmly received there by a host of the friends of his young manhood.—Raleigh News and Observer.

The Army and Navy Record of August 19th, contains the following:

"A dispatch from Port Townsend, Washington, August 7th, says: Lieutenant Bruce Cotten, Ninety-fourth Company Coast Artillery, on duty at Fort Flagler accidentally shot himself in the foot this afternoon about 4 o'clock, inflicting a severe wound. The accident occurred while at rifle practice with his company. Lieutenant Cotten recently received orders to proceed to Fort Caswell, North Carolina, and had prepared to leave for that post in a few days. His departure will be delayed until his recovery from the injury."

Friends somewhere are going to ride in new buggies, judging from the large lot shipped this week by the A. G. Cox Mfg. Co. Being made out of the very best of material, they are noted for their strength as well as lightness of draft. On inquiry, we learned that one of these buggies was soon to be shipped away up in the hills of Chatham county to W. C. Teague, Siler City. The Hunsucker buggies have just been introduced up there and selling like "hot cakes" and well they may for this company knows how to make buggies to stand hills, rocks and mud as well as the sand beds.

Thursday evening on the lawn near the home of Mrs. E. E. Cox, a delightful party was given by the young men of the town to their young lady friends. At eight o'clock all began to arrive and soon the scene became one of mirth and pleasure as they all strolled over the brilliantly lighted lawn. At 9:30 delicious refreshments were served and only too soon came the hour of departure when with regrets farewells were said. All declare it one of the most pleasant occasions of their lives.

Will Return Last of August.

A letter from Rev. H. H. Moore, pastor of the Christian church, written from North, Va., says that he was laid up a week at Newport News with malarial fever contracted while holding the Pauteg meeting, but is now convalescent and enjoying the breezes from the Chesapeake. Mr. and Mrs. Moore expect to return to Greenville the last of August, so as to be on hand the first Lord's day in September. He says THE DAILY REFLECTOR has been like letters from home to them, and looked for more than any other paper.

Russia says she won't, but from past experiences it looks like Japan can make her.

It is said President Roosevelt is very hopeful of peace. He seems to be in a class by himself.

There are matters right now that Greenville ought to have a board of trade or chamber of commerce looking after.

The war correspondents had as well sharpen their pencils again, as it looks like the peace negotiations will amount to nothing.

The Sultan of Sulu who proposed to Miss Alice already has six wives. As denials are in order it is almost time for him to say he never proposed.

Atlanta seems to draw well, even to lightning. The largest hotel in the city, the capitol and a thousand telephones were hit in one storm the other day.

Los Angeles has discovered a man with his heart on the right side. Pity but what there were lots of people with their hearts on the right side.

Notwithstanding repeated failures on the part of those making the experiments, the Charlotte Observer has lost none of its ardor in believing the air ship will yet fly.

Crum, the colored collector of customs at Charleston, also comes forward with a denial and says he did not try to hire a rolling chair for himself and wife at Asbury Park. He don't like for Booker T. to get so far ahead of him.

The Atlantic hotel at Morehead is getting ready to go into winter quarters with the close of the month. There are people who like September at the seaside, but it does not pay to keep large hotels open for the few who go in that month.

Insurance Commissioner Young says there is unusual activity throughout North Carolina in the organization of building and loan associations. This particular activity has not reached Greenville, but no town is more in need of a building and loan association.

An improved condition in the yellow fever situation at New Orleans is reported. As cooler weather is drawing near the plague may soon be wiped out. It is hoped that this season's experience with the fever may prove profitable to the city in the future.

The South's Productiveness

The New York Commercial has this general editorial:

"The South justly may be proud of its share in the productiveness of the good things of the United States. Eliminating grain, one is inclined at first thought to ask, what else does the rest of the country raise? In the South is raised all the cotton, the cane, the rice and nearly all the tobacco. It is a great timber and oil producer. Its mines, of course, are not great, as compared with those of the North and the West, but its production of iron and coal is to be thought of. The domestic exports originating in the South constituted about 41 per cent. of the whole, as The Manufacturers' Record, of Baltimore, is pleased to find in its analysis of the figures for the last fiscal year. That is an extremely good showing, considering the dimensions, resources and population of that distinguished from the exact South. Cotton and its products, it might be added, constituted 30 per cent. of the exports of last year. The South has reasons for its cheerfulness, but its present prosperity is only a shadow of its possibilities."

The South is heavily handicapped in a number of ways. That, under the circumstances, she can find the energy and the means to provide 41 per cent. of all American exports is surprising, gratifying information. There is much for her people to be proud of; much for them to hope for. They are already contributing their full proportion to the national prosperity and will contribute yet more. - Charlotte Observer.

Gun Used by British Soldier in Carolina Campaign.

Col F A Olds, of Raleigh, writes the Charlotte Observer that Col. S. J. Cobb, of Lumber Bridge, has sent to the Hall of History at Raleigh, the British musket used by his grandfather, Neil McAlpin, during the Revolutionary war. He writes that McAlpin was a lieutenant in the British army and was wounded at Ramsay's Mills, on Deep river, in the battle of March 28, 1781, thirteen days after that of Guilford Court House, and that he took the oath of allegiance to the United States at Wilmington, where he was left suffering from two wounds, his regiment having gone with Cornwallis to Yorktown. He took the oath some time after the surrender of Cornwallis. He then went to the Scotch settlement, in Robeson county, and located at Renner, where he died in 1830. Col Cobb says the old musket has killed hundreds of deer, bear, turkey, panthers and wild-cats, and will still shoot as well as ever, making a noise equal to that of a small cannon, the recoil equaling the kick of a mule.

It must be borne in mind that the strongest argument in favor of municipal ownership or governmental control of an industry is the corruption which is practiced by great private corporations; but until the people have demonstrated their own respect for law how can they hope to hold out any better alternative? - Kansas City Star.

According to the very best information obtainable, we pass this way but once, and when we step into the valley of the shadow, all our earthly belongings will be left behind. Not a cow, nor a sheep, nor an acre of land, nor a dollar of money, will go into the grave with us. Why then should men race through life in a mad flight for gold, brushing all the better things aside, when at last it must be unloaded at the tomb? Would it not be better to smile a little and do a few good deeds as we went along? Would it not be a better plan to put a flower into the hand of some sad hearted human being struggling along the road of life, than to clutch an almighty dollar until cold death forced us to relinquish it? One hand washes the other. We must all help one another; it is the best and happiest way. - Ex.

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

A RATTLESNAKE BITE.

It may seem absurd to claim that there are cases where the bite of a rattlesnake is not fatal, yet such have happened, and to understand these it is necessary only to understand the manner in which this reptile strikes. The species of a rattlesnake at bay is one a beholder never forgets. The great, long body lies coiled in a tense spiral, the very embodiment of wildness. Poised in air, the white bellied fore-body is bent into a horizontal, rigid as an iron bar. Raised from the middle of the spiral is the tail, quivering like a twanged banjo string and emitting a rattle like a saw scraping from the pet cock of a radiator or like the sound of a mowing machine in a distant hayfield. Awe inspiring, the dread, flat, triangular head, eyes gleaming black and cold as icy steel, is ready to strike. As the grassy mouth opens wide and pink, the long, thin poison fangs arise from a horizontal position and stand upright like a pair of slender, curved, needle pointed shad bones, ready for business.

Like a flash, far too quick for the eye to follow, the snake strikes, sending home its fangs an inch or two, and in that same fraction of an instant he has squirted a tablespoonful of canary yellow, viscous fluid into the wound and lies coiled, ready for a second attack. In this incomprehensibly swift attack lies the answer why sometimes the bite of a rattler is not fatal, for so wonderfully swift is the attack that a bite may be imperfect, leaving only a pair of tiny needle punctures, with just enough venom to make a victim seriously ill. Another reason why a rattlesnake's bite is not always fatal is that temporarily the reptile may be without venom. The snake may have exhausted its poison on a previous enemy, in which case it would have to wait several days before the deadly fluid has reaccumulated, or, again, the viper's fangs may have suffered accident. They may have been broken off and require time for new growth. In any case, certain it is that a rattlesnake's poison applied in the proper way will do its work, and then only the most expert and prompt assistance will save a victim.

Strange Form of Insanity.

The whole world is crazy in one direction or another. A perfectly sane person is a miracle—that is, a violation of the laws of nature. I know of a retired millionaire in New York, aged seventy, who married a sweet young woman of twenty-three. That in itself is not extraordinary or even criminal. The wife is the most patient of creatures, humoring the venerable husband's every whim. He is as crazy as a loon, or two loons. He imagines he is a bird, and his nightly diversion is to stick a bunch of feathers in the hem of his pajamas and prance about the room, crowing and flapping his wings, while his wife from her cozy corner cries encouragingly: "Pretty bird! Pretty bird! Pretty bird!" This foolishness is kept up until he falls exhausted.—New York Press.

Like a Scotch Verdict.

Chancellor Henry Bathurst was held in low esteem by the bar on account of his ignorance. At the close of the trial of the Duchess of Kingston for bigamy he gravely addressed her grace in the following terms: "I am, the lords have considered the charge and evidence brought against you and have likewise considered of everything which you have alleged in your defense, and upon the whole matter their lordships have found you not guilty of the felony, wherewith you stand charged, but on dismissing you their lordships earnestly exhort you not to commit the same crime a second time."—Green Bag.

Sure Cure.

Charles F. Gore, a New Hampshire judge of the last century, was very nervous and irritable, but so determined that he usually found means of enforcing his desires. While he was holding a court, in one of the northern counties he was much annoyed by the coughing of the spectators in the courtroom.

He referred to it again and again, with increasing asperity, and finally directed the sheriff to remove from the courtroom the next man who coughed. This had a marvelous effect in stilling the audience.

That evening a stranger afflicted by an incessant cough appeared at the village hotel.

"I can tell you how to cure that," said a bystander. "You just go down to the courthouse. There's a little wizened judge there, and he'll put a stop to that cough of yours in less than five minutes. Sure cure!"

Love and Time.

They were seated so close together on the parlor sofa that there was no room between them for an argument when she suddenly let loose a large and soulful sigh.

"What's the matter, darling?" he asked.

"Oh," she replied, "I just happened to think that this would be our last evening together until tomorrow evening!"

Orphan Burned to Death.

There was a horrible accident at the Friends Orphanage this morning at 10 o'clock which resulted in the death of one of the orphans, Lizzie Bryant. There girl attempted to start a fire in the stove with kerosene oil. The were smoldering coals or hot ashes in the stove which caused the oil to ignite and the vessel exploded, burning the child so badly that she died at 1 o'clock today. The news of the terrible accident reached the city about noon and much sympathy was expressed for the little girl.—

WOMAN HAPPIER THAN MAN.

She Has the Faculty of Enjoyment to a Greater Degree.

Women have a better time in life than men do. Under no circumstances would I choose to be a man.
If I had a chance to come to earth again in another incarnation and were given the choice I should without hesitation elect to be a woman, writes Angela Morgan for the New York World. Women know how to get the finest flavor from life. They know how simply because they are born to it, not because they acquire the knowledge through effort.

To draw the real essence from living one must be endowed with these qualities: Imagination, intuition, sensibility and the capacity to love.
Women possess all these requisites to a greater degree than men. For this reason women can lay hold on the subtler enjoyments of life. And, as the subtler enjoyments are the best and most lasting, it is the women who have a monopoly of real happiness in life. It is in her capacity to love that woman experiences her greatest joys. Woman gets a vast deal more out of love than man Show me the man to whom love means one-tenth that it does to a woman! When a man loves, the external scenery of life does not change visibly to him. Life does not become a thing bewitched and gilded. His days and hours and moments are not permeated by love as an influence. Love to a man means an exhilarating chase for possession.
A woman pleases him, captivates him, and he wants her for his own.
In possession, he finds a certain pleasure—a certain pride and satisfaction—but as for happiness, the sort of happiness a woman extracts from love—why, he doesn't know the A B C of it! Once in awhile perhaps a sense of it grazes his consciousness, but he is too busy to give it more than a curious thought or two. His mind is too crowded with practical things to admit the "intangible." But when a woman loves she lives. She does not live until she does love. Love to her is all absorbing, all transforming, all embracing.

"Spoon Bill" Idiots.

The late Professor Laycock of Edinburgh university used to divide idiots into two classes—poverty idiots and luxury idiots. The former were characterized by physical deformity and the latter by refined and delicate configuration, small heads and great prominence of the central region of the face. The luxury idiots, whom he traced to indolence and self indulgence through many generations with breeding in and in, he called also "spoon bill" idiots and used to point out that they were of the type represented as aristocratic noodles. There was less breeding in and in among the upper classes than there used to be, but he himself did not doubt that exemption for a number of generations from any participation in the struggle for existence, with high feeding and effeminacy, tended to induce mental weakness of a special type.—London Telegraph.

Russian Peasants.

There is one European country in which the traveler may find people dressed in every particular exactly as they were generations ago. That is Russia. In its more unfrequented districts the peasant type has advanced scarcely at all. The people are almost as they were before the Tartar invasion. The women wear the quaint national costume, which is gradually disappearing elsewhere in Russia, as it is in other countries, and the tall, bearded men show no marks of modern civilization either in habits or garb.

Hard Water.

When hard water is boiled a great part of the salts in solution are thrown down, but owing to the violent motion of the boiling water they rise from the bottom of the vessel and adhere to its sides. Quite often from two to three ounces by weight of hard, scale like saline matter will be found on the inside of a kettle. Some of this gets broken away when water is boiled and is poured into the tea. If on lifting the lid of a boiling kettle you see the water turbid it is quite unfit to drink, for there are salts in suspension—not in solution—and these suspended salts are highly injurious.

Worth the Money.

"You acknowledge that the bonnet intrinsically is not worth over $3," we say to the milliner sternly.
"Then why do you ask $25 for it?"
"I just wish you could come in contact with some of these shoppers," she replies plaintively. "I wouldn't try to talk one of them into buying a bonnet for less than $20."—Kansas City Independent.

A Part of the Problem.

In an English inn, where some laborers were sitting one evening, mathematics became the topic of conversation, when one of the company propounded the old time problem, "If a herring and a half cost a penny and a half what would three herring cost?" There was silence for several minutes, while all sat smoking and thinking. At last one of the thinkers spoke, "Bill, did you say 'errin' or 'wackerel'?"
