Held on Lynching Charge.
Kinston, N. C., Sept. 9.—The preliminary trial of W. D. Wright, charged with participating in the lynching of John Moore, at New Bern, August 27th, says the Free Press, was held before Judge E. B. Jones, sitting as a committing magistrate, at the court house in this city, Friday night, and this morning Judge Jones ordered Wright held under $500 bond for his appearance at November court in this county for investigation by the grand jury and court. Solicitor Larry Moore, of the Third Judicial district, in which the lynching occurred, conducted the prosecution for the state, and Shaw and Rountree appeared for the respondent.

John O'Hagan Dead
Dr. Charles O'H. Laughinghouse received a telegram from Durham today announcing the death of Mr. John O'Hagan. He was a brother of the late Dr. C. J. O'Hagan and of Miss Matilda O'Hagan, of Greenville. Mr. O'Hagan was engaged in mercantile business here several years ago.

Original Observations.
History doesn't repeat itself as often as gossip does.
The thread of a love story usually winds up with a tie.
The majesty of the mind should be the greatest ruler.
Even a very weak man can often shoulder a responsibility.
The microbe of spite produces the full grown malady of hatred.
Most failures are caused by people not letting well enough alone.
A corporation may not have a soul, but it has a thousand eyes.
Summer roses fade and die because there is no way of reviving them.
Life has many lessons, but the easiest of them all is learning to love.
Truth never uses perfume, while falsehood often smells sweeter than a rose.—Orange, Va., Observer.

Thirty Baptized
There were thirty people baptized in Forbes' mill pond, three miles from town, Sunday afternoon. An immense crowd was present, estimated at over 2,000. The baptism was the result of a revival held in Bedy Branch Free Will Baptist church.

Killed by Explosion Connellsville, Pa., Sept. 9.—The Rand Powder Mills at Fairchance six miles south of Uniontown, were entirely wiped out by an explosion at 9.05 o'clock today. Of the thirty-two men who went to work in the mill this morning, nineteen are known to be dead. Of these thirteen have been identified. Nine men, including C. M. Rand, manager of the plant, were seriously injured.

LOCAL ITEMS.
Jr. O. U. A. M. meets tonight.
Tobacco keeps right on coming in lively.
Don't be in a hurry to shoot your straw hat, there will be more hot weather yet.
Sell your tobacco in Greenville and do your trading in Greenville—two good things to do.

There was once a woman who could actually starch a man's shirt in the right place—but she has been dead several hundred years.—Chicago News.

Personal Interest in the Boys.
Rev. T. J. Allison, Sugar Creek, N. C., writing of the Bingham school, near Mebane, N. C., says:
I wish to thank you for your kindness to Charlie during the session which he spent at Bingham school. He came home with flattering reports of the excellent teaching and discipline in the school. He thinks that he has been greatly benefited and I think so too. One thing about the school which has favorably impressed me, in addition to its teaching, is the personal interest which you and your teachers take in the boys and the free and easy social relations existing between the faculty and students. I hope the school will grow in numbers and good work. I shall be glad always to speak a kind word for you.

Very gratefully and cordially, yours.

Negroes Scrap.
There was a row Saturday night among negroes out in Higgestown in which murder came near being done. Charlie Bell struck Duke Gray across the side of the head and face with a piece of scuffling that crushed the bones and left him in bad shape. Bell made his escape.

The Item Was Wrong.
THE REFLECTOR was somewhat mixed in one of the personal items Saturday referring to Misses Blanche Cromartie and Maud Lee having been north to purchase goods for Mrs. L. Griffin. Miss Cromartie went to take instruction in millinery work in the interest of Mrs. Griffin's business and Miss Maud Lee went to have her eyes treated. Mrs. Griffin purchased her stock while she was north a few weeks ago.

Fall Announcement

THE Fall season is again upon us. How fast the seasons come and go! It seems but a few days since we were advertising our Spring and Summer goods and now it is time to talk Winter wear and heavy clothing.

Before the hurry and rush of Fall business commences, we want to say a word or two to our friends and we take this method of doing so. First, for favors of the past we wish to thank our patrons, one and all. Never has a store tried harder to please its customers and realize that our efforts have been appreciated. No pains have been spared and nothing has been left undone to give our patrons the best clothing obtainable, for the lowest prices we always have possible. That is, and that we advertise, every customer always do as we store knows full tomer of this we have earned well. We believe your confidence by deserving it and we trust that our store shall ever have an abiding place in your mind when thinking of clothing. Now, at the opening of the Fall season, we extend to every citizen of Pitt county an invitation to call, and, if pleased with our goods, our prices and our business methods, to favor us with his patronage.

Our guarantee is nothing less than Perfect Satisfaction or Your Money Refunded.
Let us occupy the first place in your thoughts when thinking of buying your Fall and Winter clothing.

Very Truly Yours,
Frank Wilson,
The King Clothier.

Scientifically Constructed. ULTRA, A Shoe for Women.

THE ULTRA SHOE for women is made with careful reference to the most minute details and is so perfected in its numerous styles that there is no other woman's shoe on the market selling at the price the Ultra does, its superior, if its equal.

Here is the fundamental basis of a perfect shoe. We employ our own expert designers, and every Ultra Shoe is made over almost scientifically constructed to meet the closest variations of width and size in woman's footwear. The Ultra Shoe meets every requirement of the many whims of womanship.

MONDAY, SEPT. 11 1905.

If any other reminder of the presence of fall time were needed, foot ball talk supplies it.

There is nothing more annoying than bad sidewalks. We have a few bad sidewalks and they should be fixed.

The announcement is made that Judge Parker will become chief counsel of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company at a salary of $100,000 per year. That beats being president for half the money.

There is much dissatisfaction among farmers over the low price at which tobacco is selling this season. The present crop is a poor one, light in weight, with very little of the better grades. Notwithstanding the short crop the price is low, and unless there is marked improvement the acreage will be considerably curtailed when another planting time comes.

A RECORD BREAKER.

When Colonel Mulberry Sellers conceived the idea that with his patent eye wash he could sell a bottle to every man in China and woman and child as well, and figured how many millions there were to buy he had a proposition which indeed revealed the "millions in it," but the question was to have a sure thing on selling the eye wash. It is not hard to figure on big things, but it is some times hard to make the figures make good. When the Greensboro Life Insurance Company announced that it was going to do business, of course it was understood by all people that it would do some business—but the record made at the end of four weeks, when this is written, was something that really seemed impossible. But it is a fact that at the end of four weeks—thirty days from the day the company commenced to write business it had sold over one-half million dollars of insurance—something like sixty thousand dollars over that amount. When it is remembered that it takes five hundred thousand dollars to make a half million dollars it must be conceded that the Greensboro Life Insurance Company started out and sustained its gait in a manner at once surprising and inspiring.

Its Secretary, Mr. E. Calwell, Jr., can now afford to throw several large-sized bouquets at himself, because he has suddenly come most prominent in the insurance business. He had done other stunts on the insurance tight rope—and in them he had been successful—but it was left for him to ring the bell the loudest in his official capacity as Secretary of the Greensboro Life. Of course he did not do all that has been done single-handed—because his company stands as high, individually considered, and the personnel made a collective whole that inspired confidence and invited business. Then, too, the thirty-odd agents who entered the field and talked "turkey" early and late had much to do with this phenomenal, record breaking story—but after all Calwell can afford to think that he knows considerable insurance. He has delivered the goods—and that's the kind of evidence that goes.

The Greensboro Life Insurance Company is to be congratulated all around. It looks like it was going to succeed in building up a vast concern right in the pine woods of North Carolina. It may be, and let us hope, if people are going to continue to insure, and they doubtless will, that the Greensboro Life will become a gigantic financial institution—that it will help to keep the many millions in the South which now yearly go North and that some fine day we can go to Southern cities and see here and there large and imposing blocks of granite called the Greensboro Life Building—just the same as you can rubber-neck in the South today and see New York Life and Equitable and Prudential and all sorts of life insurance buildings—budded on money sent from the South to the North. Safe, conservative and inviting—The Greensboro Life Insurance Company, with the record-breaking business done in the first four weeks of its existence, carries a hope that seems a promise that it is going to do something big—something that the South for many years has needed—Fairbrother's Everything, Sept. 1st

Since the above date, Sept. 1st, the company has swelled the amount to a million dollars in seven weeks. This is the most remarkable record of insurance writing the world has ever known.

The Negro As a Suicide.

Did you ever stop to think that it is very rarely a negro commits suicide? This is brought to mind by noting that a negro, prompted by a fit of despondency following severe sickness, committed suicide by cutting his throat in Fairmount, W. Va. Pondering over the matter we cannot think of but one other instance—no more—where a negro committed suicide. Of course, there are more, but they are so few that the percentage must be a third or a half or likely less of some other per cent. This shows clearly the difference in disposition of the negro from the white man. With very few exceptions he is either too happy-go lucky or too impregnable to mental desperation that he is never brought to the verge of suicide, much less be wrought up to that pitch where he plunges over the precipice into eternity. With those same few exceptions it shows that the negro lives entirely for the present and that he never thinks of death until the Grim Reaper is at his very bedside. Social position never worries him, business cares are unknown and, for many reasons, genuine hunger is seldom experienced by him. His mind is not schooled to the lights and shades of life. The largest percentage of suicidism comes with education, and while this is to be deplored among whites, yet it appears inevitable and as education is necessary to profitable and pleasant living for these whites there is apparently no cure.—Wilmington Dispatch.

FIGHTING "JAPONIANS."

A Fierce Conflict With Pirates in the Seventeenth Century.

In the book "Purchas His Pil-grimes" is recorded the adventure which befell John Davis and Sir Edward Michelbourne, who, little better than pirates themselves, met in 1605 with a Chinese junk full of pirates "Japonians," whose own vessel had been cast away on Borneo.
There were ninety men aboard this junk, "most of them in too gallant a habit for Saylor and such an equality of behavior among them that they seemed all fellows. Yet among them there was one that they called captain, but gave him little respect." A number of them having been transferred to the ship while the junk's cargo was being searched, they suddenly sallied out of the cabin at a given signal, and while those in the junk killed or drove overboard the Englishmen in charge those on the ship tried to take possession of it. At the first onset they killed Captain Davis.

"They pressed so fiercely to come to us as, we receiving them on our pikes, they would gather in our pikes with their hands to reach us with their swords. It was near half an hour before we could stone them back into the cabin, in which time we had killed three or four of their leaders. After they were in the cabin they fought with us at the least four hours before we could suppress them, often firing the cabin, burning the bedding and much other stuff that was there.

"And had we not with two demy culverins from under the halfe decke beaten downe the bulkehead and the pumpe of the ship we could not have suppressed them from burning the ship. This ordnance being charged with crossebarres, bullets and case shot and bent close to the bulkehead, so violently marred therewith boords and splinters that it left but one of them standing of two and twentie.

"Their legs, arms and bodies were so torne as it was strange to see how the shot had massacred them. In all this conflict they never would desire their lives, though they were hopelesse to escape. Such was the desperateness of these Japonians."

Pinching a Pickpocket.

It happened on a race course in Russia. Among the spectators was a tall, powerfully built man, no longer young, and he was leaning back against a railing when he suddenly felt a hand slipped into his pocket in search, no doubt, of a silver snuffbox which he habitually carried. He said not a word, but raising himself on tiptoe for a moment he sat down on top of the rail and on top of the hand in his pocket.
The thief struggled in vain to release himself, while his captor showed no sign of knowing that there was anything amiss until at length the pain became too great for endurance, and the pickpocket called out in agony. Then the old gentleman got up and said as the wretched man behind him drew out a hand blue and swollen, "Another time you will keep your fingers from other people's pockets."—London Gentleman.

Arizona Cave Dwellings.

In Arizona there are many cave dwellings of peculiar interest. About thirty miles east of Flagstaff, as well as nearer, are a number of volcanic cones, the whole region being the scene of vast plutonic energy. As the flowing lava cooled, gases were generated, which caused gigantic bubbles to form in the slowly solidifying molten rock. Many of these bubbles still remain in the form of natural caves, and in these caves the Indians of early days found shelter.
Many of them have been explored and antique pottery of the earliest known form and decoration, together with metates, stone axes, hammers, arrow and spear points, corncocks and various small seeds have been found in large quantities.
—Craftsman.

They Knew the Anecdote.

A story is told by a French paper of two provincials, a man and his wife, who visited the Louvre in Paris.
"What struck you most at the Louvre?" asked one of their friends when they returned home and began to tell of the wonders they had seen.
"Oh," replied the husband, "a picture that represented Adam and Eve, with the apple and the serpent."
And his excellent wife chimed in,
"Yes, we found that very interesting because, you know, we knew the anecdote."

Wonderful Hair Restorer.

"At one time several years ago," said an Akron-business man, "I was associated with several other merchants in the manufacture of a hair restorer. We had a fakir selling the remedy, and this was one of his tales:
"A woman came to me the other day for her eighth bottle. She said she liked the taste of it so well. I was frightened and took her into a private office and told her to show me her tongue. She stuck it out, and there was a half inch of hair on it. To keep from hurting the business we had to feed her camphor balls all that summer to keep the moths out of her stomach."—

CHINESE ETIQUETTE.

It is a Curious Mixture of Ceremony and Deceit.

Very curious are some of the rules of etiquette observed by Chinese. Emile Laun, who has written a book on the subject of Chinese life, says that in nine cases out of ten, however, the form of etiquette has replaced the substance. With the Chinese a refusal or unpleasant truth must be expressed evasively.
If a Chinaman does not wish to accommodate a friend he never gives the true reason for his refusal. That would be discourteous.
He lies politely. The ceremonious forms of expression used in ordinary conversation seem very amusing to the European visitor. It is a fixed rule that one must speak of himself and of all belonging to him in the humblest of terms and use the most exalted language in referring to the person or property of another.
Whether two mandarins or two bag-gards meet and accost each other this is a sample of their conversation: "What is your honorable name?" "Your insignificant brother's name is Wang." "Where is your noble dwelling?" "The hovel in which I hide myself is in —," designating the place. "How many precious sons have you?" "I have only five stupid little pigs."

A Chinaman, wearing his finest gown of silk, called at a house where he happened to disturb a rat which was regaling itself out of a jar of oil standing on a beam over the door. In its sudden fright the rat upset the oil over the luckless visitor, ruining his fine raiment. While the man was still pale with rage his host appeared, and after the customary greetings the visitor accounted for his appearance in this wise: "As I was entering your honorable dwelling I frightened your honorable rat. While it was trying to escape it upset your honorable jar of oil over my poor and insignificant clothing." This explains the contemptible condition in which I find myself in your honorable presence."

It is a gross offense to call a native by his name. A superior may do this, but he becomes furious if even a twin brother thus addresses him. It must be either "honorable elder brother" or "honorable younger brother" or some such form of expression. Foreigners usually solve the difficulty by applying to their servants the names of their functions, as boy, cooly, gardener, cook, mafoo (coachman) and so on.

His Reference.

In the course of a conversation between two men at the club last night one of them jokingly remarked that a man with a "check" could get anything he desired, and he backed up his statement with the following story:

One of his friends, a merchant, had advertised for a porter. A big, burly Irishman applied for the job.
After looking him over the merchant was satisfied with his appearance. The only objection was the question of references, and the Irishman did not seem to have a very good one. "Can you get no better reference than this?" asked the merchant. "Oh, yis, sor. I kin git ye the very best kind of a wan if that's all ye want, sor, and I don't have to go far for it either. Me father and me mother, sor, live down the shtrate, and they've known me all me life."
And he landed the job. — New York Times.

no Demitasse For Reed There.

Some years ago Thomas B. Reed went to Ohio. On his journey out there he went into a little railway station to have dinner. At the end of his order he said:
"Bring me a demitasse also."
The waiter stared. "What's that?" he asked.
"A small cup of coffee," Mr. Reed exclaimed—"a small cup of black coffee. See that it's good coffee, please. Demitasse means half a cup."
"Aw, g'wan," said the waiter. "I ain't a-goin' to bring you no half-cup. We don't sell nothin' less than 5 cents here."—Boston Herald.

Lead a Regular Life.

Few persons understand the value of regularity of habits. Meals and sleeping hours should be fixed ones, for only harm can result from retiring one night at 10 and another at 12 o'clock unless the rising hour varies too. Eight hours of sleep one night and six the next is not the way in which to woo and keep health, and if a similar habit of taking nourishment is encouraged there is little hope of reaching old age in a creditable condition. If ever you are tempted to prove or disprove these statements, try going to bed at 9 o'clock every night for three months, rising at 5 and eating at 6, 12 and 6 again, with never a break in the routine. The result will surprise you.—Minneapolis Tribune.

A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR. $50.00 REWARD.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Whereas, official information has been received at this department that William Williams murdered Lawrence Hopkins, of Pitt county, and whereas, it appears that the said William Williams has fled the State, or so concealed himself that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him.
Now, therefore, I, R. B. Glenn, Governor of the State of North Carolina, by virtue of authority in me vested by law, do issue this my Proclamation, offering a reward of Fifty Dollars for the apprehension and delivery of the said William Williams to the sheriff of Pitt county at the Courthouse in Greenville and I do enjoin all officers of the State and all good citizens to assist in bringing said criminal to justice.

Done at our City of Raleigh, the 14th day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and five and in the one hundred and 20th year of our American Independence.
By the Governor: R. B. GLENN.
Jas. D. Glenn, Private Secretary.

DESCRIPTION
William Williams is a dark mulatto negro, weighing about 160 or 170 pounds slightly stooped shouldered, with some defect in his eyes, which gives him the appearance of being cross eyed; between 30 or 35 years of age.
