BEGINNING OF PASTORATE.

Rev. J. E. Ayscue Makes Timely Re-marks to His Congregation

On Sunday morning Rev. J. E. Ayscue entered upon his duties as pastor of the Memorial Baptist church. He delivered an excellent sermon on the subject "The man and his message," based upon the parable of the supper to which messengers were sent out into the highways and hedges bidding all to come. The closing remarks of the sermon, directed mainly to the church, were so appropriate and timely that we give a synopsis of them:

"We should make this text very personal this morning. As we begin our labors together let us reconsecrate ourselves to the service of the Master. The pastor will fail if he has to work alone. The people will fail by themselves. Both pastor and people will do but little in their own strength. But if we will unite our efforts, and then let God add His power we can do much for Him this year.

"My effort here shall be to advance the kingdom of God. To this end I pledge you my time, my energies, and all the talent that I may possess. And I feel sure that each one of you will be willing to use your best efforts to bring to pass the kingdom among men.

"I know that some day I shall have to give an account of my ministry here. You, too, will be held responsible for the way you use the time. When this pastorate shall have ended—whether long or short—I trust that none of us shall look back upon it with bitter regrets. The sin of omission is awful, so let us not wait until next year, next month, nor even until next week to constrain men to be saved; but beginning this very day let us use every opportunity to persuade men into the Kingdom of God.

We shall put salvation above everything else—above the church above anything upon the earth. So while the table is still ready, and ye there is room, let us go out into the highways and hedges and constrain them to come in."

Series of Meetings in the Methodist Church.

Special services will be held in the Methodist church at 10, a. m., and 8, p. m., each day for the next ten days. The pastor of the church is to be assisted in the meetings by Rev. J. H. Frizzelle, pastor of the M. E. church in Sanford, who is to arrive in Greenville on the evening train and preach his first sermon tonight.

Our meetings in February were greatly interfered with on account of inclement weather. We need a revival in our church. Let all who realize this, unite in prayer and effort for a glorious outpouring of the Spirit. If it is necessary that you make a sacrifice in order to attend the services, make it—it will be a good investment.

All Christians cordially invited to co-operate in these special services.

J. A. HORNADAY, pastor.

Rev. L. McKinnon's Opinion of The Bingham School, Mebane, N. C.

Dear Mr. Gray:—

Let me thank you, Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Bingham, for all of your kindness to my son while with you. It gives me pleasure to say that the character of the work done in your school and the careful oversight of the students is such as to entitle it to a most liberal patronage. After an experience of two years as a patron of the institution, my estimation of it is best expressed by saying that if I had another son to educate, I would without hesitation send him to you. I wish abundant success in your work.
Rev. L. McKinnon. Clinton, N. C.

NEW TELEPHONE SYSTEM.

Greenville Will Have a Modern Exchange

Within the next fifteen days the new system of the Home Telephone Company will be ready for cut over. The installing crew of the Western Electric Company is now here setting up the switchboard, power plant and main frames. When this work is completed Greenville will probably have the most modern and up-to-date telephone exchange in the state as the apparatus is all of the newest type and has the latest improvements.

Every subscriber's line will be a copper metallic circuit and each instrument a long distance set, so that every subscriber can reach any point East of the Mississippi river direct from his own telephone.

The outside construction is of the highest type, all multiple cable distribution, so that the open wires are few in number and very short.

The new system is what is known as central energy type which does away with the battery and generator at the subscriber's station. To call central it is only necessary to remove the receiver from the hook.

When through your conversation hanging the receiver up notifies central to disconnect, so you must not hang up your ear piece until you are through your conversation.

In addition to the new exchange at Greenville the telephone company is now completing an exchange at Ayden which will start with 25 subscribers and good prospects for an increase. This exchange will also be a full metallic system equipped with long distance instruments. This service, as well as the service to Winterville, Farmville, Grimesland and a number of other surrounding points, will be free to Greenville subscribers.

The value of these nearby points to the business interests of Greenville cannot be overestimated and the telephone company is to be commended for their enterprise and interest in Greenville in giving us a modern system, and so comprehensive that it practically embraces the whole county. We know of no exchange anywhere that covers as wide a slope of territory under one exchange subscription.

The new plant when completed will represent an outlay of over $15,000 and has been carried out without a single accident. The work was planned by F. C. Toepfer, the company's general manager, and carried out by W. G. Allen, superintendent of construction in charge.

Important Meeting of Producers and Manufacturers.

The meeting in Asheville on the 6th, next Wednesday, is a very important one for farmers and manufacturers of cotton. It is now the time of year when cotton is coming in and if the farmer can be shown the real season, when to sell, he should know before he sells.

Pitt county should be represented by the man who is foremost in his information. The man to go and represent Pitt county and the people is Col. Isaac A. Sugg. He has been to the conventions heretofore, and knows and feels the interest of the people. This is indeed a time to be considering. There is no time to lose if Pitt county is to be represented.

Notice.

It will be to your advantage to go to Perkin's opera house Tuesday Sept. 5. It will cost nothing to look. Calls will be received at the door and given every attention.

A Sad Death.

Last Wednesday evening about 8 o'clock the angel of death visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hyman and called their little niece, Berley James, to her final rest. She was born Oct. 6, 1893 and died Aug. 30, 1905. She had been sick with fever three weeks.

Her death came like a blow to her uncle and aunt with whom she had lived ever since her infancy. She was a bright attractive child, winning the love of all she met.

Her death has left a vacancy that can never be filled but may God in His allwise providence, strengthen and console those grief stricken ones and help them so to live that they may be better prepared to meet her in that world where there is no parting.

Mayor Woodard acknowledges the beer but not the corn.

Now they are running up against the hitches in the peace terms.

As a successful spellbinder and a "whooper up," Ben Tillman, is a success, but as a high toned orator he is a signal failure.

If much rivalry springs up between Carnegie and Rockefeller as to which can give away the most money, they may succeed in dying poor.

There will be lamentation among the little folks now, the ruling of the postoffice having cut the funny page supplement out of the Sunday papers.

One great trouble with the young men of this country today is that too many of them wait for opportunities when they ought to be making opportunities.

North Carolinians take a high stand everywhere. Capt. J. C. McNeill, of Fayetteville, has again been elected president of the National Firemen's Association.

There was ice and frost at Blowing Rock one morning last week. Down this way we were sweating in the heat. Old North Carolina can give you almost any kind of climate desired.

The petition to the Raleigh board of aldermen for another election on the saloon question failed, as it should have done. On the petition were many names of persons who were not entitled to vote in an election.

Who says North Carolina is not climbing on? That modern hotel is really under way in Charlotte and street cars have begun running in Salisbury. Next thing you know Greenville will have a chamber of commerce.

A peculiar case is reported found in South Carolina. A man in that state is serving a long term of imprisonment and his wife has set about to secure his pardon. The main point in her appeal is that she committed the crime for which her husband is being punished. The man went to prison rather than have the crime fixed upon his wife.

New York anticipates that Russia and Japan will soon be in the market for big loans to pay war expenses.

It is estimated that by January 1 next there will be 300 generals on the retired list of the American army, or about one general for every 200 men in the ranks. In an emergency it might be possible to work up the list of retired generals to a number equalling one for every company of privates in the army.

The Philadelphia Ledger says Southern men, both white and black, are lazy, and if they would work like Northern men the South could be made a great country. Probably the editor of the Ledger was too lazy to read the report of the Secretary of Commerce showing that the lazy Southerners produce 41 per cent. of the exports of the United States.—Wilmington Star.

One Case Where Justice Won.

In Goldsboro last spring some prominent citizens were indicted for gambling. E. L. Edmundson was a member of the grand jury and after the indictment Arnold Borden, a prominent citizen, charged Edmundson with being responsible for the indictments (it subsequently developed that he was not) and attacked him. Edmundson shot Borden and severely wounded him, but Borden recovered.

The Landmark remarked at the time that if Borden attacked Edmundson simply because the latter did his sworn duty as a member of the grand jury, he got what was coming to him when he caught a bullet. The court seems to have taken the same view of the case, for in Wayne Superior court this week Edmundson, who did the shooting, was acquitted, while Borden was convicted.

Justice very often falls down, but this is one case in which it got there with both feet.—Statesville Landmark.

John D. Rockefeller will shortly make gifts to educational institutions, of a magnitude, it is said, to startle the country. John evidently sees the need of doing something to get the country to thinking better of him.—Greensboro Telegram.

A. K. Klingender, of Statesville, N. C., is interested in the organization of a company with an original capital of $30,000 to engage in growing apples for market. One thousand acres of land near Mt. Airy will be planted in 50,000 apple trees, which are expected to be bearing in five or six years and to come to full fruition in 10 years.

State Auditor Dixon has completed his preparation of the pension rolls for this year, and they show a total of 14,035 against 13,316 last year, the net increase being 719. Of widows there are 5,069, an increase of 119, and of fourth-class soldiers, 8,044, an increase of 615. In the other classes there is no increase worth mentioning. There are only 87 first class pensioners.

A peculiar complaint has been lodged with the police board of Pittsburg against a policeman of the city. He is charged with kissing a woman against her will. That was bad enough, but the additional charge is made that he did it so awkwardly that he bit her lip. The police commissioner could not stand that. In discharging the man from the force he declared that it was bad enough for the officer to attempt to kiss a woman against her will, "but to bite her!" he exclaimed. "We won't have policemen like that on the force." The woman is young, wealthy and prominent socially. You may bet the next time that fellow kisses a woman he will be careful to use only his lips.—Wilmington Messenger.

Too Much Praise.

An Irishman who was working on a new railway said one day to the foreman: "Do yer want any more hands, sir? I've got a brother at home that wants a job."
The foreman asked him what sort of a workman his brother was.
"Faith, sor," Pat replied, "he's as good a man as myself."
"All right. Tell him to come on."
"Whole I'm axing for my brother, there's me poor old father at home wantin' a job at the same time, yer honor."
"Well, and what sort of a man is your father, Pat?"
"Bejabers, sor, he's as good as the two of us."
"Oh, well," said the foreman, "tell your father to come, and you and your brother can stay away."—London Tit-Bits.

Relieving the Strain.
George, aged five, had gone into the pantry against his mother's orders and had picked the frosting from the cake baked for dinner. Corraling him in the kitchen, his mother spanked him. George did not cry. The chastisement did not even make him mad. He took it philosophically. When it was over, his mother dropped into a chair. George stood looking out of a window. There was a deep silence for a couple of minutes. Then George looked around at his mother and very solemnly said, "It's a nice day, ain't it, mudder?"—Kansas City Times.

Left Overs.
A certain young clerk entered a restaurant and gave an order for a couple of pies. Presently he began to grumble. "What's the matter?" said the waiter. "These pies are awfully dry and tough," responded the customer. "Young man," said the waiter seriously, "we made pies here before you were born." "Yes," answered the other, "and I fancy these are some of them."

Ancient Persian Customs.
"The ni-Akbari; or, Annals of the Emperor Akbar," written in the Persian language, contain descriptions of various customs which prevailed during the Mogul period. Among these was the use of perfumes in religious observances, and the emperor took a personal interest in the preparation of the ingredients. Among vegetable products Aquilaria agallocha, aloe wood, was then, as now, valued for the oleo-resin agar and an oil known as chuan. Sandalwood was used as a powder, and perfumes were distilled from the rose, orange, jasmine and broad leaved willow, Salix caprea. Ambergris, obtained from the sperm whale; the moist secretion of the civet cat and the opercula of certain molluscs, known as "fingernails," were important animal products.

England Imitating the Lobster.
Great Britain follows the procedure of the lobster. At intervals the lobster casts his shell, and until a new one grows he is absolutely helpless and has to conceal himself in a hole. This is our case, only we have no sheltering hole. We get an equipment, usually in a hurry and at abnormal cost. We take no note of what science is doing until some fine day we discover that our equipment is as worthless for defense as Nelson's wooden hulls would be against a modern ironclad. Then we appoint a committee, which discovers a number of things previously known to all other nations. We provide ourselves with a new shell, lucky if nobody attacks us in the meantime, and then we go to sleep again.—London Times.

A Hint to the Bishop.
A bishop, riding in his carriage on the Isle of Man, came to a convict in his striped clothes breaking stones on the road. The bishop talked to the convict a little while, giving him some advice and encouragement; then, as he got ready to drive on, he said, with a smile and a sigh: "Ah, my man, I wish I could break up the stony hearts of my people as you break these rocks on the highway."
From his lowly attitude the convict looked up at the proud bishop in his magnificent equipage. "Perhaps, sir," he said, "you don't work on your knees."

A Modern Version of an Old Tale.
A small maid returned from school the other day filled with the enthusiasm of discovery. "Oh, mamma," she began, "teacher told us about a boy who said, 'Wolf! Wolf!' lots of times when there wasn't any wolf there." "And what did the story mean?" inquired mamma. "Why," said the child, greatly surprised at her mother's inability to put two and two together—"why, it means never be a liar teller but once!"

Liberal With Encores.
A Boston entomologist once told a story of an experience of a friend of his. He was once put up at a hotel in the next room to a cornet player. In the morning the landlord asked him if he enjoyed the playing. "Enjoy it?" said he. "I could not sleep. Why, I kept pounding on the wall to make him stop playing."
"That's funny," said the landlord, "for he said you kept applauding him by pounding on the wall, and he went over every piece he knew three times."

QUEER DERIVATIONS.

Origin of Some of the Words Now in Everyday Use.

Some familiar words illustrate that confusion between article and substantive which has given the English language "a newt" for "an ewt." "A nickname" represents "an ekename," an additional name, and "a nugget," or "nigget," as it used to be written, was once "a ningot," a wrong version of "an ingot." Similarly the phrase "for the nonce" was originally "for then once"—for that one time, "then" being the dative case of "that." On the other hand, "an adder" and "an orange" were "a madded" and "a norange" originally. "An apron" also has come from "a napron" (connected with "napery"), and "an unpire" is really "a numpire"—a "nonpire," a not equal or odd man, the odd man out who arbitrates.

Besides "bridegroom" Anglo-Saxons owe the word "twelve" and their method of reckoning in dozens instead of tens to Norway. The people of Norway and Iceland had a way of reckoning which made ten equal twelve by the addition of the word "tolfraed," whence the English word twelve—corresponding to the Swedish "dusin," whence the word dozen. The tolfracic ten meant twelve, the tolfracic hundred meant 120, and so on. This probably also explains the mediaeval method of counting six score to the hundred.

"Scandal" is one of the hardest worked words in the language. It is the same as "slander" and should have the same meaning of things spoken injuriously to a person's reputation. Derived alike from Greek "skandalon," "slander" and "scandal" are good examples of doublets from classical sources. "Scandal" came, with the "new learning," direct from the Greek; "slander" by way of Norman French "esclandra." The same process has given "palsy" and "paralysis," "priest" and "presbyter," "alms" and "eleemosynary."

Interrupted Business.
"Miss Florry," said the traveler, leaning over the counter in the village shop, where his samples were spread out for display, and speaking to the fair girl behind it in low, eager, passionate tones, "now that old Hunks has gone to the front to wait on a customer, I may tell you how I have looked forward for the last thirty days to the time when I should have the happiness of seeing you again and hearing from your own dear lips that you have not forgotten me, may I not? While I have been on my dreary rounds from town to town or passing the leaden hours in waiting for trains at little railway stations, the thought of your lovely face has thrilled me to the heart's core. You have been to me the beacon light of hope, the inspiration of every—Striped goods like these, Miss Baxter, are worth 21 shillings a dozen. I can't make them a penny less," he said, in a hard, businesslike tone.

Old Hunks had returned to the back part of the shop.—London Fun.

The Word "Cigar."
The word "cigar" is believed to come from the Spanish cigarra, meaning a grasshopper, and at first the significance and propriety of the term seem questionable. But in Spanish a garden was cigarra, or the place where the grasshopper sang. Tobacco was usually grown in a cigarra, and when the leaves were rolled up and brought to a guest the host, specially to recommend the product, was careful to state that it was grown in his own cigarra. Thus the word which means grasshopper came, in a modified form, to be applied to the habit of the grasshopper and finally to the cigar, whose material was grown there.

Landed.
He had been calling at intervals for five years, and one night when he and the young lady were seated in a secluded corner of the drawing room the front door bell rang.
"Oh, bother," cried the young man; "better tell the servant you are out!"
"Shall I not tell her to say I'm engaged?" asked the girl shyly. And before another quarter of an hour had passed she was.

How He Spelled It.
A Brooklyn physician, whose memory for names is very poor, recently had a patient in his office for whom he was asked to fill out an application for some position. Not wishing to betray the fact that he had forgotten the man's name, he casually inquired as he raised his pen above the paper:
"By the way, how do you spell your name?"
The man gave him a curious glance and said, "J-o-n-e-s—Jones."
—New York Press.

The Gentle Editor.
Young Man (to editor)—Here is a little poem of a pathetic nature, sir. I showed it to my mother, and she actually cried over it.
Editor (after reading the poem)—You say your mother cried?
Young Man—Yes, sir.
Editor—Well, you go home and promise your mother never to write any more poetry, and I think the old lady will dry her tears.

The Secret of Good Coffee
Even the best housekeepers cannot make a good cup of coffee without good material. Dirty, adulterated and queerly blended coffee such as unscrupulous dealers shovel over their counters won't do. But take the pure, clean, natural flavored LION COFFEE, the leader of all package coffees—the coffee that for over a quarter of a century has been daily welcomed in millions of homes—and you will make a drink fit for a king in this way:
HOW TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE.
Use LION COFFEE, because to get best results you must use the best coffee. Grind your LION COFFEE rather fine. Use 1/2 tablespoonful to each cup, and one extra for the pot. First mix it with a little cold water, enough to make a thick paste, and add white of an egg (if egg is to be used as a settler), then follow one of the following rules:
1st. WITH BOILING WATER. Add boiling water, and let it boil THREE MINUTES ONLY. Add a little cold water to the paste and set aside five 2d. WITH COLD WATER. Add your cold water to the paste and bring it to a boil. Then set aside, add a little cold water, and in five minutes it's ready to serve.
3. Don't let it stand more than ten minutes before serving.
DON'TS (Don't use water that has been boiled before.)
TWO WAYS TO SETTLE COFFEE.
1st. With Eggs. Use part of the white of an egg, mixing it with the ground LION COFFEE before boiling.
2d. With Cold Water instead of eggs. After boiling add a dash of cold water, and set aside for eight or ten minutes, then serve through a strainer.
Insist on getting a package of genuine LION COFFEE, prepare it according to this recipe and you will only use LION COFFEE in future. (Sold only in 1 lb. sealed packages.) (Lion-head on every package.) (Save these Lion-heads for valuable premiums.)

LETTER TO A SAVAGE.

Greenville, N. C.

Dear Sir: You know how well it pays to keep your carriages painted, both for looks and to keep out water. It pays as well to paint your barn and your house. We put your barn first, because that is your business—your customers see it.

You see, there are two good reasons for paint; one is looks; the other is wear. If you paint for looks, the wear will take care of itself.

Paint often for looks; and use good paint for both looks and wear.

The best paint is Devoe lead-and-zinc ground together by machinery; same as used by the U S government. It takes fewer gallons than mixed paint and wears twice as long as lead-and oil mixed by hand.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & CO.
