WILL BREAK CONNECTION.

Greenville Shut In Worse Than Ever.

A change has been made in the schedule of trains on the Atlantic & North Carolina railroad that will practically break connection with trains on this branch of the Coast Line, unless there is a change on this road also or the train is never behind time at all. The train that has been passing Kinston at 7:15, p. m., has been moved up to 6:52, p. m. This is just about the time the Coast Line train reaches Kinston if it is on time, and it seldom is. So passengers and mail getting around that way in the evening will be out of the question, and Greenville will have to jog along with one outlet a day.

Patent Medicine Decision.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14th.—

The commissioner of internal revenue today decided that the manufacturers of patent medicines composed largely of distilled liquors must, after December 1, 1905, take out licenses as rectifiers and liquor dealers, and that druggists and others handling the goods in question must pay the license required by law of a liquor dealer. In a letter of instructions just sent to internal revenue collectors Commissioner Yerkes draws their attention to the existence of a large number of compounds on the market that sell as medicines, but are chiefly composed of distilled spirits without the addition of drugs or medicines in sufficient quantities to materially change their character.

Exonerates the Superintendent.

A half dozen of the most prominent physicians in the state yesterday testified before the board of directors of the state hospital that in their opinion Thomas H. Nall died from acute heart dilation caused by violent muscular effort and that the blood clot found in his brain was not of a character to cause his death.

They agreed that the symptoms of compression of the brain given in the autopsy as the cause of death were totally different from those testified as having been exhibited by Nall when he was brought into the hospital before his death.

The result will be in all probability a justification of Doctor Mc Kee's diagnosis and failure to order an immediate autopsy and the release from jail of the four attendants now held on a charge of having caused the death of the patient.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Aged Lady Killed.

Tarboro, N. C., Mrs. Susan Williams, aged 85 years, and a pensioner of Mexican war, was struck by the engine of a local freight train from Rocky Mount and instantly killed at Medora, three miles north of South Rocky Mount on the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad this morning. The unfortunate woman attempted to cross the track in front of the moving train in an effort to save the life of a pet dog without apparent cognizance of the jeopardy in which she placed her own life. The deceased was a widow of John Williams, who served the Coast Line as section master for a number of years.

District Meeting.

D. C. Moore, L. H. Pender, W. L. Best, W. F. Elyans, D. L. James, E. E. Griffin, C. E. Rountree and W. R. Parker, Jr., attended a district meeting of Odd Fellows in Washington Thursday night. The next district meeting of the order will be held in Greenville on the second Thursday night in December.

Mr. J. W. Marlee, a postoffice inspector, has sworn out a warrant against Miss Sallie Kime, who until recently was a clerk in the Concord postoffice, charging the opening of mail. She was given a preliminary hearing at Concord last Wednesday, before United States Commissioner G. A. Kestler, and waived examination. She gave $300 bond for her appearance before said commissioner September 12.—Greensboro Patriot.

AYDEN ITEMS.

AYDEN, N. C., Sept. 15, 1905.

RUNAWAY MARRIAGE.

Tuesday Miss May Brooks, of Grifton, came here to visit friends before leaving the following day for Alabama to teach school. Tuesday evening W. Y. Dickerson from the same town, arrived and he and Miss May went out for an evening drive. They drove as far as Richard Wingate's where they were met by Squire Henry Blount who in short order made them man and wife. Wednesday relatives of the bride came to Ayden to bid her farewell, but alas, their chagrin knew no bounds when informed no adiens were necessary. While the fond parent seemed disappointed, like a wise father he said: "What can't be helped must be endured and I send them my blessing." What a happy termination for a happy couple.

H. W. Waters, a constable from LaGrange, came here yesterday after a prisoner that had been arrested by the constable in this township. Mr. Waters returned same day taking his prisoner along with him. The prisoner was a gentleman of color and was badly wanted at home by his spouse and little papoose who could not rest content with their fond one away. Hence proceedings for abandonment and a free ride behind the iron horse.

What a delightful visit yesterday from three of the prettiest girls, one ever did see. Misses Magdeline Cox, Janie Kittrell and Nina Dixon. They came to see us and they are all from our old home Winterville. We surely enjoyed their visit and hope they will so honor us again.

The condition of George Worthington is very critical and his many friends are fearful of the most serious result. Mr. Worthington is a very useful citizen and stands high in our community. The inquiries concerning him prove him to be universally popular.

There are a large number of buyers on our cotton market and we believe we have one of the best markets in the state. There were about 6,000 bales shipped from this point last season.

At the home of the mother of the bride, Mrs. M. E. Cason, on last Tuesday morning, C. R. Price, of Baltimore and Miss Dessie McKinney were united in marriage. Immediately after the ceremony they left for the home of the groom. They were accompanied by Mrs. Hugh Brooks, sister of Mrs. Price. We tender congratulations.

Josh Mills, of Greenville, was here yesterday.

The Punch and Judy imitation out at the depot just before arrival of excursion train yesterday morning certainly deserves a premium.

Mrs. G. M. Tucker, of Elm City, after a visit to C. L. Patrick, left for her home yesterday.

Miss Nancye Coward came Thursday from a visit to friends in LaGrange.

B. F. Manning, Jr., and wife spent Thursday in Greenville.

Will Forrest and family, of Greenville, have been visiting Len Forrest.

At the home of W. A. McLawhorn, two miles from Ayden, Wednesday evening John Humbles and Mrs. Leonora C. May were united in marriage by J. M. Blow, Esq. The bridal party came to Ayden next morning and left on the train for a northern tour.

C. A. Fair went to Kinston Tuesday and returned Wednesday.

Ephraim Forrest, of Vanceboro, has been visiting Len Forrest this week.

R. F. Johnson and Sandy Reddett, of Kinston and John Quenerly, of Grifton, were all here Wednesday.

Greensboro, N. C., August 24, 1905.

Greensboro Life Insurance Company,
Greensboro, N. C.

Gentlemen:

Enclosed you will find a remittance for the full annual premium on my policy in your company, and with it I wish to send my congratulations upon the extraordinary record of the company during the first month of its life.

I have taken out this policy for three reasons:

1. Because I believe in the substantial business men who are backing the company.
2. Because I like the form of the Income Indemnity Policy.
3. Because I desire very much to encourage, so far as I am able to do so, the building up of strong insurance companies in North Carolina, in order that we may send less of our capital through insurance companies to build up other sections of the country instead of our own.

Very truly yours,
CHARLES D. McIVER.

The failure of that Salisbury paper was an eclipse of the Sun not foretold in the almanac.

The Durham Herald has begun the erection of a handsome building for a home for the paper. Congratulations.

A government report was not needed to let us know that the cost of living had greatly increased. We had all found that out.

The investigations going on in New York as to the workings of insurance companies is giving the public some inside information that may be helpful.

A doctor now up and says that running after the dollar causes appendicitis. A good many other ailments can be attributed to the same cause.

From the way he is holding down the seat in the absence of the governor from the state leads to the inquiry, what is the matter with Lieut. Governor Winston when a candidate for governor is wanted next time?

Just because the pension roll scatters a good bit of money throughout the country is no excuse for its existence at the present dishonest magnitude. To leave the money in the pockets of the people from whom it is collected would distribute it more effectively.

A correspondent of the Charlotte Observer says the town of Spray, in Rockingham county, has never been incorporated. The town has no mayor or board of aldermen and the people pay no town taxes. The nine large manufacturing plants there club together and pay a deputy sheriff to look after wrong-doers and all cases of violation of law are tried by a magistrate. Spray ought to be a happy town.

Must Remain the Minimum.

The executive committee of the Southern Cotton association held its meeting at Asheville, N. C., last week, and the question of fixing a minimum price of this crop was the matter of greatest interest to the people and country at large. The eyes of the whole cotton world were centered on Asheville during the 6th and 7th days of September, while the executive committee was in session.

The price finally agreed upon after long and tedious deliberation was 11 cents, basis middling, at all interior points in the South. The condition of the crop up to August 25th was found to be 73.03 per cent. as compared with a condition of 84 per cent. for the same period a year ago. The estimated yield of the crop as reported by over 15,000 correspondents from all the cotton growing counties indicated a yield this season of 9,588,133 bales, as compared with a crop of 13,600,000 bales last year. Letters from farmers all over the belt advised a minimum price all the way from 10 cents to 12 1/2 cents, some figuring as high as 15 cents. But the final result was 11 cents, and farmers all over the South will be expected to stand firmly together this fall and winter to maintain that price. By determined effort prices can be forced up above 11 cents later on and farmers should determine now to move their crops slowly and not rush the market. The only way we can secure and maintain our price is to refuse to sell for less and make the buyers come to our figures. If cotton is thrown on the market and sold anyway, it will be difficult to force prices up until much later in the season. Let those who are able and can hold back do so, and thereby help those who are forced to sell to meet their maturing debts and obligations with the supply merchants and guano dealer. Bankers will be glad to advance from 8 and 9 cents a pound on cotton in storage, and thus assist in financing the situation. We are up against a hard fight, but it will be easier to get 11 cents for a small crop than 10 cents for a 13,600,000 bale crop. Sell but little cotton in September and October. Give the mills a chance to exhaust present supplies, which can be done in six weeks, and then we can easily dictate terms and win another big victory. Sell no middling cotton for less than 11 cents.

HARVE JORDAN.

Small Farms.

Rev. P. R. Law has discovered by a study of the census reports, that more people in Robeson county own the farms they live on, and that there are more separate farms in Robeson than in any other county in the State. Robeson is, excepting Mecklenburg, perhaps, the most prosperous county in the State. Is not this an argument for the small farm? Mr. Law seems to think so. Writing in The Lumberton Robesonian, he says that for obvious reasons, these two facts—farm owning and many separate farms—are sources of strength, stability and prosperity. The sturdiness of France financially and politically is grounded in the fact that the average size of its farms is ten acres and therefore there are so large a number of farm buildings. It means more conservatism and more equitable business life and more general prosperity. The perils of our republic it is accepted as true lie in the extremes of more property holders on the one hand and the very large property holders on the other. The conserving element and these extremes that would rend and ruin is the farmer who owns and works his own land and possesses no large means.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Don't Like Music.

"Piano playing will drive flies from your apartments," declared a man who expounds odd theories. "That sounds like a joke, and, of course, there are some kinds of playing that will chase human beings from a room, but seriously I mean that music is objectionable to insects. In fact, all sounds annoy them. Whoever saw flies in a boiler shop? No one that I know of, because the vibrations caused by the continuous pounding are as deranging to the insects as are the atmospheric disturbances resulting from electric fans. Every one should be familiar with the intensity of the vibrations produced by the strings of a piano. For instance, many persons no doubt, have noticed that a loose glass in a picture frame will buzz when a certain note is struck. Well, when the strength of the sound wave which causes the ill fitting glass to hum, though it may be a dozen feet away, is multiplied a score of times in a second, as is the case when a spirited piano performance is in progress, the effect of the vibrations on the extremely sensitive insects may be imagined. They simply can't stand a prolonged sound.—Philadelphia Record.

Our State Winning Fame

North Carolina is on the upward move in cotton mill industry. The Commercial Appeal declares that since 1890 the mills have increased from 91 to 236 or 158 per cent. The Winston-Salem Journal says that "from the tar, pitch and turpentine" epoch she has already passed to a great fame in cotton, grain and to bacco—opulent in her virgin forest, minerals, agriculture, an unsurpassed climate and a variety of scenery which invites thousands of tourists for health and pleasure as well as alluring to the best business efforts. Few of her sons and daughters realize all that their state really is. We would add to this that North Carolina has also won fame not less for furniture manufacturing than its cotton mills, and all since 1890.—High Point Enterprise.

Curran's Wit.
Curran's ruling passion was his joke, and it was strong, if not in death, at least in his last illness.
One morning his physician observed that he seemed to "cough with more difficulty."
"That is rather surprising," answered Curran, "for I have been practicing all night."
While thus lying ill Curran was visited by a friend, Father O'Leary, who also loved his joke.
"I wish, O'Leary," said Curran to him abruptly, "that you had the keys of heaven."
"Why, Curran?"
"Because you could let me in,"
said the facetious counselor.
"It would be much better for you, Curran," said the good humored priest, "if I had the keys of the other place, because I could then let you out."

Avaricious to the End.
"So strong is the avarice of the miser," said Uncle Joshua, "that we are not surprised at its often developing itself as 'the ruling passion strong in death.' Mr. Watson, a man of very large fortune and uncle to Lord Rockingham, just before he died desired his attendant to give him a shirt out of a drawer he pointed to. 'Lord, sir,' said the attendant, 'what do you mean, to think of putting on another shirt now?'
"Why," said Watson, "I understand it is the custom for the shirt I have on to be the perquisite of those who lay me out, and that is an old ragged one and good enough for them."

Competent to Serve.
One of the quaint characters well known to old timers of Portland, Ore., was Robert E. Bybee, familiarly known as Bob Bybee. He was a justice of the peace in Portland for many years, and tales innumerable are told of him. Once when a jury was being impaneled one of the jurors, a well known attorney, asked to be excused because he was a lawyer. "Well," said Bybee,
"I guess that all the law you know isn't going to disqualify you from serving."

Too Much Love.
He—You never seem to care a straw whether I am comfortable or not. You are not the sort of a wife your sister was to her husband. As long as he lived she was perfectly devoted to him and never tired of seeking his happiness.
She—Yes, and what was the result? He got to loving her so much that he made a provision in his will that she should not marry again.

Properly Introduced.
Margaret is a well brought up little girl who has some knowledge of etiquette. She had been taken to a house where there is a large dog.
"Don't go near the dog, Margaret," said her mother. "He doesn't know you, and he might bite."
But that did not suit Margaret,
and she knew how to arrange matters. Going to the dog, she made a little curtsy, such as she has been taught to make at dancing school,
and said politely:
"Doggie, I am Margaret Brown."
Then, the introduction having been made and the dog having no excuse for not knowing her, Margaret walked up and patted him, while he wagged his tail with much graciousness.—New York Times.

A Matter of Business.
"Mr. Bong," said the secretary of the Fearful Accident Insurance company, "be sure to drop in at old Curmudge's as you pass this morning and express your sympathy over the loss of his brother in the railroad accident yesterday. Express mine also to him."
"But old Curmudge had no brother in the accident," said the canvasser.
"What has that to do with it?"
said the secretary cheerily. "All he can do is to tell you so."
"But it might unnecessarily alarm him," persisted the canvasser.
"That's the point; that's exactly the point," returned the secretary cheerily. "Alarm him as much as possible. His own policy runs out next month, and it is one of our duties to remind our patrons that in the midst of life we are surrounded by accidents."

An Overcrowded Profession.
The two sportsmen looked at each other in the parlor of the village inn and at last entered into conversation in regard to the experiences of the day.
"And you say you have caught sixty trout in less than two hours," said one at last. "Well, I'm glad to have met you; I'm a professional myself."
"Fisherman?" inquired the other man.
"No—er—narrator," was the reply.

His Gentle Wit.
She shook her head sadly when he had asked a fateful question.
"I wish you were all the world,"
he sighed.
"You said I was that to you once," she ventured coquettishly.
"Yes, but I don't think so now."
"No."
"No, for all the world loves a lover." And his gentle wit won her over to a reconsideration of the question.

Let Common Sense Decide
Do you honestly believe, that coffee sold loose (in bulk), exposed to dust, germs and insects, passing through many hands (some of them not over-clean), "blended," you don't know how or by whom, is fit for your use? Of course you don't. But LION COFFEE
is another story. The green berries, selected by keen judges at the plantation, are skillfully roasted at our factories, where precautions you would not dream of are taken to secure perfect cleanliness, flavor, strength and uniformity.
From the time the coffee leaves the factory no hand touches it till it is opened in your kitchen.
This has made LION COFFEE the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES.
Millions of American Homes welcome LION COFFEE daily.
There is no stronger proof of merit than continued and increasing popularity. "Quality survives all opposition."
