BOUND OVER TO COURT.

Young White Man Under Serious Charge.

Policeman G. A. Clark went to Ayden Monday night and this morning brought back Vernon Bynum, a young white man against whom there is a serious charge. About two weeks ago J. L. Anderson lost a watch from his room at his boarding house. Bynum, who was here at the time working with the telephone construction crew, was boarding at the same house. A day or two later he was transferred to Ayden to work there. Suspicion pointed to him as the person who had taken the watch, and a close lookout was kept. Policeman Clark received information from the Ayden police Monday that the watch had been located, when a warrant was obtained for Bynum and Policeman Clark carried it to Ayden. The watch was found on Bynum's person and he confessed taking it.

The young man was taken before Mayor Wooten this afternoon for a preliminary hearing, where through his attorney a plea of not guilty was entered. No examination into the case was made except with a view of fixing the bond, this being that he was drinking when the watch was taken and did not intend to steal it. A justified bond of $200 was required for his appearance at Superior court.

SHOW UNDER CANVASS

New Version of Ten Nights in a Bar Room

On Saturday night, 16th, Frank E. Griswold's big company will appear here and present a new version of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." The play will be given under a mammoth tent spread on the Harrington lot opposite the court house. The tent is waterproof and has seating capacity of 2,000. Mr. Griswold is supported by a strong company of actors and actresses and is equipped with the finest scenery to be had. The company carries an excellent band and a free concert will be given at 7:15 p. m., as the doors of the tent open. The performance will begin at 8:15. The admission is only 25 cents.

Condition of Crops.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The monthly bulletin issued today by the Department of Agriculture gives the condition of corn at 89.5, against 84.6 a year ago; spring wheat 87.3; oats 90.3; barley, 87.8; rye, 90.8; flax, 94.2; potatoes, 80.9. The average condition of tobacco on September 1 was 85.1; against 84.1; one month ago, 83.7; on September 1, 1904 at the corresponding date in 1903, and a five year average of 81.3.

The average condition of rice on September 1 was 92.2 against 92.9 one month ago, 87.7 on September 1, 1904, and 93.6 at the corresponding date 1903.

Giving Away Graphophones.

There will be music in the air when The Hub Clothing Co. gets through giving away the fifty graphophones being offered to their customers. Every purchaser of $25 worth of goods is given one of these talking and singing machines free. The machines are standard make and as the firm has only fifty of them to give away they will soon be gone.

Steamer Breaks Wheel.

On her trip down the river Monday the wheel of the steamer Myers was broken, supposed by striking some obstacle. The steamer Sibloh made the trip in place of the Myers today while the wheel is being repaired, so that patrons of the line suffer no delay in freights.

THE ROAD GUILTY.

Blame Fixed For Wreck On Coast Line.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 11.—Juries of inquest from Norfolk City and Norfolk county in the matter of the wreck of the Kinston-Greenville excursion train on the Atlantic Coast Line Railway, which went through an open draw over the Western Branch of the Elizabeth river near Bruce's Station, August 17, when seventeen persons lost their lives and fifty or more were injured, both returned verdicts today, holding the railroad company responsible.

The Norfolk city jury returned this verdict:

"We, the jury from the City of Norfolk, find that the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad was negligent in placing Engineer Reig in charge of the train on a division on which he was not fully acquainted."

The verdict of the county jury was as follows:

"We, the jury, find that the said parties came to death in a wreck on the Atlantic Coast Line Railway near Bruce's Station on August 17th, at an open draw bridge; and further that the said Atlantic Coast Line Railway was negligent in entrusting train to one engineer, R. C. Reig, who was not familiar with this division of the road."

Miss Georgia Joyner, one of the teachers in the Winterville High school, spent from Friday evening until Monday morning with friends here.

Miss Eugenie D. Turnage, of Richmond, has been on a visit to her father, E. D. Turnage.

Will Alexander left yesterday on a business trip to Hertford.

Mrs. W. F. Hart came home from Kinston yesterday.

The moving pictures have been moving. They moved here last week, then moved away and when last heard from they were still moving and we hope they may make a success of moving.

Has anyone counted the death pits on the sidewalks and streets of Ayden? If not we advise, don't undertake the job.

Who was it that pulled John Hines from in front of the train Monday morning? He was relating a little incident and so deeply enthused was he that everything else was lost sight of but the fact of a certain young lady having taken up her residence at his home the night previous. Wasn't it a narrow escape? But he was so happy, danger not thought of and he invited everybody to come and see.

Mrs. Dudley and children, of Washington, have been on a visit to her parents near here.

Miss Ida G. Edwards is visiting in Washington.

Miss Helen Quinerly came home Friday morning from Kinston.

Paul Buhman is off on an extended visit to friends in various sections of the state.

Craven, of Tarboro, who will preach Sunday morning. The public are earnestly and cordially invited to attend these meetings.

Mrs. W. L. House has gone to her home in Winterville, having spent a few days here with her mother, Mrs. McLawhorn.

Mrs. T. F. Johnson left Friday to be absent sometime.

There was small ripple of excitement out at the depot yesterday upon arrival of morning train owing to a wire message received by the chief ordering arrest of certain parties supposed to be on train. Upon examination the gentleman so much desired was found and everything gradually settled back to the usual quietness.

There was an unusually large crowd here Saturday. Cotton came in rapidly, brought fair prices, the people were liberal in their patronage, our merchants seemingly did a good business and everything was lively. It reminded us of the good old times we have read about when milk and honey flowed abundantly and all ate and drank to their fill.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 12 1905.

Kinston has started street paving. Greenville should take notice.

Notwithstanding it is more than a year off before another sheriff of New Hanover county is to be elected, six men are standing for the job.

The special term of Federal court at Greensboro last week, to investigate irregularities in the revenue service, found what it was looking for—frauds a plenty.

Witte took a whirl around Washington Sunday to see how Uncle Sam does things. He will have that much more to talk about when he gets back to Russia.

Mexico becomes more and more civilized as the years roll around. The latest advance is the suppression of lotteries that have been allowed to exist in that country.

The Chicago Pullman porter who was robbed of his hat and coat should not raise any fuss over it, considering the number of passengers he has held up and made to fork over.

We had hoped the Mikado's subjects would so depart themselves as to continue to hold the good opinion and sympathy of the world, but recent events at Tokio is against them.

Governor Glenn is off with a party to make a tour of several New England states. The governor is booked for several speeches on the tour and will make North Carolina be heard from whenever he speaks.

The grand jury of the Federal court at Greensboro found a bunch of indictments against several revenue officers, but when a marshal went to serve the warrants the officers had taken to the woods.

An epidemic of robberies is spreading over the state. Four were committed in Kinston Sunday and the recent papers report others at various places. Greenville seems not to have been struck by them yet, but they are likely to occur any time. It is well enough for both officers and people to be on guard.

The Russian and Japanese peace envoys celebrated the signing of the peace treaty by making a donation of $20,000 to New Hampshire charitable institutions. Pretty good, and they can leave more of it around if they want to, with no questions asked as to whether it is indemnity or reimbursement, or tainted.

It is often the fellow who does not get in the fight that raises the most noise after it is over. That is the situation in Japan just now. Those who were at home and did not go in the war are the ones making the most trouble over the peace treaty. Put them in active service on the firing line and they will be ready enough to stop.

If Mr. Bryan could talk Spanish fluently there is no telling how much trouble he would make for us in the Philippines—Durham Herald.

The democrats are already beginning to call attention to the things that congress has not done, just as if most people were not glad of it.—Durham Herald.

OAKLEY ITEMS

OAKLEY, N. C., Sept. 11, 1905.

H. A. Gray made business calls in Washington Friday.

Mr. Duncan, one of Raleigh's cleverest gentlemen, arrived Thursday to spend a few days with us. He is in the revenue service.

W. A. Andrews and family of South Rocky Mount spent last week with relatives here and returned Sunday.

T. A. Whitehurst and wife, of Savannah, Ga., spent last week with relatives in this section. They left for their home Friday.

Miss Pennie Mizell left Friday for Murfreesboro to attend school. This is Miss Mizell's fourth year at this school.

The revival at Oak Grove closed Friday. Several joined the church. It was conducted by Revs. Jones and Brown. Both are fine scholars and orators.

W. M. Skinner made a business trip to Raleigh last week.

We had a very sick man in our town last week. He took a spoonful of calomel, ate half a dozen lemons, four bottles of pickles, a sack of watermelons, had a prize fight before train time next morning, got knocked out on second round, got up and left on the first train. When last heard from he was calling for more pickles.

One of our neighbors dug a well last week so crooked that he fell out of it.

A large crowd from this section attended the yearly meeting at Briery Swamp Sunday. All report a pleasant trip, good preaching and the best of dinners. For hospitality Briery Swamp section is second to none.

The largest crowd ever at Oakley was here Saturday to attend the baseball game and the horse race. At 3:10, p. m., the Oakley and Eureka team, of Martin county, crossed bats. Both sides played well. It was thought at first that the visiting club would beat, but old Pitt county came in at the wind up. The score was 16 to 8 in favor of the Oakley boys.

At 6, p. m., the most exciting horse race ever in this section was had. Those that entered in the race were J. K. Barnhill, of Oakley, Lervis Roberson, of Stokes, Jack Roberson, of Robersonville. All the horses are fast. After three heats it resulted in a tie. The tie will be raced off in about thirty days.

Pitt county has the fastest horses, prettiest women and the best scuppernon grapes of any county in our knowledge.

Often people who find themselves unable to spend money for a good cause because they fear it is not a safe investment are the first to be caught in a gold brick game.—Winston Sentinel.

The cotton men want an organ and strange to say one man had the hardihood to get up in the meeting in Asheville and venture the assertion that it took money to run a newspaper. And he might have added that it takes more than ever when the newspaper is an "organ." The newspaper that is not an "organ" but an impartial disseminator of news instead requires less "putting up" for it is the kind people want and will patronize.—Greensboro Telegram.

SHATTERED HIS THEORY.
An Unexpected Answer That Non-plused a School Examiner.
In the days when board schools were young a visit was paid to one of those schools by a local dignitary who had theories on the subject of Scripture lessons. He requested the head master to pick out a particularly dull boy and let him ask that had a few questions, whereupon the following dialogue ensued:
"Now, my boy, what do you understand by a miracle?"
"Boy, looking hopelessly at visitor, makes no answer."
"Visitor (triumphantly to head master)—You see, it's as I've always maintained—Scripture must be explained and illustrated if any comprehension of its meaning is to penetrate this sort of skull. He can't tell me what a miracle is. Now, hear me make him understand."
Head Master (with sarcastic incredulity)—If you do, sir, you'll have wrought a miracle yourself. I haven't a duller boy in the school. If you'd question some of the others—
"Visitor—No, no; I'll show you what I can do with this one by using common sense methods. Now, my boy, pay attention to me. You don't know what a miracle is, eh?"
Boy confesses it by his silence.
"Now, listen to me. Suppose you got up in the middle of the night and saw the sun shining, what should you say it was?"
Boy (promptly)—I should say it was the moon.
"Visitor (argumentatively)—But you couldn't, you know, if you saw it was the sun."
Boy (doggedly)—I should see it wasn't."
"Visitor (recovering from a disconcerted pause)—But suppose some one told you that it was the sun?"
Boy (emphatically)—I should say he was a liar.
"Visitor (angry at such persistent stupidity)—But suppose I told you that it was really the sun. You wouldn't dare to tell me that I was a liar, would you?"
Boy hesitates a moment; then in accents of conviction, "I should say you was werry drunk."—London Tit-Bits.

The Joke That Failed.
"Thompson," said the bookkeeper to his assistant, "do you know why you are like a donkey?"
"Like a donkey?" echoed Thompson, opening his eyes wide. "I don't."
"Because your better half is stubbornness itself."
The jest pleased Thompson immensely, for he at once saw the opportunity of a glorious dig at his wife. So when he got home he said:
"Mrs. Thompson, do you know why I am a donkey?"
He waited a moment, expecting his wife to give it up. But she didn't. She looked at him somewhat pityingly as she answered:
"I suppose it's because you were born so."

Not That Kind of Bird.
Most travelers who have gone into the way places of the far west have brought back clear remembrance of the voices of the sure footed little pack burros which go out there under the pseudonym of "Rocky Mountain canaries."
The meaning of the phrase is not always so well known to those who have always lived east. So it happened that a Boston woman, who was introducing a young Denver music student to her guests recently, caused no little confusion when she said:
"And now, ladies, Miss Converse, our little Rocky mountain canary, will sing for us."—Youth's Companion.

Alas!
The Squire—Pale, do I look? Ah! I don't wonder at it. I am thoroughly upset. My rascally son has bolted; yes, bolted, sir! Skipped off to London and married without my permission.
The Parson—Alas, my dear sir, alas!
The Squire (exasperatedly)—A lass? Of course it was a lass. D'ye suppose the lad would run away with his grandmother?—London Tit-Bits.

Then He Got Mad.
A young man started in the livery business, and the first thing he did was to have a sign painted representing himself holding a mule by the bridle. He was particularly proud of this stroke of business enterprise and asked of his wife:
"Is that not a good likeness of me?"
"Yes," she replied. "It's a perfect picture of you, but who is the fellow holding the bridle?"

Leap Year Privilege.
In the reign of Margaret—1286-1292—the Scottish parliament passed an act saying that "every maiden had liberty to speak to the man she likes. If he refuse to take her to be his wife, he shall be mulet in the sum of £100 or less, according to his estate, except and always if he can make it appear that he is betrothed to another woman. Then he shall be free." This is the origin of the famous privilege given to women in leap year.

A LIGHTHOUSE HELPER.
How the Appointment Was Made and Why It Was Revoked.
Filed among the correspondence of the lighthouse board at Washington are two brief epistles, the dates of which show that the first was written about six months before the second. They look precisely like any ordinary business correspondence. They were received in good faith by the board, and no one, reading them casually, would suspect what a tale of domestic woe hangs thereby. An inspector, making his usual rounds, discovered the facts.
An Irishman named McFadden had charge of a lighthouse near one of the lake ports. He was a small, wiry person of about ninety pounds in weight. His wife more than made up for anything that he lacked in size or muscle, for she was a brawny, stalwart woman of 200 pounds. She was, moreover, the possessor of a violent temper, and there were times when the timorous, undersized lighthouse keeper did not dare to call his soul his own.
His duties at the lighthouse were somewhat arduous, so when Mrs. McFadden happened to be in a pleasant frame of mind she sometimes helped her rather inefficient partner with the lamps. She learned one day that her husband was entitled to an assistant of his own choosing, and she suggested that since she did the work she properly was the person who should be appointed to draw the comfortable salary. Mr. McFadden, however, promptly objected, saying that he was certain that the board would never give the position to a woman.
"Just send in the application," she urged, "and tell them you're wanting it for your relative, J. McFadden. Sure, they'll never know whether it's for John or for Jane, and I can do the work as well as any man."

Mr. McFadden reluctantly sent in the application, and in due time "J. McFadden" was regularly appointed first assistant at the lighthouse. The prospect of the salary brought joy to the assistant's heart, and all went well for a time.
After awhile, however, Mrs. McFadden, always a trying person to live with, became so independent on the strength of her separate income that poor McFadden found life with her entirely insupportable. Affairs reached a climax one day when the stalwart Jane laid her superior officer across her knee and in the presence of visitors deliberately spanked him with the hairbrush.
McFadden of course was unable physically to retaliate, but mentally he proved fully equal to the occasion. Retiring to the lighthouse tower, where he was safe from intrusion, he wrote the following letter:
To the Lighthouse Board:
Gentlemen—I respectfully request that my assistant, J. McFadden, be removed for disobedience and insubordination.
Faithfully yours,
PATRICK MCFADDEN.

As the lighthouse keeper had been the judge of the fitness of his own assistant in the beginning, the board saw no reason why he should not now be a proper judge of insubordination, so his request was granted.—Youth's Companion.

The Law of It.
The old buck in the story who dropped a sovereign in the plate at church, mistaking it for a penny, could get no great satisfaction out of the sexton, as will be recalled, but he was not the old buck to give up easily.
Accordingly he sought legal advice, with a view of instituting a suit at law.
But the lawyer whom he consulted was one of those rare and gifted souls who would rather be witty than rich, or almost anything else, for that matter.
"Sir," said he at once, "you have no case. You were guilty of contributory negligence."—Puck.

Took It With His Meals.
A doctor tells of a very stout patient who came to him about reducing his weight, says the editor of Modern Medical Science. The doctor drew up a careful dietary consisting of dry toast, boiled beef and various other things calculated to keep a man from accumulating fat.
At the end of a month the patient returned stouter than ever. The physician was astonished and asked the man what he had been eating.
"Just what you prescribed," was the answer.
"Anything else?"
"Why, of course. I ate my regular meals as usual."

Freddy's Diplomacy.
"Father," inquired Freddy as he put down the top he was spinning, "what is diplomacy?" "Diplomacy, my boy," replied the old man proudly, "is doing exactly the right thing at the right moment." "Then I reckon I used diplomacy last night." "What did you do?" "Why, I heard mother say that she was going to give me some medicine. Now, you know, I generally sleep on the outside of the bed, but last night when I heard mother coming upstairs I pushed Johnny into my place and slid into his part of the bed."
"What happened?" "Why, Johnny had the medicine; that's all."—London People.
